Behind the Naming of Structures in Our Community

Embracing the Life Achievements of those Honored

Lee McLester II

This is another story in the series I am composing to profile our past leadership for their contributions to the Oneida Nation and their efforts that will impact our lives for the next seven generations and perhaps beyond. These are recollections that I have about the people I have known throughout my life that have been the foundation of our community. We need to keep their memory alive, but more importantly, Oneida people need to know the spirit that lived in each of these leaders which inspired them to create a better quality of life on our reservation.

I hope you enjoy my memories. Because my memories of some have faded, I have asked some family members to contribute to this story. My appreciation to the family of Lee for their assistance.

The Lee McLester II Building is a complex located in the heart of the Oneida Reservation that houses Elder programs established by the Oneida Tribe to serve the elder population.

This facility is named in honor of a man who was a mover and shaker on the reservation in so many ways and for many decades. He was instrumental in prompting the concept of elder housing apartments. He often attended Oneida Business Committee meetings and provoked discussion on every issue you can imagine. Lee was deeply ingrained in the Oneida Community… and the Oneida Community was deeply ingrained in Lee. It always appeared to be easy for Lee to stand in front of the Business Committee and the General Tribal Council and share his thoughts and ideas. He was a man with a talent for speaking comfortably in front of any audience. Lee never seemed inhibited or intimidated in any venue.

Lee had this trademark haircut that was reminiscent of his military cut, or maybe it was the fabulous 50's crew cut. Whatever the motivation was, it characterized him as a clean cut kind of elderly gentleman. He was active in the community, in Tribal politics, and the Oneida Holy Apostles Church.

One of the most honorable attributes of Lee was he instilled a sense of family loyalty and served as patriarch to his family who was always in support of his efforts. If he took up an issue and pressed it forward through the General Tribal Council, you could bet your life his family would be there to support him.

Lee married Pearl Schuyler in 1939 and together they raised a family of 7 children, Sons, Lee III (Gordon) Ronald and Donald (Twins) and daughters, Winnifred, Judy, Pearl and Patsy Jean (Deceased) all raised on the Oneida Reservation and lifelong residents. By trade Lee was a Journeyman Machinist and worked for many years in Detroit. Lee also served on the Oneida Business Committee as a Vice Chairman in 1964. During his term on the Business Committee Lee worked toward economic development and better services for elders. As you may guess Lee was one of those Oneida pioneers who served on the council and countless committees for no financial gain, just the satisfaction of having accomplished something to make life better on his reservation.

During the struggling years of the 60's decade, I recall attending meetings in the gym of the old Tribal building on Fish Creek Road. The council would have discussions about how to manage on a shoestring budget of less than a few thousand dollars. Lee was active in discussion and I recall him standing and speaking frequently before the Business Committee, although I do not personally recall the subject matter, I am sure it was about community development.

The Oneida Holy Apostles Church is the oldest Indian Episcopal mission in the United States, and it was a focal point for Lee and his family. He and Pearl raised their family as devout church members and spent many years raising funds to continue to restore and keep the mission open. Every Christmas it was customary for Oneidas to string hundreds of cedar boughs to hang in the church, a tradition carried on yet today. He also was a dedicated Hoyaner . (Hoyan is an Oneida term used at declaring joy on New Year's Day). Every New Year's Day Lee led the McLester caravan around the reservation in their traditional quest for donuts and corn soup. As the family Patriarch, Lee set the bar high for his children and I don't believe he was disappointed very often.

"Lee was a great and influential role model for his family and did not live to see the dream he envisioned. The Lee McLester II Complex was finally completed 16 years after his passing…"

– Bobbi Webster, Public Relations Director

Lee was a great and influential role model for his family and did not live to see the dream he envisioned. The Lee McLester II Complex was finally completed 16 years after his passing and the development of the elder community still continues to progress, just as it did during Lee's lifetime, slowly, deliberately, but moving forward through our great bureaucracy.

My memories of Lee McLester II are not as vivid as my memories of others, so I have reached out to some of his family to provide a little more insight into his memory. The following are a few of his family's contributions to this story.

Lee was born October 15, 1916 in Pawhuska, OK, the eldest son of Lee McLester and Blanche King/Doxtator McLester. His sisters include Mary Edna Greendeer, Winnie and Wenona and brothers, Clarence and Wendell McLester. He served the Oneida Tribe as an elected leader, the first Community Action Program Coordinator, and as an appointed Judicial Officer, and was instrumental in the formatting and budgeting for the Oneida Headstart Program.

Lee's accomplishments reflect his love and dedication to and for his family and community. There is an old saying, "The apple does not fall far from the tree" and "as the twig is bent, so grows the tree", and such it is with his family. All of Lee and Pearl's family have been and continue to be contributors to the Oneida Community and Holy Apostles Church.

CULTURAL HERITAGE

Yawʌ́ko for another OnʌyoteʔakaGathering

The Oneida Cultural Heritage staff would like to thank participants that joined us for the Onʌyote aka Gathering. We would like to acknowledge our youth who helped to prepare signs, the grounds, run errands, move equipment or furniture and looked out for our elders: the youth were under the guidance of Sara Wunderlich, Doak, Orleana Batiste and Reggie Doxtater. Their involvement is greatly appreciated.

Audience participation at the welcoming and opening on Friday was motivating. The heartfelt comments of elders provided guidance into future events. The evening ended by the bon fire with our main storytelling by Brian Doxtater with others sharing personal and humorous stories.

We would also like to say yawʌ́ko to our presenters and performers:

- Dr. Toni House for her eye opening presentation on the importance of language and the positive or negative effects it has on a community. This was the first time she conducted this presentation in the Oneida community for the Oneida community. We hope she continues to share the message.
- Paul Smith on seed saving and information on the way seeds are treated by large companies so they do not reproduce. He stressed the fact that we need to save and trade seeds so they will reproduce for the future generations.
- Ernest Stevens III and company shared information and updates on a graphic novel about the War of 1812. The graphic novel is an advanced comic book and will be completed once the English words are translated into the Oneida language.
- Reggie Doxtater – Historical Archivist presented an invitation to genealogists to begin preparing documents with accurate information for the Oneida 200 year anniversary. Reggie can be contacted through e-mail: rdoxtate@oneidanation.org or phone: 920-496-3922
- Tracy Williams Language Director provided a daily protocol schedule for the recitation of the Great Law. There is a lot of information to absorb.

A special yawʌ́ko to participants that shared their experiences with the Two Row expedition and the Great Law recitation. Their enlightenment, knowledge and message to the community is uplifting and encouraging.

Due to unforeseen circumstance our social dance and smoke dance contest was cancelled. However, a short presentation was provided by a young smoke dance group. The evening closed with beautiful songs by the Strawberry Moon Singers and music by DJ "Jamin" Joe Ninham.

Sunday activities included an interfaith service with songs by the Oneida Hymn Singers.

Our list would not be complete without acknowledging adult volunteers and tribal programs: Nurse Sandy Schuyler, Mr. & Mrs. Daelber, Conservation, the Apple Orchard, Tourism, DPW, Trust, and Enrollments.

Oneida Community Library Summer Reading and Beyond!

From June 17 – August 24 we had a fun summer of digging into reading! "Dig into Reading" was the summer reading program theme, along with "Beneath the Surface" for the teen theme. We had a blast chalk drawing, eating fry bread and "infosoup," visits from Lily, a therapy dog, and her pal Lisa, Dave & Dr. Cleo from Molina Healthcare, who came for a couple of visits and talked to us about fitness and exercise & about germs and keeping clean! We had a sandbox this summer (for digging into!) a construction day, grew dinosaurs, had a few days of chalk art, bears, mice, learned about Wisconsin author Lois Ehlert and had fun with Eric Carle stories, and watching eBooks on the Google TV (Yaw^ko, IMLS!)

Kelly and Mileena were our youth workers this summer (yaw^ko, Sandra Skenadore!) and helped out so much, it was great to have them here and great to have them be a part of our program—and play so many games, make so many crafts, and read so many books with the participants!

This was the first summer we had success including a number of adult reading participants, and we hope that continues! Yaw^ko to our library board member Karen Coffey who donated great reading incentives!

We wrapped up the program with a picnic on August 23rd and had hot dogs, chips, and ice cream floats and got to carry over the fun one more day at the Jacob Skenandore log home during the Oneida Gathering! More fun, and lots of family! Always a great time! Yaw^ko to Adrianna Pelky, who did great volunteer work all day in and around the log home! Looking forward to seeing everyone during the Apple Fest—the library will be there. We will have more fun & activities available from 10AM – 4PM on September 21st!

Then comes the Fiction Fiesta on September 28!! From 11 am – 1 pm enjoy a nacho bar and activities at the Oneida Community Library. Our fiction focus features authors Pat Mora & Pam Muñoz Ryan!

Maintenance Corner

What's All the Buzz About?!

Justine Hill Maintenance Supervisor

If you think you have a bee problem, figure out where the bees are living. By knowing this you will be better able to decide whether or not you even need to learn how to get rid of bees. Upon discovering the location of the bee hive or bee nest, if not too close to the house, then determine if bee removal is necessary.

Avoid disturbing the bees. Once you know where they live, they're pretty easy to avoid. Bees usually sting only if it feels threatened or if they believe the hive is threatened. Give the bees a wide amount of distance to maintain your safety and many bee problems will be avoided. This is especially true of Africanized honey bees that have a tendency to swarm and attack when they hear loud noises or feel strong vibrations such as those given off by lawn mowers, tractors, ATVs, etc. Don't spray them or you could contaminate their hive. There are local bee farms that will come remove honey bees at no cost.

Use proper building materials and maintenance procedures. As far as siding goes, use seamless vinyl or aluminum. These options allow bees very little chance to set up shop in your walls. If you must use wood siding, make sure to paint it regularly (at least once every three years). Painted wood is unattractive to carpenter bees.

Fight the urge to plant flowers. As we all know, bees like flowers. If you don't want to have to worry about getting rid of bees, one of the simplest things you can do is to quit planting things that are sure to lure them in.

If you need help removing bees, feel free to contact the Service Coordinator for a work request.

Top Ten Ways To Care For Yourself

1. Keep a diary. Start today. Describe your fears as well as your hopes, the reality of what each day is like; Don't be afraid to write about the losses, big or small.

2. Stick with your diary. Let yourself record the little victories, go back and review the earlier months and years. Notice the personal, physical, emotional goals and successes you and your loved one have achieved.

3. Create a simple communication network. Think of this as a designated communicator. Choose a friend or relative who will make all the calls and tell all the news when there are calls to make and news to tell, you might want to save the "big successes and wonderful news" sharing for yourself, but you will be worn out if you are constantly on the phone retelling the details of the last days or weeks over and over.

4. Let your friends help you. When someone asks "Can I do anything for you?" give him or her something to do. Let your friend run an errand or stay with your loved one while you take a break and get out on your own.

5. Visit with people you love. You may often have to ask your friends or family to come to your house or keep you company while waiting for your loved one's treatment to be over. You need to be a whole person who has friends and interests and can think about something besides the responsibilities of caregiving. You shouldn't have to reinvent your life when your caregiving responsibilities subside.

6. Stay involved in your loved one's personal life. Be careful that your loved one does not slip from the role of loved one, family member, friend into the role of patient. Don't let yourselves lose the relationship you had prior to the need for caregiving.

7. Talk about it! There are innumerable fears and anxieties associated with any illness or disease, which can and will tear a person apart. Talk to your friends and your loved one about your feelings. The worst thing you can do is build a wall around yourself to protect others.

8. Keep the romance alive. Couples facing caregiving situations are apt to forget to nurture the relationship that brought them together up till this point. These relationships need just as much, if not more attention, now that one of you is ill, than they did before.

9. Include your loved one in your changes. As time passes we all change in small and big ways. If you find a new friend, discover an interest in a new genre of books or music; find a new recipe or a great place to eat, share these as much as possible with your loved one. Introduce your new friends; have them visit, if your loved one cannot easily leave the house. Spend time reading the new books aloud, listen to the new music together.

10. Keep setting goals. Before you were a caregiver, you set personal goals. Your life did not end because you became a caregiver. When the caregiver duties subside, you should not "Return" to your life, you should continue with your life. Copyright@caregiver.com Inc.

Financial Exploitation

By Joyce A. Johnson
Elder Abuse Prevention Coordinator

Financial Exploitation continues to be a growing problem for Wisconsin's elder population. According to Wisconsin's Elder Abuse data base there were 970 reports made regarding Financial Exploitation in the 2009 reporting period. In the 2010 reporting period there were 1043 resulting in a 1.6% increase over the previous year. Nationwide this crime is increasing and is the highest number of the elder abuse categories being reported.

Most of these crimes go undetected and reported due to the victim's shame that a family member or caregiver has stolen from them or are afraid of having to testify in court or of losing their independence.

Some of our elders have returned to the Oneida Indian Reservation and their homes of youth. Others may have lived here all their lives but in each case they may own property and other assets. They could be frail or may still be active and socially connected. Others may be isolated and more vulnerable as family moves away, neighbors leave and friends pass on. The fact that they are seniors and have assets makes them a lucrative and easier target for elder financial exploitation.

The same laws and financial tools that a good hearted caregiver or guardian can use to manage and assist an elder with their financial affairs such as Power of Attorney's, Quitclaim Deeds, or Joint bank accounts can be used by an unscrupulous thief to pilfer from the elder. Like a piranha the abuser steps in when no one else can or does.

In cases where a family member is the thief it is sometimes done due to their sense of entitlement and the idea that they are going to get their inheritance before it is spent on nursing home care, etc. For prosecutors and investigators of these crimes sometimes it is hard to determine whether something was an actual gift or involved theft.

For elder who are still able to be "self-determining" state law ensures that the legally competent elder can still make their own financial decisions whether those decisions are good or bad.

To protect yourself as an elder the best thing to do is plan ahead. Talk about your financial matters with more than one family member or friend. Check out anyone who approaches you about holding or using your money. If you are approached with a supposedly good deal check the person out first before considering moving ahead with investments. You may check out a person's criminal history by accessing Wisconsin's automated court reporting system at wcca.wicourts.gov/ Please remember the old expression "It's better to be safe than sorry."

Letters & Opinions...

What is in a name?

When you hear the names Hill, Skenadore, Doxtator, Smith, Elm, Cornelius, Ninham, Danforth, Denny, Christjohn, Swamp, King, House, Powless, Sommers, Wheelock, Metoxen, Redhail, of Schuler what comes to mind? As for me, I think Oneida Indian. Many of the people in Southeast Wisconsin bear one of these names or did before they got married. They are from one of the clans (Wolf, Bear, Turtle). They are part of the Oneida family.

Now there are two petitions to curtail services to the Oneidas in Southeast Wisconsin: one from Carole Liggins to not allow voting in Milwaukee and one from Brian Doxtator which is intended to stop funding the South Eastern Oneida Tribal Services (SEOTS) building in Southeast Wisconsin. Some people say 'if they wanted services they should move to Oneida or they shouldn't have moved there in the first place.' Many, if not all of them, moved away in search of jobs. Now they are returning to Oneida slowly. They can't call come at once because there are not enough jobs and house to accommodate them in Oneida.

Please do not support these petitions submitted by Carol Liggins (Smith) and Brian Doxtator. Please support services to Oneida people in Southeast Wisconsin. Remember there are many elderly there who want to vote but are too weak to make the trip to Oneida. There are many who do not have a dependable car to make the trip. Remember they are part of the Oneida Family.

Attrition

After close to 28 years of personal experience with many departments and personnel within the tribal structure and now reading at least a dozen different articles on oneidaeye.com, I firmly believe that I can safely say and/or assume the lies, rumor and gossip coming from the Norbert Hill Center of Oneida has not only been proven to be farfetched and incompetent, but also reeks of unprofessional conduct and behavior(s) by so called management figures, may rise to a clear level of slander, defamation, breach of confidentiality, collusion even conspiracy.

These very same behaviors and conduct could include elected officials and staff located in the Norbert Hill Center and within the administration of the Oneida Tribe.

According to tribal policy Breach of Confidentially may be cause for termination of employees. It appears to me the entire chain of command of the Social Services Department may be implicated for their involvement with the release of confidential information to a petitioner. I wonder, but I also have a theory, how many other families or cases have been revealed or breached to other people who have something they don't like about someone in the community from within the Social Services Department and/or the Business Committee.

Cathy Metoxen

Oneida Constitution

At the last two meetings the question was asked "how much rent are we getting from Walmart?" Again they stalled and ignored the question and we're still in the dark about how much rent they pay, if any. Another stalling tactic is their excuse of needing time to evaluate a financial impact and/or get a legal opinion. The Oneida Constitution does not express in words that any kind of study is required or necessary before a decision can be made. In fact the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) isn't even mentioned in our constitution. The constitution says that our chairman or 50 qualified voters have the right to ask for a General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting and make a decision anytime without the hassle of going through the petition process or a financial or legal review. The OBC is in violation of our constitution and their oath of office to "protect and defend our constitution" and disciplinary action must follow with dismissal from the OBC. Perhaps they can get jobs with the Packers or the Town of Hobart.

Sand up for your tribe and take action on behalf of all Oneida Tribal Members and vote "YES" to close Oneida Seven Generations Corporation (OSGC) as soon as possible. It is our duty to take away the power from the OBC and hold them accountable for their incompetence, negligence, and abuse of the Oneida people. We can also choose to dissolve the OBC as their spending is destroying us.

Please help by attending the GTC meeting with OSGC in October and vote "YES" to close them down. Your vote matters.

Thank you,
Beverly Somers

Future Planning

I am concerned about the costs associated with maintaining approximately 300+ tribal positions classified as "overstaffing". This isn't something new. It's common knowledge and it has been occurring over an extended period of time (year after year). Employees cost A LOT of money, especially when you factor in wages/salaries, fringe benefits, retirement investments, training, office space, office equipment, etc.? FOR EXAMPLE…if we paid 300 employees @ $25,000 per year (low/conservative number) it would cost "us" approximately $7,5000,000 (7.5 MIL) to maintain their employment. Multiplied by 2 years = $15,000,000 (15 MIL). Multiplied by 3 years = $22,500,000 (22.5 MIL). Multiplied by 4 years = $30,000,000 (30 MIL), etc. They say the 300+ positions are primarily occupied by Oneida Tribal Members, so firing people is not the answer. However, intervention and corrective measures are necessary. Whose job, responsibility and duty is it to address this "situation"? Well, with the elimination of the General Manager and Chief of Staff positions, the responsibility now lies within the roles, responsibilities and duties of the Oneida Business Committee, upper management and the human resources department.

Couple thoughts…With regard to the 300+ employees, terminating people is an option, but not one that I would choose or encourage. I support keeping them employed, but capitalizing on the situation by 1) Identifying all of the areas in the tribe that are lacking and/or struggling and need "human" resources, 2) Correct the deficiencies by taking individuals from those paid 300+ and start assigning them where we NEED them and transfer their budgeted dollars!, 3) Prepare for our future utilizing the 300+, instead of creating new jobs, posting jobs, and putting "new" people into the "new" positions, 4) Come up with a transition plan with an option to transfer/reassign instead of being eliminated, and 5) Assess the performance of the individuals who are paid substantial wages/salaries and benefits to "oversee" our tribal resources (i.e. people, buildings, equipment, money, etc.). Further, we have and Oneida Appeals Commission that is being allowed to "exist" until the year 2015. They have four (4) FULL TIME Judicial Officers that are paid approximately $60,000 for wages. With fringe benefits and so forth, each position costs the Oneida Tribe just under $100,000 per year (4 x $100,000 = $400,000. QUESTION – Now that 2/3 of the cases are being transferred to the "Family Court" this fall 2013, have they reduced the number of Full-Time positions? With such a low (projected, not actual) number of cases and the amount of staff they employ, the Appeals Commission should only need one (1) PART-TIME Judicial Officer being paid at 1/3 the current wages and no fringe benefits. That would save the Oneida Tribe approximately $325,000 all by itself. There should not be any training or travel expensed because they are being phased out! If they did not reduce their numbers and budget appropriately to reflect the upcoming changes, I will be writing and submitting the petition to bring them before GTC. Praying for cooperative and positive results!

Loretta Says...
The Oneida Code Talkers

Ongoing Column • Providing a connection to the past

Loretta Metoxen,
Oneida Tribal Historian

Betty Birdsong of the United States Mint has been working with the Oneida Veterans Review Committee for about three years. Chris Cornelius and I were designated by the Oneida Business Committee to be the liaisons for the Oneida Nation and the Oneida Veterans to the U. S. Mint. The purpose was to obtain an appropriate design to honor those Oneida Veterans who were designated Code Talkers. The Review Committee, composed of ONVAC (Oneida Nation Veteran Affairs Committee) and the Commanders of the VFW (Veterans of Foreign Wars), WIVA (Wisconsin Indian Veterans Association) and members of the former American Legion and members of NIVA (National Indian Veterans Association), met countless numbers of times.

The design, on one side, needed to be representative of the history and culture of the Oneida Nation. Moreover, the other side was relegated to represent the Oneida men carrying out their communication duties. Any and all designs were required to meet the criteria and standards of the U. S. Mint. Therefore, many options were considered and voted on.

On July 24, 2013, Chris and I appeared before the Mint Committee that makes the final recommendations. We were required to defend our choices. We did an excellent presentation because we covered the Oneida Military History from the Revolutionary War to the present. The two representatives from the Acoma Pueblo in New Mexico and the Hopi representative from Arizona, who also addressed the Committee, were very much impressed with our history. Among the Committee members were professors of history and other academics who expressed to us that they had never heard the Oneida Military story before. The Committee accepted our design without altering anything.

After that meeting of three hours, Betty Birdsong advised the presenters that there would be a Dedication Ceremony in Washington, D. C. on or about November 20, 2013. She also advised that the date is tentative. There are 25 or 27 Tribes that will have their respective Code Talkers honored at that time. Tribal Leaders and family members are invited to attend when gold medals will be awarded to the various Tribes and perhaps to surviving Code Talkers, silver medals will be available to the families and bronze medals will be available to the public. Some Tribes are planning to take buses for transportation of Tribal leaders and family members of Code Talkers of their respective Tribes.

The Oneida Business Committee has approved travel for to the dedication of 9 Oneida Veterans. It is unknown how many of the Business Committee will also attend. The upcoming GTC budget meeting on September 21 could and should address travel funds for those family members who want to attend this important historic event. We were told that some Tribes in Oklahoma will be accommodating their membership with bus transportation. Fund raising events for this purpose may be an option, as well.

ONVAC, at a recent meeting, discussed sponsoring a Veterans POW WOW in November and using the Code Talkers Medal design to imprint on T-shirts and made available to everyone. The Veterans wanted to inform each and every member of the medal, its importance and the honoring of Oneida Code Talkers. However, Betty Birdsong advised us that the design is not public until the dedication takes place. The Veterans then decided to hold the POW WOW in January to further honor the Oneida Code Talkers and publicize the medal. They thought that this effort would be particularly important for the young folks of the Oneida community.

Writing Workshops at Oneida Nation Arts Program

Saturday, September 28 & October 5, 10:00 am – 2:30 pm

Oneida Nation Arts Program

To receive the greatest benefit, both workshops should be taken. These workshops will help all level of writers uncover their voice and inspire them to put their words to paper for potential publication in a forthcoming installment of the Wisconsin's Indian Nation's Literary Journal, Yukhika-latuhse. Stories are meant to be shared. They teach, they inspire, they remember, and they are a gift we all can benefit from. Wisconsin's Indian Nations need writers to preserve written accounts of their communities, their art, and their thoughts on current issues affecting us all.

The first workshop, Finding Your Voice, will focus upon writers realizing what stories they need to tell, and also what format they should use to tell them. We will focus on exercises that help writers stimulate their creativity and then harness it to reach their audience. We will discuss how a writer finds their voice, knows their audience, and utilizes insightful critiques. The workshop will offer writers a chance to explore writing in various genres including fiction, poetry, and non-fiction. Writers should be ready to share their work with their fellow participants, and we will discuss the works the workshop motivated in us all.

The following Saturday the second workshop, Refining Your Words, will begin by revisiting the ideas of the first workshop to help reinforce what we discussed. We will then move to new writing activities that help writers focus their gaze on a specific component of their work in order to captivate their audience. We will then discuss both how to refine our work for publication and also the necessity of continuing to write and revise in order to hone our voices. Writers will share their work with their fellow participants, and we will discuss what stories are ready to be published.

The instructor, Ryan Winn teaches English, Theatre, and Communications at College of Menominee Nation, where he also serves as the Humanities Department Chair. In the past 8 years he has presented several papers, chaired a few panels, and directed and/or acted in stage readings at both national and regional conferences on the topic of American Indian theater. Similarly, he has directed 12 plays for CMN, coached their AIHEC Speech Team, and has been recognized as an American Indian College Fund's Faculty Member of the Year. Ryan writes a monthly opinion column about American Indian educational issues for the Tribal College Journal titled "The Inquisitive Academic".

Both workshops will be held at the Oneida Nation Arts Program, 1270 B Packerland Drive, Green Bay. A lite lunch will be provided at both workshops. The fee for Native writers for each workshop is $10. For more information contact Christine Klimmek at 920-490-3831 or cklimmek@oneidanation.org.

Holiday Travel Tips

By Dianne Zubella
Bay Bank

Now that Labor Day has come and gone, the holiday travel season is right around the corner. By planning your holiday travel now you can stretch your budget further than you think. Here are some cost-saving tips to keep in mind as you're planning your winter travel.

Fly when no one else wants to

Airline ticket prices rise and fall with demand, so you'll get the best deals when few other people are traveling. During the holiday season, this means the best prices are on Tuesday and Wednesday, or on Saturday afternoon. For example, if you're taking a week-long trip and leave on a Saturday and return on a Monday, you can save up to 16 percent on your airfare. Early morning and late night flights are also typically less expensive and smaller airport crowds at those times can mean you'll get through security lines faster.

Know your travel insurance options

When you book a vacation, you may be asked if you'd like to purchase travel insurance. Before spending the extra money, familiarize yourself with what travel insurance options are available to you. Travel insurance can cover trip cancellation, accidental death and dismemberment, loss of luggage or personal possessions, and/or protection against the bankruptcy or default of your cruise line or tour operator.

However, many homeowners' and renters' policies provide coverage for theft and other losses away from home, and your medical and auto insurance may cover you while you're traveling. Check with your insurance agent to see if your current policy will provide you with similar coverage to the travel insurance you're considering. Keep in mind that airlines must reimburse you if they lose your bags.

Create your travel budget now

Even though you may not purchase your airline tickets for several weeks, depending on price fluctuations, create your travel budget and start saving now. If you plan your entire vacation in advance, you will have an accurate picture of the cost of accommodations, travel and planned activities. Build up your "holiday fund" savings now to avoid the stress of needing to pay for the travel afterward, when you'll also be paying for gifts and other holiday expenses.

From 1A/Ground breaking bringing the families together, getting our kids more involved in the outdoors," said Matson.

According to Environmental Health and Safety Division Director Patrick Pelky, the plan for the lake came about as part of the Natural Resources Damage Assessment for the Fox River clean up. The goal was for a 40 acre lake to be developed with input from Oneida community members.

"They gave us a lot of ideas of what they would like to see in a lake," said Pelky.

The lake was to be constructed as part of the Fox River clean up, but "we kept getting a lot of phone calls from the community and environmental resource board kept saying 'when are we going to get this lake?'" said Pelky.

The 18 acre lake construction is the first phase of what will become a 40 acre lake with fishing, swimming, hiking and other outdoor recreation activities. The location of the lake was the final pick of six different locations considered on the Oneida reservation.

"We began to notice that there was a lot of clear water in here," said Pelky of the former sand quarry.

OBC Councilwoman Melinda Danforth stated that it was exciting that the lake was becoming a reality.

"This is an opportunity to gather families and it's an opportunity for the community to gather and do things together, fish and be a part of recreational activities as well as be a part of the outdoors," she said.

Construction began on the lake on September 16 and will continue through the fall. Next spring, construction will begin on blacktop for the parking lots.

"It's a great place for the community to be engaged. It will give us a sense of place. This whole area is going to stay really natural," said Pelky.

Please be aware that the Oneida Lake will be closed until further notice due to construction.

Wis. advocates gear up for health exchange launch

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) ~ Community organizers throughout Wisconsin plan to begin offering sessions as early as Oct. 2 to help people being removed from the state's Medicaid program next year assess other health care options.

Republican Gov. Scott Walker rejected federal money to expand Medicaid coverage, and instead the state will reduce enrollment by an estimated 92,000 people. The state plans to start sending letters later this month to those who will lose coverage after Dec. 31.

Those residents are expected to seek health insurance through a new online exchange being set up by the federal government. The exchange will allow people to shop for health insurance and compare plans, but advocates worry that many low-income residents have limited access to the Internet and could have difficulty figuring out their best options.

"There could be issues around literacy. They may not be English-speaking, they may be homeless. They could get the notice in late September, and they may not understand it," said Molly Bandt, director of Covering Kids and Families in Madison. "There are still things to work out - although on the positive end, there's a lot of energy in trying to get the word out."

Covering Kids and Families, which works to get children and families enrolled in Medicaid programs, is among the groups planning seminars at job centers, schools and libraries across the state. Trainers will discuss the new law, explain what is and isn't changing and help people figure out which plans work best for them.

The Milwaukee Health Care Partnership has been asking churches, community leaders and advocacy organizations to help reach out to low-income people losing their coverage. The idea is that it'd be most effective to reach people throu gh those they already know and trust, executive director Joy Tapper said. Pastors and neighbors can contact Medicaid recipients, let them know about the coming change and direct them to the partnership for more information, she said.

That strategy worked well in Massachusetts, where organizers identified word of mouth as one of the most critical factors in successful outreach, Tapper said.

Bill would put 17-year-olds in juvenile system

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Non-violent 17-year-old offenders in Wisconsin would no longer be treated as adults in the justice system under a bipartisan proposal introduced Thursday in the Legislature.

The bill would reverse a 1996 law that required all 17-year-olds, regardless of the offense, to be treated as adults in response to calls to get tough on crime, especially violent offenses by juveniles.

The proposal would not affect those charged with violent crimes such as homicide, rape or battery. It also wouldn't affect repeat offenders. Bill backers say about 2,000 17-year-olds would be placed back into the juvenile system if the law were changed.

A variety of groups supports the change, including the State Bar of Wisconsin, the Wisconsin Catholic Conference and the state public defender. However, Republican Attorney General J.B. Van Hollen came out against the bill, saying district attorneys have discretion in what they charge, judges have discretion in how they sentence offenders, and there are often diversion programs available for non-violent offenders.

``We're not aware of any issues that suggest that discretion is not being appropriately exercised," said his spokesman Dana Brueck in an email.

While judges have some discretion with 17-year-olds in the adult justice system, they have even more options in juvenile court, said Patrick Fiedler, a former adult and juvenile court judge who is now the president of the Bar Association.

Fielder joined other supporters of the measure at a Capitol news conference. Fiedler said taking non-violent, first-time 17-year-old offenders out of the adult system gives them a second chance at a bright future, keeps the public safe and reduces chances they will commit another crime. Fielder said it didn't make sense to treat 17-year-olds as juveniles in every other circumstance except when they commit a crime.

News Around Wisconsin

8 of 11 tribes voice support for Kenosha casino

MADISON, Wis. (AP) - Eight of the 11 federally recognized American Indian tribes in Wisconsin say they support the Menominee tribe's attempt to build a new casino in Kenosha.

The Menominee issued a press release on Thursday saying they had the support of all but three of the state's tribes for the project. They urged Gov. Scott Walker to approve building the casino.

Walker has said he won't approve it unless there is unanimous consensus among all 11 tribes.

The three tribes that did not sign Thursday's statement were the Ho-Chunk Nation, Forest County Potawatomi, and the Oneida Tribe.

The Potawatomi operate a casino just 40 miles away from Kenosha in Milwaukee and have vehemently opposed the Menominee's plans.

Wisconsin Senate leaves mining measure off agenda

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ A bill that would dramatically restrict public access to a proposed mine site in northern Wisconsin doesn't have the votes to pass the Senate, the measure's author acknowledged Monday.

Gogebic Taconite wants to dig a 41/2-mile-long open pit iron mine in the Penokee Hills just south of Lake Superior. The company insists the mine will create thousands of jobs; opponents counter the mine will pollute the area's pristine water and wilderness.

Sen. Tom Tiffany, R-Hazelhurst, maintains his bill would help protect mine workers from potentially violent protesters. The proposal appeared to be on the fast track to passage less than two weeks ago after the Senate mining committee, which Tiffany leads, held a public hearing and approved the bill in two days.

The Senate is scheduled to meet Tuesday, but the proposal wasn't on the floor agenda Senate Majority Leader Scott Fitzgerald, R-Juneau, released Monday. A Fitzgerald spokesman didn't return messages.

Tiffany said during a telephone interview that members of the GOP Senate caucus are concerned the bill is too restrictive and he doesn't have enough votes to move the bill to the Assembly. He declined to say who opposed the measure.

Sen. Rob Cowles, R-Green Bay, said he was one of the senators who opposed the measure. He said it's moving too fast and closes off too much land.

"The bill goes too far and I think we need to limit its scope. ... a number of us haven't even had a chance to study it," he said.

process of the Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services (SEOTS) new facility by directing the change of firm scores and by divulging confidential information.

Chairman Delgado was appointed to lead negotiations by the OBC. An email from Delgado's Senior Policy Advisor Diane House expresses concern over OBC Councilman Vince DelaRosa sending a confidential memo from the Chair's office. Without House's knowledge, DelaRosa was delegated to send the memo on his behalf.

The Oneida Appeals Commission ruling stated, "There are numerous unanswered questions which cause this claim to fall short of meeting the clear and convincing standard necessary in order for this charge to be forwarded to the GTC."

Doxtator then contended that policies were broken when an email from Chairman Delgado's office directed Government Services Director Don White to assist a tribal member.

The email stated, "I am directing you to assist this tribal elder in getting his car fixed so he can get his dialysis treatment here in Green Bay."

Doxtator felt this is a clear violation in which policy was not followed.

The elder's request for car repairs was granted while his request for tire replacement was denied. The end result didn't have any payments made to the elder while a plane ticket home was declined.

The Oneida Appeals Commission ruling stated, "This is not a misuse of government authority or involvement in day-to-day affairs, this is a Chairman directing someone to do his job. The court finds the Chairman's Office did not direct anyone in the Government Services Division to go against policy or direct that the elder be awarded financial assistance to pay for new tires for his car."

An overturned eviction within the Oneida Housing Authority (OHA) in which Chairman Delgado ordered the OHA to allow a family to stay in transitional housing while the OHA determined the family ignored the guidelines and conditions of their stay. Conditions of the transitional living program called for obligations to pay rent, utilities, and develop a plant to maintain a stable income.

The Chairman's office expressed concern over evicting the family shortly after the male resident had back surgery.

The Oneida Appeals Commission's finding states that perhaps Chairman Delgado acted outside of his authority in this situation.

"That is not the issue before the court," said the ruling. "The issue is whether Chairman Delgado violated Chapter 3 of the Oneida Code of Ethics. Just because a government official exercises authority in a case where not everyone agrees on that authority, doesn't mean the official was acting unethically. He made a decision in the course of his regular duties as Chairman and as the supervisor of the Housing Director. Furthermore, it does not appear any law, custom, or tradition was violated. In fact, it is arguable that our traditions require taking care of each other where possible."

The final claim detailed a case in which a family was granted $100 above policy from the Community Support Services Fund. The request was initially denied then contacted the Chairman's office who authorized the payment above policy.

The family, with small children, was requesting utility assistance as their power was cut off for non-payment with extreme temperatures. The Chairman's office expressed concern over the family's ability to handle the heat without electricity.

Social Services staff broached payment over the policy limit as long as the above policy payment had Chairman approval. A payment of $600 was made, $100 over the policy limit.

The ruling stated, "These facts do not support a clear and convincing finding that Chairman Delgado violated the Code of Ethics. Chairman Delgado did not use the prestige of his office to advance a private interest. He was responding to a request by a family to prevent the suffering of children. The evidence shows us an elected official making a difficult decision to prevent harm or injury by authorizing a small exception to the established policy that was suggested by the case manager."

Doxtator's petition calling for the removal of Chairman Ed Delgado was turned in to the Tribal Secretary's office on Friday, August 2 with 623 signatures, 101 over the legal amount needed per the Oneida Tribe's current Removal Law.

On August 21 the Oneida Appeals Commission ruled Doxtator's petition contained sufficient evidence to move forward to a trial hearing.

From 2A/Sustain Oneida

Jill Doerfler is an Associate Professor of American Indian Studies at University of Minnesota – Duluth. She spoke on why it's important to sustain Oneida.

"Her tribe is similar to ours and is soon to have a constitutional amendment regarding eligibility," said Liggins.

Doug Kiel, an enrolled Oneida spoke on identity. He is a Postdoctoral Fellow in History at the University of Penn Center for Native American Studies. He received his Ph.D from University of Wisconsin – Madison.

Artley Skenandore, an enrolled Oneida and Principal of Oneida Nation High School closed the summit. He summarized the event and spoke on survival and sustaining Oneida.

"Each of the presenters brought a unique perspective to the Summit," said Liggins.

In addition to the summit the Oneida Trust and Enrollment Committee submitted a series of eight articles highlighting enrollment issues the tribe faces.

Liggins said the Oneida Trust and Enrollment Committee doesn't want the momentum of the summit lost.

"The next step is to continue the discussion with more of the community, and to possible have Summit II in six to nine months," said Liggins.

UN official: Consider Cherokee girl's rights

By Kristi Eaton
Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY ~ A United Nations official who focuses on the status of indigenous peoples called on state, federal and tribal authorities Tuesday to ensure that the rights of a nearly 4-year-old girl in the middle of a custody dispute are considered.

James Anaya said in a statement that authorities should consider Veronica's rights to maintain her "cultural identity" as a member of the Cherokee Nation.

Veronica's father, Dusten Brown, who is a member of the Cherokee Nation, has been fighting for custody of the girl with a South Carolina couple who adopted her.

"Veronica's human rights as a child and as (a) member of the Cherokee Nation, an indigenous people, should be fully and adequately considered in the ongoing judicial and administrative proceedings that will determine her future upbringing," Anaya said. "The individual and collective rights of all indigenous children, their families and indigenous peoples must be protected throughout the United States."

Veronica's birth mother, who is not Native American, was pregnant when she put the girl up for adoption, and the South Carolina couple, Matt and Melanie Capobianco, had been lined up to receive custody since 2009. But Brown and his family claimed the Indian Child Welfare Act mandated that the child be raised within the Cherokee Nation, and he won custody when the girl was 2.

The Indian Child Welfare Act was passed in 1978 with the intent of reducing the high rates of Native American children being adopted by non-Native American families. A South Carolina court cited the law when awarding Veronica to Brown in 2011, but the U.S. Supreme Court said this summer the law did not apply in Brown's case because he had been absent from the child's life.

A South Carolina family court judge then ruled in July that custody be awarded to the Capobiancos and ordered Brown to hand Veronica over. Brown refused, and South Carolina authorities charged Brown with custodial interference after he failed to show up to a court-ordered meeting. Brown is fighting extradition to South Carolina to face the charge.

Two Oklahoma courts have certified the South Carolina order giving custody to the Capobiancos, but Brown has appealed those rulings to the Oklahoma Supreme Court, which issued an emergency stay keeping the girl with Brown for the time being.

Lori Alvino McGill, an attorney for the Capobiancos, said the couple have always expressed a desire to share with Veronica her heritage and that Brown is unlawfully holding the little girl.

"No one seems to be worried about Veronica maintaining any connection to her Hispanic roots, even though Veronica's birth mother is predominantly Hispanic," she said in a statement. "To be very clear, right now, the only violation of Veronica's rights is happening because Veronica is being unlawfully detained from her only lawful parents - after months of forced separation from them. In this country, we call that kidnapping, whether you are biologically related to the child or not."

In 2012, Anaya issued a report saying that the removal and separation of Native American children from indigenous environments is an ongoing issue and concern.

"While past practices of removal of Indian children from their families and communities have been partially blunted by passage of the Indian Child Welfare Act in 1978, this law continues to face barriers to its implementation," Anaya said.

New War of 1812 exhibit opens at Buffalo museum

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) ~ A new exhibit on display at a western New York museum uses innovative technology to tell the story of the Buffalo-Niagara region's key role during the War of 1812.

The exhibit, titled "By Fire & Sword: War in the Niagara Theatre 1812-1814," opened this week at the Buffalo Museum.

Visitors can use Google Nexus tablets to navigate their way through the exhibit's various sections on the Niagara Frontier's role in war, which pitted the United States against Britain, Canada and American Indian tribes. Two-minute video segments explore some of the many battles fought and fortifications built along the Niagara River between Buffalo and Lake Ontario.

The War of 1812 exhibit is on display through June.

A second exhibit of contemporary paintings depicting scenes from the war is on display through Jan. 5.

Extending the Service Core of Oneida

Submitted image

The map of central Oneida depicts current and future projects designed to provide the Oneida community with places to convene in a healthy environment.

By Oneida Planning Department

In article 1 we reported that the Oneida Planning Department utilizes a community based planning process in keeping the Oneida Comprehensive Plan current. Six organizing concepts were used to prepare a Visioning Oneida document to set the framework for an Oneida Community of well-being. In August, 2013 the six organizing concepts were presented to community members that attended the Division of Land Management Open House. These articles identify the intent of the organizing concepts and reactions from the people. We addressed Diverse Housing Neighborhoods, Connecting People, and Nurturing Food Network in our first article. Now we will describe Community Service Core, Extending the Service Core, and Right Sized, Right Place Economics.

The Community Service Core organizing concept suggests that services and providers are located centrally at the heart of Oneida, which gives the community easy access to needed services. It identifies the center of activity that can be leveraged to maximize the use of limited resources that links community services and amenities that people want such as a grocery store, coffee shop, Laundromat, or dry cleaner (the list goes on and on). Existing land conditions are accounted for while planning economic development in central Oneida by building in a manner that stresses the development of buildings that are right-sized with green corridors.

Input from the people on this organizing concept was very positive because it would provide opportunities for Oneida artists and a common place for the community to gather.

The Extending the Service Core organizing concept means that as the core is established, more service areas will continue to branch out. It helps to leverage assets such as community agriculture, community events area, housing, convenience stores, food production and distribution, as well as, a business park so that the community is developed in an orderly and cost effective manner.

Again, input from the people on this organizing concept was good. Comments were positive about extending the connectivity of places of service and businesses through roads and trails.

The Right Sized, Right Place Economics organizing concept is about opportunities on the reservation for economic development. It is about Central Oneida being a lower traffic area that should be developed as a community service area with housing and small businesses. Consideration for commercial development should be located in high traffic areas.

Vice-Chairman's Corner…

It's Time to Face The Issues That Are Facing Us

I would like to start by acknowledging how emotional we all are regarding the recent times we are going through, we have been faced with the passing of loved ones recently in ways that are extremely difficult. Whether we have lost them to elderly age, disease, accidents, or other elements of our common existence, we cannot accept the loss of life due to alcohol or drugs any longer. I have heard people ask time and time again "Does someone have to get killed before we change", … well tragedy is here once again and it's time to face it. We as people can stop these unnecessary deaths if we 'face them 'rather than avoid them. We don't have to try to change history; we need to change the future. Better communication, better medicine, better understanding of each other, can all help change these negative things we face. We all realize that there has been tragedy in our past with health issues, violence, and separation of family but we should be learning from that and working diligently towards stopping that type of behavior…. Stop It. Not avoid it. I was told a long time ago to thank your past for what it has taught you and then move forward, not dwell in it. We are given the opportunity to support and improve what we have; instead many times we seem to take the route of opposing things and trying to disrupt things so we can get some form of recognition that shows we care. That's wrong and that's not our way, we should be having a conversation about issues, but many times we have forgotten how to listen. We should be supporting and recognizing each other's roles but instead some accuse others of corruption. We should be taking the time to celebrate our success, but instead we complain about not getting our fair share. We should be embracing our culture but instead there are those that think it is some form of religion when it is truly a way of life and an understanding of the natural world we all live in. With all of these types of confusion within our community there is very little hope if we can continue down the same path without suffering these terrible tragedies over and over again and more and more frequently. The way to prevent from going over any edge is to Stop… Simply stop, and you won't go over the edge. I encourage everyone to take the time to have a conversation with each other. I see a lot of time is spent on the social networks like Facebook and it is used many times to tear apart , rather than bring together, after all that is what it was meant to do. Those that choose to use Facebook for destructive purposes are truly confused and selfish.

I would like to bring up another matter that is extremely troubling to me. It has been going on for quite some time now and is becoming, what I feel, is a danger to our membership. There is a nontribal member who continues to demonstrate ill behavior when entering our governmental meetings, discussions of governmental records and other sensitive records of the tribe. The individual is gaining access, by unidentified means, to sensitive information that is labeled confidential and distributing this information to the general public. The individual distorts the truth through various forms of public communication and this information is obviously meant to create disruption and harm to the Oneida Tribe as a whole as well as individual tribal members and associates. When asked who is responsible for the public communications that are published, it has been acknowledged that various tribal members do take ownership along with the nontribal individual. The forms of communication used by these individuals are a defamation of character to elected officials and tribal members. I do not condone this type of behavior nor should it be tolerated by GTC. I have tried to resolve this issue with the nontribal and tribal individuals but am met with resistance. I have made it clear that I will not allow the continuance of this disrespectful behavior to women, or anyone else, in my presence. I will not allow the obvious disregard for the Oneida People and our laws to be tolerated. I compare my reasoning to any Good minded individual trying to bring peace to areas of the world. I feel it is my role as an Oneida man as well as an elected official to keep harm from the Oneida Tribe and its members in any way I can. The efforts by these individuals have been tolerated way too long and should be recognized as a potential danger to our membership as well as our organization and government. I know of hundreds of nontribal residents that live within the Oneida reservation boundaries that do not challenge our laws, do not disrespect us as people, and do not try to undermine our Government; as a matter of fact, many are very positive contributions to our community efforts and growth have become a part of our extended families.

Another topic that many have been discussing throughout the community is blood quantum, enrollment, and services. This becomes a very sensitive subject for many. . And will certainly require more facts than fiction in those discussions. Forums of peace and friendship for the membership and community may allow a civil and productive discussion about the future of Oneida as a Peoples, community and family as defined by our exercising our sovereignty and the foundation of our own world view. Being a part of the design of the future Oneida will require our collective thoughts and understanding of so much of our unique history and historical base line of being Oneida. The impact of so many factors will require a certain maturity and honesty to face not only our past and present but also the contemporary and future of Oneida in our standing in the larger world community. Perhaps the planned Sustain Oneida forums are one of those many forums to contribute to that discussion as well as conversation's with each other during informal settings; "just talking and having coffee".

I leave you with this thought.… Hero's jump on grenades.… Good leaders recognize the danger, establish the facts and lead the people around it….What do you want at the OBC level?

Respectfully,
Greg Matson
Vice Chairman

OBC Forum

Shekólih,

It has been quite busy the past few months and I am excited to share with you some updates on activity that has been taking place by my office and progress that has been made on some important projects.

Oneida of the Thames Band Council

I had the honor and privilege of engaging in building upon our relationship with our Oneida brothers and sisters in the Thames. The Oneida Business Committee was invited to a government to government meeting to re-establish communication with the Oneida of the Thames on mutual issues impacting our Nations. We had the opportunity to reengage with one another and become familiar with their community. We discussed issues such as economic development opportunities, community gatherings, and land claims.

Great Law Recital

In August, I attended the recital of the Great Law at the longhouse in Oneida, Canada. Over 1200+ Haudenosaunee people showed to hear our chiefs recite the Great Law. Personally, what I took away from this learning experience was being able to hear the instructions that the Creator has given us as Oneida people.

I look forward to continuing the effort and help carry the messages and lessons learned by working here to share the knowledge gained. The experience of actively listening to the information being provided and being open to learning the concepts help reinforce the foundations and principles which sustain the Haudensaunee people.

Melinda Danforth
Councilwoman

Congressman Ribble

Our Nation's ability to have solid relationships with our Congressional representatives is essential to our success at achieving our national objectives. Congressman Ribble has been a strong advocate for the Oneida Nation especially in the area of Health Care. I had an opportunity to meet w / Congressman Ribble and his staff to request his support to continue funding for the Special Diabetes Program Initiative that has had very positive results in our community.

Also shared with Representative Ribble, was information on how sequestration is affecting our funding areas such as Head Start, Education, Health Care, Environmental, and many other areas within our organization. The message about sequestration impacts to Oneida is important and I appreciate the Congressman's efforts in carrying forward the information shared with him to the congressional level.

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Regional Administrator Tour

On September 12, 2013, the Region 5 U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's regional administrator, Dr. Susan Hedman, and her staff were hosted by Oneida. The Tribes in this region invited Dr. Hedman to come to Indian Country and see the programs that Tribes have been planned and implemented that would enhance the environment. This was a great opportunity to showcase our commitment to a healthy and clean environment, and also show the federal agency how some of their dollars are put to work in our community.

WI State/Tribal Relations Committee

As most of you are aware, I participate on the Wisconsin's Special Committee on State-Tribal Relations; here, I am able to work with other tribal leaders and Wisconsin legislators to address issues that are important to Oneida and tribes as a whole. This year we have been able to introduce several legislative pieces to the state legislature that have a positive impact on the Tribes. I am looking forward to continuing my work with the State and the Tribes in an effort to advance legislation that will be mutually beneficial. Issues range from use of dollars for the Intoxicated Driver's Assessment Program to pension funding to tribal police agencies.

Judiciary Transition

The Oneida Business has delegated to my office the responsibility to ensure that the new Judiciary is operational by the GTC approved deadline date. I have already provided one update to the GTC and the BC on the progress of this transition and anticipate more updates to come as milestones are reached.

To date, all plans continue to stay on track for the court to open next year, including the relocation to the former HRD Building at the corner of West Mason St. and Packerland Dr. I would like the thank the team comprised of individuals from areas of Planning, Communications, LRO, Grants, HRD, Member Services, the Tribal Judicial System, and the Law Office for their assistance and hard work on this project.

Code of Ethics

Accountability of our elected leaders is essential and a strong system to hold elected officials to the highest ethical standards has been absent for a long time. I have introduced a new Code of Ethics to the LOC for consider, and as requested and supported by many community members, the new Code of Ethics includes fines and sanctions for violations. Please continue watching for information and my office will continue to share updated information as it becomes available.

Health Care

With the Affordable Care Act implementation coming October 1st, we have been diligently working at the national level to ensure our community is prepared. As a user, it will be important to be updated on how the Affordable Care Act changes will impact you, information can be found at www.healthcare.gov, or you may also visit www.marketplace.cms.gov.

As a service provider, Oneida is also making the necessary changes to ensure customers will have the support needed to weed through upcoming changes, so continue to watch for information in the Kalihwisaks. We understand the information being communicated by the Federal Government may be confusing; the Comprehensive Health and Governmental Services Divisions are working to ensure staff is available to assist at all locations with any questions may arise as the new law is implemented.

2013 Summer Youth Work Experience Program

Learning Job Skills, a first for most Youth participants

Submitted by Sandra Skenadore
WIA Job Counselor

Twenty-nine youth participated in the 2013 WIA Summer Youth Work Experience Program which was funded by the Dept. of Labor WIA Job Training Program, and TANF. The youth worked 20 hours a week in placements throughout the Tribe and the Green Bay Area. This was the first job for most of the youth and provided an opportunity to explore careers, learn job skills and gain work experience. Many of the youth and supervisors wished the program would start earlier and last longer.

The youth completed an evaluation at the end of the program and following are some of their comments:

– I learned to take responsibility, listen, follow directions, and come to work prepared
– I learned job skills, teamwork, and how to interact and work with children
– I made friends, met new people all the time, and got to know more about someone
– The workers were real nice to work with because they taught many things to you
– I learned how to be a positive leader, and how to respect others
– I learned more than expected and had fun
– The workers were real nice to work with because they taught many things to you
– I understand the importance of the job and gave me a feel of what jobs will be like in the future

Some of the Supervisors' comments included:

– The youth worker came to work with a positive attitude on a daily basis, was always smiling and happy
– Very courteous and respectful to workers
– Worked as a team and fit right in – Worked wonderful with the kids, and the kids liked spending time with her
– Flexible, willing to learn and try new things, and not afraid to share ideas and ask questions
– Dependable, hard worker, completed every task she was given, and excellent job quality
– A great help, one of my best workers ever, very valuable young person, and left the (program) better than when she came

Oneida High School College Fair, Parents Encouraged to Attend

The college selection process can be very overwhelming for both the student and the parent. The Oneida Higher Education Department hosts an annual college fair to assist in the process. The College Fair will give you and your student the opportunity to not only explore a variety of in-state and out of state colleges, but also discuss what is important to you and your student, in their college selection. Since every student is different, the school that is the best fit for you and your student, may not be the same as the school their sibling, cousin, neighbor, or classmate selects.

Colleges will be visiting your child's high school and they will be bombarded with information on which college is the best fit for them. We would like to give you the opportunity to take part in that exploration process.

The students typically attend the college fair with their school's YES advocate, Title VII coordinator, or school counselor. We encourage parents to join their students when possible. If your child attends a school that doesn't organize their attendance, we encourage you to find a way to make it possible for your child to attend and if possible, to join them.

For the record: Tina Danforth stated I oppose because of the financial considerations, were not appropriate to move forward with this contract and we had directed that any business with Tidy View be severed in a previous Business Committee action.

For the record: Brandon Stevens stated this is a management decision and based on the financials and the business decision, I felt that this was a management decision outside the purvey of the Business Committee.

6. Approve 66 new enrollments
Sponsor: Melinda J. Danforth
Motion by David Jordan to approve 66 new enrollments based on the recommendation from the Trust and Enrollments Committee, seconded by Greg Matson. Motion carried with two abstentions:

Abstained: Tina Danforth, Brandon Stevens

For the record: Brandon Stevens stated my abstention is due to my nephew being on the enrollment list

For the record: Tina Danforth stated I'm abstaining because I do not agree with approving enrollments of individuals without an enrollment degree of blood and for tracking purposes this has been an issue. I will abstain for that reason and I will continue until it's changed. We used to approve these enrollments with blood quantums and because there was a mishandling of some sensitive information through the Secretary's office, it was decided to not provide any information other than names and for tracking purposes we need to know what we are approving and to what degree.

7. Approve limited waiver of sovereign immunity for Pitney Bowes Contract #2013-0893
Sponsor: Joanie Buckley
Motion by Patty Hoeft to approve the limited waiver of sovereign immunity for Pitney Bowes Contract #2013-0893, seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried unanimously

Additions

1. Health Center staffing PO
Sponsor: Melinda J. Danforth
Motion by Brandon Stevens to approve the procedural exception to increase the PO for the Anna John Resident Centered Care Community (AJRCCC) by $295,000, seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried with one opposed:

Opposed: Tina Danforth

For the record: Tina Danforth stated I am opposing because I have asked on several occasions to provide me with the FTE utilized five position for CNA/LPN and RN's and I was not given that information. I requested it for two months prior and going forward to the end of the fiscal year. Part of my rational was so that we would be assured that the PO increase would cover us through the end of the year. My other reason for opposition is there is no staffing levels or needs provided to finance and we have asked for this information for over two years prior to the Anna John new building being built and for planning purposes for next year, we still do not have the staffing levels that are needed to address the needs and the continuity of care for our patients at the Anna John. My third reason for opposing this action is that the facility is only half full and we are losing money every day on each bed that is not filled. We have no indication of the staff needs for the next year based on our discussion yesterday. Finally, I think it's imperative that there be better planning for the staffing needs for the continuity of care for the aging population that we serve at the Anna John.

For the record: Brandon Stevens stated I made the motion because we received all the information necessary to make an informed decision, based on staffing levels. Considering that the facility is half full, the facility needs the staffing in order to fill it and so it's a project management issue that we're also dealing with. Receiving the information that this is also the recommendation of the management who are the professionals in this area and seeking information and understanding in our role in this situation and the procedural exception is needed.

Adjourn
Motion by Patty Hoeft to adjourn at 2:33 p.m., seconded by Greg Matson. Motion carried unanimously

Watch for email scam

ONEIDA, WI ~ Are you receiving emails from the Postal Service about missing a package delivery?

Does the email, which claims to be from the USPS, include a label with fraudulent information about an attempted or intercepted package delivery? If so, don't open the email, because it may contain a link or attachment that, when opened, installs a malicious virus that can steal personal information from your computer.

The emails claim to be from the U.S. Postal Service and contain fraudulent information about an attempted or intercepted package delivery. The emails instruct customers to click on a link to find out when they can expect delivery. But Oneida Postmaster Cheryl Koenig is asking customers not to do it. "We want to keep our customers safe," said Koenig. "Lately, we've been receiving complaints from customers about receiving emails about missing delivery."

Like most viruses sent by email, clicking on the link or opening the attachment will activate a virus that can steal information—such as a customer's user name, password, and financial account information.

What to do? Simply delete the message without taking any further action. The U.S. Postal Inspection Service is working hard to resolve the issue and shut down the malicious program. "If you're not sure about the email you received, you can delete the message or contact the U.S. Postal Inspection Service," adds Koenig.

Postmaster Koenig also offers these tips on spotting scam emails:

- The text contains poor grammar or spelling errors.
- The text states immediate action must be taken or customer could face dire consequences.
- The email requests personal information under the guise of reconfirming information.
- The text from an "automated message system" states "Click on this link for details."

Customers who have questions or wish to report a scam email should call 1-800-275-8777 or email spam@uspis.gov.

A self-supporting government enterprise, the U.S. Postal Service is the only delivery service that reaches every address in the nation: 152 million residences, businesses and Post Office Boxes. The Postal Service receives no tax dollars for operating expenses and relies on the sale of postage, products and services to fund its operations. With more than 31,000 retail locations and the most frequently visited website in the federal government, usps.com, the Postal Service has annual revenue of more than $65 billion.

Barking Water, a Native American love story

The Oneida Film Society invites you join us at the Norbert Hill Center in the Business Committee Conference Room on September 26 to watch the movie Barking Water with us. This film, set in the early 1970's, is about two elders that have had a rocky on and off relationship when Frankie discovers he has late stage cancer. He turns to past love, Irene, to get him home. Frankie and Irene rediscover themselves, their regrets, and perhaps their love once again in this last ride home. The trip is difficult because they must each breakdown emotional walls built-up over years of lies and mistakes.

The movie begins with Irene stealing Frankie out of the hospital to begin their journey home. Irene is not looking forward to this journey and holds a great deal of anger against Frankie, but feels obligated to get him home to his daughter and meet his newly born grand-daughter whom he has not yet met. The film is not fast moving but the audience will identify with many of the characters and emotions. The main characters, Irene (Casey Camp-Horinek) and Frankie (Richard Ray Whitman) do a great job at being real people. The audience will feel like these two could be their family. The film's low budget shows in its presentation but as Stephan Holden from the New York Times stated, "The quiet humanity of the performances infuses the movie with a truthfulness that outweighs its flaws."

The movie will start about 4:30 pm and will be shown on the big screen. We invite the community to join us after the movie for a sharing of thoughts for the movie. For more information contact Shannon Stone at the Oneida Nation Community Education Center at SStone@OneidaNation.org. Admittance is free but people should register online at http://oneidafilmsociety.eventbrite.com.

New Grassroots Campaign to Increase Community Preparedness

National campaign encourages public to practice specific preparedness actions

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The growing impact of disasters underscores the need for a new approach to preparing our communities. Today, the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) unveiled America's PrepareAthon! SM, a nationwide, community-based campaign for action to increase emergency preparedness and resilience.

The strategy and structure for America's PrepareAthon! is based on new social science research conducted by FEMA and presented in Preparedness in America: Research Insights to Increase Individual, Organizational, and Community Action, also released today.

"The Preparedness in America study is an extensive analysis of national household data on preparedness," stated FEMA Administrator Craig Fugate. "Motivating families to prepare is an ongoing challenge. The study highlights the benefit of whole community collaboration to increase preparedness."

Findings from the report include:

- The simple act of talking about preparedness with others has a very strong positive relationship with preparedness behaviors such as having a plan, knowing about alerts and warnings, and participating in trainings or drills, yet less than half of the respondents report talking about preparedness in the previous two years.
- The survey data indicated that the workplace, schools, and volunteering are effective channels for preparedness outreach. People who were encouraged by their employer to have a plan or to participate in training were 76 percent and 86 percent more likely to take these actions, respectively.
- The data identified show clear differences in how people think about different hazards: respondents believed preparing for a natural hazard is helpful, but believed terrorist acts, hazardous materials accidents, and disease outbreaks were less likely and that preparedness would not be as helpful.

America's PrepareAthon! provides a national focus for millions of individuals, organizations, and communities to take action to improve their level of preparedness. Twice a year—in the spring and fall—schools and universities, faith-based organizations, businesses, and civic organizations across the country will organize community days of action to discuss, practice, and train for relevant hazards. The campaign will feature preparedness materials on hazards such as tornadoes, hurricanes, floods, extreme heat, earthquakes, wildfires, hazardous materials and severe winter weather.

The goal of the campaign is to increase the number of people who: understand the hazards most relevant to their community; know the corresponding protective actions, mitigation measures and community plans; practice actions that increase their preparedness; and contribute to whole community preparedness planning. America's PrepareAthon! provides a consistent and coordinated communication and outreach strategy around the national vision for resilience for the general public while establishing a platform for interagency and public-private partner coordination for preparedness and resilience metrics.

Like most great American successes, building a more resilient Nation will depend on the whole community working together to increase resilience by household, by community, and through partnerships between communities, businesses, and state, local, tribal, territorial and federal agencies. To date, the following national organizations have pledged their commitment to America's PrepareAthon!: The American Red Cross, the International Association of Emergency Managers, Target, the Corporation for National and Community Service, National Voluntary Organizations Active in Disaster, and the Resilient Communities for America.

For more information about America's PrepareAthon!, please visit www.fema.gov/prepareathon or email FEMA-Prepareathon@fema.dhs.gov. Join the twitter discussion @PrepareAthon.

FEMA's mission is to support our citizens and first responders to ensure that as a nation we work together to build, sustain, and improve our capability to prepare for, protect against, respond to, recover from, and mitigate all hazards.

America's PrepareAthon! addresses Presidential Policy Directive-8 instruction to "coordinate a comprehensive campaign to build and sustain national preparedness. FEMA's mission is to support our citizens and first responders to ensure that as a Nation we work together to build, sustain and improve our capability to prepare for, protect against, respond to, recover from and mitigate all hazards.

Public Lands Day 20th Anniversary

Agency Offers Fee-free Day Sept. 28 as Part of National Volunteer Effort

WASHINGTON, ~ The U.S. Forest Service is offering a fee-free day on Sept. 28 in conjunction with the 20th annual National Public Lands Day, the nation's largest, single-day volunteer effort for public lands.

"Today's announcement is part of the USDA for all Seasons campaign, which seeks to educate the public on all the ways the department's agencies programs help communities and their economies every day. America's national forests and grasslands belong to all of us," said U.S. Forest Service Chief Tom Tidwell. "These beautiful places have so much to offer, and we hope you'll get outside and volunteer on National Public Lands Day to enjoy these places for yourself, while improving them for future visitors."

The Forest Service offers six fee-free days in honor of Martin Luther King Jr. Day, National Get Outdoors Day, National Public Lands Day and Veterans Day Weekend. Fees are waived generally for day use areas, such as picnic grounds, developed trailheads and destination visitor centers. Fees are not waived for concessionaire-operated facilities or for overnight use such as camping or recreation rentals. Contact your local national forest to learn if your destination requires a fee and if that fee is waived.

Forest Service units plan their own activities for Sept. 28, but many will include wildfire and wildfire prevention education courses. Participants can contact their nearest forest or grassland for event information or visit the National Public Lands Day website.

In 2012, about 175,000 volunteers worked at 2,206 sites in every state, the District of Columbia and U.S. territories, making it the largest participation in the event's history. Those volunteers collected an estimated 500 tons of trash and 23,000 pounds of invasive plants, planted 100,000 trees and other plants and built or maintained 1,500 miles of trails.

Additionally, almost 108,000 volunteers and service members contributed 4.3 million hours or nearly 2,400 person years on critical projects on national forests, grasslands and prairies. Their service was valued at close to $94 million.

Forest Service lands, which include 155 national forests and 20 national grasslands, offer something for everyone, from the casual hiker to the thrill-seeking recreationist. There are also opportunities and programs for children, including the popular Discover the Forest and Junior Forest Ranger programs.

The mission of the U.S. Forest Service is to sustain the health, diversity and productivity of the nation's forests and grasslands to meet the needs of present and future generations. The agency manages 193 million acres of public land, provides assistance to state and private landowners and maintains the largest forestry research organization in the world. Public lands the Forest Service manages contribute more than $13 billion to the economy each year through visitor spending alone. Those same lands provide 20 percent of the nation's clean water supply, a value estimated at $7.2 billion per year. The agency also has either a direct or indirect role in stewardship of about 80 percent of the 850 million forested acres within the U.S., of which 100 million acres are urban forests where most Americans live.

NOTICE REGARDING PER CAPITA INTERCEPTION FOR CHILD SUPPORT

- Child support payments intercepted for arrears from per capita are not usually posted until approximately October 6th and thereafter.
- If a payor has elected to have taxes taken out, the amount intercepted will be less. If per capita is intercepted and the tribal member has more than one case, the amount intercepted will/may be divided per case, not per child.
- If you are expecting a payment and it's your 1st payment since February 2013, a new EPPIC card will be issued to you within 2-3 days after the payment is posted to your account; the State changed its debit card vendor to Epic Debit MasterCard from JP Morgan Chase. It is important to have your current address updated with your child support agency, as the new card will be mailed to the address on file. There will be a delay in receipt of your payment if your address is not up to date or not verified.
- If an payee would like to have their child support payments direct deposited, there are forms that can be picked up and/or mailed or can be accessed from, http://dcf.wisconsin.gov/bcs/pdf/dd.pdf.
- The Agency encourages payees to sign up for website access to their accounts as well as being proactive and checking their account status by phone. The on-line address is www.dcf.wisconsin.gov/bcs/payments/logon.htm, and the phone number to call for status is 1-800-991-5530.

Harvest increases risk of crashes

MILWAUKEE (AP) ~ Harvest time brings an increased risk of collisions between farm machinery and vehicles on state roadways.

The state Department of Transportation says there were nearly 1,400 crashes involving farm machinery from 2005 to 2012. Twenty-five were fatal collisions and 708 resulted in injuries.

As farms have gotten bigger, farmers are traveling farther between fields. Washington County dairy farmer Ross Bishop sometimes travels 13 miles on his tractor to reach his crops. He says traveling is especially risky in the morning and late afternoon. Bishop says some drivers are impatient or even angry while they waiting to pass a tractor. Sometimes, Bishop says, he gets the `one finger salute.'

The Journal Sentinel says state agriculture officials have initiated a study group to address issues resulting from farm machinery on roadways, including damage to roads and bridges.

Powless finds success on the soccer field

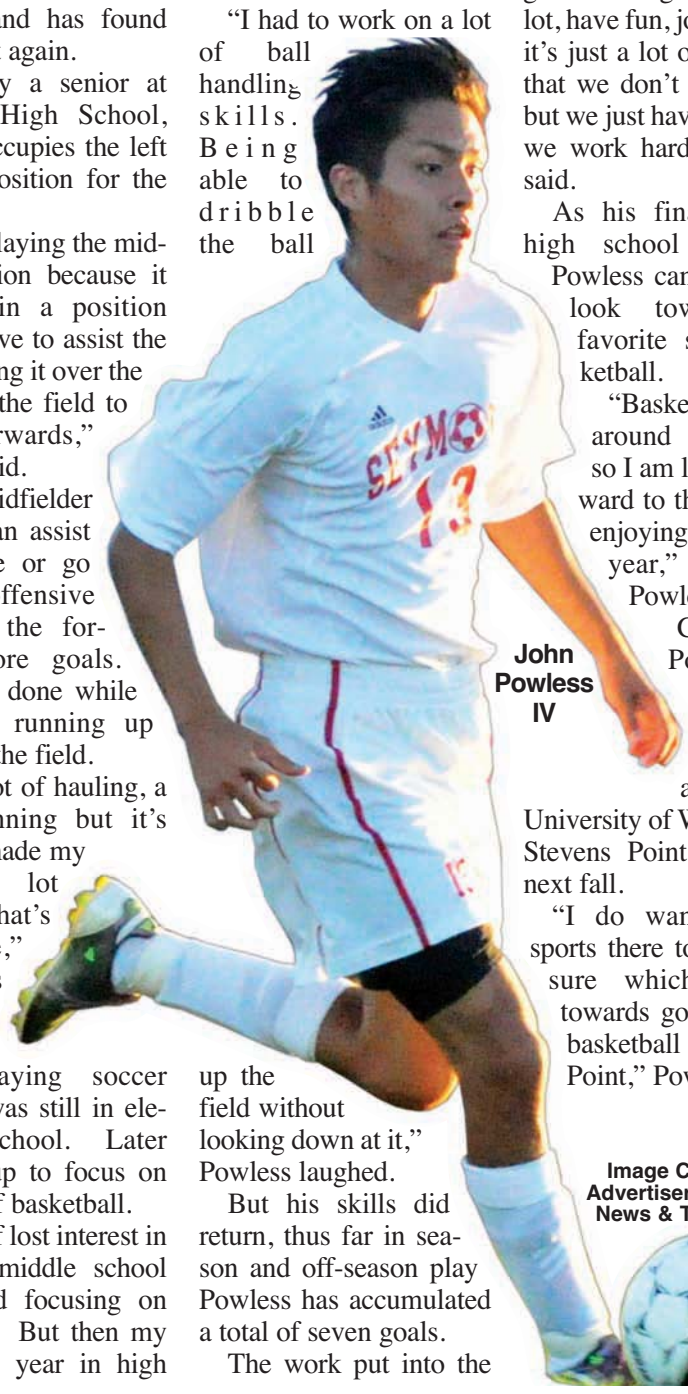
By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks
tcottrel@oneidanation.org

John Powless IV began playing soccer at a young age, displaying promising skills on the field. After giving up the sport Powless put the cleats back on and has found success yet again.

Currently a senior at Seymour High School, Powless occupies the left midfield position for the Thunder.

"I like playing the midfield position because it puts me in a position where I have to assist the ball, crossing it over the middle of the field to the forwards," Powless said.

As a midfielder Powless can assist on defense or go on the offensive and help the forwards score goals. This is all done while constantly running up and down the field.



"It's a lot of hauling, a lot of running but it's good. It made my legs a lot stronger that's for sure," Powless added.

Powless began playing soccer when he was still in elementary school. Later giving it up to focus on the sport of basketball.

"I sort of lost interest in it during middle school and started focusing on basketball. But then my sophomore year in high school I rejoined and was able to make the varsity team right away," Powless said.

The transition back onto the pitch was not without its bumps. Powless found himself having to regain some soccer fundamentals.

"I had to work on a lot of ball handling skills. Being able to dribble the ball up the field without looking down at it," Powless laughed.

But his skills did return, thus far in season and off-season play Powless has accumulated a total of seven goals.

The work put into the sport in order to regain and improve skills has become a highlight of Powless' soccer experience.

"My favorite part of soccer is practice. Practice and hanging out with the guys before games. We goof around a lot, have fun, joke around; it's just a lot of fun. Not that we don't work hard, but we just have fun while we work hard," Powless said.

As his final year in high school rolls on Powless can't help but look towards his favorite sport, basketball.

"Basketball is just around the corner so I am looking forward to that and just enjoying my senior year," said Powless.

Currently, Powless is eyeing a major in education at the University of Wisconsin – Stevens Point beginning next fall.

"I do want to play sports there too, just not sure which, leaning towards going out for basketball at Stevens Point," Powless said.

The team made it into the championship game undefeated and met up with Big Smoky Falls Rafting of Keshena. They lost the first game 8-4 and immediately went into the final game. It was indeed a showdown with all the drama saved for the bottom of the 7th inning. Josh Webster Memorial was down by 1 run with tying run at 1st base. Roman Leonard was at the plate with one strike on him, next pitch Roman hits a deep ball to left field and the ball carried over the fence for the winning score.

Collins joins Family Court as judge

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks
nwisnes@oneidanation.org

The transformation of the Oneida Judiciary system is in full swing with the hire of Robert Collins II as Family Court Judge.

After a multi-year vetting process the new court system was approved and established by the General Tribal Council (GTC) in January of this year.

The Oneida Appeals Commission (OAC) was created by the Administrative Procedures Act. The initial caseload for the OAC was personnel issues. As tribal law developed, the scope of the OAC grew to incorporate civil cases. The Oneida Judiciary phases out the OAC and expands the tribe's law enforcing authority and strengthens sovereign rights.

The court will handle four chapters of the Oneida Code of Law covering divorce, annulments, legal separations, paternity, child support, child custody, placement, and visitation issues.

"Establishing fatherhood is important in terms of enrollment, benefits for the children and setting child support orders. Also, through paternity we can establish custody and physical placement orders to make sure we have a situation where the child is having meaningful time with both of the parents," said Collins.

Judge Collins has begun hearing cases after being hired on September 5.

"I started familiarizing myself with the Oneida Code of Laws. Obviously, there are some differences in the state laws so I wanted to make sure I learned all of those. I then went through some training through the Oneida Child Support Agency. I also had the opportunity to do some training through Cultural Heritage, I found it very beneficial," he said.

Collins II earned his Bachelors Degree in Sociology of Law, Crime, and Deviance from the University of Minnesota. He then

GTC accepts FY2014 budget

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks
nwisnes@oneidanation.org

Employees of the Oneida Tribe will soon be seeing a little larger paycheck when the new fiscal year starts on October 1.

The 2014 fiscal year budget was passed by the General Tribal Council (GTC) during a meeting on Saturday, September 14 at the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center. The GTC approved the budget while changing a $2.45 million earmark targeted for a 2.5 percent raise for employees to a flat $.44 raise for each employee. They also attached a condition to the budget that no tribal members will lose jobs or that services will not be decreased during fiscal year 2014.

The upcoming budget is $11 million less than the previous year with many areas of the tribe not seeing an increase in funds. The detailed budget broke down expected expenditures and profits from business units within the tribe.

An Amendment asking for restricted Oneida Business Committee travel was voted down while the GTC passed an amendment directing $400,000 taken from the Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services building project returned. The funds initially were shifted from the project to the capital improvements projects portion of the budget.

Oneida observes domestic violence awareness

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks
tcottrel@oneidanation.org

Based on the amount of commercials, charities, and professional football sponsorships it is well known that October is Breast Cancer Awareness month. What isn't so well known is that the month of October also serves as Domestic Abuse Awareness Month.

The Oneida Domestic Violence Program (ODVP) aims to raise awareness of a prominent issue in the Oneida community and heal those affected by abuse.

"If there is a domestic violence call to authorities, somebody is going to jail and the odds are it is going to be the man. Statistically 92% of domestic violence is committed by men," said Gene Redhail, Oneida Domestic Abuse Services Coordinator.

After an abuser has been convicted and processed through the judicial system there is an opportunity for the individual to be referred to the ODVP for a 25-week program.

"The 25-week program is culturally and spiritually specific. This is to help men understand that as Oneidas we are a matriarchal culture, so how do we live that way? That is what we are trying to relearn as men. How to relive with that matriarchal thinking. How to hold women with respect," Redhail said.

The ODVP is part of a Coordinated Community Response Team (CCRT), which is an organization of agencies within, the Oneida Nation, Outagamie County, and Brown County. The mission of the CCRT is to develop plans and improve coordination of community resources to protect at-risk women and their children and hold perpetrators responsible for their behavior.

The objective of the referral program is to educate participants on the status of women in traditional Oneida culture, laws of the country, and a history of relations between Indigenous people and the United States.

"Why do Native women experience, out of any other group of women, experience the most sexual and physical abuse in this country? That is what we are trying to address here. We come from a culture that says we protected our women to where our women are being assaulted today at a higher rate than anyone else," Redhail added.

According to Lea Padron, Oneida Child and Youth Female Advocate, abuse is not limited to adults or those that share a household.

"I typically deal with kids who are in abusive relationships, in their cases dating violence, and what typically is the case is that it begins with the parents. It is a cycle; they grow up seeing an abusive relationship and

Oneida Lake construction gets underway

Kali photos/Travis Cottrell

Full scale construction on the Oneida Lake has workers moving and compacting dirt in order to construct berms for tree walls and a fish spawning area. The ground is also being prepped for roadways, a beach, and boat launch.

The Oneida Lake area is currently closed due to construction until further notice.

From 1A/Judge Collins

graduated from Law School at the University of Wisconsin in 2003.

After law school Collins moved to Wauwatosa to begin his career.

"I did criminal defense work, juvenile work, and a little bit of family law for two years. After, I ended up working in Appleton dealing again with criminal defense work, juvenile, child welfare legal issues, and family law," he said. "I left there in December of 2008 and in January of 2009 I started working for Brown County. I was Assistant Corporation Counsel prosecuting child welfare legal matters, termination of parental rights, and adult guardianship work. I did some mental health commitment work and I argued a case before Wisconsin Supreme Court on parental rights issue."

With Collins' experience he is fully aware of the challenges a family court setting presents.

"My goal is to be an impartial hearing officer who listens to the facts presented by both sides and comes up with a fair resolution that addresses the welfare of the child and the child's best interest," he said. "It's difficult getting the two parents to try to resolve their differences and their personal issues aside to come up with a resolution that is best for everyone. One of the options we have at the Oneida Family Court that is different than the state that I think will be useful is the peacemaking system."

Collins is very excited about the results peacekeeping can provide while avoiding litigation before the court.

"It empowers the individuals involved to come up with a solution that is on their terms. It gets away from both sides arguing against each other in court and the judge coming up with the decision. Peacekeeping comes up with a solution that they can leave with knowing that they agree to and they came up and going to work for them," he said.

Once fully established and comfortable in his new position Collins would like to focus on the growth of the Guardian ad Litems within the tribe.

"They are individuals who represent the best interest of the child. They do an investigation and submit a report and make a recommendation as to what they feel is in the child's best interest," he said.

Along with professional pressure that a family court presents personal stress also mounts.

"I try to deal with that stress by not taking it home with me. I do that by playing sports and exercising. In the courtroom, to the best of my ability, my goal is to try to control those emotions by communicating to the parties that they are both going to get an opportunity to present their case. I want to try to get away from people arguing to each other and not to me and interrupting each other. We want people to know they are there to argue their case to me and not continue their fight with each other," said Collins.

Collins understands the importance and necessity of his position and court within the tribal structure.

"It's important because of the different customs and traditions of the tribe that differ from what is applied in state court. As a sovereign nation it is important that the tribe have a venue to resolve disputes internally," he said.

Constitution debate at Sept. 25 OBC meeting

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks
dwalschi@oneidanation.org

It was policies versus the Oneida Constitution at the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) meeting held Wednesday, September 25.

Present: Chairman Ed Delgado, Vice Chairman Greg Matson, Treasurer Tina Danforth, Secretary Patty Hoeft, Council members Melinda J. Danforth, David Jordan, Paul Ninham, Brandon Stevens; Not present: Council member Vince DelaRosa

The OBC acknowledged a receipt of a petition from Frank Cornelius to direct the OBC to schedule a General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting within 20 days to dissolve Oneida Seven Generations Corporation (OSGC). However, it was scheduled to be heard with Cornelius' original petition on December 15.

Chief Council Jo Anne House summarized Cornelius' argument that his petitions should be heard sooner rather than later.

"Mr. Cornelius is accurate in his analysis in regards of the Constitution; fifty tribal members can sign a petition and request a General Tribal Council meeting be called. What's missing in the rest of the story is that the General Tribal Council has adopted rules and procedures to govern its own meetings," said House, citing the 10 day notice policy, the time needed to gather information for the GTC packet, and the need for a large meeting area.

"In order to accommodate 1500 people we can't hold that meeting in this room anymore," said House of the OBC Conference Room.

"Nothing in this Constitution can be abridged by any other laws that we made up by the Business Committee or anyone else," said Cornelius. "You're in violation of the Constitution."

The OBC heard a report from Development Division Director Butch Rentmeester, who gave an update on repairs for over 300 doors at the Anna John Resident Centered Care Community (AJRCCC). According the Rentmeester, the subcontractor Oneida-Kodiak Construction, LLC didn't anchor the doors properly.

"We should get … a financial analysis of the cost to the tribe because of this delay," said Councilman Ed Delgado. "This is costing the tribe money, it is also costing our elders the ability to move into the facility."

According to Rentmeester, the repairs should be completed by October 9.

Lawsuit challenges underpinning of NY casino deal

By Michael Hill
Associated Press

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) – With a vote coming soon on whether to expand casino gambling in New York, two small upstate towns are asking a court to throw out the rules that would govern the rollout and a related deal between the state and the Oneida Indians.

The towns of Verona and Vernon in central New York argue in a federal lawsuit for nullification of an agreement this year between the state and the Oneida Indian Nation that would allow the tribe to put up to 25,000 acres of land into trust.

While the lawsuit does not seek to disrupt the Nov. 5 statewide referendum, a victory by the towns would throw a monkey wrench into the state's plan to regulate casino expansion. And it would invalidate an agreement the two towns argue would devastate them by taking away their ability to tax and regulate a substantial amount of land within their boundaries.

"The people that are in those communities are going to have to make it up by paying higher taxes," said Town of Vernon Supervisor Myron Thurston, whose town of roughly 1,200 is near the Oneida's Turning Stone casino. "It's terribly unfair for the taxpayers of Vernon and Verona, bottom line."

Voters will consider an amendment to the state constitution that would allow Las Vegas-style casinos on non-Indian land. If approved, rules negotiated between Gov. Andrew Cuomo and legislative leaders would initially allow three upstate casinos.

As Cuomo tried to build support for the gambling expansion this year, he struck deals with the three Indian tribes in New York that run casinos - effectively sidelining potential opponents of the referendum.

Under the Oneida deal, the tribe is assured that no competing casino can be located in a 10-county swath of land in the middle of the state and they agreed to give the state 25 percent of the Turning Stone casino's net revenue from slots, a portion of which would go to Oneida and Madison counties. The Oneidas agreed to place no more than 25,000 acres of land into trust as a way of settling longstanding land claims.

Thurston said about 8 percent of Vernon's land is involved. The towns' lawsuit, which names the state along with Madison and Oneida counties, claims the government exceeded its authority by requiring the Oneidas to support the casino referendum as part of the agreement.

"The governor has given away sovereignty over all this land in central New York in exchange for getting what he wants on a constitutional amendment," said Cornelius Murray, a lawyer for the towns. "He's just selling these towns down the drain."

The lawsuit also seeks to overturn the law that spells how casino expansion would proceed, arguing that the governor and legislature prematurely set regulations on gambling that is not legal yet. Murray said the rules could be approved if voters OK the referendum.

Cuomo spokesman Richard Azzopardi said the lawsuit's allegations "have no basis in reality."

"The agreement is sound, has been approved by democratic votes in the relevant county legislatures, and settles longstanding issues between the state and local governments and the Oneidas," Azzopardi said in an email.

The lawsuit was filed in state court but transferred to federal court this month.

In a separate but related case, a federal judge is considering a request by the Cayuga Nation to intervene in another lawsuit involving the state and the Oneidas. If the request is granted, the Cayugas would be able to argue against the Oneida deal brokered by Cuomo, which they claim infringes on their federal rights. The Cayugas claim part of the exclusive territory granted to the Oneidas in the deal is on their territory.

"They want to have their rights preserved to pursue gaming within their territory," said Mark Horan, a spokesman for the tribe.

Newly unemployed must register with Job Service

MADISON, WI (AP) – New unemployment insurance applicants in Wisconsin will soon be required to register online with Job Service of Wisconsin.

The Department of Workforce Development says that beginning Oct. 13 new claimants will have 14 days to register for work at the Job Services' website JobCenterofWisconsin.com.

Department Secretary Reggie Newson said the state is trying to motivate claimants to take advantage of the resources in the Wisconsin Job Service system, which includes tens of thousands of job openings.

"Claimants can file for UI benefits and then complete this one-time, online registration within one hour, and for those who need extra help, we stand ready to deliver one-on-one assistance either in person at our 26 comprehensive Job Centers and dozens of additional sites, or assistance by phone through our Job Service Call Center toll-free line," Newson said.

If applicants have significant barriers to completing the online registration, an alternative method will be provided, state officials said.

"It is to the advantage of unemployed individuals to make a direct link with Wisconsin Job Service and other workforce partners, who are based in every corner of the state and can help them find new jobs," said Newson.

Once an applicant logs on to the Job Center's website they will be asked a series of questions to help build a resumé to which potential employers will have access, Assistant Deputy Secretary John Fandrich said.

Not using wisconsindmv.gov may waste time and money

DMV web sites with .org and .com are not official and charge for forms that are free from DMV or list information that is dated or incorrect

Officials with the Wisconsin Department of Transportation's Division of Motor Vehicles (DMV) stress that while a number of web sites have DMV information and forms, you should avoid them if you want to save time and money. Make sure to use www.wisconsindmv.gov. "People should type that address into their browser when they want to reach the Wisconsin DMV. If they do a web search to find us, our official Wisconsin DMV site may not be the first one they see," notes DMV Bureau of Field Services Director Donna Brown-Martin. Web searches will return a number of sites that have information, but some are for-profit sites, and they charge extra fees for forms and services that are free from the official Wisconsin Department of Transportation web site. Rule of thumb: Forms from DMV are always free.

Additionally, unofficial sites often fail to keep information current. Earlier this month, all DMV 5-day customer service centers extended their hours with all centers now open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday. However, some of the unofficial for-profit sites didn't update their information to reflect the change. "Just the other day we had customers show up at a service center thinking it was open when it was closed. The hours that they had seen on another web site were no longer current," explains Brown-Martin. "That's why we want to make sure our customers know that the place to go is www.wisconsindmv.gov. We know their time is valuable. We appreciate that."

While these unofficial web sites can be deceiving, they are not illegal. Disclaimers stating they are not owned or operated by government agencies allow them to conduct Internet transactions, but such disclaimers sometimes go unnoticed by web browsing citizens. Remember to always look for .gov in the web address. Private, for-profit sites will not contain .gov.

From 1A/Domestic Violence

think that is the way a normal relationship works. More often than not these children end up in abusive relationships themselves because to them that is normal. It is a learned behavior," Padron said.

Although it is not an issue that is openly discussed, domestic abuse is a major issue on the Oneida Reservation. According to numbers reported by the Oneida Police Department the total number of domestic violence and sexual assault incidents jumped from 85 in 2009 to 113 in 2010, with total number of incidents remaining fairly constant since 2010. During that time period the number of sexual assault cases have more than doubled.

"Domestic violence is definitely a prominent issue in Oneida, but the bigger issue is that the majority of abuses go unreported. Just because it isn't reported doesn't mean it isn't happening. One in three Native women are abused and that's just the cases that are reported," Padron said.

On October 18th the third annual "Break the Silence, End the Violence" event will begin at the Three Sisters Resource Center at 5:00pm. Designed to raise awareness of domestic violence a walk of support will take place, ending at the Social Services building where a meal and concert will be held.

"A lot of people believe that abusers can't change, once an abuser always an abuser. But they can, if they make the choice to heal themselves. They are obviously hurting from things they have seen, or heard, or felt themselves. But they can make positive changes in their lives," said Padron.

Competition for gamblers' dollars getting tougher

MILWAUKEE (AP) – Competition for gamblers' dollars is getting tougher as one Wisconsin tribe seeks to block another from building a casino between Milwaukee and Chicago.

The Midwest gambling market has changed dramatically over the past couple of decades. There are now 36 casinos in Wisconsin and Illinois and 9,000 slot machines in Illinois taverns, truck stops and similar venues, with an untold number of illegal slots in Wisconsin bars, the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel reported Sunday.

Casinos "certainly do reach that point where they just start essentially cannibalizing each other," said Mark Nichols, of the University of Nevada-Reno's Institute for the Study of Gambling and Commercial Gaming. "You're seeing signs of that now."

That helps explain why the Potawatomi tribe is spending millions to block the Menominee tribe from opening an $808 million casino complex in Kenosha.

The Potawatomi fear a casino between Chicago and Milwaukee would siphon many of its Illinois customers. The Potawatomi Bingo Casino in Milwaukee draws about 35 percent of its customers from the Chicago area.

"A slot machine is a commodity, and if you could travel 20 miles, as opposed to driving 55 miles, to get to a slot machine, you're going to do that," said John Repa, a national casino consultant who is working for the Potawatomi.

The Menominee face an uphill fight to open a Kenosha casino.

A look at the government shutdown in Wisc.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Many federal offices in Wisconsin closed Tuesday as part of the partial government shutdown affecting the nation. A few examples of programs and services that have been affected:

• The Wisconsin National Guard has furloughed 840 non-essential technicians, but spokesman Maj. Paul Rickert says 210 employees who work in fire and rescue, protective service and key maintenance jobs are exempt from the shutdown. The Guard is keeping military honors personnel on duty to perform services at military funerals this week.

• About 900 civilian employees at Fort McCoy, a sprawling training installation between Sparta and Tomah, have been furloughed. However, spokeswoman Linda Fournier says the fort's annual deer hunt for disabled people will take place this weekend because it is being run by contractors and training for a South Dakota Army National Guard unit that just arrived will go on as scheduled. The fort's campground remains open.

• The Chequamegon-Nicolet National Forest and Apostle Islands National Lakeshore in northern Wisconsin have closed, along with all national parks. Chequamegon-Nicolet National Forest spokeswoman Megan Healy says firefighters and law enforcement officers will stay on the job, but campgrounds, boat rentals and other facilities are closed.

• U.S. Geological Survey equipment that keeps tabs on water flow and levels in Wisconsin rivers and streams is operating, but other data collection handled by the USGS Water Science Center in Middleton has stopped. This includes samples taken to monitor water quality. The center works with numerous universities and municipalities on water issues.

Wisc. State Patrol warns of phone scam

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ If someone calls claiming to be a Wisconsin state patrol sergeant looking for money to repair a vehicle after a crash, don't believe them.

The Wisconsin State Patrol is warning of a phone scam in which a caller identifies himself as a sergeant from the State Patrol Green Bay office and asks for money to resolve a car crash involving a relative of the person called.

The fake sergeant asks for $900 to pay for damages caused by the person's child or grandchild in a crash. The fake sergeant claims in the call that the money needs to be wired immediately so it can be used to fix damages so the other driver doesn't press charges.

The State Patrol says the calls appear to originate from Montreal, Canada.

Wis. residents seek insurance through exchange

By Scott Bauer
Associated Press

MADISON, WI – Heidi Rozek showed up at a Madison job center two minutes before it opened Tuesday, full of questions about how the new federal health care law would affect her.

Rozek, who has no health insurance, got many of her questions answered. But others who wanted to actually sign up for insurance through the new federal exchange, or marketplace, weren't so lucky. Instead of being able to shop for coverage online, they were greeted with this message much of the day: "The System is Down at the Moment." Callers to the federal call center also reported long wait times.

A combination of high demand and technical glitches seemed to overwhelm the online system, marring the much-anticipated launch of the exchange - a central part of President Obama's health care overhaul law.

"It's disappointing, but it's not a shock that there's so many people trying to get online that that's going to create problems," said Jon Peacock, research director of the Wisconsin Council on Children and Families. "I am cautiously optimistic that this isn't symptomatic of deeper problems. I think they'll get the bugs out before too long."

While online and telephone traffic caused delays and disruptions, there was no wait for those who sought out personal assistance at the Dane County Job Center, one of several locations around the state offering help Tuesday.

Only about a dozen people showed up in person to get help during the first three hours it was open with rows of computers at the ready.

"We're seeing a virtual line," said Amy Mendel-Clemens, a Dane County Department of Human Services administrator, looking over the mostly empty room. Large-screen televisions in both corners displayed the federal website and the message that it was experiencing delays.

There's still plenty of time for people to get help and sign up. Open enrollment continues through March 31, but Dec. 15 is the deadline to have a plan in place starting in January.

Most people purchase insurance through their employers and won't be directly affected by the start of the exchange. Under the health care law, every American must have health insurance starting in January or face paying a penalty.

The online and telephone glitches came on the same day that the federal government partially shut down as Congress remained deadlocked in a battle over funding the government or delaying the health law.

The shutdown will have no immediate effect on the insurance marketplaces because they operate with money that isn't subject to the annual budget wrangling in Washington.

Like many Republicans, Gov. Scott Walker opposes the health care law, and he has resisted implementing it since its passage three years ago. Wisconsin is one of 36 states that deferred to the federal government to run their exchanges, and Walker turned down federal money to pay for Medicaid coverage for people earning between 100 percent and 138 percent of the federal poverty level.

About 700,000 Wisconsin residents were expected to shop for insurance coverage on the new online marketplace, healthcare.gov, where federally subsidized private insurance plans are available to purchase.

Several of those who were among the first in Wisconsin to seek personal help in the opening hours of the enrollment period Tuesday admitted to being bewildered about the Affordable Care Act, also known as "Obamacare" by its Republican detractors.

"I'm really confused by this," Rozek said after speaking with one of four counselors available to assist those looking to sign up or get more information. "I came out in hopes of getting something to get some help."

It turned out that Rozek, 41, didn't need to shop for private insurance coverage through the exchange. She learned that because she is unemployed and has no income, she will likely qualify for BadgerCare Medicaid coverage instead.

Stacey Kornegay, 37, said she works part-time and earns just above the poverty line, so she wouldn't qualify for BadgerCare. The new income eligibility limit for Medicaid starting in January will be $11,500 for an individual or $23,550 for a family of four.

Kornegay came Tuesday to get more information about plans available through the exchange and wasn't bothered by the computer glitches. She said she intended to call the toll-free number later to sign up.

Kornegay said she's gone five months without insurance.

"I haven't had a physical in I don't know how long," she said.

Letter to the community from the Oneida Health Center

To the Oneida Community:

Due to the impact of the Government Shutdown, the Oneida Comprehensive Health Division will be implementing the following measures to enable us to continue to provide immediate health care services in the absence of Indian Health Service funding for Fiscal Year 2014. Unfortunately, due to the uncertainty of how long the shutdown will continue, we are forced to take these measures to assure our ongoing ability to provide immediate health care to the Oneida community.

- Effective immediately, Contract Health Services will go to a Priority 1A level. This means that all referrals for care must meet the requirement of 1A as defined by the Indian Health Service. Priority 1A means a referral must meet the following criteria: Threat to life, limb senses (diagnosis and treatment of injuries or conditions that, if left untreated, results in uncertain/potentially grave outcomes.) All referrals that have already been scheduled and committed as of 10/02/13 will continue to be covered.
- Inpatient Treatment for Substance Abuse will be placed on hold effective immediately. Patients/clients will be followed through outpatient treatment which is provided on-site until further notice.
- Oneida Pharmacy will begin dispensing a maximum of 30 day supplies on all medications and discontinue the dispensing of over the counter (OTC's) unless medically necessary as determined by your provider.

At this point, the WIC program will NOT be impacted which has been confirmed by the State of Wisconsin. We have also received confirmation that there will NOT be an impact to those programs that operate on different funding cycles. These include the Special Diabetes Program for Indians (SDPI), the Diabetes Prevention Program (DPP), the Community Options Program and several of our State grants.

We apologize for the inconvenience and are making all efforts to continue to cut our expenses so that we will be able to continue to provide health care services to our community. As more information is received from our granting agencies and from the Indian Health Service we will continue to provide updates to the community.

Thank you for your understanding and cooperation. If you have questions or concerns please feel free to contact Margaret Valencia at (920) 869-4908 or email her at mvalenci@oneidanation.org.

History, Literature are Public Lecture Topics at CMN

Keshena, WI – The College of Menominee Nation continues its yearlong 20th Anniversary Faculty Lecture Series with free, public addresses this fall by CMN scholars.

On Wednesday, Oct. 9, Eric Jurgens of the CMN Humanities faculty, will lecture on "One Country, Two Worlds: The Self-fashioning of Mathew Carey and William Apess." Carey, an Irish Catholic immigrant, and Apess, a mixed-blood Pequot who became a Methodist minister, were two distinctly different individuals living in the early 19th Century.

Prof. Eric Jurgens

Jurgens notes that during the first half of the 19th Century, the United States was still in the process of defining itself as a nation, as to who would be included as "American" and who would not. Although members of marginalize communities and considered to be "outsiders" in the United States at that time, each of the men used his outsider status and firm belief in economic and social justice to at once critique and to become a part of the larger "American" community.

The year's final lecture will be by Ryan Winn of the Humanities/Theater faculty on Tuesday, Nov. 19. Winn's topic is "Who Is Native Enough to Write Native Literature." Winn will discuss what it is that makes Native literature "Native." Winn asks: Is it the content? Is it the author's birth heritage? Does it matter if the author was raised on tribal land? Does it matter if the author can speak his or her Native language? Can non-Natives write "Native" literature if they do their research? And what if they have a lot of Native friends? He will provide an overview of the history of written Native literature in America and problematic questions that arise when attempting to classify books as uniquely "Native."

Prof. Ryan Winn

Both lectures will begin at 12 noon on the respective dates in the mezzanine classroom of CMN's S. Verna Fowler Academic Library, N172 State Highway 47/55 in Keshena.

The College of Menominee Nation is an accredited institution of higher learning serving American Indian and non-Indian students with Baccalaureate and Associate degrees, and technical/trades diplomas, from campuses in Keshena and Green Bay.

"Ancient Gardens" Lecture Online

Ancient gardens were the topic when the College of Menominee Nation's Fall Faculty Lecture Series launched earlier this month with a talk by noted archeologist and scholar, Dr. David Overstreet. Overstreet provided a historical overview of research on the Menominee People and shared recent findings on ancient villages and raised gardens that indicate Menominee occupation of the region from about A.D. 1000 to 1500.

Dr. David Overstreet

Research at the College has also reopened questions about causes of a tribal population collapse which followed some 500 years of sustainable life-ways and pre-dated the arrival of Europeans in the western Great Lakes. The decline has been thought to result from warfare, diseases or climate change known as the "Little Ice Age," and dated from about A.D. 1550 to 1880 (Neo-Boreal climatic episode). New findings are revealing a greater prevalence of agriculture and different distribution of population than previously thought, Overstreet said. A video of the lecture may be seen online at the CMN website: www.menominee.edu

What is new at the Community Education Center

More than Just a Tutoring Center

Have you seen us lately? The Oneida Nation Community Education Center (ONCEC) has undergone a lot of change since the beginning of the year. In addition to some new personnel, the ONCEC team has been looking closely at how they can provide the most value back to the community. As a result, the center has seen an increase in participation by the community members in training and using resources provided at the ONCEC.

So what's new? With the hiring of a new GED teacher supervisor the center has been evaluating the entire GED program. Much of the curriculum is older and is being brought up to date to meet new standards. With the state changing to computer administered testing for GED, the ONCEC is looking at how to make the process more user friendly and interactive. In addition, they have been looking at what public schools and colleges are using to administer similar programs. This means that when people come for general education assistance or tutoring that learning is easier, more fun and of a higher quality. One of the upcoming programs that you will see will include ACT training for college bound students.

Right now the computer instructors have their hands full as the Tribe is changing their computer communications programs to Microsoft Outlook 365. The ONCEC is often the computer training resource for the Tribal organization when major changes take place. The computer instructors have also been evaluating their programs often planning a year or more ahead. Even now, the ONCEC is preparing for Microsoft Office 2013, which they anticipate being installed at the ONCEC next year. One of the bigger goals is to eventually provide online resources for training.

There are also some less visible programs that the ONCEC has or sponsors such as the Oneida Film Society. Each month, the film society shows full length movies about Native Americans for free. This is a great way to learn about modern American Indian concerns while having a great time.

Individuals that are enrolled in various assistance programs, the center holds classes on personal finances started earlier this year. Here people learn about creating budgets, saving money, shopping wisely and much more. This program is both culturally responsible and fun. The center is also working to develop a program in cooperation with several areas of the Tribe for career development and ultimately job placement in many fields including health care, manufacturing and trades.

If you haven't been to the Oneida Nation Community Education Center recently, stop in and see what's new. The ONCEC is located at 2632 S. Packerland, Green Bay, WI 54115.

Parents Encouraged to Attend High School College Fair

"Come let us put our minds together and see what life we can make for our children."

~ Sitting Bull

The college selection process can be very overwhelming for both the student and the parent. The Oneida Higher Education Department hosts an annual college fair to assist in the process. The College Fair will give you and your student the opportunity to not only explore a variety of in-state and out of state colleges, but also discuss what is important to you and your student, in their college selection. Since every student is different, the school that is the best fit for you and your student, may not be the same as the school their sibling, cousin, neighbor, or classmate selects.

Colleges will be visiting your child's high school and they will be bombarded with information on which college is the best fit for them. We would like to give you the opportunity to take part in that exploration process.

The students typically attend the college fair with their school's YES advocate, Title VII coordinator, or school counselor. We encourage parents to join their students when possible. If your child attends a school that doesn't organize their attendance, we encourage you to find a way to make it possible for your child to attend and if possible, to join them on Thurs., Oct. 17 at the Radisson Grand Council Ballroom, from 11AM–3PM.

Date Change: Petitions Regarding SEOTS to Appear on October 27 GTC Agenda

Updating a previous article

By Mark W. Powless

The two petitions regarding Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services (SEOTS), both submitted on May 20, will now appear on the General Tribal Council (GTC) Meeting agenda for Sunday, October 27.The meeting time and location is scheduled for 1:00pm at the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center.

Originally, the petitions were scheduled for Saturday, October 12. The October 12 meeting is now canceled.

Carole Liggins submitted one of the petitions as a "resolution for the dissolution of the second polling site (SEOTS) for triennial elections". The petition also calls for the Oneida Election Board to be charged with the responsibility to develop a plan in order to assist the second polling site (SEOTS) voters to have an opportunity to present themselves at the official polling site located within the exterior boundaries of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of WI reservation for triennial elections.

The SEOTS polling site provides a convenient location for approximately 1,500 eligible Tribal members to have a voice in the Tribal political process during triennial elections.

The second petition was submitted by Brian Doxtator. Per the petition, "The GTC decision on 7-31-04 to "...Direct the Business Committee to provide assistance to the SEOTS program to locate long term facilities for SEOTS program whether rental or purchase." Included rental or purchase, not new construction. This petition is being submitted for GTC to review and possibly amend, modify or overturn the 7-31-04 GTC decision. The petitioners request General Tribal Council to convene in Executive Session so that the Oneida Business Committee disclose to the GTC information and date relative to the construction of a SEOTS building in Milwaukee. The includes the 3 bid process, compliance with Indian Preference Law, consultant contract, developer contract (and the consultant/developer relationship if any), extent of SEOTS board input/participation and financing, current enrollment statistics, and projected enrollment statistics for 5 years, 10 years and 15 years within Milwaukee County and all border counties to Milwaukee county."

SEOTS is currently seeking to purchase a long term facility to continue to provide services and programs to the Oneida Tribal members living in or visiting southeast Wisconsin and to access educational, financial, and other opportunities available in the Milwaukee area that may benefit the Oneida Tribal members or the Oneida Tribe.

SEOTS operates in the Milwaukee area on a mission of strengthening our cultural connection and providing services and programs to enhance the well-being of On^yote?a-ka living in southeastern Wisconsin. Approximately 2,000 Oneida Tribal members reside in the SEOTS service area. In fiscal year 2012, SEOTS enjoyed roughly 11,500 customer contacts. In 2012 SEOTS celebrated 20 years of service to Oneida Tribal members. Milwaukee is also home to the state's largest urban population and the state's largest Native American population.

Interested Tribal member are encouraged to participate in the upcoming GTC meeting on October 27.

Oneida Tribal Cemetery - Fall Clean Up

If you have loved ones buried in the Oneida Tribal Cemetery now is the time to remove summer floral and other decorations/memorabilia which have become faded over time.*

Now is a good time to insert "shepherd poles" into the ground before the frost comes.

Oneida Tribal Cemetery - Rules/Regulations

If you have a loved one buried in the tribal cemetery or you're just a visitor to the grounds, please take time to read the cemetery rules/regulations posted regarding what items/actions are prohibited.

These following rules/regulations were approved by Oneida Trust Committee. Oneida Enrollment Department is responsible for the enforcement.

Rules & Regulations of the Oneida Cemetery
TSI? TYEYA? TATALIH
"Where They Bury a Body"

Open every day from sunrise to sunset

The following items are prohibited:
- water systems
- glass or ceramic containers
- alcoholic beverages or illegal substances
- clothing placed on gravesites
- birdfeeders or bird baths
- decorative landscaping stone or mulch
- items that generate noise or music
- fencing, curbing, roping enclosures, edgings, iron works, wire works, bench seats, posts, trellises or steps
- pets (except service animals)

The following actions are prohibited:
- planting of trees, shrubs, vines, hedges or vegetables
- motorized vehicles traveling off designated road way, including processions
- recreational activities on cemetery grounds (picnics, roller blading, etc.)
- soliciting in cemetery
- being disrespectful or disorderly
- defacing any memorial or structure
- hunting
- possession and/or use of firearms allowed (except for military memorials)

The Oneida Enrollment Department has the right to remove non-conforming item(s) that interfere with the maintenance of cemetery without notice.

All memorials, flower containers or decorations will be removed when they become unsightly.

The Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin shall not be liable for any injuries occurring within the cemetery.

Please report any acts of vandalism/theft to the Oneida Police Department at 920-869-2239.

The most common prohibited items Oneida Enrollment Department removes are faded floral and sprays, glass vases/containers and alcoholic beverages.

The most common actions being violated is planting outside the perimeter of the plot dimensions and planting behind the monument.*

Reason this rule was established is because both violations interfere with the overall maintenance of the grounds and interfere with pathway and walkways established.

If your loved one's plot is out of compliance with planting rule, please take corrective action to either remove the plant or transplant within the dimensions of the plot by October 31, 2013.

We recommend if you transplant, place within the first 12" in front of the monument. After October 31st, 2013, the Oneida Enrollment Department will remove any planting which is out of compliance.

Secondly, erecting wooden crosses as markers is currently prohibited. If your loved one has a wooden cross, please call me at 920-869-6212 to discuss. Reason for not allowing wooden crosses are over time this type of material will erode and will be subject for removal.

Our department truly understands the love, compassion and the loss family members endure when burying a loved one. It's also important to understand that when you buy a burial plot you're not buying the actual land; you're buying a right to be buried and also agreeing to follow the rules/regulations established.

Those rules and regulations are given out at the time of plot purchase and are posted throughout the cemetery grounds.

Lastly, if you don't agree with contents of Cemetery Law, the Oneida Tribe does have a process established through the Legislative Operating Committee where you can recommend changes to any existing law. I am open to hearing your comments and suggestions.

We ask each family member to continue to take responsibility for the care and maintenance of plantings, markers, and monuments of your loved one. If you're not sure about what can or can't be placed on plots, feel free to contact me at 920-869-6212, email me at jdenny@oneidanation.org or just stop in anytime between 8am-4:30 pm , Monday thru Friday at Oneida Enrollment Office at 210 Elm St (next to Oneida Library).

The Sustain Oneida Summit: A Summary

By Oneida Trust and Enrollment Committee

The Sustain Oneida Summit was held at the Radisson Saturday September 7, 2013 9:00am-4:00pm. Approximately 100 people attended, with the majority of participants staying the whole day. A wide age range was represented from elders to youth. The purpose of the summit was to serve as a community conversation starter about issues of citizenship, belonging, membership criteria and its effect on Oneida sovereignty and long-term survival. Potential solutions to enrollment criteria will be discussed in future sessions such as this one.

The summit opened with a presentation on Oneida enrollment trends, with slides portraying past, current and future expected Oneida enrollment numbers. A decline in membership is expected over the next 50 years due in part to decreased Oneida birth rates as well as an expected reduction in the number of individuals who will have "enough" Oneida blood (1/4) to enroll.

Next, there was a presentation from Dr. Jill Doerfler, associate professor of American Indian Studies at University of Minnesota-Duluth. She discussed what blood quantum is, its history, and how it is calculated. Dr. Doerfler's talk was especially relevant to Oneida as she has been instrumental in the White Earth tribe's efforts to reform their enrollment requirements. An historic referendum vote on the proposed constitution of the White Earth nation is set for November 19, 2013

Dr. Doerfler's talk was followed by a series of small group sessions, which discussed important identity questions such as: "What does it mean to be Oneida?" and "Share a story about when you 'felt' Oneida." A facilitator captured responses on a flipchart which were later shared with the larger group.

Small group discussions were followed by a lunch lecture by Dr. Doug Kiel, a post-doctoral fellow in History at the University of Pennsylvania Center for Native American Studies. Dr. Kiel is also an enrolled Wisconsin Oneida. Doug discussed the importance of citizenship over membership and encouraged Oneida to think about ways to contribute to their community rather than only focusing on what they can get out of it.

Next there was a "World Café" style discussion with stations set up around the room with different topics relevant to the concept of belonging. Questions included "What do you most value about Oneida?" and "How is Oneida unique?" At each station participants captured what their answers "looked" like on large sheets of paper. What resulted was an astounding variety of images, words, and colors. Among the images people drew were clan animals, corn soup, Duck Creek, sports, the Oneida Wampum Belt and community gathering places such as the longhouse. The artwork was then hung up on the wall and discussed.

There then followed a personal interview session in which participants broke into pairs and asked one another questions provided on a sheet such as "Three wishes I have for my grandchildren," "The Oneida community is at its best when…." and "Being Oneida means…"

Oneida High School principal, Artley Skenandore, closed the summit with a summary of the day and a challenge to all Oneida to not just "survive" but to "sustain." Although there is not a roadmap, he stated, there are compass directions which are the core values of Oneida:

Kahletsyalusla (Gah-lates-Jaw-loose-la) -The heart felt encouragement of the best in each of us;

Kanolukwasla (Gah-know-loonk-quuts-la) - Compassion, caring, identity, and joy of being;

Kanikuhliyo (Gah-knee-goo-lee-yo)- The openness of the good spirit and mind;

Ka tshatstasla (Gah-sah-stunts-sla) - The strength of belief and vision as a people;

Kaliwi yo (Gull-lee-wee-yo) -The use of the good words about ourselves, our Nation, and our future;

Yukwahwatsile (Yoon-kwa-wha-jeel) - Our family and our Nation;

Yukwatsistaya (Yoon-kwa-jeest-die-ya) - Our fire, our spirit within each one of us.

Now that we are on this journey of change - re-envisioning what it means to be Oneida - we need to think about what provisions we need to carry it out. The summit served as a starting point and we must continue the journey in a good way.

Please tune into our next article where we will provide a recap of participants' reactions to the summit. Thank you to all who attended!

This series of articles is designed to inform Oneida citizens about Tribal enrollment issues. The goal of these articles is to generate community conversations leading up to and beyond the Sept 7th Sustain Oneida Summit which explored community participation for citizenship and belonging.

Loretta Says…

Peaches do grow in Wisc.

Ongoing Column • Providing a connection to the past

Loretta Metoxen,
Oneida Tribal Historian

Some people say that you can't grow peaches in Wisconsin. Well, it is my experience that anyone can very well grow peaches.

I was a doubter at first. But then I started scrutinizing my seed and nursery catalogues and found that a company in Faribault, Minnesota, sold dwarf peach trees. The two varieties that they had available were Reliance and Contender. I reviewed the qualities of each and finally decided to send for on Reliance peach tree. That was three summers ago. I ordered a peach tree from Minnesota because it would be acclimated to the northern weather.

The first summer there were a few bright pink blossoms exhibited. The second summer, the tree was a small cloud of blossoms. There were about twenty-six peaches that year. Last summer and this summer that little tree was bent over to the ground because it was so heavily laden with fruit. I had my son prop the limbs up with two-by-fours to prevent them breaking off. I tied opposite branches together with binder twine to give it further support. This fall I will trim some of the branches back so the tree is more compact and the limbs will strengthen.

That treed did so well that I decided to buy two Contender trees in the spring of 2012. They did well, too, but during the winter some very large, very hungry rabbits ate all the bark off from the ground to the first branches. They both died. There is a new shoot coming up from the bottom of one of the trees and I am saving that to see if it will have the characteristics of its parent. Also, I will be putting protective bindings on all the young trees before winter. I have three plums and three apples that need that kind of attention. For me, that was a lesson learned. The rabbits cut off most of the raspberries, too, at the top of the snow drift.

That little Reliance peach tree produced one-and-a-half-bushels of peaches this year. I picked them all and distributed them out to family and friends. I bought some to work to share. My family made Peach Melba freezer jam. I made peaches and cream pies.

So, yes, we can grow a very nice crop of peaches in Wisconsin. As for the rabbits, I may be preparing to hunt or trap them. They make nice stew and dumplings.

Uncertainty to stay after SE Mass. casino deadline

By Bob Salsberg
Associated Press

BOSTON - The casino picture in southeastern Massachusetts is expected to remain fuzzy well after the passage of Monday's deadline for commercial developers to file preliminary applications with state gambling regulators.

Only one firm, KG Urban Enterprises, filed papers along with the required $400,000 application fee before the 5 p.m. deadline. But the lack of other applications won't necessarily stop other casino proposals from emerging in the region, which until recently had been set aside for the Mashpee Wampanaog tribe under the state's 2011 gambling law.

Companies that have already applied for gambling facilities elsewhere in the state but wind up unsuccessful in those pursuits could roll the dice again in the southeast without having to reapply to the Massachusetts Gaming Commission or pay additional entry fees. As a result, it could be months before the full competitive landscape in the region is known.

The Massachusetts Gaming Commission voted in April to begin accepting applications from commercial developers in southeastern Massachusetts while continuing to monitor the tribe's progress in overcoming legal and regulatory hurdles to its proposed casino in Taunton, 35 miles south of Boston.

KG Urban, which filed its Phase I application on Friday, has proposed a resort casino at the site of a former power plant on the New Bedford waterfront.

The company is the plaintiff in a federal lawsuit against a provision in the casino law that gave first crack in southeastern Massachusetts to a federally recognized tribe. It said in a statement it looked forward to "competing on a level playing field" for a casino license.

While the commission has opened the region to commercial applicants, it also has indicated it might choose not to award a regional license if the Mashpee show progress in the coming months in their pursuit of a casino. The tribe is seeking a federal land-in-trust designation from the Bureau of Indian Affairs and is awaiting legislative approval of a revised casino compact with Democratic Gov. Deval Patrick.

Claremont Cos., a Bridgewater-based real estate firm, chose not to file an application with the commission but remained interested in developing a casino on a 100-acre site in the town, bordered by Interstate 495 and Route 24.

Claremont was gauging interest in partnering with firms that had already applied to the gaming commission. Its president, Elias Patoucheas, said it was "engaged in discussions with several major operators of entertainment resorts, and we anticipate making an announcement in the near future."

Attorney Paul Hamel, representing South Coast Casino Corp., similarly told New Bedford's The Standard Times that it was hoping to partner with a gambling company that had been unable to achieve state or local support for a proposal somewhere else in Massachusetts.

The one application filed on Monday was further evidence that the Mashpee were in the best position to develop a casino in southeastern Massachusetts, tribal chairman Cedric Cromwell said.

"The market recognizes that we have sovereign rights as a tribe and our project is ahead of any other development in the state," Cromwell said.

Adoptive parents seek expenses in custody fight

TULSA, Okla. (AP) ~ A South Carolina couple is asking an Oklahoma man and the Cherokee Nation to pay for expenses in connection with the couple's adoption of a Cherokee girl.

The Tulsa World reports the petition was filed Sept. 9 in South Carolina by Matt and Melanie Capobianco while Dusten Brown was appealing court orders to hand over his 4-year-old daughter Veronica.

Brown is the biological father and fought for custody after the child was adopted by the couple.

The Capobiancos took custody of the girl Monday after the Oklahoma Supreme Court refused to assume jurisdiction.

Attorneys for Brown and the tribe declined comment because of a gag order.

The Capobiancos didn't ask for a specific amount, but want Brown and the tribe reimburse the couple for attorneys' fees and other expenses.

Pa. town appeals to keep body of Jim Thorpe

PHILADELPHIA (AP) ~ The Pennsylvania town where famed athlete Jim Thorpe was laid to rest in 1953 has asked a federal appeals court to throw out a ruling that could clear the way for his remains to be moved to American Indian land in Oklahoma.

Lawyers for the town of Jim Thorpe say that a judge erred when he ruled the town amounts to a museum under the 1990 Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act.

The town's appeal was filed Monday in Philadelphia.

Thorpe's widow agreed to send his body to Pennsylvania after two neighboring towns agreed to build a memorial and name the new town after him.

Thorpe's surviving sons have been fighting to move their father to Sac and Fox land in central Oklahoma.

Oneida programs remain open despite government shutdown

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks
dwalschi@oneidanation.org

The federal government may have shut down Tuesday, October 1 due to the failure of the US Congress and Senate to pass a budget, but federally funded programs operated by Oneida are open for business.

According to Grants Manager Cheryl Stevens, services such as health care and funding for tribal schools should continue as normal.

"The majority of the funding we get, like IHS (Indian Health Services), is allocated already," she said.

Stevens anticipates there may be delays for college students getting their Pell Grants or applying for student loans due to staff furloughs at the Department of Education.

"Pell grants are still going on, however they may take a little bit longer to get them out," she said.

Director of Oneida's Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program Susan Higgs assures that her program will carry on as normal, and the subsidies given to its clients are good through October 31.

"The Wisconsin WIC is business as usual. The official word is there's no need to panic, and the best thing that participants can do is pick up and spend their WIC drafts, and that would include the farmer's market draft," said Higgs.

Stevens stated that a 21 day shutdown in the mid-90s didn't have very much effect on tribal operations, however there is some concern if the current shutdown goes beyond the end of October.

"They're ok with the month of October, if it goes longer than that, then a lot of programs will be impacted greatly," said Stevens.

The same can be said of the WIC program which is funded through the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), although Higgs said there may be other funds available as a contingency plan.

"WIC at the state level is continuing to monitor the situation daily, so any changes would be communicated," said Higgs.

7 more Alexie books coming out as e-books

By Hillel Italie
AP National Writer

NEW YORK ~ Sherman Alexie is learning to live with e-books, conflicts and all.

Once one of the harshest opponents of books on a screen, Alexie has in the past two years allowed a handful of his works to be released digitally, including his prize-winning young adult novel "The Absolutely True Story of a Part-Time Indian." He is now making seven additional books available.

Open Road Integrated Media, a digital publisher, announced Monday that it had acquired rights to "The Lone Ranger and Tonto Fistfight in Heaven," "Reservation Blues" and other early Alexie fiction. The new editions will come out Oct. 15.

The author has denounced Amazon.com's Kindle as elitist and worries about the future of physical stores. But in a video released by Open Road, he said he wanted his books to be read as widely as possible.

"I'm famous, or infamous, for objecting to electronic literature and e-books," he said. "At the beginning my hate was sort of global, but now it's modified a bit. I still have serious issues with the politics and economic philosophies involved in much of the electronic book world but I'm also vitally interested in reaching more of my readers and reaching a younger generation of readers who are more technologically savvy and tech addicted, and in order to reach them I have to do this."

Alexie, who turns 47 on Oct. 7, told The Associated Press during a recent telephone interview that those younger readers included his two sons, ages 12 and 16. "In order to keep talking to them," he said, it was important to keep up with technology. He is a fan of the iPad - "I love my iPad," he declared in his video - and gave one to his mother to help her keep up with current events.

But he has not changed his mind about Amazon. He did not mention the Kindle in his video and told the AP that he still views the online retailer as a would-be monopoly that wants to be the "publisher, the editor, the distributor and the bookstore."

"They are seeking to be the only thing in the business and I don't like that," said Alexie, who will, in any case, allow his e-books to be sold on Amazon.

ONM Nature Trail Additions

Site of a Maple Sugar Camp being constructed on the Oneida Trails.

By Jacob Metoxen
Museum Educator

The Oneida Nation Museum is in the process of rerouting our Nature Trail and adding new sites.

One of the new sites is a Maple Sugar Camp. Maple syrup is used in food preparation as a sweetener. Hatchets or axes are used to cut away the bark of a Sugar Maple Tree. Holes are then created with hand drills and wooden taps inserted. Birch Bark baskets were used to gather the sap.

Boiling the sap in clay pots removes excess water because the maple sap consists of about 90 percent water. Roughly forty gallons of boiled sap produces one gallon of syrup.

Another new site is the Runners' Hut. Oneidas relied on sophisticated systems of highly trained runners to send messages to other villages and return with responses. The runners were physically fit and had the ability to remember and relay the messages.

Runners' Huts were made from saplings that are bent and tied together (usually with corn husk rope). Huts were then covered with bark, branches, and leaves to camouflage and protect against weather, animals, and enemy tribes.

We would like to say thank you to Sonny Hill, Errol Wilson, JoAnn Thundercloud, Annette Cornelius, Todd Hill, and the Oneida Conservation Department for their assistance.

The ONM Nature Trail will be completed within the next couple of weeks including the two new sites, animal displays, and plant signs. Check for updates on our Facebook page. Yawáko!

Update on Tribal Buildings

By Corina Williams and Eliza Skenandore

The Historic Preservation Program and the History Program Multi Media Specialist have been collecting information and documenting elder's stories of their past experiences to record and preserve.

Three projects that have come to our community is the demolition on the Oneida Tribal building (Chicago Corners), CCC building in site II, and the Anna John Nursing home.

The Historic Preservation Program would like to share what we have gathered thus far. The Oneida Tribal Historic Preservation Officer (THPO) requested that the Bureau of Indian Affairs assist in the National Register evaluation of the Oneida Tribal Building as part of our overall trust responsibility.

The THPO wants to preserve the history and stories for the Oneida Tribe and have it documented and recorded. It is currently on the Oneida Nation Register of Historic Place.

Information on the old Oneida Tribal building (Chicago Corners) has been recorded, documented, and shared.

The Tribal building was constructed in 1917 as a district day school and was called Chicago Corners School. Two major building additions were added to the school in the early 1960s. The school closed in 1968 and then it was utilized for the Head Start Program and the Commodities Program.

Besides being a school it was also used for office tribal meetings, language classes, social events, and had offices for several tribal programs. In recent years it was used a gymnasium for boxing matches and training, plus building maintenance and material storage.

We have also continued to record any information to preserve it for the community. You can see some of the videos on the internet at www.Youtube.com/OneidaWiMedia.

If however you do not have access to the internet at home you can visit your local library to view it. We would still love to hear more stories about these buildings. Please contact Corina Williams at 920-496-5386 or Eliza Skenandore at 920-496-5396 if you would like to share your stories.

A Fun-Filled Homecoming

By Gerald Diamond
Thunderhawk Times

Starting September 30th and ending on October 4th, Oneida Nation High School celebrated Homecoming.

The week before the Homecoming festivities began, students broke into their class groups (freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior) to have a hallway decorating contest. Students will then be judged on the quality, effort, overall product, and the theme of the decorated hallway. The judges of the class hallways will be members from the Oneida Business Committee.

Homecoming week was filled with dress-up days. "Hippy Monday" had students dress up like hippies or people from the 70's. Tuesday was "Triplet Day" where three students of the same class can dress up the same. Wednesday was "Class Color Day." Freshman chose their color to be black, sophomores have blue, juniors have neon green, and seniors have pink. Thursday is "Superhero Day" so students can dress up in costumes as long as the costume resembles a superhero. Finally, Friday will be "School Spirit Day" so students are encouraged to wear purple, black, and white.

After school on Friday the Thunderhawks football team will be playing The Valley Christian Warriors. Once the game is over, students will have a "lock in" at the Turtle School from 10 pm until 6 am the next morning.

Meet the Reporters: Sheldon Skenandore

By Shy House
Thunderhawk Times

Hello everyone let me introduce you to Sheldon Skenandore of Oneida Nation High school. Sheldon has been a part of the Oneida Nation school system for most of his life, except for fifth grade where he attended Seymour Elementary. Sheldon says he really enjoys it at Oneida, and that's why he chose to continue his education here rather than somewhere else. He continues to say his grades are moderate, and he tries his best to keep them that way.

Other than school Sheldon likes to go to the movies, the mall, and play video games on his free time. He also likes to spend quality time with his brother Charles, which some can say is his biggest role model and favorite person in his family.

Just like everyone he has his favorite kinds of books and movies that he loves to read and watch. Stephan King is his favorite author, and if you listen to Sheldon speak about him, he'll inspire you to pick up one of Stephan's books yourself. He goes on to tell me more and more about his favorites and an interesting topic soon came after that, FOOD!

Sheldon is a BIG pizza fan; his favorite kind is pepperoni, sausage, cheese, and sometimes black olives. So enthusiastic about it Sheldon says, "Pizza is the BEST!"

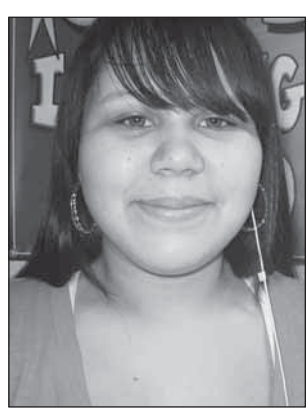
There's a lot more to Sheldon than people seem to realize. Get to know him and you won't be disappointed.

His plans after graduating high school is to go to college.

Meet the New Teacher at ONHS

By Tavia Moore
Thunderhawk Times

Mrs. Danielle Awe is the new Health and Physical Education teacher at Oneida Nation High School. She is also a full-time mother of three beautiful children and a loving wife. She is new to the Oneida Nation School System and loves working for the school. When asked about ONHS, Mrs. Awe said, "I like it better than public schools."



Mrs. Awe lives in Green Bay, Wisc. Her favorite hobbies are reading magazines, eating, and of course exercising. She loves all kinds of music – except for country. Mrs. Awe's favorite sports team is the Green Bay Packers.

Mrs. Awe's hero is her mother. She says she talks to her mother at least eight times a day. Mrs. Awe strives to be as good as she believes her mother to be, and hopes to make her mother proud of her accomplishments. "I'm only half as good and amazing as my mom. Hopefully, someday I can be compared to my mom. She is the best person I know."

Tavia Moore

By Ruby John
Thunderhawk Times

Tavia Moore is a junior at Oneida Nation High School. She has attended ONHS for three years but has been enrolled in the Oneida Nation School System for four years. She lives on the east side of Green Bay with her mom, aunt, cousin, brother, sister, niece, nephew, and her dog, Kayana.

Tavia likes to play basketball and be a "thug" outside of school. She likes to listen to rap, and her favorite artist is French Montana. Tavia's favorite color is purple because, as she says, "It's the color of the Oneida flag."

After high school, Tavia plans to go to Haskell and play basketball. Her favorite sports team is the Miami Heat. Tavia's favorite food is wild rice. She says, "My mom makes the best wild rice. It is my favorite!"

The motto she lives by is "I Ain't Worried About Nothin'."

MAP Testing at ONHS

By Gerald Diamond
Thunderhawk Times

On September 10th, 11th and 12th, Oneida Nation High School students took their MAP tests. MAP tests, which stands for "Measures of Academic Progress" are tests that high school students must take throughout Wisconsin and across the nation. MAP testing consists of three tests: math, reading, and Language Arts. These three tests allow the teachers to know where students' grade levels are in terms of math, reading, and writing.

While most students are in favor of MAP testing, others just want to get back to the regular classes. For example, Vincent Webster said, "Testing shows how much I have improved over the summer on certain things and how much knowledge I have lost." However, one student who wanted to remain anonymous said, "I just want to finish these tests and get back to the classroom."

The teachers are offering an incentive for the students that score high in both their MAP testing and STAR testing (Standardized Testing And Reporting). If a student can score a 12.9 (which stands for the twelfth year and ninth month in school) on their Star test and a 223 on the reading portion of his or her MAP testing, he or she will be eligible to test out of his or her Power Hour class (our Reading Intervention class which consists of a half hour of reading during the school day).

Once a student becomes eligible, than he or she must then take another STAR test and earn another 12.9. If that happens, that student is able to test out of Power Hour.

Mid- Quarter Reports

By Shauna L. Heim
Thunderhawk Times

ONHS sent out students' mid-term report cards on October 3. Some students are not worried about having their grades sent home, while other students say they are nervous to see their grades. These students appeared to be under stress.

The students' parents/guardians will be sent their child's grades through the mail.

Because progress reports were being sent out, students have been trying to stay on top of their work. Vincent Webster said, "It doesn't bother me that much. I feel confident enough about it."

Other students aren't so sure. Sheldon Skenadore said, "I think my grades are alright. I guess we'll see when the progress reports come home."

The First Day of School at ONHS

By Sheldon Skenandore
Thunderhawk Times

On August 26, school started at Oneida Nation High School and at the Turtle School.

The staff and students at ONHS were glad to meet the new ninth graders, and we got to shake hands with them during a hand shake ceremony. That was fun! After shaking hands, we went to our classes, got our locker combinations, and put our school supplies in our lockers.

The staff seemed happy to see the students back on the first day of school. We were going to have a Tobacco Burning on the first day to start off the school year the right way, but it rained on the first and the second days of school.

Thankfully, the weather cleared up and Sonny Hill, one of the Oneida Language and Culture teachers at ONHS, was able to lead our Tobacco Burning on the third day of school.

CURRENT ISSUES

Tribal Court Drops Removal Action for Lack of Clear and Convincing Evidence: People can say many things about others. They can spread lies, often times hurtful lies. There are people who find pleasure in conducting their lives just to do things like that. But in Oneida, on the Oneida Indian Reservation, one must prove their allegations before an elected Official can be removed from Office. In July of this year, a group of Oneidas began circulating a petition calling for my removal based on what they called facts. Fact 1 was that I "Directed" the rescoring of bids; Fact 2 was that I released confidential information; and Fact 3 was that I entered in day-to-day activities in the delivery of wood to a community ceremony; in the directing that an elder be offered help in his quest to get home for dialysis; and for approving that a family with seven children receive funding to get their electricity turned on in early July.

As prescribed by Oneida Law, the Oneida Appeals Commission held a hearing in September on the Removal allegations. The purpose of the Hearing was the opportunity for the Petitioner to prove his allegations (FACTS 1, 2 and 3). He didn't prove anything! None of the Petitioner's witnesses provided any testimony that supported facts 1 and 2. In fact, they provided testimony to the contrary, that I did nothing wrong. Regarding Fact 3, saying that I was entering into day-to-day in my efforts to help our elders, our children and our ceremonial life, I cannot say that I fully understood the proceedings. What the controversy seemed to be, was contradicting provisions of Tribal laws including my Job Description which was created by the General Tribal Council. The Job Descriptions mandates that I be "responsive to the needs of the membership." To me, that means nobody dies, not our children, not our elders, not any Oneida, if I can do something to prevent it!

OCTOBER'S MESSAGE

Anna Mae. "The whole country changed with only a handful of raggedly- ass pilgrims that came over here in the 1950's. And it can take a handful of raggedy-ass Indians to do the same, and I intend to be one of those raggedy-ass Indians." by Anna Mae Aquash Pictou.

Anna Mae was a woman and warrior for Indian people. This woman, often referred to as, "a brave hearted woman" was a Canadian Indian who once said at a gathering on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation, that if she was killed in the struggle to stop the injustices and depredations being committed against Indian people, she wanted to be buried there with the Lakota people she had grown to love. She's buried there now.

In 1973, Anna Mae was one of approximately 100 other Indian "dissidents" who went to the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation at the request of traditional elders of the Oglala Lakota who were tired of the violence and corruption being committed against them by non-Indian rednecks and corrupt tribal officials. This small group of "ragged-ass Indians" made a stand for the entire red race on a hill called Wounded Knee. For three months the world witnessed as these proud, beautiful and unbelievably courageous Indian heroes put their lives on the line for the idea that Indian people deserved and demanded to be treated as human beings and not be stolen from, beaten, raped, and killed like animals. Two of these Indian heroes were killed on that hill before it ended.

After Wounded Knee, many of those heroes were sent to prisons throughout the United States. Others spent years being pursued by the FBI. Anna Mae fled with her 2 young daughters. In the two years after Wounded Knee, Anna Made and other leaders of the American Indian Movement spent much of their time being pursued, arrested, released, and rearrested. As the leadership of AIM became more entrapped and hunted, suspicions and jealousies developed among AIM leadership and soon Anna Mae became a target. Anna Mae had no one to protect her against false accusations of being an informer. She had no extended family, nobody but her two small daughters.

In the late fall of 1975, Anna Mae was held on the first floor of an "AIM house" in Denver, Colorado while AIM leadership discussed her fate and while many others walked in and out of the house knowing what was happening. She was later taken to Rapid City where she was interrogated more and again, this was witnessed by Indians and non-Indians who today seem to walk around with a clear conscience. While being transported through the Pine Ridge Reservation she loved, she was taken out to a ledge and shot in the back of the head like an animal. Holding the gun and giving orders were members of the American Indian Movement. Walking through the AIM headquarters in Denver and Rapid City were prominent members of the American Indian Movement, including Mr. Leonard Peltier. Like Crazy Horse 99 years before her, Anna Mae Aquash was betrayed and murdered by her own people.

How much easier it was to blame others, to blame goons, to blame the FBI, to blame anyone other than members of the race she pledged her life to protect.

EPILOGUE: A year after her death, Anna Mae was reburied in a Lakota Ceremony. As prayers were given next to what remained of her body wrapped in blankets and furs, AIM Leadership drove by but didn't stop. They were on their way to a basketball game. (This article was originally published by myself in November of 2002).

Treasurer's Report

By Cristina Danforth
Oneida Tribal Treasurer

The Finance Department and I are very pleased the FY2014 budget was passed during the September 21, 2013 General Tribal Council meeting. A lot of work goes into producing our yearly budget and all the departments should be proud of the work they completed. Many cuts were made and many areas are forced to figure out how to do more with less. While some may view this as unfortunate, I think it is important we reflect on how much we have grown over the past 25 years or so.

Before the days of gaming we had very little. Jobs were scarce and the jobs we did have were grant funded. To have a home on the reservation meant buying one that was for sale or buying available land and building one, without any help from the Tribe. All our Tribal kids went to neighboring public schools and the biggest highlights in our community were visiting Morgan's Bakery or buying penny candy from Schroeder's Grocery Store. We did have ceremonies and meetings but those too were scarce. Little was publicized; most Tribal communication was done by word of mouth. Those were the days when time seemed to pass more slowly.

Today with all our advancements we have so many things to be thankful for. Not only do we have our own schools for our kids, we have recreation programs, Mobil branded convenience stores, a family fitness center, a program for buying homes on the reservation, jobs, per-capita, services to help with energy payments, a state of the art nursing home, and the list goes on. We certainly have grown into a proud and progressive nation since the earlier days when our ancestors had to fight for everything they got and more often than not, went without.

As you all know, we are considering the support of the Menominee Tribe's endeavor to open an off-reservation casino in Kenosha. The following is an excerpt from a letter written to Governor Scott Walker by the United States Department of the Interior.

"That said, when tribes oppose one another in direct competition for resources, it creates agony for the federal trustee. Thus, we feel compelled to discuss the Forest County Potawatomi Community and the example they provide. The Potawatomi successfully navigated the same process in the same state in 1990. While some commentators have been troubled by the 160-mile distance from the Menominee reservation to Kenosha, we note that the Potawatomi headquarters in Forest County is more than 200 miles from Milwaukee. Decisions like this one are made on a case-by-case basis based on a variety of factors. Admittedly, allowing an off-reservation casino located more than 150 miles from a reservation headquarters might not be appropriate in any other state, but the Forest County determination of 1990 is a very specific precedent for such an action in Wisconsin."

This letter outlines the precedence that was set by the Potawatomi in 1990 for off-reservation casinos and highlights the creation of jobs in the immediate and surrounding areas. With this in mind, we have over 2000 Oneida's that live in the Milwaukee area who could benefit from this project through job creation. The Oneida Business Committee will continue to consider the opportunities that exist with this project.

As we move into the fall season of harvest I hope each of you are blessed with the gifts of Creation.

OBC Forum

Vince DelaRosa
Councilman

During the last month my office has been busy with the daily grind of policy matters and with addressing governing related matters which have needed various levels of attention.

Since financials, and the way we run businesses, are so important I wanted to take some time and talk about some of the issues surrounding these matters. It is my opinion that Oneida Tribal Members expect performance out of our corporations and business enterprises in which they have money invested in. As a fiduciary on your behalf, I believe we owe a level of reasoning and understanding to the membership.

To the credit of the Oneida Business Committee (OBC), we have tried to address these matters in some manner shape or form. However, the Tribe is going to have to look even more closely at these issues over the next few years. We simply must strive to do more and can accomplish this by moving towards a goal that is built around the development of a sustainable and viable community.

Vision Oneida

The OBC has been looking forward to advancing the Vision Oneida Plan and has been working on and supporting the plan. The basic architect, which serve as the elements of the plan, have been the result of over 15 years of work by many Oneidas. That is largely the physical; we are also looking at the economics of the reservation. We are looking at formulating a public conference which will focus on both the physical economic system and the idea of constructing a sustainable economic system.

Enterprises

We have tried to focus locally on the re-tooling of our internal enterprises and I hope we can yield some new benefits from this work next year. I have been concerned for years around a few notable areas such as the performance levels of both the farm and the printing operations. I believe there are some aspects of retail where improvements can be made. We have had many levels of discussions and I want to share a few thoughts on the matter.

We need to look at greater yields per acre on the farm. I'd like to see us upgrade our ability to receive higher yields on crops while adding more buffalo and beef into the marketplace. Honestly, we have spent a fortune on various farmland and farm operations and I know we can do more with what we already have.

Regarding the print shop, we need to figure out how we can stabilize print shop operations to a level where we at least break even. While we need printing as a service to us, we still have to be financially responsible and look at all of our options. We've had offers to merge and sell those operations but what we really need to be focused on is searching for a business model which is stable, long term and not a drain on us financially.

In the retail area, margins are important. Industry players stimulate impulse buys and strategically stock the store to maximize revenues, which we have not done but need to. When I arrived back on the OBC I immediately asked if we could examine a model like QuikTrip so that we may learn and attempt to merge into a different retail model.

It is good to report that the Radisson Hotel operations have stabilized over the last six months. A balance has been struck between our goals to clean up the operation and to modernize all of the rooms in order to maximize the potential profitability.

Although the revenues are down, we are up in profit. New systems, purchasing power and Aimbridge, a prospecting new business in the area, are driving sales and revenue for the hotel. The Green Bay occupancy is down but the revenue per available room is exceeding the performance of the local market. I would note, even the Wingate has improved its rating from 14 to 1 on the Trip Advisor rating scale. Overall, 159 Wingate properties now rate number 2 nationally.

In closing this area of discussion, I also have concerns about other corporations like the Sevens Generations Corporation. There are many things that come to mind, but some of these issues I cannot discuss publicly in this type of forum. Therefore, I will elaborate more at the upcoming GTC meeting on this matter.

I would say for any businesses where we are investing the people's money, an ROI of at least

1. Temporary wage increase for the Internal Services Division Director for assuming responsibilities of the Enterprise Division (Printing and the Farm)

Sponsor: Ed Delgado

Motion by Paul Ninham to approve 15% wage increase for the Internal Services Division Director and that it will be retro-active to the start date, seconded by Vince DelaRosa. Motion carried with two opposed:

Opposed: Melinda J. Danforth, David Jordan

For the record: Vince DelaRosa stated just so the Committee's interest in this particular issue is clear for the membership, we did have a discussion about this matter early on. We had several discussions about the nature of the increase. Obviously a standard here has been 15%, so that's the reason I support this. There have been additional duties and there's a lot of demand from those perspectives of those additional duties. It's not that we just overlooked the fact that we needed to do this or consider it but we just needed to properly follow up and make a final decision and that's what we've done today.

For the record: Melinda J. Danforth stated the request at the table to consider a request to increase an employee's pay for additional duties and given the circumstances and looking at across the board at the responsibilities of all the Division Directors I didn't feel that this increase was needed at this time. I felt that the Director was getting paid appropriately and could incur the additional duties without an increase in pay at this time.

2. Extension of additional duties for Interim Division of Land Management Director, Pat Pelky

Sponsor: Ed Delgado

Motion by David Jordan to extend the additional duties for the Interim Division of Land Management Director for six months and to have the Business Committee come back with recommendations in a work meeting, before that six months is up, seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried unanimously

From 6B/Vince DelaRosa

7 to 10% should be the minimum level of expectation. Any projects we invest in should have a 7 to 10% expected return that is realized and complete before the sale is completed. We have one company where we have a workout structure and we need to define levels of workouts as it relates to the return on the principal investment. We'll have to make sure we realize a return on at least the sale price, not to mention the securing of at least a 7 to 10% ROI on the overall investment prior to the completion of a workout.

Food Hub

One of the big things we need to do, which we have supported in terms of building a sustainable and viable community, is to build a movement around an Oneida Food Hub.

Building a healthy community involves a commitment by all members and stakeholders to actively lend a hand. It starts with our responsibilities to care for our lands, to provide for our families; and it commits us to being a "builder" of a healthy community.

In the past few years, there has been an increasing recognition of food hubs as a way for a group of producers to access local markets for their agricultural production.

The USDA defines a food hub as a business or organization that actively manages the aggregation, distribution and marketing of source identified food products -- to satisfy wholesale, retail and institutional demand. This in short allows for an integrated food system that strengthens a supply chain from farm to plate.

The effects of food hubs can be seen in job creation, in food-related businesses, all the way from producers to consumers. For our community, a Food Hub can raise the visibility and availability of Healthy Foods for our members; build new initiatives to increase the food production, and outlets; job creation for entrepreneurs; and a unified approach to developing a healthy food environment.

The Center for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that one-third of all American children, and one out of two minority children, born in the year 2000 will develop diabetes as a result of poor diet and lack of exercise. If we want to stay ahead of this epidemic, it is imperative that we all work together to build a local nutritional food environment and teach our young about the value of healthy foods.

Oneida Tribe Legislative Business

One of the projects I have been working on for years is the Oneida Small Business Project 2000. There have been several amendments to that law over the years and recently we advanced an amendment to the law which changed the interest rates on the loans. As part of the recent amendments, a complimentary resolution was adopted which set the interest rate at one percent (1%) above the U.S. prime rate. A discussion was held with the Chief Financial Officer who agreed that this interest rate is reasonable and fair. Previously, the interest rate was set at a flat rate of five percent (5%). The new interest rate will apply to all new loans effective on September 12, 2013 which is the same day the amendments to the Law went into effect.

State of Wisconsin Business

There was a unique meeting of the Special Committee on State-Tribal Relations scheduled for September 26, 2013 at the State Capitol in Madison. This committee has been reviewing the subject of Public Law 280 and the possibility of developing a process, in Wisconsin, to retrocede to the federal government the jurisdiction that law conferred.

Because of the complexity of this topic and the potential impact retrocession of P.L. 280 jurisdiction could have on tribal, state, and local governments, this special meeting was scheduled. I will post an article on the results of that meeting.

Thank you for reading my article. For any follow-ups, please contact my assistant Mrs. Cathy Bachhuber at cbachhub@oneidanation.org or 920-869-4426.

Medicaid recipients losing coverage to get letter

By Scott Bauer
Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ BadgerCare recipients who make too much money to remain in the program next year will receive letters this week from Gov. Scott Walker's administration letting them know that their coverage is about to end and that they can shop for insurance through the new online exchange.

The letters are being sent to more than 56,000 households where one or more person is expected to lose their coverage at the end of the year, although those who are getting kicked off won't get the final notice until December.

Ultimately, about 92,000 people are expected to lose Medicaid coverage and instead have to shop for federally subsidized private insurance through the exchange, or marketplace. The enrollment period for that begins on Oct. 1, with coverage starting in January.

Walker proposed, and the Republican Legislature earlier this year approved, new income limits that restrict BadgerCare coverage to adults earning less than 100 percent of poverty. That is $11,500 for an individual or $23,550 for a family of four. Until the change, adults earning up to 200 percent of poverty were eligible.

Walker rejected federal money under President Barack Obama's health care overhaul law to pay for coverage those who earn up to 138 percent of poverty. However, Walker's budget did provide additional money to eliminate a waiting list for Medicaid coverage for childless adults who earn less than 100 percent of poverty. That is expected to add about 82,000 people to the program.

The changes in Wisconsin do not affect pregnant women and those who are elderly, blind or disabled.

Democratic U.S. Sen. Tammy Baldwin, who supports the federal overhaul law, sent Walker a letter Monday calling on him to do more to communicate with those who face losing Medicaid coverage.

"Surely receiving your communication will create uncertainty, confusion, and anxiety for these families," Baldwin wrote Walker. She asked him to engage in more personal and direct follow-up with those affected, including placing phone calls and partnering with local governments and organizations that can help those affected.

Walker's letter will be sent in in five batches, one per day this week. It is going to 56,552 households, but more than one person at each address may lose coverage, according to Department of Health Services spokeswoman Stephanie Smiley.

The letter says that another communication will be coming in December letting them know who exactly in their household is affected and how their eligibility will change. Those losing coverage they must apply for insurance through the marketplace by Dec. 15.

Waiting until December for a personalized notice that someone is losing coverage is not soon enough, Baldwin said.

On Sunday, the Wisconsin Counties Association passed a resolution renewing its support for the state accepting federal money to pay covering those who earn up to 138 percent of poverty. Walker has steadfastly refused to reconsider his approach, which the Legislature endorsed, rejecting that money and reducing Medicaid eligibility to 100 percent of poverty. Walker has been an outspoken advocate for repealing the entire Affordable Care Act.

Schreiber Charity Golf supports mental health needs for children

GREEN BAY, Wis. – American Foundation of Counseling Services (AFCS) was selected as one of the recipients for this year's Schreiber Charity Golf Classic that was held on Monday, July 29, 2013. Proceeds benefit children in the Green Bay community by expanding capacity to better meet the rising demand for child mental health services.

One in five children has a mental health disorder. If not treated early, it can lead to children having difficulty with an ability to focus, concentrate and learn in school, difficulty relating to peers, as well as other challenging behaviors that can lead to more significant mental health disorders when the child is older.

Green Bay public schools staff report more serious mental health problems in an increased number of students at younger ages. Left untreated, the educational progress of a student can be disrupted and the progress of other students in the class can also be negatively impacted.

Diagnosing and treating mental health issues at an early age can make an enormous difference in a child's life. Untreated mental illness can be costly to families, healthcare systems and the community.

Funding from the 2013 Schreiber Charity Golf Classic will support the Children's Outpatient Resource Expansion (CORE) Program by building AFCS's capacity to serve more children, as well as improve access to service for both insured and un/underinsured children. Specifically, the funding will support the addition of two child therapists and allow an additional 300-400 children to be served each year.

About AFCS

American Foundation of Counseling Services was established in 1965 by George Kress and Norman Vincent Peale. Today, AFCS provides outpatient counseling to individuals, regardless of their insurance coverage or ability to pay. The organization is also a state-licensed child placing agency, providing intensive out of home placement for children that have been a victim of abuse or neglect or who have delinquency issues. AFCS also offers organizational development services to the greater Green Bay area – to both businesses and the faith community. To learn more about AFCS, visit www.americanfoundationonline.com or contact Bob Johnson at (920) 437-8256.

Gov't shutdown forces Tribe to pinch pennies

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks
nwisnes@oneidanation.org

The federal government shutdown is now in its third week, and the Oneida Tribe is starting to feel the effects. Without a timely resolution grant funded tribal employees will be laid-off.

After $19.5 million in funding was not received from Indian Health Services the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) along with the Oneida Comprehensive Health Division took emergency action on October 3 to make procedural changes to the Oneida Community Health Center that allow the clinic to serve the community for a longer period of time.

Oneida Community Health Center Operations Director Debbie Danforth explained how contract health services have changed for the interim.

"At this point, any service or surgery that is elective is not being covered. This means that all referrals for care must meet the requirement of 1A as defined by Indian Health Service. Priority 1A means a referral must meet the following criteria: Threat to life, limb senses (which) diagnosis and treatment of injuries or conditions that, if left untreated, results in uncertain/potentially grave outcomes," said Debbie Danforth.

Oneida citizen Kathryn Newbanks suffers from multiple ailments and utilizes contract health and the Oneida pharmacy.

"They're playing with our health, they're playing with our lives. This government shutdown ultimately is going to mean that I am going to be living in pain," said Newbanks. "The only way I can get help or services concerning my heart is to have crushing chest pain and be rushed to the hospital."

With a shutdown resolution unclear leadership is examining if more changes to services need to be made.

"At this point, we are looking at where other potential cuts could be made within the Division and are determining which services are considered essential and which are considered non-essential. But no formal decision has been made. Our recommendations would be submitted to the Business Committee for final review and approval," said Debbie Danforth.

Debbie Danforth urges community members who utilize Indian Health Services as their health care provider to take a step back and evaluate if that's their best option.

"I think the main point would be to stress the need in the future for community members to obtain insurance coverage for situations like these when there is no Contract Health Service. With the Affordable Care Act, people will have greater access to affordable care and they should be encouraged to take advantage of the opportunity to purchase insurance coverage," added Debbie Danforth.

With the uncertainty and fluidity of the government shutdown the OBC passed a cost containment resolution on October 9.

"The cost containment resolution basically mirrors what we've done in the past. Limit travel, hold off hiring positions, and we're going delay wage increase until (January). It all relates to cash going out the window," said OBC Councilmember Melinda Danforth.

The General Tribal Council passed the $.44 wage increase during the tribe's budget meeting last month. The plan is to put the raise into effect in January with pay dated back to October.

Melinda Danforth said the difficult decisions are being made with the tribe's best interests in mind.

"The committee knows that the health clinic is a priority but we want to make sure we are providing essential services to the community. We have to squeeze tight for a while until this craziness by the federal government is concluded," said Melinda Danforth.

The cut-off funding's impact is being felt especially hard after the tribe paid out millions in per capita and higher education funding last month which depleted the tribe's available cash.

Inside the cost containment resolution is language that will trigger a lay-off process starting November 8 for grant funded employees and the suspension of grant funded-programs. A furlough policy was also approved to implement if unpaid time off by employees is needed to relieve financial pressure on the organization.

The Oneida Community Health Center isn't the only area feeling the pressure from the shutdown.

Oneida Transit, effective October 13, has transportation services limited to medical, employment, education, and elders while cutting their service hours to 14 hours per day. They no longer will provide social transportation until further notice and limited transportation for social events.

Food Distribution, effective October 2, no longer offers perishable foods and canned goods are being distributed while supply is in stock.

According to Chief Financial Officer Larry Barton even if a deal is struck soon relief will take some time be felt.

"The (cost containment) resolution will remain in effect until cash flow has been stabilized upon a resolve to the shutdown," said Barton. "We may experience a several month lag to receive federal dollars."

With strict saving methods along with responsible debt management the tribe has built a contingency fund valued at $14 million. Approval to use the fund to offset not received federal grants can be approved by the OBC.

"We encourage tribal members to contact their congressional delegates from Wisconsin and tell them how they are being impacted personally. It's a shame that the people that need it the most are being affected," said Melinda Danforth.

Dear Tribal Member,

The U.S government's partial shutdown that began on October 1, 2013 is a serious matter for the Oneida Tribe. The Oneida Tribe is preparing its strategy to deal with the impact from the lapse in federal funding for services we provide to Tribal members.

Tribal programs that rely on federal dollars and tribal contribution will be impacted in various degrees. We are working with the Tribal programs and various federal agencies to ensure our programs and services continue to operate during the shutdown.

In the event that the shutdown continues, the Oneida Business Committee adopted cost containment measures and approved an emergency Furlough Policy. We hope the U.S. Government shutdown will end soon and no additional cost containment measures will be needed.

The Business Committee and division directors are closely monitoring the shutdown and will communicate new developments to keep Tribal members informed about the shutdown and its impact on the Tribe.

Sincerely,
Chairman Ed Delgado,
Oneida Business Committee

Schneider settles into new role

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks
tcottrel@oneidanation.org

The Oneida Nation offers a variety of services designated to helping Oneida youth reach their full potential. Acting as the hub between these efforts is Community Prevention and Intervention Coordinator, Mandy Schneider.

"The objective of my position is to first and foremost establish collaborations between services on the Reservation. Get everyone talking with each other, communicating. There are a lot of prevention efforts already going on, but getting those efforts together so everyone knows what everyone else is doing. Rather than six different places working on the same thing and no one knows," Schneider said.

In addition to coordinating services Schneider goes into schools to speak with Oneida students; visiting the Oneida Tribal School, Southwest, Seymour, and West De Pere school districts thus far.

"We work on getting the youth voice heard in the community again. Getting them talking and having them tell me what is bothering them and start working through prevention and intervention that way. I've been pulling together different topics for us to talk about; we talk about everything from drugs and alcohol, to relationships, all the way to things such as self-esteem and self-confidence," Schneider said.

Schneider

For Schneider a vital topic of discussions with students is to establish a mindset that it is okay to make your own decisions. Although some youth may have been or presently are living in negative spaces they have the power to make positive choices.

"One of my favorite things to do is either send a letter or make a phone call and let parents know how fantastic their kids are doing. Which is nice because we do have some great kids in Oneida," Schneider added.

When Schneider started as the Community Prevention and Intervention Coordinator it was necessary to rebuild a team Community Action Team (CAT) dedicated to Oneida youth.

"When I first started Officer Matt Ninham gave me list of community members that were passionate about intervention and prevention in the community and stopping at risk behaviors in youth. From there we established our Community Action Team and there are about 11 members who show up and contribute regularly," said Schneider.

Having previously worked at the Boys and Girls Club of Green Bay and the Oneida Recreation Schneider is no stranger to working with youth of the community. In fact she believes there needs to be a change in disciplinary measures. Instead of kicking youth out of community areas there should be an effort to find what's wrong, and keep them within the program.

"There is really nowhere right here on the reservation where kids can go 24/7 to get help if they need help. So that is something we are trying to develop and get off the ground soon. Hopefully someplace where kids can find me anytime they need to," Schneider said.

Veterans Wall gets new landscaping

The Oneida Veterans Memorial Wall received some updated landscaping on October 10th. The project included the removal of previous landscaping and the planting of new greenery that is self-maintaining. Oneida Veterans, Oneida Tourism, Department of Public Works, Conservation, and Oneida Nation students helped complete the facelift.

Thank You...

On behalf of the Salzman Family we would like to give a very special thanks to all of Kemewans's family and friends for all the support and kindness during this very rough time. There are so many people to thank without writing a book, but I, Thomas (Pops), would like to thank a few. First to Julie Denny from Enrollments who was very comforting in our time of sorrow and for being there when my family needed her, a big thank you to Julie. And to Enrollments and DPW for the contribution and a big thank you as well. To Jason Denny, Kamewan's baseball buddy, who was there every night attending the fire while my family tried to get some rest, Sheena Danforth for doing a lot of organizing and a lot of running around for us, to Sonny and Artley and the Longhouse Family for doing a great job being short-handed. And to the community for all of their contributions of food, etc., and to Rita and the ladies that helped set up, serve, and clean up Parish Hall. To Dana for the help with the fire and the Memorial Lacrosse (Creator's Game), to all of our fire keepers, to Bruce for hauling wood and garbage for us, to Star and Mikey for the generous gift and for the other gifts that were given to Kamewan's brothers and myself, the beautiful ribbon shirt that was made for Kamewan from Bridget and Gina and for the moccasins and medicine pouch that Breezy made for Kamewan, to Rollie for the opening and closing prayers for the fire. We would like to Thank All of You Very Much. Finally, to my dear sister Louette for all that she did, the use of her home, taking all of the phone calls, and getting done what needed to be done, and for just being by my side when I needed her the most. I couldn't have done it without you. The boys and I Thank You Very, Very, Very Much, Sis. Again a big thank you to all of Kamewan's great friends and family for everything so very much, Kamewan will be missed, so always keep him in your hearts. And our family will always remember with deep gratitude everyone's comforting expressions of sympathy.

Our Deepest Apologies if we left anyone out.

I'm Not Gone

By Sheila Pearce

Don't cry for me, for now I am free.
Just look around anywhere, and that is where I'll be.
I am the daylight when the sun starts to rise.
I'm the bright rainbow, you see with your eyes.

I'm the raindrop's that sprinkle in the wind.
I'll always be with you, for there really is no end.
I'm the dew on the ground, and the quietness all around.
Yes, I am so happy with this new life I have found.

I'm the peaceful summer breeze that flows softly through the trees.
I'm the bluebird in the sky, that sings with such ease.

I am so happy, so happy to be free.
To my family and my friends, please don't cry for me

Fondly remembered, dearly missed by sister Carol, niece Alison, the Torres clan & her many friends

Gov't shutdown discussed at Oct. 9 OBC meeting

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks
dwalschi@oneidanation.org

The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) postponed a November 17 General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting and two construction projects due to the anticipated budget impacts of the ongoing federal shutdown at the October 9 OBC meeting.

The OBC postponed a GTC meeting that had been scheduled for November 17 due to concerns that federal shutdown might continue past October 31 and/or that there will be delays in getting funding for tribal programs such as health care when the government reopens. Chairman Ed Delgado hoped cancelling the meeting would allow the Radisson to rebook the room.

"We do have financial flow concerns," said Delgado. Secretary Patty Hoeft concurred with the Chairman.

"That will save us a quarter of a million dollars in spending right now," said Hoeft referring to meeting expenses and the $100 meeting stipend paid to attendees.

The OBC also hoped to save money by tabling approval for funds to refurbish the new Oneida Judiciary Center and demolish four buildings. Oneida citizens Mark Powless and Loretta Metoxen spoke out against tearing down the old Tribal Building at Chicago Corners due to its historic nature. Metoxen cited a tribal law protecting historic buildings that hasn't been followed, causing the old home of the OBC to fall into disrepair.

"We're not good at maintaining our old buildings, but we're sure good at tearing them down," said Metoxen.

During the reports, the OBC questioned Oneida Housing Authority (OHA) Interim Director Scott Denny about five elder duplexes that have faced numerous delays. Councilman Vince DelaRosa stated the three year construction schedule was unacceptable.

"These are five houses that have taken multiple years to build, this is a national disgrace for us," said DelaRosa.

Denny stated OHA had changed its bid process to attract more bidders, which in the past had delayed construction projects due to the federal and tribal requirement to receive at least three bids. Councilman Brandon Stevens noted it was a problem.

"We only get one bid sometimes. They have to go back and solicit more bids when nobody wants to bid on a project because we had a history of the last three to four years of only selecting only Oneida vendors," said Stevens.

Delgado also raised concerns over gang activity in the housing sites.

"We have a major problem," said Delgado. He noted that the Lac du Flambeau Housing Authority bans non-tribal citizens who are known gang members from their reservation.

Denny stated that gangs are a wider problem than his department.

"They're not a Housing Authority problem, it's a community problem, and it needs a community solution, and as a Housing Authority and the nature of what we bring to the table then we need to be at that table as part of that community solution," said Denny.

Oneida Tribal Cemetery can't rest in peace

By Dawn Walschinski

dwalschi@oneidanation.org

A decision made at an emotional time continues to impact the Oneida Tribal Cemetery; namely, the decision to locate the burial grounds at the site on Adams Road.

According to former Oneida Business Committee (OBC) Secretary Julie Barton, the committee and the Oneida community had been discussing establishing a burial ground starting in the 1980's. A couple of sites had been identified for the cemetery, including land located on high ground near St. Joseph's in Oneida.

"Meanwhile a baby died and our treasurer at the time decided that that baby could be buried (at the Adams Drive cemetery site) because there were no funds available for that family, and it took off from there," said Barton.

The Oneida Tribal Cemetery was established in 2000 without a formal plan. Burials continued to occur until it became clear that the water table at that site was too high.

"Soon we had one person, and then another … and it wasn't ever ready," said Barton.

Barton feels responsible for the cemetery in part because she served on the now defunct Oneida Cemetery Board, but also because her grandson Jason Peters is buried there.

"It's been an emotional experience for all of us in the family because my grandson's out there and things haven't been working out with the water issue," she said.

The Sustain Oneida Summit: Participant Responses preserve who we are SUSTAIN ONEIDA

By Oneida Trust & Enrollment Committee

This article will provide a recap of participants' reactions to the Sustain Oneida Summit which was held Saturday September 7, 2013. Participant responses were collected during the Summit's small group discussions and World Café table topics. The Sustain Oneida team has recently reviewed the data that has come out of the Summit. After reading every response for each question, the data was organized into the most frequently occurring themes, which we will share here.

During the morning, participants gathered into small groups to discuss questions centered around what it means to be Oneida. A facilitator captured each small group's responses on a flipchart which were later shared with the larger group. In true Oneida fashion, the small groups shared stories, and there was a good amount of laughter and joking around the room. Many Oneida pride themselves on their sense of humor and this approach helped participant's discuss what were sometimes challenging questions. The most common responses to each small group discussion question are summarized by topic in Graph 1 to the right.

The afternoon was organized around a "World Café" style discussion with stations set up around the room with different topics relevant to the concept of belonging. Elders were paired up with youth so that the generations could come together to discuss their ideas. At each station, participants captured what their answers "looked" like on large sheets of paper. The artwork was then hung up on the wall and discussed. The most common responses to the World Café poster questions are summarized by topic in Graph 2 to the right.

At the end of the Summit, participants provided feedback on questionnaire cards. Several people stated how surprised they were at how peaceful and civil the conversations were given how divisive the topic of belonging, blood and identity can be. People noted their appreciation at having a safe and friendly the environment to begin these conversations.

The Sustain Oneida team is grateful to the community for attending the event and sharing their stories and comments. The information that came out of this Summit will be used for a variety of planning measures such as creating future agendas; continuing the discussions about Oneida citizenship and belonging; and identifying where to go from here.

Yaw^ko to all who attended the Sustain Oneida Summit and we hope to see you again at future events!

Insurance Solutions offers coverage options

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks
tcottrel@oneidanation.org

The world of health care coverage may be a shifting, confusing one, but insurance agent Melanie Jorgenson is available to decipher the details and find a solution fitted to your needs.

Jorgenson has been working as an independent insurance agent for Insurance Solutions–WI for just over a year.

"The hardest part for most people is trying to understand all of the specifics of insurance. Especially now with this national shift in health care. I think it's a benefit coming into the business as the whole Obama Care is starting to take place because people are going to need information," Jorgenson said.

Helping clients transition into new health care systems is an aspect of Insurance Solutions that is spearheaded by Jorgenson.

Jorgenson is not alone at the business; she operates alongside her mother, Tricia Jorgenson, who focuses most of her business attention towards the care and coverage of seniors.

"I also enjoy the Medicare side of the business because I have a resource, my mother, that has been here for many years. So if I have questions or if I feel like I don't have enough knowledge, I can always ask my mom, and she's someone I feel comfortable asking," said Jorgenson.

Although becoming an insurance agent was not something that always interested Jorgenson, being able to help Tribal people was.

"My main motivation to even start getting into insurance was that I always wanted to work with Tribal people. And so when I began working with Insurance Solutions last year we found that Tribal people are not as informed about insurance as we should be, especially the Medicare market," Jorgenson said.

Those in Oneida are fortunate enough to have entities such as the Oneida Health Center, Contract Health, and Employee Benefits to fall back on or provide assistance when needed. However, those services may benefit from other coverage, such as Medicare.

Melanie Jorgenson

"Yes, we have the Health Center and Contract Health and you think that is all you need. But there are other things people can apply for that bring benefits back to the Health Center, that bring money back to the Health Center, but people just aren't aware of these options," Jorgenson said.

If you are interested in insurance coverage or would like to inquire about what is available contact Melanie Jorgenson at Insurance Solutions-WI at (920) 857-9276. Their office is located at 1566 W. Mason St, Green Bay in the Beacon Center (behind Starbucks coffee shop).

Holiday Budgeting Tips

By Dianne Zubella
Bay Bank

'Tis the season for holiday shopping. Presents, family meals and decorations all put a strain on your wallet. Creating a holiday budget and sticking to it can help keep you on track. Here are some budgeting tips for the business shopping season of the year.

Don't just budget; track your spending, too!

While setting a budget is a good first step, it won't help you save money in the long run if you don't track your spending to see if you stuck with the original budget. List your spending categories, such as gifts (be sure to list them), decorations, holiday cards, gift wrapping supplies, etc. Set practical spending goals for each of these categories, and then be sure to track how much you actually spend.

Get the inside track for sales

You can get access to special deals and sales by following retailers on social media. Whether you use Facebook, Twitter or simply subscribe to an email newsletter, many retailers will thank you for your loyalty with discounts and coupons that are not offered to the general public.

Avoid impulse buys

Holiday sales can be especially tempting (Black Friday and Cyber Monday for example), but the fantastic deals on these days can also lead to impulse buys. If an item isn't on the list of planned purchases from your budget, wait at least 24 hours. After you've slept on it, if you still want the unplanned item, see if you can work it into the budget without straining your other financial obligations.

Save your budget for next year

After the holidays, don't throw away this year's holiday budget. Save it and use it as a model for next year's shopping. Make notes of where you deviated from the original budget, so that next year's is more accurate. You can also use the gift lists from year to year. If you know well in advance what items you want to buy, you can shop for them during the season when they're cheapest, rather than during the holidays.

Flu shots mark cold weather return

Meditative Mindfulness

Our Western culture and way of being is often based in living a fast paced, multi-tasking, goal oriented way of life. Too often, we measure our success and place value on the fact that we are driven and defined by how much we accomplish, how quickly we can move from one situation to the next. Many times we have moved and lived in such a fast paced way, we often do not take the time to savor the moment or to tap into our feelings because we base ourselves in a way of being "by doing".

Have you ever found yourself saying "I wish had more time to enjoy... or There was so much to today….I do not know where all the time went or what I really accomplished? Do you find yourself saying "I really need to but…

Mindfulness simply put is a way of being through awareness physical, emotional and spiritual selves without judging and reacting. It is a way of being able to be in our truth and to experience our authenticity without hesitation, fear or regret.

It is a way of learning to exercise presence in everything and everyone we are connected to.

Please bring with you a pillow or something comfortable for you to sit on. Floor and chair seating will be available.

Improve your job hunting results

ONCEC Offers How to Become a Stand Out Applicant Workshop

Are you looking for a job? It can be quite depressing sending out dozens or even hundreds of resumes only to be turned down or get no response. You may be wondering why you are not getting the results you expected. Today looking for a job is a job in and of itself. Hiring managers are being very choosy about who they hire because they are swamped with applications. The competition is very strong because there is so much talent available in the job market. To make things worse, the very best jobs are often never even published. Here are some tips that can help improve your results:

Make sure you have a good resume. Your resume should be well organized to make it easy for the person reading it to pick out the details. Your resume briefly states your past job responsibilities and should focus more on accomplishments. If the job you are applying for is greatly different than your past experience, be sure to explicitly highlight why you would be the best choice for the job. Hiring managers may not take the time to figure it out on their own.

Keep in mind that the cover letter is your sales letter to the employer. Do not restate your resume. This is your chance to tell why you would be perfect for the position and sell yourself. Feel free to express your passions, interests and goals. Employers want people that are going to add something to their company. They want people that will fit into their work culture. Don't simply state you have a qualification. Tell the reader the benefits they will gain from hiring you. Once you think you have the perfect resume and cover letter, get feedback. Share it with qualified people, hiring managers and employers that can help you improve.

Don't get lazy. Each resume should be tweaked to fit the specific firm you are applying for, especially the cover letter. Research the firm and find out who they are and what they are about. This is time consuming but it can be the edge that gets you the interview instead of in the circular file. Don't be afraid to create a list of firms and organizations that you would like to work for and learn about them. Contact the firm's hiring manager and ask them what they are looking for in the position you are trying to get. A short conversation may arm you with exactly what you need to get the interview.

Finally, build your network. Talk with people and let them know you are looking for a job. Use social media and build your personal brand. Be especially careful about what you post in your social sites because employers do look at what you say and do on these sites. The more relationships you can build and nurture, the better your opportunities will be to get the right job.

Preparation is the key to success. The Oneida Nation Community Education Center, working with Oneida Human Resources, is offering the How to Become a Stand Out Applicant workshop on October 23, 2013 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. to the community. This workshop will help you to build your resume, fill out online job applications, and prepare yourself for an outstanding interview. The workshop will be held at the Oneida Community Education Center at 2632 South Packerland Drive. For additional details and to register call (920) 496-5260.

Hill appointed to state council

Governor Scott Walker has appointed Norbert Hill, Jr. to the Governor's Council on Workforce Innovation. This federally-mandated entity, under the Workforce Development Act, assists the Governor in developing innovative and dynamic approaches to develop Wisconsin's workforce.

The Council is charged with aiding Wisconsin employers in finding workers they need and providing resources to enable workers to access training for in-demand careers with the ultimate goal of moving Wisconsin's economy forward. Achieving Governor Walker's vision for workforce development requires collaboration between DWD, state agencies, economic development entities, workforce development organizations, and educational institutions to support a robust pipeline that will support private-sector job creators.

The Council will also leverage the strong partnerships that exist within Wisconsin's workforce development system to lay the foundation for continuing enhancements to benefit Wisconsin businesses and workers.

Spooky movie Imprint to show at ONCEC

Oneida Film Society Gets in the Spirit of the Season

Are you excited about Halloween? The Oneida Film Society can help get you into the spirit, or rather ghost of the season. This month's movie, Imprint, is about a young Native American attorney, Shayla Stonefeather that prosecutes a Lakota teen. The high profile lawsuit is a racial bombshell waiting to explode. When the teen is convicted he is killed during an attempted escape. Now the young attorney, played by Tonantzin Carmelo, must deal with the results when she returns to the reservation to see her dying father. As the story unfolds Shalya begins to hear sounds and see ghostly images on the family farm leading her to reevaluate herself and her traditional beliefs she thought she left behind.

The original story was written with a White American family in mind. It was only after a member of the production team questioned why there are so few contemporary films with Native Americans as the focus. The film was retooled to take advantage of the unique culture and spirituality of American Indians. The filming takes place in South Dakota where there are massive ranges and huge herds of buffalo roaming free. The location of the filming is rumored to be haunted, adding another level of spookiness. The entire story is well written and easy to follow. Making it a Native American film added a richness that will keep your interest right to the end.

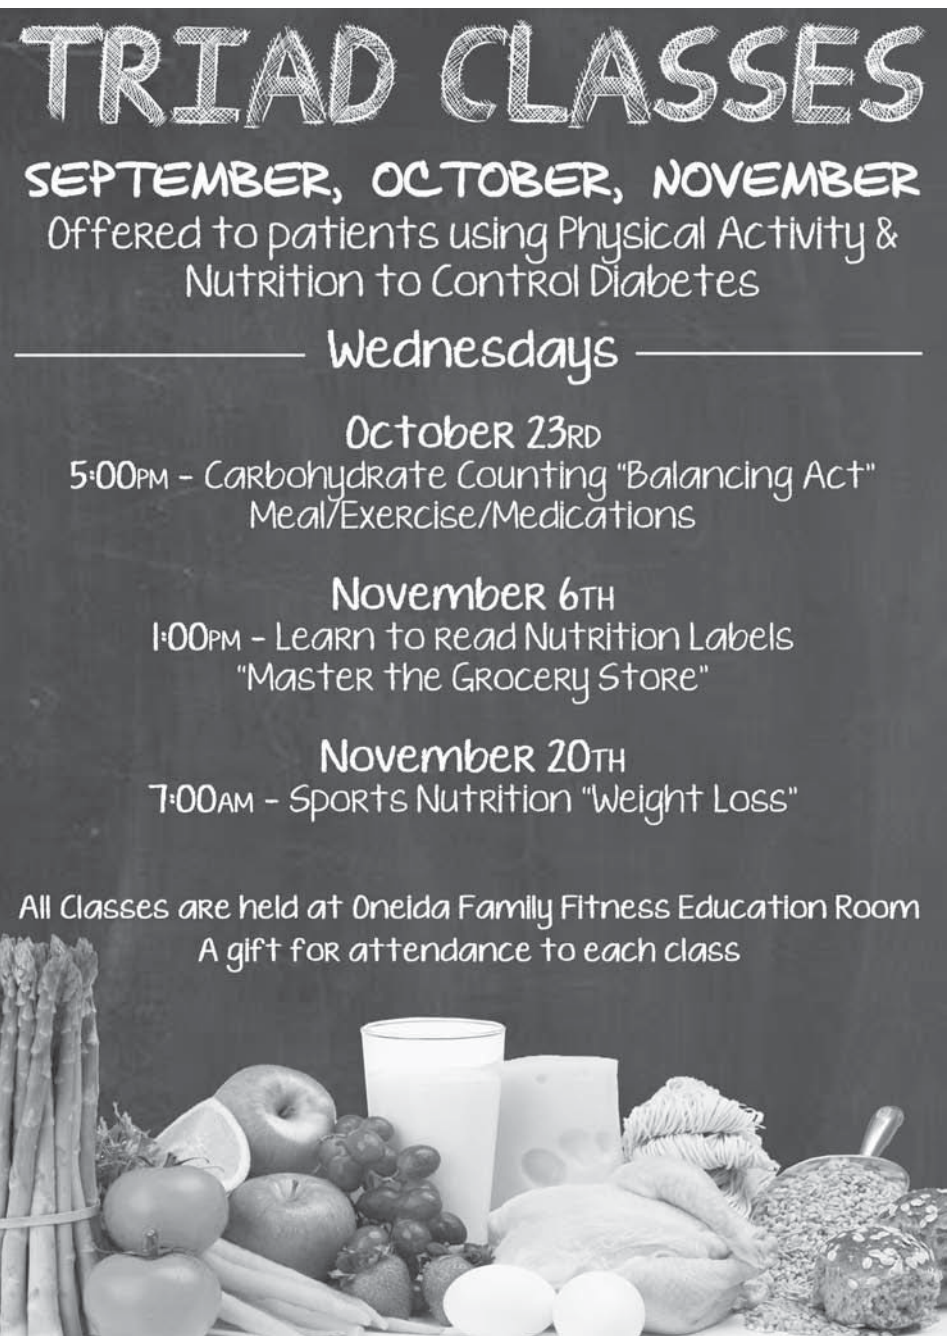
The film showing is free to attend and will be shown at the Oneida Nation Community Education at 2632 South Packerland Drive on Thursday October 24. People can sign in beginning at 4:30 pm with the movie beginning shortly before 5:00 pm. For more information contact Shannon Stone at the Oneida Nation Community Education Center at SStone@OneidaNation.org. Admittance is free but people should register online at http://oneidafilmsociety.eventbrite.com.

Example of Parental Success In Early Childhood Education

The following is a factual perspective of an engaged Oneida living outside of Green Bay relating some of the formative factors in his upbringing that helped him and his siblings become competitive for admission into top level colleges. The three brothers have successfully graduated from ivy league institutions with their youngest sibling currently a pre-med student at Harvard.

Submitted by member of the Cornelius family

Throughout all of our formative years in the home, parental involvement has been the most contributory factor in our education and outlook on life. Looking first at our infant years, starting at one year of age, we were read to daily to improve our development, mental interest, and support our imagination. At the age of three we were taught the alphabet, their sounds, and started reading simple books with lots of rhyming words. My mom would go around the house with a sticky note on her shirt with "the letter of the day", saying, "What's this letter? What does it say?" This started with fifteen minute learning sessions a couple of times a day and increased as we got older. Numbers and easy math were also pushed before we ever started school. By the time we started kindergarten, we could read on a third grade level and knew how to add and subtract.



From there, school was very easy through sixth grade because our parents continued engaging us in the home and kept us ahead of most of our peers. I remember the constant push for learning; for example, my parents would keep a deck of SAT vocabulary words in the car that we would use to play word games such as trying to spell a word or define a word and use it in a sentence, whenever we were coming to or from school or while traveling. We were pushed further ahead in our math and readings, memorizing multiplication tables and finishing increasingly difficult books that required thought such as 1984 and Brave New World. My parents had us explain what we read, chapter by chapter, and questioned us on our thoughts and underlying intent of books.

As we continued into middle school and high school, we were encouraged to take the most challenging classes we could. Our days were structured, and we could not have gotten away with not completing homework or projects. While we did make the occasional B or forbidden C, even in high school, there was an understanding that B's were not good and anything less than an A was immediately turned around with help or tutoring.

The importance of extracurricular activities, such as learning a musical instrument, was tantamount to our academic endeavors and preparation for college applications. That is, we could not have chosen to quit learning piano at a young age, any more easily than we could have chosen to quit learning math and grammar or reading. Sports and community service were added to our schedule as well, which helped give us a strong sense for teamwork and community.

In all things, we were taught from an early age that it was our job to continually improve upon ourselves so we could do good things in life and help others. My parents told us our time mattered and wasting time was never an option. We did have our free time throughout our upbringing, but this recreation was never at the expense of our schooling and work ethic. As we became older and academics became more rigorous, our recreational time became more habitually devoted to our extracurricular activities of music, sports, and community service.

When the time came to apply to colleges, our parents again wanted their children to have as many opportunities as possible. Since we would still be competing for spots in a rigorous and, to our family, unknown space, we applied to several colleges within each "tier" – top, middle, and "safety" schools – based on rankings from Forbes or U.S. News at the time. This strategy paid off for us and with crucial financial help from Oneida and Gates Millennial Scholars Native American Scholarships, we were not as limited geographically or economically in our choice. Due to this, we were able to choose a school based more on our heart and life goals.

Ted, 71 years of age, and Gloria, 69 years of age, have been members of O.F.F. for over 10 years! They utilize Oneida Family Fitness 3-5 times a week and participate in a variety of fitness activities. Gloria spends most of her time swimming laps and taking part in a variety of aquatic classes; while Ted enjoys using the various pieces of cardiovascular equipment, strength machines and the pool. "I like the variety of equipment here; it keeps me from getting bored," Ted explained. Ted and Gloria also participate in the Diabetic Prevention Program education classes and Just Move It Oneida community events.

Maintaining a healthy lifestyle has allowed Ted and Gloria to continue to enjoy their everyday activities. Ted, who recently lost 15 pounds, is able to spend time hiking, canoeing and walking in the woods. Exercise has helped Gloria counter act the effects of fibromyalgia. "I'm getting older, and exercise has allowed me to continue to enjoy knitting, crocheting and spending time with the grandchildren," said Gloria.

Ted and Gloria Hawk advise anyone interested in starting an exercise program to start slow and stick with it.

Tsi?niyukwaliho·tÁ Our Ways CULTURAL HERITAGE

In Honor of US Shutdown: A Historical Perspective

By Josh Gerzetich

Many of the Founding Fathers the original framers of the United States Constitution were influenced by the many Native American Nations of North America, particularly the Lotinuhsyu·ní· (Iroquois) and Kanyantla?kó (the Great Law). Some examples of this influence are listed below:

Benjamin Franklin (1706-1790): Considered by many to be the "First American" is also a signer and major contributor to both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

- 1736 - Began printing Indian treaties (including Lotinuhsyu·ní·). These treaties sold extremely well in the colonies.
- 1744 - Printed and distributed the Treaty of Lancaster in which Thatatálho (He is Entangled) gives his famous advice to the Founding Fathers.
- 1751 - Wrote a letter to his friend James Parker containing the famous, "Ignorant savages" quote.
- 1753 - Witnessed a Lotinuhsyu·ní· Condolence Ceremony.
- 1754 - Began his political career as the Pennsylvania envoy to the Lotinuhsyu·ní·.
- 1754 - Debuts his "Albany Plan of Union." Famous Mohawk, Lotiyaníshu (Chief) Hendrick, addressed the Albany Congress to explain about Kanyantla?kó.
- Became good friends with Conrad Weiser who was adopted by the Mohawks.
- Lotinuhsyu·ní· procedure and protocol used, "the Pennsylvania Commissioners (including Franklin) presented the assembled Indians with a wampum belt, which portrayed the union between the Iroquois and the colonists."

John Hancock (1737-1793): One of the Founding Fathers and considered by many to be a great patriot. He served as President of the Continental Congress and as Governor of Massachusetts.

- 1775 August - The Continental Congress is referred to as the "thirteen fires" by both the Lotinuhsyu·ní· and the colonists. At the opening of Congress the famous Thatatálho quote from 1744 is read. Then a speech is given acknowledging Thatatálho's words and stating that they are teaching the children to follow his advice.
- 1776 April - John Hancock and the Continental Congress send a wampum belt to Lotinuhsyu·ní· communities to show "good intentions" and to "cultivate peace."
- 1776 May - Lotinuhsyu·ní· leaders invited to Philadelphia to watch how the Continental Congress works. Hancock welcomed them as "brothers" and they are given positions of honor.
- 1776 June - The Lotinuhsyu·ní· gave John Hancock an Indian name meaning, "The Great Tree."
- 1776 George Morgan was appointed the first Indian Agent and was instructed by Hancock to create the George Washington Covenant wampum belt. It is given to the Lotinuhsyu·ní· at the Treaty of Fort Stanwix in 1784.

George Washington (1732-1799): First President of the United States. He was also Commander and Chief of the Continental Army and a delegate from Virginia on the Continental Congress.

- General Washington appointed Onʌyote?a·ká· (Oneida) leaders as Generals in the Continental Army.
- 1778- Onʌyote?a·ká· and Tuscarora come to the aid of Washington and the Army at Valley Forge.
- 1783 - Wrote a letter to James Duane an asked for the end of the taking of Indian land and establishing and enforcing a border between Indian lands and the United States.
- 1790 - Non-Intercourse Act signed making it illegal for anyone to make a treaty with an Indian Nation except the federal government. Protects Native nations from land grabs by states and companies.

John Adams (1735-1826): Served as second President of the United States. He was also a delegate to the Continental Congress and the first Vice-President.

- At the Constitutional Convention wrote a pamphlet "Defense of the Constitution." In it he describes the Lotinuhsyu·ní·, calling them "Fifty Families."
- During the Convention he wrote a letter to John Rutledge admiring the liberty that Native Americans enjoy.

John Rutledge (1739-1800): Was a delegate to the Continental Congress. Rutledge was also a Justice on the Supreme Court and the Governor of South Carolina.

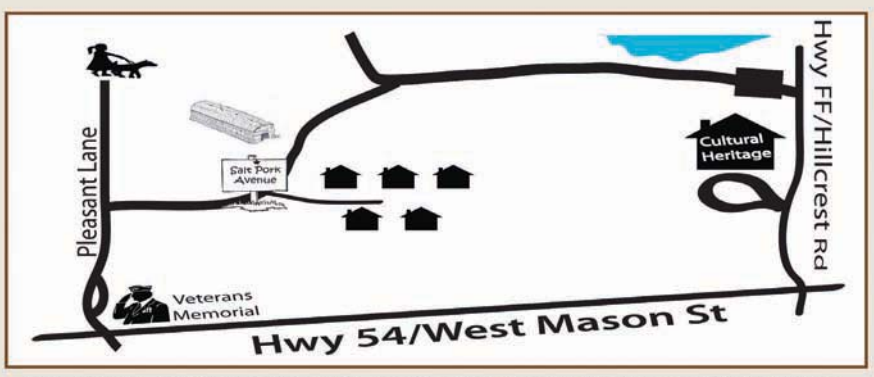
- Opened committee at the Constitutional Convention with a quote attributed to an Lotinuhsyu·ní· Lotiyaníshu from 1520: "We the people, to form a union, to establish peace, equity and order."
- He then asked his fellow delegates to consider a philosophy from American soil.

Lotinuhsyu·ní· - Lo-dee-nah-sue-knee (People of the Longhouse (Iroquois))

Kanyantla?kó - Ga-yant-la-go (The Great Law)

Lotiyaníshu – Lo-dee-yah-knee-shoe (We follow their tracks (Chiefs))

Thatatálho – Ta-da-dah-hoe (He is Entangled)



Onʌyote?a·ká· - Oh-knee-yo-dah-ah-ga (People of the Standing Stone)

Loretta Metoxen,
Oneida Tribal Historian

When I was a young teenager, funerals and burials were conducted differently than they are now.

I remember two of them that I attended. The wake of Angeline Beechtree, wife of Andrew was conducted in their home where the Land Management offices are now. Oneida singing started in the evening and was continued until morning. At midnight, corn soup and other foods and beverages were served. At that time, any persons wishing to give a testimonial about the life of the deceased could do so. Often, it was some statement of all the good works and kindness the deceased showed to her relatives and friends. Sometimes the stories were light hearted and comical. I went to school with their son, Ronald. We all called him Bunnigan. The wake for Harold Schuyler was held at his home also on Freedom Road (First Ridge). I attended Harold's wake as I was a good friend and schoolmate with his daughter, Betty.

The Wake of Tom Baird

Jones Hill told this story to John A. Skenandore: A speech at the wake of Tom Baird (It is not clear if this speech was by Jones Hill). I am not prepared for a speech as I came also in deep sorrow. As one of the closet relatives, I am a first cousin of this departed man. He was of a quiet disposition and has done a lot of good deeds. For instance, he has worked a lot building that stone church which you can just see the top of. You younger generation don't realize how much work has been done building it. All the work we have done on this church is for your good, so you should attend it. Now, I must thank you all for your kindness of coming to this wake, which means respect. A little more about building this stone church: We had many hardships. To start with, we only worked on Mondays. Time came when we had to work every day in the week. We spent so much of our time working on this church that we ran out of provisions at home, but we received meals at the hall, which helped a lot. This man has gone through all these hardships with us, so he worked and earned a peaceful rest. He must have been well satisfied with the world as he reached the age of seventy three years, so we really haven't anything to worry about. Now, we should judge ourselves and compare with his kind ways. He attended well in church and this is all said in his respect.

Another account of Thomas Baird's funeral from Stadler King: Last Thursday the ninth of this month, Duwish Baird (Thomas Baird) died. It was a saddening event and today at ten o'clock, we buried him. There was an immense crowd because he had many friends and because he was a good man. He did much work which was for the good of others, and every Sunday it is certain that he was seen at Church. The custom of the Oneidas is to have a "wake" when someone dies, so at this "wake" they sang songs and some men were chosen to speak, and all these men spoke good of Duwish (Thomas). They said that if any person would travel in the tracks of this man they would find that he travelled on a good straight and righteous road while he was on earth. He lived a long life, it was seventy five years that he was on earth, and now he left his wife and one son still living here on earth.

Wash Body

Joseph Skenandore, or Old Joe, as we called him, came to our house every Sunday. We usually had roast chicken for Sunday dinner and Old Joe liked roast chicken or whatever else we might have. He was also known as Wash Body. I never knew until years later that that is what he did. He washed the bodies of the deceased to prepare them for burial. Some Oneida people still remember his Oneida name: Sakoyatoha'le. He was one of our many Skenandore relatives.

Funerals in Cold Months

The roads were often impassible, especially in the spring when the frost left the ground and the rains came. The roads were difficult to navigate in the winter, also, when the snow drifts were high.

At those times, families sometimes buried their dead at their home place. In particular, babies or victims of some contagious disease, such as smallpox were often cared for in this way. Ben Jordan explained to me that caskets were floated up Oneida Creek on a raft and could be taken off where the creek was nearest the road on the South end of what is now Van Boxtel Road. In winter, the frost would penetrate the ground for three feet or more. That condition would prevent the digging of graves until the spring thaw.

Communicating with the Dead

Mitchel Elm told this story to Ida Blackhawk: I believe that a person can communicate with the dead. Or shall I say I believe in Spiritualism. I am blind and I have been blind for a long time, nearly twenty four years, and I have been living alone ever since. I was in the Northern Woods for several years. One time two white women came and preached to me. They said, "You can talk to the dead". So after they left, I thought I would try to talk to my parents, who were both dead. So I began to think, and while I was thinking about my parents, I began to communicate with them. It is all done in the mind. That was the time I started to believe that a person can talk to the dead. Ever since then I have been communicating with my parents, and so I am not alone. I also communicate with God. He has forgiven me all the sins I have committed. So I am ready to die. It does not make any difference when I go on. I am prepared from day to day for God to call me.

Owls

An owl hooting or screeching three times was an omen that someone in the community would soon pass on. It may be that owls have a similar significance in other Tribes of Indians as well. There is a story written by Margaret Craven "I Heard the Owl Call My Name" about a Tribe from British Columbia in the Northwest.

Messengers

Messengers or fast runners would bring the news throughout the entire Reservation when there was an accident or someone died. They would travel quickly and shout 'owe.he'. Everyone knew what that meant. He would tell the sad news to those hearing him and those folks would pass it on to their neighbors. The church bells would be tolled for the number of years old the deceased was.

> "An owl hooting or screeching three times was an omen that someone in the community would soon pass on."

Nick Denny to Stadler King: I remember that my father used to do that (be a messenger) so when John Jordan died from a tree falling on him he was asked to do that. When they heard him they would gather somewhere along the road until he came and told them who it was.

Cassie Denny told LaFront King: When someone dies, all the people would go around the grave three times and then they would go home. They would all ask to be forgiven.

The Ten Day Feast

Ten day Feast. There are various versions of a "ten day feast" for the deceased. Elizabeth Huff said "The people of olden times often told as to why they always prepared a feast or meal on the tenth day, when anyone of their family or one of the household would die. It is claimed that the dead person's soul or the spirit continuously stayed in the house for that length of time. And if one fails to provide a ten day feast for the dead, this place where this relative has died would be haunted. More so if this dead person was of witchcraft type. This was the way to pay tribute to the one that has gone by. Then when this feast is prepared relatives and friends are invited. A place would be set for the dead person as well as the others and a little of each food that is prepared would be put in the plate. All the people that came for the feast are requested to eat a little of each food from the plate. If no one comes, a plate is set for the dead person. The plate of food is put away, it may be that someone may come the next day, then this food may be given them to eat. If no one comes, the food can be thrown away, as you have done the right thing by cooking up such a feast. It is not often that no one would come when they are invited in this way because this is the time when the belongings of the dead person are given away."

Mrs. Sarah Summers to Ida Blackhawk 7-19-39: Farewell Feast for the Departed. Another custom was a farewell feast for the departed. After a person has been dead ten days, they give a feast. They invite the most intimate friends and relatives of the deceased. They believed that after a person has been dead ten days their spirit will depart away from them. They give the spirit a farewell feast, so they can eat with the spirit of the dead person for the last time, before it leaves them. That is why when they give the feast they place an extra plate with food on it, and no one will sit in the vacant chair because they all know that it was left vacant so the spirit will occupy the place and they are supposed to eat silently. They eat just what the deceased used to like. They call that a farewell feast.

Death by Hanging

There are two renditions of a story about a hanging by decision of the Chiefs in the WPA (Works Progress Administration) Papers. A man killed his three small children. Elizabeth Huff told this to John A. Skenandore: "this man had burned both his knees and he was unable to walk. He had to crawl in the house, using his hands."

His wife left the house for long periods of time to find work to feed the children. Once, when she arrived home, she found her three children dead. The Chiefs were called together and asked to investigate. They found the father in the cellar with the mark of a knife on his throat showing that he had tried to cut his own throat as he had done the children. When the father was brought to be tried, he exclaimed that he could not see his children suffer any longer from starvation. He told them that was the quickest way out of seeing them suffer. He said "I cannot take care of my children anymore and my wife is neglecting or leaving us, so I am anxious that I may soon pass away, too." The law at that time for murder was to be hung and it was done by the Chiefs and so this poor man was condemned to die. The three children died on February 3, 1942 and their father was hung fifteen days later on February 18, 1842.

A man called Train was living with his friend, Big Jacob. Big Jacob awakened Train early one morning and told him to make a fire. Train did that, but was making remarks about Big Jacob because he stayed in bed. Big Jacob's feelings were hurt, he got his gun and shot his friend and then he ran away and left his wife there. None of the officers would volunteer to go after Big Jacob because he had taken his gun. A man named Bread finally caught him. Leaning Body was the Chief at that time and he said to Big Jacob "you know our law for those who commit such a crime. You alone rewarded yourself a hanging by your mistake." He Wore Tassels on Both Sides made arrangements where he was to hang. Big Jacob was brought there sitting on his coffin. A big crowd, including White people, gathered. He Wore Tassels gave the signal for the trap-door to be sprung. He was paid $30.00 for the job. Big Jacob was a Civil War Veteran. He was hung on November 13, 1868.

Today, we no longer have Hereditary Chiefs to guide us in these matters or any other matters. So, we find ourselves groping through life with someone else's laws to abide by—and that is not always satisfactory.

Funerals in Homes

Some families still conduct funeral ceremonies in their homes. The wake of Little Grace Elijah, my grand daughter. who passed away 15 years ago, was held at home. Her funeral took place at the Long House. It seems that the Long House, on Reformatory Road, is not now quite long enough to accommodate all of the mourners who are relatives and friends. She was interred next to her Aunt Julie at the Methodist Cemetery. Her Aunt Julie died at age 11 from the results of a burst appendix. She did not know her Aunt Julie.

My great grandparents, Joseph Fox Skenandore and his wife, Harriet are buried in the Methodist Cemetery, also. They were both born in New York and migrated to Wisconsin as children. Most of the Oneidas who did migrate were Christians, and were members of the Episcopal Church or the Methodist Church. Some were not members of either, but still practiced their traditional ceremonies.

Funerals today can be very expensive. Observations have been made where families often wish the deceased had enough money to live with when they were walking the Earth. I once saw an hour long documentary where embalming the body was not required. Various laws may apply, depending on the state. The video showed several elderly and infirm persons making their own caskets. They were satisfied with the process. The families that were interviewed were satisfied also. I believe this documentary was produced as a result of undertakers over charging for their services.

In the final analysis, no matter how we choose to honor our deceased, the family's wishes should be taken into consideration and the deceased dignified with the ceremonies they requested for their final travel to the Spirit World.

Every Halloween, you can be certain to see a fairly standard set of costumes for sale in costume shops and retailers: cartoon characters, pirates, monsters and usually some sort of Native American costume. Last year, the "Sassy Squaw" children's costume made some waves.

Most people think "What's the big deal? It's just for fun?" Well, it's not a big deal assuming that:

a. Being Native American is a choice
b. Wearing Native American regalia out to the bars is acceptable
c. "Squaw" doesn't mean "Prostitute"
d. Being a Native American is "fun"

Perhaps we should be grateful non-Indians want to be Indians if only for one day. Ok, one to four hours of the day until Trick-or-Treat is done or the bars close. Ah, to walk in their micro-fleece moccasins if only for a little while to escape the humdrum monotony of whatever it is non-Indians do. To take a little vacation from yourself to be something you clearly know nothing about or you wouldn't have picked that costume off the clearance rack.

Ok, yes I'm being "sensitive", and, Creator forbid, "politically correct." I guess it's just jarring. You go 364 days of the year not seeing a black braided wig and faux buckskin dress, and then boom, there it is next to the zombies, witches and vampires that are tops in popularity.

Now, it's said you can judge a person by the company he keeps. Why is this "Indian" surrounding his/herself with the undead? Why does that Indian maiden keep accepting drinks from that devil at the end of the bar? Why does Chief Runs for Beer keep offering to lift his breechcloth for all the sexy ghouls? It's as if they've never been exposed to their cultural beliefs and traditions.

And now we'll have to deal with Disney's Tonto costume complete with fake crow headpiece. Thankfully, that movie bombed like a rain dance joke at a National Congress of America Indians conference (witnessed Governor Tommy Thompson attempt it in 1988 - crickets, man, crickets) so hopefully there won't be too many monochromatic youngsters hitting the town speaking pidgin English. "Me trickem or treat, ugh."

Perhaps education and mutual respect can put an end to these embarrassing costumes and behaviors, or at least stop politicians from telling a tired jest at an all Indian gathering. All that matters right now is we will never have to worry about a sequel to that Johnny Depp led Lone Ranger movie.

1812: The War That Made Wisconsin American Now Open at the Neville Museum

Green Bay, WI—October 7, 2013—1812: The War That Made Wisconsin American returned to the Neville Museum October 5, 2013. Featuring artifacts, interactives and graphics, this exhibit recollects one of America's forgotten wars and shares stories of the Menominee, British, French, Ho-Chunk and American people who fought in this conflict. 1812 is on display from October 5, 2013 through November 10, 2013.

The War of 1812 is often thought of as a sequel to the American Revolution— our second war for independence. Though smaller, the War of 1812 greatly impacted the United States, particularly the region of the old Northwest—including present-day Wisconsin.

Interesting objects from the Neville's collection—banners, medallions, portraits, weapons and personal artifacts—provide powerful connections to the past. In addition, the exhibit includes plenty of hands-on experiences that bring this compelling part of our history to life.

1812: The War That Made Wisconsin American is sponsored by the Byron L. Walter Family Trust, Green Bay Packaging, Schneider National Foundation, and the Cornerstone Foundation of Northeastern Wisconsin.

Thanks also to the K.C. Stock Foundation, David R. Charles Sr. Family Foundation, Inc., the Lux Foundation, Dr. Richard and Ellen Horak, the Norman L. Jensen Trust, the Kaap Charitable Trust, Pomp's Tire Service and the Neville Art Guild for their support.

(Greetings to all)

The fall season is officially upon us and we've scheduled our Fall Clean Up for October 24, 2013. I encourage families who have loved ones buried here to remove all summer decorations and any items which have become faded. As stated in my previous article, there are numerous plots which have plantings out of compliance. Plants need to be planted within the perimeters of the plot dimensions; they cannot be planted behind the monument or adjacent to the monument. We need everyone's cooperation as we strive to keep our tribal cemetery grounds in harmony.

OTIE faces challenge of the Federal Gov't's Movements, and Plans to Continue Growth

In 2013 all federal contractors have been challenged by the federal government sequestration and now the federal government shutdown. The financial reality of continuously shrinking federal budgets and military actions has caused many businesses to re-evaluate their business goals and strategies to adjust to the federal government circumstances affecting industries across the United States.

OTIE is a private company that serves federal government clients. Through the appropriations process, the federal government identifies, prioritizes, and allocates funds for programs or projects that meet the needs of the federal government. Company revenue projections are based on the funding sources allocated to the program or project which is awarded through federal procurement contracts.

For contractors like OTIE whose work comes through contract awards, adjusting company revenue projections and projected expenditures is an ongoing process, so that the company is not operated on a fixed budget. Instead, the OTIE planning process identifies the federal government priorities, funding sources, and then competes to win the contracts.

OTIE makes revenue projections based on federal funding allocations, current awards, and potential awards that are won in the following year(s). This allows OTIE to adjust to the funding source, adjust revenue projections and expenditures, and maintain operations that are sustainable and competitive in the current economy.

OTIE is customer-responsive and will continuously adjust capacity and capability to stay in business and remain competitive in the engineering industry. The company attempts to be part of the solution and will expand its services to resolve the issues and the needs of the federal government. Being able to respond to and adapt to the client's needs is part of OTIE's growth strategy.

An example is the Military Munitions Response Program the government has implemented to clean up unexploded ammunition and ordnance at military bases. In response to this federal need, OTIE has acquired new staff that is recognized by the federal government as being qualified to perform this highly technical work. Another example is the Military Family Housing contract work at U.S. military bases in Japan where American soldiers and workers live and work during their military service.

Another aspect of being responsive to the client and providing the best customer service possible is the location of OTIE offices. OTIE has different office locations throughout the United States. Some of these offices are short-term or long-term depending on the project performance period and contract requirements.

Offices may be located on a military base to be immediately responsive to the client's needs, and other offices may be located near any federal agencies we are currently or potentially working with in close proximity. As a result, the number of offices and locations will change from time to time in response to contract and project needs.

At the local level, some OTIE offices may be required to obtain license and registration in order to perform work. For instance, to be certified as a bona fide office for local construction work, the office is required to have a separate D&B number and sometimes a construction contractor license in that state.

OTIE has proactively addressed the federal contractor issues facing many engineering firms and continues to grow in a struggling economy. OTIE has taken the challenge to continue to build its capability and capacity as demonstrated by recent wins of major contracts with the United States Air Force and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Oneida Total Integrated Enterprises (OTIE) is owned by the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin. OTIE is an engineering, science and construction management.

News Around Wisconsin

Experts question soil under Green Bay bridge

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) – Crews weren't able to rest the Leo Frigo Memorial Bridge's steel structure on sturdy limestone bedrock, which some geologists and engineers say may have contributed to the now-closed Green Bay span's sinking pavement.

Wisconsin highway officials say that's not the case, blaming steel corrosion at ground level as the likely culprit that forced the indefinite closure of the bridge, which carried about 40,000 cars daily over the Fox River. Work starts Monday to reinforce the bridge, but officials say it could be months or longer before it's usable again.

Some experts say underground soil that was sturdy enough to support the bridge when it opened in 1980 might have deteriorated in subsequent years, the Green Bay Press Gazette reported Sunday.

The bridge was built on top of 51 two-legged concrete piers. Each leg is supported underground by about 20 steel beams that extend downward vertically.

Records of soil tests show layers of sand, clay and other materials before limestone bedrock appears about 120 to 130 feet down. The beams beneath the damaged pier reached layers of hardened clay or other material that were judged capable of supporting at least 150 tons - generally to depths of 90 to 115 feet.

"You could have a soft spot," said Bill Kallman, a Michigan-based engineering consultant who has worked on bridges for the New York Department of Transportation. Kallman said he considers that a more likely explanation than corrosion, which he said would have to be widespread in order to affect all the steel beams supporting the damaged pier.

Tom Buchholz, the state's project manager for the bridge investigation, said bridge designers don't require that beams go all the way into bedrock.

Furloughed workers pinching pennies, volunteering

They're experienced research engineers and park rangers still in college, attorneys who enforce environmental regulations and former soldiers who took civilian jobs with the military after coming home from war.

And all of them have one thing in common: They were sent home on unpaid furlough last week after a political standoff between the president and Congress forced a partial shutdown of the federal government. More than 800,000 federal workers were affected at first, though the Pentagon has since recalled most of its idled 350,000 employees.

What these sidelined government employees are doing with their spare time varies as widely as the jobs they perform. Some are tightening their budgets at home, watching what they spend on food and other necessities, fearing it could be weeks before they earn another paycheck. Others are having a tough time keeping their workplace projects shelved and agency emails unread.

While Congress and the White House work on a deal to ensure furloughed workers receive back pay once the shutdown ends, some expenses can't be put off, whether it's replacing a broken furnace for $6,500 or buying diapers for a baby due before the month ends.

Glendale boy becomes youngest black Eagle Scout

GLENDALE, Wis. (AP) – A 12-year-old from Glendale has become the youngest-ever black Eagle Scout in the country.

Seventh grader James Hightower III was honored Saturday in a ceremony at St. Mark AME Church in Milwaukee. WTMJ-TV reports he achieved the distinction by initiating a service project to rebuild decrepit baseball bleachers at a local park. He raised funds for the project and enlisted fellow Scouts to help with construction.

Only 7 percent of Boy Scouts achieve the Eagle Scout rank, and the average age the rank is attained is 17. Hightower says he had to make sacrifices, like giving up video games.

Hightower's parents say they're continually impressed by his drive. The boy says he wants to be an attorney when he grows up.

Wisconsin Senate to vote on property tax cut

By Scott Bauer
Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. (AP) – Gov. Scott Walker's $100 million property tax cut proposal appears poised to easily clear its first hurdles in the Legislature on Tuesday, with the aim of reductions appearing on bills this December.

The Legislature's budget-writing committee scheduled a hearing and vote on the bill Tuesday morning and the Senate was to take it up in the afternoon. Republicans control the Senate 18-15, and Democratic Minority Leader Chris Larson said Monday he expects most Democrats will support the measure.

Once it clears the Senate, the proposal goes to the Assembly which was to take it up Thursday. Walker has said he wants to sign it into law by the end of the week.

While Larson said Democrats generally support the measure, he questioned Walker's timing in releasing the plan just three days after former Trek Bicycle Corp. executive Mary Burke announced she would be running as a Democrat for governor.

Democrats have complained that the proposal is being rushed and that it doesn't amount to much – a $13 reduction for the typical homeowner this year, $20 the next. Even under the cut, property taxes are still projected to increase by $11 – from $2,943 to $2,954 – in two years for the typical home. The actual amount people pay varies widely across the state.

Under the proposal, the $100 million would be funneled through the state aid formula for schools, which are largely funded from the state and local property tax revenue. But without a requisite increasing in schools' spending authority, the money would instead go toward lowering local property taxes.

The tax cut proposal is being taken up the day after Walker's administration released new budget figures that showed Wisconsin ended the 2013 fiscal year in June with a $759 million surplus. That was $89 million more than expected at the time the budget passed.

Walker said that will allow $153.2 million to be deposited into the state's rainy day fund, for a total of $278.5 million.

When the budget passed, the state was projected to have a $545 million shortfall headed into the next state budget that begins midway through 2015. The Legislative Fiscal Bureau was expected to provide an update Tuesday on where that structural deficit stands.

The $89 million more in tax collections, combined with the announcement last week that the state plans to collect an estimated $30 million in taxes from sales to Wisconsin residents by Amazon.com, would more than pay for Walker's property tax proposal.

From 4A/Oneida Tribal Cemetery; Barton wants plan for future

The burial grounds were created in part to address the concern that area church graveyards were beginning to reach their capacity, and often charged higher fees for non-member burials. The goal was to offer a low cost burial option for Oneida citizens as well as create a community burial ground. According to Enrolments Director Cheryl Skolaski, people on and off the reservation have a desire to have their remains interred in Oneida.

"We had a lot of people that wanted to come back here to be buried," she said.

The site had been sectioned into four areas: general public, veterans, Native American Church and Longhouse. However, in 2006 the Oneida Department of Public Works (DPW) realized no more burials could occur there until a study of the water table under the land could be done. The study took two years, and concluded that only the east side of the grounds, the Longhouse section, was suitable for burials.

"The cemetery shrunk, and it shrunk some more and it keeps shrinking, and the water keeps surfacing," said Barton.

After the Oneida Cemetery Storm Water and Ground Water Study was completed in 2008, management of the cemetery was turned over to the Enrollment Department. In 2009 the cemetery was reopened for burials on the east end. According to Grounds Keeping Manager Redmon Danforth, DPW worked on the grounds to mitigate surface water problems.

"They did a major landscaping project to contour the grounds to avert the water to different areas. It hasn't been too much of a problem now," he said.

There continues to be complaints, however. Water pools near the woods in the springtime, graves that were dug in the winter will settle and water will build in the depression, and Barton isn't convinced that the east side is appropriate for burials, stating she saw several inches of water at the bottom of an open grave.

"It's just kind of disheartening that we started out with a beautiful idea and project. The grounds were going to park like," she said. "It's ours and I would like to see it do what it was intended to do, and make sure we take care of our loved ones when they pass on."

Skolaski stated DPW's addressed the settling problem by mounding the graves and re-mounding them as needed.

"We're going to start notifying people that when you purchase a plot, this is what you can expect, and just make them aware of it," she said.

Moving forward, the Enrollment Department is considering contracting a vendor to take care of digging graves and upkeep. DPW management has stated it doesn't have the manpower and resources needed to maintain the grounds, according to Skolaski and Barton.

"DPW doesn't have the equipment and we've asked - we've both asked … for a small excavator," said Skolaski.

Skolaski is also working to update the cemetery law to remove some of the restrictions on who can buy plots. In the original ordinance only tribal citizens could buy a plot, or a spouse could buy for the tribal citizen.

"But grandparents couldn't purchase for their grandchildren (or vice versa), it didn't allow for that. It was very restrictive on who could purchase the plots out there, and very restrictive on who could be buried out there," said Skolaski.

At the Wednesday, October 9 OBC meeting, the council passed an emergency resolution allowing common-law spouses of Oneida citizens to be buried at the Oneida Tribal Cemetery. The resolution is in effect for six months.

Also, with the cemetery cut down to 350 plots, expansion is being looked at.

"There will be enough spaces out there for 40 years," said Skolaski. "We've had an increase in requests for people to be buried out there, so I don't know if that 40 years is accurate."

Ultimately, Barton wants the current grounds to be taken care of, and that plans for the future are made now.

"It's not a political issues, I don't hear any political barriers … so I don't know why it's not getting done," she said.

Employees from Oneida's Department of Public Works (DPW) currently maintain the grounds of the Oneida Tribal Cemetery. The Enrollment Department, which manages the cemetery, is looking into contracting with an outside vendor due to a lack of manpower at DPW. However, Grounds Keeping Manager Redmon Danforth forsees his department continuing its roll in mowing the grounds.

Workforce Development Receives $1.3 Million Dollar Grant to "Build an Oneida Workforce"

The Oneida Human Resources Department - Workforce Development recently received a 5-year, $1.3 million dollar grant through the Administration for Children and Families/Administration for Native Americans (ANA) – Sustainable Employment and Economic Develop Strategies (SEEDS) program.

One of the central goals of ANA grant funding is to support Native communities in their efforts to be economically self-sufficient. In keeping with this goal, the purpose of the SEEDS program is to promote job growth and business development in Native communities that are experiencing challenging economic and employment conditions.

The award will support the "Building an Oneida Workforce" project, which will create a workforce delivery system that supports job growth, reduces unemployment, and promotes self-sufficiency for Oneida community members. This ties directly in with the vision of the Oneida Tribe – A Nation of strong families built on Tsi?niyukwalihotʌ́ (Our Ways) and a strong economy. By offering tribal members the opportunity to become employed in good jobs, we can create those strong families and perpetuate a culture of self-sufficiency.

The project will focus on the: never employed, long term unemployed & underemployed, individuals receiving Temporary Aid to Needy Families (TANF) & other government assistance, and heads of households, with Native American children or descendants.

We believe this group will benefit most from education, job training & mentoring. The income focus will be 133% of the poverty line and below with no other restrictions. The program will help American Indian women and men, of all ages, living on or near the Oneida reservation to improve their economic lives and that of their families by providing them with the training and support necessary to gain permanent employment in a needed industry in our area.

There are two objectives of the program:

- Objective 1: By October 2018, we will build an Oneida workforce by providing classes and training that will increase the knowledge, skill set, employability and earning potential for 180 Oneida community members.
- Objective 2: By October 2018, build both internal and external partnerships with employers and colleges to help 120 program participants obtain FTE positions in the community.

Project participants will commit to taking various training and courses such as Work Certified training, Medical Terminology, Home Health Aide, TrANS, Customer Service training, and Outstanding Applicant training; all courses and trainings necessary for them to become employable. The Workforce Development Department will be contracting with NWTC and CMN to offer courses free of charge to participants while other training will be offered through Workforce Development Staff. It is our belief that this knowledge can also improve self-esteem of the participants and that of their families, and we hope that as their knowledge increases it will help them navigate their way to economic success and sustainability.

To be most successful, we will offer a two-program process; endangered students 16-19 & adults (20-30). Program One will consist of at risk teen parents (16-19), who will be encouraged to remain in school until graduation. Program services will support their H.S. efforts, after which they can enter the adult job program (Program Two).

The goal of Program Two will be to improve family income by addressing educational deficiencies & the generational effect of historical family dependence by:

i. Reducing aid dependence by low income families; through training & educational opportunity
ii. Testing to determine current education level, career aptitude & interest, physical and spatial abilities
iii. Formal Education & training such as GED, computer skills, math skills, literacy/writing, tutoring services educational mentoring.
iv. Life Skills training such skills updating, basic work skills, customer service skills, family economic skills, time management & cultural skills to address self-esteem, responsibility acceptance and independence.
v. Program will seek job & career training & apprenticeship access from local community colleges.

After completion of the project, the Workforce Development Staff will actively work with participants to find full-time employment or enrollment in a local college. Each session of the project will last approximately 5 months and target up to 18 participants. The project will run 2 sessions per year. Through these funds, the Workforce Development Department will also be able to hire a Workforce Development Assistant and two full-time Workforce Development Specialists that will recruit and work with participants throughout the project.

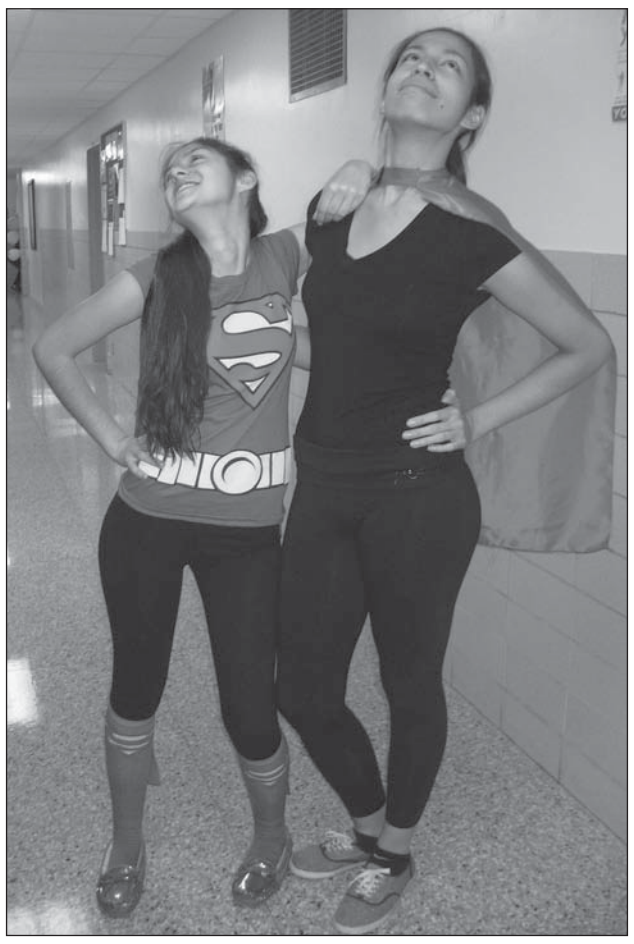
It's Halloween Time!

By Ruby John
Thunderhawk Times

Halloween is coming up soon! That means lots of candy and having a fun and safe time trick-or-treating. Certain cities have different times when trick-or-treating is allowed. Back when my parents were young, kids use to walk around neighborhoods for hours and hours, but now-a-days kids only have three or four hours to trick-or-treat. These are part of the safety rules to make sure that everyone stays safe.

Kids, teens, and some parents will be dressed up for Halloween. People will be dressed up as goblins, ghosts, super heroes, Power Rangers, and many more characters. Don't forget the haunted houses that go on through October! There are many to choose from like the Morgue here in Oneida, Terror on the Fox in Green Bay, or Burial Chambers in Neenah.



13 Nights of Halloween

By Shy House
Thunderhawk Times

Each year around Halloween, The ABC Family Network premiers their annual "13 nights of Halloween" lasting from October 19th through the 31st. This year's lineup looks spooktacular, featuring some of the all –time favorite Halloween movies and shows.

Remember those movies as a child that sent shivers down your spine or that spooked you out? Remember the vampire, werewolf, skeleton, and monsters under your bed? These are movies that we all loved watching but kept us awake and terrified in bed as a child. They are back! Check out these spooktacular movies and shows beginning on October 19th at 8:00/7:00c on ABC Family.

Sweetest Day just another holiday?

By Shy House
Thunderhawk Times

Sweetest Day lands on Saturday, October 19th, this year. It's primarily another Valentine's Day where loved ones are shown some appreciation with gifts. Some people refer to Sweetest Day as a "Hallmark Holiday" or a waste of money, but for others it's another day out of the year to spend with their loved ones.

Some would say that sweetest day is an exciting "non-famous" holiday. Just because it's a holiday doesn't mean loved ones shouldn't be appreciated every other day. So show them some love: pick up a card or some candy and surprise them. More than likely they'll love it! Happy Sweetest Day 2013 everyone!

Student of the month
Byran Halona

By Shy House
Thunderhawk Times

Byran Halona, or "Sugi" as he is called by ONHS students, is one of the Oneida Nation high school's students that were nominated for student of the Month for the month of October. He was nominated by the staff because of his good work ethic and his outstanding grades.

When told about his nomination, Byran was surprised, "I didn't even know that. Wow!"

When asked his opinion on why he received this honor, he said, "I think it's because I work hard, try my best, hand my homework in on time, and I listen to the teachers."

Right after being told that he was student of the month, Byran immediately texted his mother and grandmother about it. "They gotta hear about this. They aren't going to believe it!"

Byran loves Lacrosse and football. His plans for his future include going to college and playing lacrosse at either Madison, Marquette, or Ohio State. Byran is a go-getter; he works hard and he earns everything that he receives. Congratulation, Byran!

Meet the Reporters: Kaylynn Powless

By Shauna L. Heim
Thunderhawk Times

Some people have wondered who Kaylynn Powless really is. Kaylynn is a super senior at Oneida Nation High School. She has been in the Oneida Nation School System since the fifth grade. She lives in Green Bay with her mom and her siblings. Her extra-curricular activity is sewing.

Her grades are great and are usually A's and B's. She likes to be creative with animations. She is single and cherishes sleep. Kaylynn listens to all kinds of music. She explained that she likes all the colors in the rainbow by remarking, "They are pretty."

Kaylynn also said that pizza is her favorite food. She explained, "It's tasty, cheesy, saucy, and outrageously yummy." Scooby-Doo 2 Monsters Unleashed is her favorite movie. "I like that movie because it's weird, funny, and scary."

Even though Kaylynn says, "it's weird", she said her favorite book is Green Eggs and Ham.

Ruby John

By Tavia Moore
Thunderhawk Times

Ruby John is a junior at Oneida Nation High School. She has attended ONHS since freshman year and has been in the Oneida Nation School System since Head Start. Her grades in school are very good, and her favorite classes are any of Carol Johnson's classes because that's her favorite teacher.

When asked for her advice to the lower classmen, Ruby said, "Do well in your classes because it'll help you in the future."

Ruby's family consists of her mom, dad, four brothers, and two sisters. She lives in Oneida with her parents and only one of each of her brothers and sisters.

Her role model was her brother Danny until he passed on, so her mom is now her role model.

Ruby's family also consists of two dogs, one cat, one rabbit, two parakeet, four chickens, one tarantula, two horses, one mini donkey and one fish. "We have so many animals it's crazy!" Ruby said.

Greg Matson
Vice-Chairman

Vice-Chairman's Corner...

Shek'oli Oneida,

Let me start by saying Yawáko for your patience. I have heard that the membership as well as the employee base has been irritated due to lack of clarity on many subjects, I can only speak on a few and I can only speak for myself.

Off Reservation Gaming

This is a very sensitive subject as you all know and I think it requires some serious conversation with the Wisconsin Tribes membership as well as some 'straight talk' with the Tribal Leaders throughout the state. My personal opinion is that we as tribes need to look out for each other and the only way to do that is to collaborate with each other on anything that has to do with the 'Gaming Floor' of an off reservation site. What I mean by that is in order to protect what every tribe in the state has helped in solidifying we all need to separate it from any deal that may be pursued around the 'gaming floor'. For instance, if there is going to be an off reservation site then it should be divided up amongst the various tribes so that there is no chance of benefiting one without the other when it comes to gaming. I realize that this was attempted in the past and I have heard time and time again that there was not success in solidifying unity in the effort. I can only attribute that to possibly a couple of things….lack of vision and lack of understanding the subject. The reason I say that is because as Tribal gaming grew within the state, many of the tribal leaders were overwhelmed with the ability to spend money they had never had before. This resulted in a lack of focus on the future impacts of what is now referred to as 'saturation'… many people from the State Government continue to say that gaming is saturated…. some tribal representatives' say that gaming is saturated… some business owners with illegal gaming machines in their establishments say that the market is saturated and the comments go on and on. But here's a key problem… there are tribal members everywhere, many whom are infants, toddlers, teenagers, and elders that don't have the resources needed to live a safe and productive life. Many times this is a result due to the lack of opportunity, money, or commitment by their leadership to pay attention to detail. The detail will continue to show that there is not enough money to satisfy the need. Let me emphasis there is not enough money to satisfy the needs. So with that said I can only come to one conclusion….we need to improve the economics on each and every reservation in order to offset the burden faced by so many Tribal Families. One way to begin that is to have inclusive conversations with the other tribal governments that do not close doors but rather opens them for all tribes within the state. Some very basic needs have to be discussed that include 'opportunity 'and 'growth 'for tribes in healthcare, housing, jobs, careers, small and large business opportunity etc. in a collaborative way amongst all tribes within the state.

In summary I would say that one way to look at the situation as a whole is by realizing that there is only so much room in gaming for expansion within the state so that means we have to expand the market and opportunities to bring in more people to enjoy all of what Wisconsin and the Tribes have to offer and create more growth in a balanced way.

Tribal Leadership and Tribal Systems of Sustainability

On a similar topic, it is time for the Tribal leaders across the nation to step up and collaborate. We and all other tribes across the country have been faced with the fact that the Federal Government cannot stay in charge of our well-being … it is up to us as Nations. As the 'Facts' and 'History' shows, we as Indian People have been neglected in addressing our 'Trust and Treaty Rights' for hundreds of years and yet we rely on a system that is overwhelmed with obligation to serve all American Citizens. That is not going to happen very soon. So I ask you all to send out a message to all your friends, family, and Tribal Representatives to really begin the process to solidify the economies in their respective communities by supporting each other instead of competing with each other. We have the ability to create a network that will ensure growth and bring positive change to many communities across the country. The number of communities that are relying on the U.S. government to support them is mind blowing. We as Indian Peoples have built relationships with non-tribal people that we can trust and rely on to do the right thing but we need to encourage that to happen more by simply putting the right thing into action. When it can be seen that we are all here to take care of our responsibility to each other through action , it will not only be recognized , it will be supported. I am not going to ever stop hounding the Politicians I come in contact with about the obligations of the United States to our Treaties but I do not want to rely on the politics in Washington DC to dictate our futures. I would ask you "Do you think the Amish communities realize the same effects as everyone else when there is a recession or government shut-down? "

International Peoples Tribunal on Leonard Peltier

I wanted to touch briefly on an event that recently occurred on our reservation. It was the International Peoples Tribunal on Leonard Peltier October 2-4 2013. The whole event happened at the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center and was attended by people from all over the world. It was a unique event of history of the United States that an international tribunal was held on American soil. The goal of the process was to bring an understanding to the world public about the injustices that indigenous peoples have faced throughout the country in regards to unfair treatment and the neglect of human rights for Native Americans. The Leonard Peltier case was referred to many times as a model case of failed policies and inconsistencies of process in dealing with Native American jurisdiction and rights as citizens. There was a panel of well-respected judges put in place to hear the testimonies given by victims and eyewitnesses which will be brought before the World Court in one of the non-partisan countries eligible and it will then be determined at an international level whether or not human rights have been violated. I was able to attend for a few hours throughout the event and it was very disturbing to hear some of the unethical treatment that some of our relatives from other Indian Nations had to endure when the American Indian Movement was trying to stop the criminal activity of sworn officials. The three day event was recorded by national and international reporters and will be assembled into a documentary in the future. I will attempt to keep updates on the progress of the findings in the future.

The listed items are only several of a long list of activities that affect our peoples and communities every day in many ways. I would hope that your understanding of these subjects will increase and that your involvement in our community work will increase the quality of life of our membership and provide a better future for all.

Respectfully,
Greg Matson
Vice Chairman

OBC Forum

Shekoli,

Cost Containment

By now you should have heard that the Tribe is in a cost containment period. This is partially due to the non-receipt of funds from the Federal government due to the shutdown and also the decreased revenues from our gaming operations. Some of the grant money used to fund several of our operations is in a limbo status due to the shutdown and those areas are being affected in both personnel and services that they offer.

Every effort is being made to insure that Tribal business goes on as usual. There are, however, some cutbacks that need to be made so our Tribe can continue to offer services to our members. The Business Committee is working daily on trying to get our operations back to normal as soon as possible.

Employee Wage Increase

During the GTC Meeting in September, I proposed to change the 2.5% across the board increase to a 44 cent per hour increase to everyone employed by the Tribe as of October 1, 2013. The GTC membership passed this request and it was set to go into effect with a late October payment.

Since then, due to the governmental shutdown, we were forced to delay this increase to our employees to a payment date of January 31st or as soon as practicable. The increase will still be effective October 1st; however no payments will be made until January. The Accounting Department will figure the amount of retro-pay each one is to receive and when the go ahead is received to disburse the funds, they will issue the monies along with one of your paychecks.

Apple Fest

After the GTC Meeting on September 21st, I had the opportunity to attend Apple Fest being held at the Orchard and Cultural Heritage. Attendance was better than last year's event and fun was had by all who attended. The Orchard is still open and apples are available for either pick your own or already picked. They are open Wednesday through Sunday. Stop by and enjoy. A big "Thank You" to all that helped to make this event a success.

Anna John Resident Centered Care Community

In early November the elder meal site will be up and running. I have visited this facility several times since it has opened and have talked with the residents about their new surroundings. Everyone seems very pleased with the facility and even though it had a few bugs, these have all been addressed and the new center is continuing to provide service to our elders who are residents there and adding new elders as space allows.

Audits

To clear up confusion, an audit looks at just a sample of what is done in order to see if there is a reliable process, producing good results, at the lowest price possible. The results of the processes are used to see what else could be done to improve the results, make the process more efficient or compliant, or make the results more consistent and fair. The findings usually relate to improving processes through better management controls. The intent is to improve the organization, it processes and the quality of work produced.

An investigation is generally the result of an allegation, suspicion or unusual irregularity. It looks at all results or transactions during a certain period of time trying to identify anything that may have been done wrong. The investigative process tries to determine if there was any wrongdoing by a department, vendor, partner or employee and tries to establish a dollar amount of any crime. To determine if a crime is committed, there must be organizational policies spelling out the expectations, procedures that include internal controls put in place by management, and instructions to employees on how to do their jobs correctly. If there are no policies, procedures or instructions, generally the courts hold the organization accountable for ethical issues, theft or fraud. The organization must "do the right things the right way" in order to hold individuals accountable.

GTC Meeting

On Sunday October 27th at 1:00 p.m. at the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center, the General Tribal Council will be meeting to address some issues that have been submitted to the Tribal Secretary.

One of the agenda items is the Semi-Annual Reports that was tabled back in July due to everyone not having received these reports. By now, everyone should have received a packet for this meeting from the Enrollment Department which contained these reports. Please read these reports, bring them with you, and come to the meeting ready to discuss your concerns, if any.

There are five other items on the agenda for this meeting. Two of those items were referendum questions that were posed to the GTC at the elections held in July 2012. Both were passed by the voting members and they are now brought before you, the GTC, to decide whether or not they should be implemented.

The other three items were brought by petitioner action and those should also be looked at so when each item is brought up you will have an understanding of why the petitioner brought forward the action, what the petitioner is requesting, and the action the petitioner wants from the GTC.

A lot of time and money has been spent on these reports and they were subsequently sent to all eligible enrolled members for your information. One of the reasons the semi-annual reports were tabled back in July was because of non-receipt of these reports. Should by chance you have not received them, please call the Enrollment Department and make sure you current address is on file. They cannot be received if your address is not current.

Again I want to thank you, the general membership, for taking the time to read these articles and as always I am available to meet with you, should you so desire. I can be reached at 869-4482 or you can e-mail me at djordan1@oneidanation.org.

Additions

1. Cultural Heritage: Procedural exception travel for 5 to Kalihw:yo Ceremonies, Sept. 28-Oct. 25, 2013, Nedrow, NY, Alleghany, NY, Ohsweken, ON and Oneida, ON

Sponsor: Don White

Motion by David Jordan to approve the procedural exception for travel for five staff from the Cultural Heritage Department to attend Kaliw:yo Ceremonies, Sept. 28-Oct. 2013, Nedrow, NY, Alleghany, NY, Ohsweken, ON and Oneida, ON, seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried unanimously.

For the record: Tina Danforth stated I do support the project. I do support the cause. I do support the fact that we have people going back and forth between the communities. What I'm not okay with: one, is that a procedural exception is in front of us because that tells me that there wasn't enough planning--this is more of a management issue; two, is that it's three days before the event. Today is the 25th. These people are scheduled to leave on the 28th. Why are we having this one as an add-on, two, three days before the event? I'm not okay with that. I support what is happening. I understand what's happening. I sat with elders in the early 70s in their language program. With Rebecca Ninham, Lloyd Schuyler, Cecilia Danforth, Flora Skenandore. I sat with about seven elders to learn the language. I have a basic foundation and so it's not that I don't understand the need and the crisis that the Tribe is in. I fully understand that and I fully support the efforts to do things around language. But I don't support the manner in which it's being brought in front of us as a procedural exception, three days before the event, and not enough planning and thought going into this project so that it doesn't have to be here like this. I don't think that's taking care of—one, the needs of the program, and two, the needs of the community and us, as a government, having to sit here and make these decisions. I understand what Leander says. I understand what Leander does and I support that. But I don't support the manner in which it continues to come in front of us. Thank you.

Letters & Opinions...

OBC says were Overstaffed

I attended the GTC meeting held on September 21, 2013 and was shocked that after a year's time we are STILL telling our people we are overstaffed. My question is "whose job is it to take care of the problem and why hasn't it been addressed?"

I have been writing letters in the Kalihwisaks trying to explain to the public the CAGE/VAULT DEPARTMENT in the Casino is extremely overstaffed and yet to this date we still have the same amount of management.

Some of you may be tired of hearing me bring this department up but I will not stop until there are changes. Let's take a look at the amount of Front-line Employees VS. Supervisors/ Managers per Shift:

- IMAC - 2 Shifts
  5-6 Cashiers + 1 lead (each shift)
  3 Vault Personnel + 1 lead (each shift)
  3 Supervisors each shift (1 is an Office Supervisor) = Total Supervisors: (7)
  1 Manager + 1 Administrative Assistant
- MAIN - 3 Shifts
  5-6 Cashiers + 1 lead (each shift)
  3 Vault Personnel +1 lead (each shift)
  3-4 Supervisors (1Shift 3, 2nd Shift 4, 3rd shift 4) Total= (10)
  1 Manager + Administrative Assistant
- W. Mason - 3 Shifts
  5-6 Cashiers +1 Lead (each shift)
  1-3 Vault Personnel (each shift)
  3-4 Supervisors (1shift 3, 2nd shift 4, 3rd shift 3) Total-(10)
  1 Manager + 1 Administrative Assistant

FRONT LINE EMPLOYEES: 90 Employees all shifts/locations

All shifts have their own Office Supervisor added into the equation.

Keep in mind the Oneida Tribe pays an extra $2 per hr. for the leads to do paper checks as well and to take the orders to the vault, in case the supervisors are unavailable and yet there are times when the supervisor is making the Cashiers do paper check for errors and running orders.

Span of control (refers to the number of subordinates that can be managed effectively and efficiently by supervisors or managers in an organization), an ideal span of control in an organization, is approximately 15 to 20 subordinates per supervisor or manager. We can even go as low as 5-6 subordinates per supervisor or manager.

The nature of the job as a cashier is quite easy and should not require this amount of Supervisors/Managers for this one department.

The buildings in which these supervisors work in are small enough so that they are able to get to any one of the cashiers for any decision making or help to the customers or employees.

What COMPANY pays this kind of money out for the amount of employees vs. Management? Someone please respond.

This is NOT the only department in GAMING - it's all departments.

When will someone stop the overspending and redirect our overstaffed into positions that are needed now instead of hiring more people?

Gladys Dallas

Episcopal Diocese to elect 8th bishop

Appleton, WI – October 16, 2013 – The Episcopal Diocese of Fond du Lac will elect its Eighth Bishop at the 139th Annual Convention on October 19. The diocese is a part of the Episcopal Church and the worldwide Anglican Communion with over 5,800 baptized members worshipping in 37 locations across the northeast third of the State of Wisconsin.

The election will be held at the Cathedral of St. Paul, Fond du Lac and follows a year-long search process in which three candidates were selected by the diocesan search committee; a fourth was nominated through a petition process. One candidate withdrew for personal reasons. The three candidates spent early October traversing the diocese, meeting the people, and answering questions in a series of three "walkabouts."

To be elected, a candidate must receive a majority of votes in both the lay order and the clergy order. Expected to attend are 100 lay delegates and 70 clergy delegates. Under the canons of the Episcopal Church, the election of a bishop requires the consent from a majority of bishops with jurisdiction and standing committees of the Episcopal Church. Assuming that consent is received, Presiding Bishop Katharine Jefferts Schori will ordain the next bishop on April 26, 2014 at Appleton Alliance Church.

The three candidates for bishop are

- The Rev. Matthew Gunter, Rector, St. Barnabas Episcopal Church, Glen Ellyn, Illinois
- The Rev. Eric Mills, Rector, St. Anne's Episcopal Church, De Pere, Wisconsin
- The Very Rev. Michael Rasicci, Rector, Calvary Episcopal Church, Batavia, Illinois.

Additional information about the candidates and the election process can be found at bishopsearch.info.

The next bishop will succeed the Rt. Rev. Russell E. Jacobus, who is retiring after serving as bishop of Fond du Lac for 19 years. Jacobus and his wife, Jerrie Jacobus, will continue to live in Wisconsin. They will be doing a lot of travelling to visit their children in California, New York and Israel.

NCAI report focuses on harm of Washington's sports mascot

Washington, DC – Just days after President Obama joined the growing chorus of those calling for the Washington NFL Team to consider changing its name, the team's leadership justified the use of their "Indian" mascot as a central part of the team's "history and legacy." A new report released today by the National Congress of American Indians (NCAI), titled Ending the Legacy Of Racism in Sports & the Era of Harmful "Indian" Sports Mascots also outlines the team's ugly and racist legacy, while highlighting the harmful impact of negative stereotypes on Native peoples.

The report details the position of NCAI, the nation's oldest and most representative American Indian and Alaska Native organization. The following is a statement released by NCAI's Executive Director Jacqueline Pata.

"The report NCAI has released today provides the history of an overwhelming movement to end the era of harmful "Indian" mascots – including the fact that Native peoples have fought these mascots since 1963 and no professional sports team has established a new 'Indian' mascot since 1964.

There is one thing that we can agree with the Washington football team about - the name 'Redsk*ns' is a reflection of the team's legacy and history. Unfortunately, the team's legacy and history is an ugly one, rooted in racism and discrimination, including the origins of the team's name. It is becoming more and more obvious that the team's legacy on racial equality is to remain on the wrong side of history for as long as possible.

The team's original owner, George Preston Marshall, named the team the 'Redsk*ns' in 1932, just months before he led a 13-year league wide ban on African American players in the NFL. Nearly 30 years after the race-based name was chosen, Marshall was forced by the league to hire the team's first black player in 1962. He was the last NFL owner to do so.

We've released this report and have a firm position on this issue because the welfare and future of our youth is at stake. We are working every day to ensure they are able to grow up and thrive in healthy, supportive communities. Removing these harmful mascots is just one part of our effort to encourage our children to achieve their greatest potential. We're focused on their future; these mascots keep society focused on the negative stereotypes of the past.

The report details a range of issues: the harm stereotypes have on Native Youth and the overwhelming support for ending harmful mascots by organizations, tribal governments, the NCAA, high schools, community groups, and individuals. The report also reviews in depth the well-documented legacy of racism in the Washington football team's history, including factual rebuttals to the Washington football team's false claims that NCAI leadership at one point endorsed the use of the "Redsk*ns" mascot.

The report points to the fact that harmful "Indian" mascots exist while Native peoples remain targets of hate crime higher than any other groups, citing Department of Justice analysis that "American Indians are more likely than people of other races to experience violence at the hands of someone of a different race." The report also reviews in-depth studies that show the harm negative stereotypes and "Indian" sports mascots have on Native youth. The rate of suicide is highest for Native young people at 18 percent, twice the rate of the next highest of 8.4 percent among non-Hispanic white youth.

In the report, NCAI calls on the NFL, MLB, and NHL to address harmful mascots that profit from marketing harmful stereotypes, "Each of these professional sports businesses attempt to establish a story of honoring Native peoples through the names or mascots; however, each one—be it through logos or traditions — diminishes the place, status, and humanity of contemporary Native citizens. As a result, these businesses perpetuated racial and political inequity. Those who have kept their logos and brands, continue to do so."

Obama open to name change for Washington Redskins

By Julie Pace
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) – President Barack Obama says he would "think about changing" the Washington Redskins' name if he owned the football team as he waded into the controversy involving a word that many consider offensive to Native Americans.

Obama, in an interview with The Associated Press, said team names such as the Redskins offend "a sizable group of people." He said that while fans get attached to the names, nostalgia may not be a good enough reason to keep them in place.

"I don't know whether our attachment to a particular name should override the real legitimate concerns that people have about these things," he said in the interview, which was conducted Friday.

An avid sports fan who roots for the Chicago Bears, Obama said he doesn't think Washington football fans are purposely trying to offend American Indians. "I don't want to detract from the wonderful Redskins fans that are here. They love their team and rightly so," he said.

But the president appeared to come down on the side of those who have sharply criticized the football team's name, noting that Indians "feel pretty strongly" about mascots and team names that depict negative stereotypes about their heritage.

The team's owner, Dan Snyder has vowed to never abandon the name.

NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell said last month that the league should pay attention to those offended by the name - a subtle change in position for Goodell, who had more strongly supported the name in his previous statements this year.

Email messages to team spokesman Tony Wyllie and general manager Bruce Allen were not immediately returned Saturday.

Other professional sports teams have Indian names, including football's Kansas City Chiefs and baseball's Atlanta Braves and Cleveland Indians.

Numerous colleges and universities have changed names that reference Native Americans. St. John's changed its mascot from the Redmen to the Red Storm, Marquette is now the Golden Eagles instead of the Warriors and Stanford switched from the Indians to the Cardinal.

The Redskins' name has attracted a fresh round of controversy in recent months, with local leaders in Washington calling for a name change and some media outlets refraining from using the name. The name is the subject of a long-running legal challenge from a group of American Indians seeking to block the team from having federal trademark protection.

Congressional lawmakers have introduced a bill seeking the same goal, though it appears unlikely to pass.

"What a prudent and wise use of the bully pulpit," Suzan Shown Harjo, a plaintiff in that case, said in an interview Saturday. "I am so glad that he said that and I hope that people hear a reasoned response from the president and will pay attention to this issue."

Harjo said the issue "involves lots of hurt and pain and ongoing name-calling and bullying of our children that goes with this name. We just need to have an end to it."

"There's no such thing as a good stereotype, no matter how well-intentioned, no matter how good people feel about it," Harjo added. "It still has negative ramifications for our people."

"These are relics of the past. They should be consigned to museums and history books and people can feel good about them there," she said. "But they should not be allowed in polite society."

Opponents of the Redskins name plan to hold a protest Monday outside the NFL's fall meeting in Washington.

"We really appreciate the president underscoring what we've been saying," said Ray Halbritter, spokesman for the Oneida Indian Nation, a tribe from upstate New York that's been campaigning against the name.

"There's just no place for a professional football team to be using what the dictionary defines as a racially offensive term," he said.

Halbritter said the NFL and Snyder could "borrow a page from the president" and use a decision to change the team's name as a "teachable moment."

Despite the controversy, an AP-GfK poll conducted in April showed that nationally, "Redskins" still enjoys wide support. Nearly 4 in 5 Americans don't think the team should change its name, the survey found. Only 11 percent think it should be changed, while 8 percent weren't sure and 2 percent didn't answer.

Obama said he doesn't have a direct stake in the Redskins debate since he's not a team owner. But he hinted that might be part of his post-White House plans.

"Maybe after I leave the presidency," he joked. "I think it would be a lot of fun."

He added: "I'd probably look at a basketball team before I looked at a football team. I know more about basketball than I do about football."

Milwaukee leaders step up co-sleeping education

By Gretchen Ehlke
Associated Press

MILWAUKEE (AP) – While Milwaukee city leaders announced plans Wednesday to step up educational efforts about the dangers of parents and caregivers co-sleeping with babies, the mayor and the county medical examiner expressed concerns about criminalizing sharing a bed with an infant while impaired.

Mayor Tom Barrett said firefighters have had success in reducing fire deaths by going door-to-door in urban neighborhoods with fire safety information and smoke detectors. Barrett said the same method should be used for co-sleeping education.

"We can learn from that model," the mayor said outside a north side Milwaukee fire station Wednesday.

Milwaukee County Medical Examiner's reports on the deaths of 12 babies under age 1 this year make note of co-sleeping or unsafe sleeping conditions. The cause of death in those cases is accidental or undetermined.

The Milwaukee Health Department and the American Academy of Pediatrics recommend that babies sleep in their own cribs and never share a sleep surface with another child or adult, regardless of their condition.

Five such deaths in September and October prompted at least one state legislator to propose a bill that would make it a felony to harm or kill an infant by co-sleeping while intoxicated. Rep. Samantha Kerkman, R-Randall, said she hopes the bill, if passed, would "hold accountable those adults who put babies at risk."

Barrett stopped short of endorsing such legislation.

Barrett said any effort to prosecute a parent or caregiver for a co-sleeping death if it involves intoxication should be a decision left to district attorneys.

"As the health commissioner indicated, 80 percent of these deaths do not involve alcohol or drugs. There are going to be situations where drugs or alcohol are involved, and that's when the prosecution and the district attorneys around the state have to make that decision," the mayor said.

Milwaukee County Medical Examiner Brian Peterson said co-sleeping should be treated like driving a vehicle.

"If you're drunk, don't drive. If you're intoxicated, don't co-sleep," Peterson said.

He fears any threat of prosecution could hinder the medical examiner's investigation into a baby's death because parents or caregivers would be reluctant to provide all the details and circumstances surrounding it.

Peterson said there are no scientific tests or anatomical studies that prove an infant was smothered. Investigators rely on circumstantial information from those at the scene of the death, he said.

Fire Chief Mark Rohlfing said firefighters will look for additional opportunities to pass out co-sleeping information when they are responding to a call or going door-to-door in urban neighborhoods.

Goodell confident Snyder weighing Redskins debate

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) – NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell says he believes Washington owner Daniel Snyder is "way down the road" in consideration of whether the team should change its nickname.

Goodell got a question about the latest debate over the name during a question-and-answer session with Dallas season ticket-holders before the Cowboys' game Sunday night against the Redskins.

The commissioner says he knows Snyder "feels strongly" about keeping the name but "wants to do the right thing."

A small group of protesters gathered near the Cowboys' stadium hours before the game.

The Redskins were playing for the first time since President Barack Obama reignited the debate by saying he would "think about changing" it if he were the team's owner.

Wis. Assembly to take up mascots bill

MADISON, Wis. (AP) – The Wisconsin Assembly is expected to vote on a Republican bill that would make it harder to force public schools to drop American Indian nicknames this week.

Right now the state Department of Public Instruction must hold a hearing on a school's race-based nickname if the agency receives a complaint from one person. The school must prove the nickname doesn't promote discrimination. DPI then decides whether the name must go.

The bill requires a complainant to collect signatures equal to 10 percent of the school district's students to trigger a review and would have to prove discrimination. The Department of Administration, not DPI, would make the final call.

The Assembly has scheduled a vote on the measure for Tuesday. Republican and Democratic leaders have allotted three hours for debate.

The second half featured Oneida outscoring Valley Christian 40 -12 and easily cruising to a 64-39 win.

GTC supports Milwaukee Oneidas

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks
dwalschi@oneidanation.org

The General Tribal Council (GTC) supported Milwaukee area Oneidas at a special GTC meeting held Sunday, October 27 at the Radisson Hotel.

A petition presented by Brian Doxtator was moved to the top of the agenda. The petition asked for information concerning the processes that were followed in pursuing a new building for the South Eastern Oneida Tribal Services (SEOTS) program in Milwaukee. While the petition allowed for the possibility of amending or overturning at 7-31-04 GTC decision directing the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) to provide assistance in locating a long term facility, Doxtator stated it was not his intent to close the SEOTS offices.

"This is not about closing down, it's about the process the Business Committee did not follow during the CIP Capital Improvement Process," said Doxtator.

The GTC passed a motion to continue with the 2004 directive to continue with the SEOTS facility. The vote opens the way for the purchase of a new building to house SEOTS that had been put on hold due to the petition.

The GTC heard a petition brought forth by Carole Liggins asking for the dissolution of the second polling site for triannual elections. Liggins argued that the second site, located at the SEOTS office in Milwaukee, is too costly for the number of voters it attracts.

"I don't understand if we're in cost containment … how we can consider spending several thousand dollars at a Milwaukee polling site," said Liggins.

According to Liggins presentation materials, turnout for the 2011 general election in Milwaukee was 200 voters, about 12 percent of the eligible voter population.

"When this resolution was passed by the Business Committee in 2002, it was anticipated that providing a polling site there would allow as many people could in Milwaukee to go and vote," said Liggins. "It hasn't done that. It hasn't done what the original resolution's purpose was."

SEOTS Director Mark Powless argued that the $2900 cost of the off reservation polling site was minimal.

"The polling site cost occurs only every three years," said Powless. "I understand that money's important, but is taking away the voice of our tribal membership worth $2900 every … three years?" he asked.

Discussion turned to allowing absentee voting, which would require amending Oneida's Constitution which requires qualified voters to "present themselves in person at the polls on the day of election." OBC members reminded the assembly that the issue wasn't supported at an August 21, 2010 GTC meeting concerning Constitutional amendments.

The GTC passed a motion supporting the polling site to continue.

After approving the Oneida 2013 semi-annual report, the GTC moved on to two referendum questions concerning employees. The first referendum asked "Should all salaried employees punch in or out to prevent fraudulent claims of work hours?"

OBC Chairman Ed Delgado argued that upper management should deal with this issue.

"This is a management issue. A blanket policy will be very harmful," he said. The referendum question failed.

The second asked "Should all managers work under performance contracts, including supervisors, managers, directors, assistant managers/directors, senior management?"

The OBC informed the GTC that Councilwoman Melinda Danforth was working on addressing employment issues. The second referendum question failed as well.

Chairman Delgado attempted to defer a petition from Cathy L. Metoxen asking that all supervisory, management, entry-level jobs be employed by enrolled Oneidas, but the GTC moved to delete the item from the agenda.

Phineas King takes Old Glory Honor Flight

By Nate Wisneski

nwisnes@oneidanation.org

For Phineas King, 80, travel is a challenge due to his age and health. But when the Old Glory Honor Flight notified him he had a seat on the October 17 flight to Washington D.C. there wasn't a second thought about going.

Old Glory Honor Flight offers World War II and Korean War veterans tours of the nation's capital with guardians free of charge.

King served in the Korean War and Vietnam War. He was an Aviation Machinist Mate. He retired after 23 years in the Navy. King's favorite site to visit in Washington DC was the Korean War monument.

"I feel for the Korean War. That monument impressed me the most," said King.

One King's most memorable moments from the trip was the mail call during the flight.

"We got an envelope that was full of letters from my relations. How the heck did they know I was going? They sent me letters about being honored for my time in service, what kind of uncle I was," said King.

The greetings his group received in Washington DC and home will hold a special place in King's memory.

"I really enjoyed it. It was wonderful honor. I felt it in my heart. I never had people

Doxtater reaches Hall of Fame

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks
tcottrel@oneidanation.org

> It's special for me because I believe I am the first person of color that will be put into the GBBA Hall of Fame, and the first Oneida.
> – Doxtater

Few people are fortunate enough to have their achievements enshrined in record books. As for Reggie Doxtater, and his triumphs as an accomplished bowler, he will have such an honor as he is inducted into the Green Bay Bowling Association's (GBBA) Hall of Fame on November 1st.

Having been nominated this past summer, Doxtater had to first meet the Hall of Fame requirements set by the GBBA.

"In order to be considered for the Hall of Fame you have to be a member of the association for at least 16 years, and then you have to be a minimum of 45 years of age. They also look at stats when considering someone. They look at how many 700 series you have, 800 series if you are lucky enough to get that, 300 games, 299 games, championships, and things of that sort," Doxtater said.

Doxtater has recorded 20 games with a perfect score of 300 while he was a member of the GBBA, however his career total is 30 games.

As a youngster Doxtater remembers watching professional bowling on Saturday morning television, hoping to be a competitive bowler. As he got his chance to be a part of competitive bowling his desire to get better only intensified.

Reggie Doxtater

"I started bowling at 11 and I was just asked to sub on a team with some other kids from school and just loved it at that point and picked it up. As a junior you progress up levels of competition and even at that time they had travel leagues. So they had the best bowlers from each bowling center compete against each other. So I think those games are what started the competitive nature," Doxtater said.

At a masters tournament held in Milwaukee Doxtater shared the lanes with some of the nation's professional bowlers. Not a surprise considering Doxtater was a state champion as an amateur.

"I won the Wisconsin state amateur championship in 1999 and won a right to compete against the best amateurs in the country in Reno for a spot on Team USA," Doxtater added.

Doxtater is still an active bowler in area leagues, and shares his knowledge of the game with the next generation of bowlers as the Head Coach of the Green Bay Southwest High School bowling team.

"I've been coaching the Southwest High School team for the last four years and last year we were able to make it to state, and we actually won state. First time for Southwest and the first time for the Green Bay district since 2004," said Doxtater.

Now that the GBBA Hall of Fame has come calling, Doxtater reflects on his accomplishments as a bowler. But there is one aspect of his induction that stands out.

"It's special for me because I believe I am the first person of color that will be put into the GBBA Hall of Fame, and the first Oneida. In the last 15-20 years there have been Oneida bowlers who have been establishing themselves as a higher echelon of bowler. So I believe there will be more to come," Doxtater said.

Urgent Notice to the Oneida Community

With restoration of the Government functions following the shutdown, the Oneida Comprehensive Health Division will be lifting some of the restrictions put into place on 10/02/13. Effective Thursday, October 24, 2013, the following measures will be taken to begin restoring services to the community. We will begin by phasing in those services which were impacted by the shutdown over the next 2-3 weeks.

- Effective Thursday October 24, 2013, Contract Health Services will go to a Priority 1B level. This means that all referrals for care must meet the requirement of 1B as defined by the Indian Health Service. Priority 1B means a referral must meet the following criteria: The potential for becoming life threatening; not immediate emergency; and is essential to daily function. This includes acute illness, significant flare of chronic conditions, Prenatal Care, Fracture Care, and Specialty consultation /treatment.

This means that you will still need to follow the process for seeking approval for after hour care to utilize the emergency room and/or urgent care services by contacting the on-call nurse at (920) 869-2711.

If you had a referral that was placed on hold on October 1, 2013, you will need to contact Contract Health to obtain instructions as to what you will need to do to reschedule your referral appointment if it meets this criteria.

- Inpatient Treatment for Substance Abuse will CONTINUE to be placed on hold until a date has been determined to restore this service. Patients/clients will be followed through outpatient treatment which is provided on-site until further notice.

- Oneida Pharmacy will return to dispensing a maximum of 90 day supply on all medications and we will restore the dispensing of over the counter (OTC's) that are determined to be medically necessary by November 18, 2013.

- The Contracted Providers will be phased in beginning Monday and patients will be contacted to reschedule their appointments.

The Comprehensive Health Division would like to thank the community for your understanding and patience during this critical time and we appreciate your cooperation while we begin to restore our services. We apologize for the inconvenience and thank you for the opportunity to continue to provide your health care services.

As the country moves forward with the Affordable Care Act, we all need to look at this shutdown as a way to possibly take advantage of the opportunity to purchase health insurance coverage as it becomes available through the Affordable Care Act. We have staff who can assist you through the process or can answer questions you may have related to the Affordable Care Act and the Health Insurance Marketplace.

Thank you for your understanding and cooperation. If you have questions or concerns please feel free to contact Margaret Valencia at (920) 869-4908 or email her at mvalenci@oneidanation.org

Hobart groundwater claim washed down the drain

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks
dwalschi@oneidanation.org

The United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit sided with the Oneida Tribe in its lengthy legal battle over storm water with the Village of Hobart. The decision issued October 18 agreed with Judge William Griesbach's decision in the United States District Court from September, 2012. The decision re-affirms that the Village of Hobart lacks the authority to impose storm water charges on lands held in trust for the Oneida Tribe.

In 2007, Hobart began imposing storm water charges against the Tribe's trust property and threatened foreclosure of the land if the Tribe did not make payments. In order to protect the Tribe's land, the Tribe filed a lawsuit challenging Hobart's authority to impose storm water management charges on the Tribe's trust property. Hobart then filed a claim against the United States asking the United States to pay the charges, in the event the judge found the tribe not liable for payment. The United States refused.

Deputy Chief Council for Oneida James Bittorf stated that Hobart's argument that it was the regulator of Oneida's land held in federal trust was upside down.

"Under the Clean Water Act Hobart is a regulated entity, they're not a regulator, and Hobart was trying to put itself in the position of regulating the tribe simply because they got a (draft) permit from the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency)," said Bittorf.

Seven Circuit Judge Richard A. Posner raised questions about the relationship between the Oneida Tribe and the Village of Hobart at the September 18, 2013 hearing in Chicago.

"Hobart doesn't seem to like Indians," said Hon. Posner who referred to a letter sent to village residents by Hobart Village President Rich Heidel that was critical of a candidate for the Hobart Board of Trustees because he was married to a member of the Oneida Business Committee (OBC).

"The attitude is to preserve Hobart's jurisdiction," countered Hobart's attorney Frank W. Kowalkowski.

> "Hobart doesn't seem to like Indians"
> – Hon. Richard A. Posner
> Seven Circuit Judge

"From my perspective, the court wasn't buying Hobart's arguments, and I think maybe the justices on the court of appeals were exploring other motivations for Hobart presenting these arguments because I don't think they thought the arguments had any merit, and maybe they were wondering why are these arguments being presented," said Bittorf.

According to Bittorf, the Village of Hobart could ask for a rehearing from the Seventh Circuit, or go to the US Supreme Court. Hobart could also object to Oneida's draft EPA storm water permits. OBC Chairman Ed Delgado stated in a press release that he would prefer the village and tribe work together.

"It is unfortunate that we had to turn to the courts again to settle this issue. This becomes a costly venue for both governments. According to the decision, "it (Village of Hobart) doesn't deny the feasibility of cooperative arrangements between it and the Tribe, which has signed cooperative service agreements with other government bodies in the area." Oneida has successfully entered into other intergovernmental service agreements to settle these types of matters and we again extend our invitation to the Village in entering into a service agreement with us.

"Let's cooperate, not litigate. The expense of this litigation to Hobart taxpayers and Tribal members has become too costly in a time of scarce resources. Let's take the resolution of this issue as a sign that we should move forward in a positive manner. The Tribe is pleased with the outcome and hope future litigation can be avoided."

Hobart Board of Trustees President Rich Heidel stated the board hadn't yet met to discuss the ruling and declined to comment at this time.

Know the rules: Medicare Part D Open Enrollment is Oct. 15 - Dec. 7

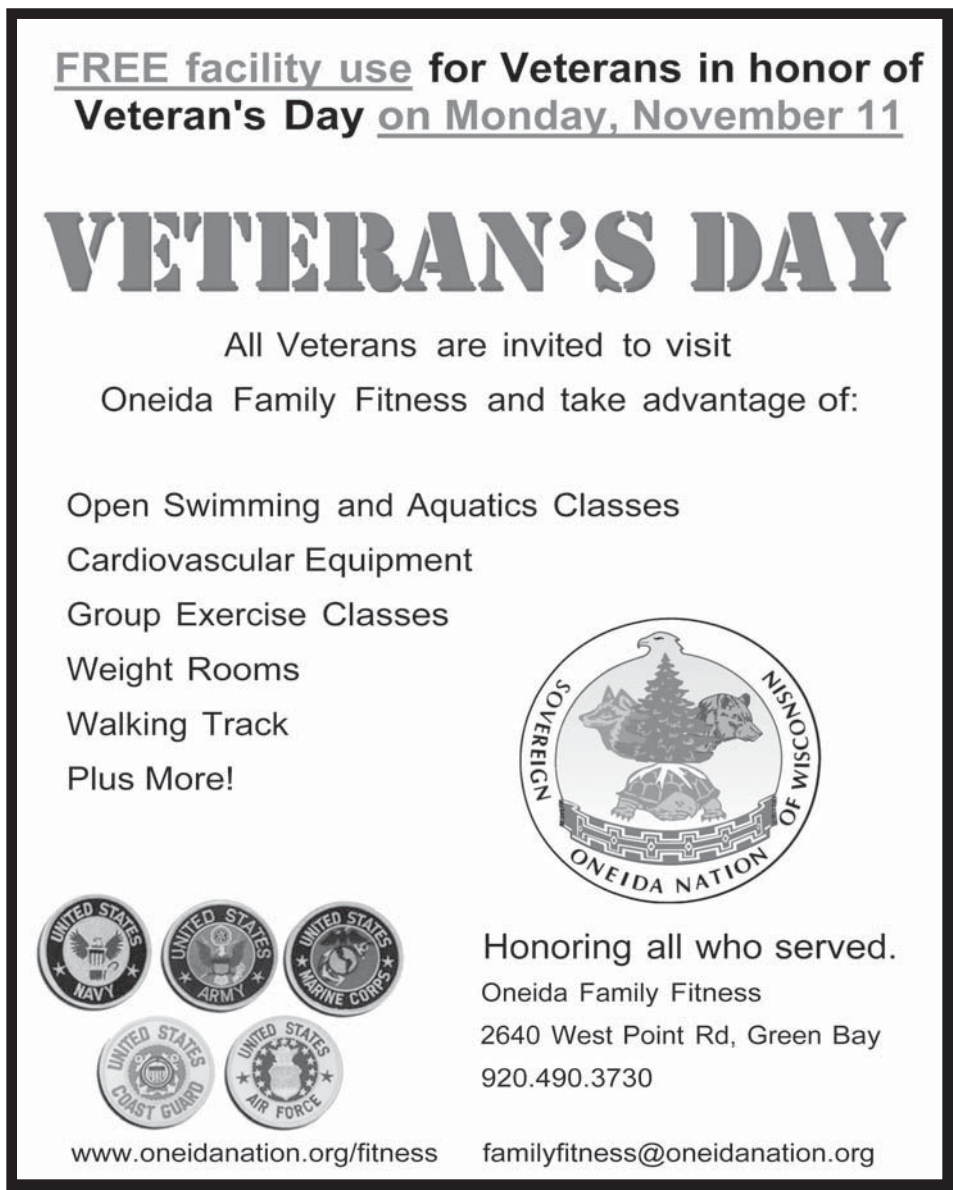
Medicare beneficiaries on the Prescription Drug Plan (Part D) have the opportunity to change plans each year during the Open Enrollment period between Oct. 15 and Dec. 7. This is important because the cost of drug coverage offered by private insurance companies can vary by hundreds of dollars, and the plan that was best for you last year may no long be the most economical choice.

To evaluate plans, be sure to look at the total cost – not just the premium. Total cost is made up of…

1) the monthly premium cost;
2) the deductible or cost that must be paid before the insurance pays anything;
3) the co-pay or amount you pay each time you fill a prescription. The co-pay will vary depending on the individual medication. The best way to evaluate the total cost is to use the Medicare "Plan Finder" on the Internet at www.medicare.gov. You will enter your individual prescriptions and get a total cost based on the specific drugs you take. (The Plan Finder website is not associated with the Affordable Care Act website, and there are no wait times.)

If you don't have access to the Internet-or a computer savvy grandchild available to assist you, you can call the Wisconsin Medigap Part D and Prescription Drug Helpline at 1-855-677-2783 for assistance in finding the best plan for you.

Companies must follow rules in marketing plans



To protect seniors from aggressive sales techniques, Medicare has strict rules that companies marketing Medicare Plans must follow. You'll want to be aware that insurance companies selling Medicare Plans:

- CAN'T call or email you unless you have first called them to give them permission to contact you. There is one exception to this rule. If you are currently on a plan, that company is allowed to contact you.
- CAN'T ask for financial or personal information.
- CAN'T visit you at your home or a nursing home unless you have invited them.
- CAN'T give you gifts or prizes worth more than $15 in an effort to get you to enroll in a plan.
- CAN'T try to sell life insurance when you've invited them to talk about a Medicare Plan.

Call the Wisconsin Medigap Part D and Prescription Drug Helpline at 1-855-677-2783 for assistance in finding the best plan for you.

If you experience unwanted solicitations or violations of marketing rules, please report them to:

OTIE wins significant federal contracts

By Francine Skenandore

The year 2013 has been one of the most successful years for OTIE. OTIE's strategy to continue to building capability and capacity has been a key factor in proactively addressing the federal contractor issues faced by many engineering firms who participate in the federal procurement competitive bidding process.

All federal contractors and businesses throughout all industries have been impacted the past several months by the federal sequestration and short-term government shutdown. While OTIE experienced impacts too, strategic decision-making kept the company on firm footing and OTIE was able to withstand the impacts of the federal government budget issues.

OTIE's ability to competitively win two significant federal contracts with the United States government in 2013 shows the company's ability to grow business even with challenging federal market dynamics. These major contract awards have gained the attention and respect of OTIE's larger industry competitors, making OTIE a recognized name in the federal contracting market.

OTIE has competitively won and successfully expanded its capacity to take on and execute the following two major Federal contracts:

1. A 5-year, $46 million Range Architect-Engineer Inspection Services (RAEIS) contract by the US Air Force (USAF) Space Command to provide infrastructure design engineering, construction management/inspection, and design-build project delivery services for six USAF launch facilities around the world. In this case OTIE is working with a team of four subcontractors who each provide the required qualifications and past performance for the contract. OTIE will maintain an on-site office at Cape Canaveral and will also work with nearly fifty engineers from three Wisconsin offices to provide extensive and complex engineering project management services to the six sites.
2. A 10-year, $80 million Remedial Action Contract 3 (RAC3) by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in Region 9 that includes the states of Arizona, California, Hawaii, Nevada, Pacific Islands, and 148 federally-recognized Native American Tribes in those states. OTIE will provide architect and engineering services to support remedial planning and oversight activities at designated Superfund sites. OTIE partnered with three subcontractors who bring the required qualifications and past performance to competitively win this contract award. This contract harmonizes with the Oneida Seven Generations philosophy to protect and sustain the natural environment for future generations through environmental stewardship. Since 1997, OTIE has provided services to the EPA, which includes the experience, expertise and past performance gained from the acquisition of TN & Associates in 2008.

The reality is that the amount of the work and revenue expected to be generated from the above two contracts can be impacted by future government movements. Examples include changes in federal funding, priorities and budgets in response to the sequestration and the government shutdown. These federal movements will have lasting effects upon any commercial or governmental entity that receives federal funding for projects and programs, including local, state and tribal governments, and any contractor that does business with a government entity.

OTIE continuously strives to build a competitive advantage in the engineering industry through technical expertise of its highly-qualified professional staff, outstanding performance and safety record, and strong business relationships that rely upon excellent customer service. In the past three years, OTIE has received several safety awards, including three from the Department of the Navy facilities and one from the Public Works Department of Ventura, California, in recognition of OTIE's work.

OTIE's qualifications, excellent performance and philosophy of maintaining a competitive edge have enabled the company to successfully compete in federal procurement markets, making OTIE prepared to compete in all procurement categories, including the full and open, small business, and 8(a) categories.

OTIE's mission is to keep growing the company's business and preserve the Oneida Tribe's investment in the company beyond OTIE's 8(a) status that ends in 2017. OTIE does this by actively working to build OTIE capacity and capability that makes OTIE ready and positioned to win major contract awards into the future.

Oneida Total Integrated Enterprises (OTIE) is an engineering, science and construction management firm owned by the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin.

Trick-or-treating for your money

By Holly Petraeus
via WDVA Communication

When it comes to tricking you out of your money, for scammers it's Halloween all year long.

In 2011, an estimated 25.6 million adults (10.8 percent of the U.S. adult population) were victims of fraud. Consumer scams can take many different forms, from direct marketing to affinity scams and involve everything from identity theft to pension poaching. However, there are a few general tell-tale signs that you can look for if you're trying to decide if a financial product or service you're being offered is a scammer's trick or a financial treat.

Phantom riches

There are a lot of bogus offers out there that guarantee huge investment returns, windfalls of money, or a fast track to important benefits for only a "small" fee or investment on your part. It could be the offer of a loan at a great rate of interest – as long as you send in a "security deposit" first. Once you do, "poof!" your money disappears along with the scammer who made you the offer.

Or, maybe it's an offer to help you get thousands of dollars in benefits from the Department of Veterans Affairs – for a fee. If you're a veteran interested in getting benefits like Aid and Attendance, you should be wary of any paid advisor who offers to help you qualify for the benefit or who claims to be able to get you the benefit more quickly than anyone else.

Superheroes

Scammers would like you to believe they have superpowers, often claiming inflated credentials and experience in order to access your money.

Distressed homeowners may fall prey to mortgage relief companies that offer to help them with their mortgage or foreclosure problems for an up-front fee. These self-styled heroes will tout their credentials and promise to help solve your problems, but often leave you worse off than you were before. And it's illegal for them to charge you an advance fee for help, so report them by submitting a complaint online or by calling (855) 411-2372.

Make sure you thoroughly research anybody who offers to help you with a consumer financial problem! Even the fact that they may have been in the military themselves isn't a guarantee that they are going to treat you right.

Zombie debt

Zombies can come back from the dead and so can your debts. You may have a debt from years ago and suddenly a debt collector is contacting you demanding that you pay it back – now. Financial institutions sometimes sell old debt to other businesses, which then try to collect on it. If the financial records aren't accurate, you may even find you're being asked to pay back a debt you already paid off – or one that wasn't even your debt in the first place.

Personal Financial Managers and JAGs can help servicemembers review any demand for debt repayment that you don't fully understand. We've also prepared sample letters that you can use to respond to a debt collector. The letters may help you learn more about the age and other features of the debt and help you protect some of your rights.

Vampires

Vampires prey on the unsuspecting. Fraudsters do the same – using the promise of a special deal or a one-time offer to lure unsuspecting consumers into deals they don't realize are financial booby traps. Never be pushed into buying something or entering into a financial contract because the product is going fast or the amazing deal is a limited-time offer. Take the time to do your research and get all your questions answered. Ask CFPB is a good place to get some of those answers.

And always remember: unlike the hapless victim in a vampire movie, you have the ability to escape. You can walk away from the table, hang up the phone, or log off the website.

You don't need garlic, stakes, or torches to fight off the scary forces of consumer fraud – just a little knowledge about the tricks scammers use.

Happy Halloween!

VA Dental Insurance Program

The Department of Veterans Affairs provides comprehensive dental care to Veterans who meet eligibility standards; however, the benefit is not available to many Veterans. VA would like all Veterans and beneficiaries to have access to good oral health. Good oral health is more than just a nice smile or ability to chew favorite foods – it impacts a person's overall health throughout his or her life.

VA's Dental Insurance Program (VADIP) offers enrolled Veterans and beneficiaries of VA's Civilian Health and Medical Program (CHAMPVA) the opportunity to purchase dental insurance at a reduced cost. VA is offering this service through Delta Dental and MetLife.

VADIP is a three-year, national pilot program to assess the feasibility and advisability of providing a premium-based dental insurance plan to eligible individuals. The program is mandated by Public Law 111-163, Caregivers and Veterans Omnibus Health Services Act of 2010.

Eligibility for VADIP

Veterans enrolled in the VA health care program and CHAMPVA program beneficiaries are eligible to participate in VADIP. Participation in VADIP will not affect Veterans' eligibility for VA dental services and treatment.

Dependents of Veterans, except those eligible under CHAMPVA, are not eligible for VADIP; however, separate coverage options may be offered dependents by the insurance carrier.

Dental Plan Information

VA has contracted with Delta Dental and MetLife, private insurers, to administer the dental insurance program.

Beginning November 15, 2013, individuals interested in participating in VADIP may complete an application online, over the phone or by mail. A direct link to each provider's VADIP webpage will be available from www.va.gov/healthbenefits/VADIP.

Coverage under VADIP begins January 1, 2014 and will be provided throughout the United States and its territories. The initial participation period will be at least 12 calendar months. Afterward, VADIP beneficiaries can renew their participation for another 12-month period or be covered month-to-month, as long as the participant remains eligible for coverage and VA continues VADIP.

Multiple plan options will allow participants to select a plan that provides benefits and premiums that meet their dental needs and budget. The offered plans vary and may include diagnostic, preventative, surgical, emergency and endodontic/restorative treatment.

Each participant will pay a fixed monthly premium for coverage, in addition to any copayments required by his or her plan.

For more information on VADIP, call 1-877-222-VETS (8387) or visit www.va.gov/ healthbenefits/VADIP, and click the insurer's link for specific information regarding registration, rates and services.

Ten Doable Ways You Can Enjoy Meals on Special Days

Before you go to a holiday meal, feast day, potlatch, graduation or birthday party, make a plan to stay on a healthy eating track:

- Choose the ways you can stay on track and check: YES! I can!
- After the event, check the ones you did: YES! I did it!

1. Earlier in the day, eat breakfast or healthy snacks. Try not to delay eating so you can eat more at the feast. If you skip meals, it may be harder to manage your blood sugar. It will make you hungry. You will be more likely to overeat at the special meal. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

2. At the special gathering, limit before-meal chips and crackers. Try putting a small portion on a small plate or napkin and eat only that. Avoid creamy dips and cheese. Choose salsa as a dip if it is served. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

3. Limit the number of starchy foods (potatoes, macaroni, bread) you choose. Have a serving of just your favorite one. Or eat ½ slice bread and a few tablespoonfuls of other starches. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

4. Choose vegetables that are raw, grilled or steamed. Avoid vegetables in cream sauce, gravy, butter or cheese sauce. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

5. Drink calorie-free drinks like water, unsweetened tea, seltzer or diet sodas. Avoid regular sodas and juice. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

6. Avoid drinks with alcohol or limit them. Women should drink no more than one alcoholic drink a day. Men should drink no more than two. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

7. If you choose to eat dessert, have a small piece. Ask for a half of a piece of cake or pie. Try not to eat the frosting on cake. Don't add whipped cream. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

8. After the meal, take a walk with family members. Walking will lower your blood sugar level. You will have more energy. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

9. If you eat too much, don't feel bad. You have not failed because of one meal. Think about the days you did not overeat. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

10. Plan to get back on track the next day. Make a plan for what you will eat for breakfast—maybe a boiled egg and a piece of whole wheat toast with non-fat milk (or soy milk). You are back on track! YES! I can! YES! I did it!

Cyberbullying

By Isaiah Funmaker Doxtater
Age 11

Cyberbullying is when one person or a group of people aim to threaten, tease or embarrass someone else by using a mobile phone, the internet or other technologies. Those who take part in online bullying often use a group of friends to target their victims by asking them to add a comment to a photo on a blog, or asking them to forward it to another group of friends. Sometimes these people don't even realize they're actually bullying someone. Cyberbullying takes on many forms. These can include email, instant messaging and chat rooms, social networking sites, cell phones and abusing personal information.

Even though cyberbullying cannot physically hurt you, it can still leave you feeling mentally vulnerable and very upset. You can also feel scared, lonely and stressed and that there's no way out. Escaping cyberbullying can be very difficult. Because anyone can get access to a cellphone or the internet almost anywhere, it can be tough for those on the receiving end to avoid it, even in the safety of their own home. If you are bullying someone, you may not realize how much harm you are causing. Name calling that you think is funny can really affect someone's confidence and self-esteem. In serious cases, victims start thinking about running away from home or harming themselves just to get away from that problem. There are also serious consequences for you if you are found to be bullying someone. You can be suspended or expelled from school. If you physically hurt someone, you can also be punished by the police.

If you believe that you are being cyberbullied, a good strategy to use is to "Take 5." Begin by "dropping the mouse" (don't really drop it, just take your hand off it.) No one deserves to be bullied – simple as that.

Math Made Easy at ONCEC

ONCEC Incorporates ModuMath Program

Is math difficult for you? Unfortunately, many of us were taught early on that math was hard. From memorizing times tables and formulas to order operations and algebraic manipulation, it might as have been a foreign language. Why is math so hard? For the most part, the difficulty of math has to do with your personal perception and its relevance to you. In other words, if you believe it is hard it will be more difficult. This can be made worse if you do not use the math skills.

The good news is that math doesn't need to be difficult. If you drive a car, you are probably very aware of the cost of gas. When the price of gas goes up we know that it will cost more to go to work, drive the kids to their events, and visit family and friends. We are a mobile society so gas prices impact us daily. Unconsciously, we are doing math every time we fill up. You probably know how your car will go on a tank of gas and how much it costs to fill it. You may think about how many times you will have to gas up this week or if you go on trip how much will that cost. All of this math goes on in our heads automatically without calculators and pencils because we are so familiar with it. It has high relevance to us.

Math takes place all around us. Math is used at work, at home and in many of the activities that we participate in like sports, music, or one of my favorites, food. Often, to really enjoy these activities you need to know the math. Who is your favorite quarterback? Would it have anything to do with how many points they scored or how many games they won? Maybe that's not a fair question for you Packer fans. After all, we do have Aaron Rodgers.

What could be more fun than watching Aaron make that game winning touchdown pass? How about getting a pay raise at work? How about getting a better job that pays a lot more? See? The numbers do make a difference. If math is a problem for you it can prevent those pay raises and the complete enjoyment of many other activities. The Oneida Nation Community Education Center can help you improve your math skills at your own pace.

At the ONCEC, we have friendly, state certified teachers that would love to help you. We also have a great new tool called Modumath. ModuMath is an interactive multimedia computer program that offers students a chance to learn and review at their own pace. It consists of user-friendly tutorials with full motion video (not just text). It specifically targets adult learners. The learner can select the areas to review. Each subject is broken into several lessons and each lesson takes about 20 minutes to complete.

ModuMath covers many topics in both developmental math and algebra. It lets each learner set the pace of instruction, offers immediate positive reinforcement, checks for understanding with short quizzes and questions, holds student attention with continuous interaction, and minimizes math anxiety.

To learn more about improving your math skills contact one of our teachers at the ONCEC at the Oneida Community Education Center at 2632 South Packerland Drive or call (920) 496-5260.

OBC approves travel for delegation to attend coin dedication, represent Oneida code talkers

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks
dwalschi@oneidanation.org

The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) approved travel for 11 people to attend a Code Talkers Coin dedication in Washington, DC at the Wednesday, October 23 meeting.

Present: Chairman Ed Delgado, Vice Chairman Greg Matson, Secretary Patty Hoeft, Council members Melinda J. Danforth, Vince DelaRosa, David Jordan, Paul Ninham, Brandon Stevens; Not present: Treasurer Tina Danforth.

The OBC approved travel expenses for members of the Oneida Nation Veterans Affairs Committee (ONVAC), Oneida citizens who helped research and identify four Oneida Code talkers, and family members of the code talkers to attend a Code Talker Coin dedication November 19-21 in Washington, DC. The presentation is to honor Native Americans who served in World War II and used their indigenous languages as a military code. The travel for 11 people was approved despite ongoing budget issues caused by the federal shutdown that has delayed grant funds from reaching Oneida. Chief Financial Officer (CFO) Larry Barton suggested taking the funds out of the OBC special projects budget due to the "one time historical significance of the event."

ONVAC member Mike Hill stated the Oneida Code Talkers weren't honored, as they should have been when they returned from the war.

"It's something that everybody should know about our veterans who went to war and couldn't talk about it," said Hill.

The Committee was looking to the future as it started a set aside fund for the 200-year-celebration of Oneidas arriving to Wisconsin and creating a community planning team. The OBC will save $10,000 a year for the celebration in 2023 starting in fiscal year 2015.

Councilwoman Melinda Danforth stated the Cultural Heritage Department found pictures from the 100-year anniversary held in 1923.

"In speaking with a number of community members, they wanted to make sure that the celebration for this event in 2023 would be grand," said Danforth.

The OBC also held an emergency meeting later in the day to talk about the Oneida Community Cemetery. Vice Chairman Greg Matson was designated as the point person to assist with the Trust Committee and Division Directors necessary to help resolve issues with the current site.

Voices For Oneida Membership Drive gets underway

By Ann Gryphan
Voices For Oneida

The Voices For Oneida Conduit will kick off its 2013 Annual Membership Drive on November 1, 2013, sporting a new Voices For Oneida website, www.voicesforoneida.yolasite.com.

During the month of November, all employees of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin will be invited to sign up for the Voices For Oneida conduit program. Oneida employees who enroll in the Voices For Oneida program during the month of November will be eligible for a prize drawing of one of two $25 Oneida Retail gift cards. In addition, current conduit members are asked to refer colleagues to the conduit in our "Member Get a Member" campaign – the conduit member who helps to enroll the most new members during the month of November will win a $50 Oneida Retail gift card.

The membership drive will conclude with a Voices For Oneida Conduit Member Appreciation Luncheon on December 4. All current conduit members and new enrollees will be invited to attend the luncheon, which will feature special guest speaker Patty Loew, UW Madison professor, former journalist and author of the book "Indian Nations of Wisconsin: Histories of Endurance and Renewal." Loew is also an enrolled member of the Bad River Band of Lake Superior Ojibwe.

Voices For Oneida is a non-partisan, registered conduit fund of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin. Through the Voices For Oneida conduit's weekly payroll deduction, Oneida employees can set aside and later disperse funds to state and local political candidates.

"By making a contribution to the Voices For Oneida conduit, you help elect candidates who understand the issues impacting the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin and support Oneida positions," said Paul Ninham, Oneida Business Committee member. "It is important for all of us to become involved in Voices For Oneida because giving financial support to our local and state officials shows that we are involved in the political process and care about the issues."

If you are currently a member of Voices For Oneida conduit program, you have already begun to receive information with the details of the membership drive. If you are not currently a member, a fellow employee may approach you, share some information and recommend that you join. We make it easy to participate through automatic payroll deductions. With as little as $2 per pay period you can become a member and, once your account accumulates, you can use the money to support the state and local candidates of your choice.

Why join Voices For Oneida?

- Participation is fully endorsed and recommended by the Oneida Business Committee.
- You are investing in "your" future and the future of the Oneida Tribe of Indians.
- Political involvement through contributions can further the advancement of government--to--government relationships.
- Your collective voices can send a message to elected officials that you support those who support the interests of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of WI.
- Political issues DO have an effect on the jobs and services the Oneida Tribe of Indians administers.
- Your contributions can make a difference.
- The issues may change, but the need for greater involvement and participation always remains the same. Thanks to conduit member participation, the Voices For Oneida conduit fund dispersed more than $4,000 to political candidates in 2012 and about $1,500 so far in 2013. Voices For Oneida also recently created a new website to better inform Oneida citizens about its mission and special events.

For more information about Voices For Oneida, contact conduit administrator Ann Gryphan at vfo@jimtenuta.com, (608) 255--0029, or go to our new website, www.voicesforoneida.yolasite.com, to download an enrollment form or learn more.

HONORABLE MENTION - THE OUTSTANDING SMALL BUSINESS MBE: BIG HORN TRUCKING

Big Horn Trucking LLC (Big Horn Trucking) was established in 2008 as a Native American Indian-owned construction trucking company. Having started the company with only one 1989 quad-axle dump truck and a credit card, the company expects to generate $4 million in revenue by the end of 2013. Big Horn Trucking manages a fleet of dump trucks in service to its customers, the largest of which is the Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT).

FIRST RUNNER UP - THE OUTSTANDING SMALL BUSINESS MBE: THE QUEST COMPANY

Founded in September 1994, The Quest Company (Quest) is a wholesale company providing industrial supply, bulk chemical, shipping and packaging, and materials storage and handling products. With its primary market in Wisconsin well established, the company has successfully expanded into regional, national and government markets. The Quest Co., located in Waukesha County, employs 12 people and continues to operate out of original location. As it approaches its ten year anniversary, company founder and President, Tom Skenadore, shared his optimistic outlook: "Quest Co. has had an amazing year but the best is yet to come! WINNER OF THE OUTSTANDING LARGE BUSINESS MBE: MENOMINEE TRIBAL ENTERPRISES

Menominee Tribal Enterprises (MTE) is the business arm of the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin. MTE is a vertically integrated value driven cabinet, furniture and millwork manufacturer providing sustainable, green, LEED and FSC® certified kitchen and bath cabinets, millwork and institutional furniture solutions. MTE products are manufactured on the Menominee Indian Reservation located in Neopit, Wisconsin. All wood products are made from a selection of native northern hardwood, grown among 30 species of timber that have been carefully managed for over 150 years in the Menominee Forest.

The Menominee Tribe has lived in northeast Wisconsin and on Michigan's Upper Peninsula for generations, where ancestral tribal lands once encompassed more than 10 million acres. Following several treaties and land cessions, the Menominee people established a Reservation in 1854 totaling 235,000 acres of predominantly timber land. Since then, the backbone to the economy of the Menominee Nation has been its forests and the industry surrounding the sustainable management of that resource. Menominee Tribal Enterprises (MTE) has been an engine of the Menominee economy over the last 140 years and, within the last 30 years, has pioneered the implementation of sustainable forest management (SFM) throughout the Menominee Forest. Today, the Menominees remain the only Native American tribe to have their forestlands independently certified as being sustainably managed. They are also the only forestlands operation in the United States and Canada that holds dual environmental certification from both the Forest Stewardship Council-approved SmartWood and Scientific Certification Systems (SCS). The concepts of sustainability in forest ecosystems and surrounding the communities that the Menominee have practiced for so many years include three components of a sustainable forest system: The forest must be sustainable for future generations, the forest must be continuously cared for properly, all the pieces of the forest must be maintained for diversity. — Case Study by Catherine M. Mater, 1991

"It is truly an honor to accept such a prestigious award on behalf of MTE, A huge thank you goes out to the employees, it is their dedication and commitment to MTE that has made this award possible." - Norman Shawanokasic, President, MTE

MTE is a member of the American Indian Chamber of Commerce of Wisconsin (AICCW), was established as a business in 1969 and currently employs 150 workers. Company website is http://www.mtewood.com .

WINNER OF THE OUTSTANDING SMALL BUSINESS MBE: BELONGER CORPORATION

Founded in 2000 with one employee and four customers, Belonger Corporation began operating from the owner's basement as a Native American Indian-owned mechanical and plumbing contractor. Today, Belonger Corporation is a complete mechanical, plumbing and wastewater specialty trades construction firm offering design build, maintenance, repair, and facility management services.

"Belonger truly appreciates the award - it is humbling and an honor to be recognized. I attribute the success of Belonger directly to our business relationships not only with our customers, but also our vendors, subcontractors, and our team of EXCEPTIONAL employees. I did not build a successful company alone - it is the individuals at Belonger that built the company." - President and owner, Jean Marie Thiel

James Stevens – Representative Carpenters Union Local 1146

By Madelyn Genskow
Special for the Kalihwisaks

James Stevens was born August 21, 1957 in Green Bay, Wisc. He is one of a family of sixteen children. Due to his poor health, he was adopted by a close relative.

Life had taken him from Oneida to Oconto Falls to Louiston, Idaho to Panama, to outside of Bogota, Columbia. There he attended an all-boys school. The school was run by Catholic monks in long brown robes. He was the only boy who spoke English. The monks had him read Shakespeare to the rest of the class and he learned to speak Spanish from his classmates.

From there the family moved to Ft. Lauderdale, Florida. In his teen years he joined the US Army and traveled more. Eventually, the road led back to Oneida, Wisc. Jim worked on the Home Improvement Program (HIP) for the elderly.

James Stevens

One day the business agent for the carpenters union suggested Jim join the union. Soon Jim became a member of Local 1146 out of Green Bay. They specialize in commercial buildings.

Jim spent three years at Northeast Wisconsin Technical Collage (NWTC). There were 6546 hours of apprenticeship. The business agent asked if he would like to be a delegate. He would represent his Local at the regional council level. Once every quarter they meet to discuss labor throughout the country.

Jim represents all the members in Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Iowa. He represents 20,000 members.

Once a quarter, 265 people meet in Minnesota for two days. They talk about what the members want or need and how they can improve the apprenticeship program. They discuss how to improve the journeymen upgrade training to make their members better qualified than non-union workers.

In the last three years, Jim served as Vice President and Financial Secretary. In the Summer of 2013, he received a watch with the words inscribed "Thanks Jim for 12 years of service to Local 1146."

If you are young and want to be the best, go union.

DATCP Releases Revised Consumer Guide for Seniors

Madison, WI – For seniors and their caregivers, the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection's (DATCP) "Senior Guide" has long been a trusted source of information on consumer issues and scams that the state's elderly residents face. DATCP is pleased to announce the release of an updated version of the guide, available immediately from the agency as a free download on the DATCP website or as a printed booklet.

"Seniors are specifically targeted in a number of scams, so it is important that we provide a central resource to educate and help protect this group," said Sandy Chalmers, Division Administrator for Trade and Consumer Protection. "At nearly 50 pages, the guide provides a comprehensive look at the scams and consumer issues that seniors encounter in this state, and the tips and information in the guide can help them through difficult issues or help them identify possible scams."

In this latest revision, the format of the Senior Guide has been streamlined to provide less narrative content and more tips for readers. This edition is also the first Senior Guide to be made available for download from the DATCP website.

A number of scams are addressed in the guide including the "grandparents scam," identity theft, international lottery fraud, "storm chaser" contractors, phishing and work-at-home operations. The guide also includes general consumer protection topics such as landlord/tenant laws, filing a complaint with DATCP, protecting personal information and registering for the state's No Call List.

While a wide range of subjects are covered in the Senior Guide, it is important to note that the content in each topic section is adapted from a more comprehensive DATCP factsheet. Those factsheets are always available on the DATCP website on the "Factsheets & Publications" page in the "Consumer" section (http://datcp.wi.gov/Consumer/Factsheets/index.aspx).

The guide is also available as a printed booklet by contacting DATCP's Consumer Information Hotline at 1-800-422-7128.

For additional information or to file a complaint, visit the DATCP website, send an e-mail to datcphotline@wisconsin.gov or call the Consumer Information Hotline.

Woodland Indian Art Show & Market gives thanks

Like so many events in Oneida, the Woodland Indian Art Show could not have successfully marked another year without many volunteers and supporters. The Show and Market were held alongside the Oneida Powwow on July 5, 6, 7, 2013. Thanks to the 2013 WIASM Planning Committee for a job well done: Loretta Webster, Beth Bashara, Sherrole Benton, Susan White, Rae Skenandore, Betty Willems, Becky Webster, Laura Manthe, Jennifer Hill Kelley.

The mission of the Woodland Indian Art Show & Market is "to promote the expression of Great Lakes and upper North American Indian culture through art." The artist is the most important part of pursuing this mission, and each one provides artistic expression to the ancient stories of their culture. Woodland artists are story tellers, and this year's Peoples' Choice award is a fine example of what they do to help us understand Woodland Indian Art. Mark Fischer is a member of the Oneida Nation in Wisconsin. Mark is a copper sculptor who is inspired by the ancient cave art of the Longhouse people. When you look at his art exhibit you see figures and animals from the Longhouse stories of creation, clans, and Peace. Visitors to this year's Art Show and Market registered for tickets to vote for their favorite artist. Thank you to the hundreds of people who stopped in each day to enjoy the awesome display of Woodland Indian Art, and to vote for this year's Peoples' Choice Award, which went to Mark Fischer.

The Woodland Indian Art Show & Market transforms the Norbert Hill Center cafeteria into an art gallery each year. Thanks to the Oneida Business Committee and many tribal staff who made key decisions on behalf of the Woodland Indian Art Show reception: John Christjohn, Artley Skenandore, Chef Arlie Doxtator, and all the art Judges. Awards for the juried art show were announced at the reception, and the results can be seen on the web page www.woodlandindianart.com.

We thank the major sponsors of the art show and market who have faithfully supported this endeavor for six years: Oneida Tribe of Indians of WI , Oneida Nation Arts Program, Wisconsin Arts Board. In addition, we had many donors who responded to our request for support of each award and they are listed below:

Besides our WIASM Planning Committee, we also had volunteers who provided endless hours (it seems) for the 3-day Art Show. Our volunteers answered frequently asked questions, sold raffle tickets, assisted in setting up the juried art exhibit, cooked delicious meals, put up signs and passed out flyers, cleaned up at the end, etc. etc.

Thanks to all the family and spouses of our volunteers and Planning Committee members. We appreciate your patience and understanding during the times they were working to produce a fantastic 2013 Woodland Indian Art Show & Market.

The dates for the Woodland Indian Art Show and Market are set for next year: June 8, 9, 10, 11, 2014 at the Radisson Hotel in Green Bay, WI. The art show will run at the same time as the Annual Native American Tourism of WI Conference.

Maintenance Corner with Justine Hill - Maintenance Supervisor

Fall Home-Maintenance Checklist

By Anne Erickson
MSN Real Estate

With fall in full swing, now's the time to get your home and yard ready for winter.

October is the first full month of fall; by the end of this month, most of your winterization should be completed. Falling leaves and dwindling daylight signal a final opportunity to do some outdoor organizing before winter settles in.

Fire fluency

If you didn't clean your chimney at the end of the heating season, do it now — especially if you burn soft woods, which release more creosote. Preventive maintenance is important.

Detect deadly gas

If you heat your home with wood heat or a gas heater, a carbon-monoxide detector is a must. These devices look and sound like smoke detectors, but they detect carbon-monoxide gas instead. Units that plug into an outlet are also available.

Check batteries in smoke detectors

Daylight saving time ends Nov. 2. Get into the habit of checking smoke-detector batteries when you "fall back" and "spring ahead."

Close seasonal air conditioners

If you live in a place where air conditioners are used, this is a good month to close them down. Switch off power, make sure the condensate drain is clear, and clean condenser coils and filters (a vacuum will do). Either remove window units or cover them, to protect your home from drafts and the units from inclement weather.

Store outdoor furniture

Wash and store outdoor furniture; even furniture designed to stay out year-round will last longer if protected from extreme cold and wet. Empty and store large planters — clay or terra-cotta units will crack if left out to freeze and thaw. Clean and store your gardening tools, but don't put them completely out of reach — shovels are useful year-round.

Winterize external plumbing systems

This is the most important job of fall. The simple fact that water expands upon freezing has caused countless homeowners innumerable woes. Ignore this job and flooding, water damage and thousands of dollars' worth of plumbing bills will be your constant winter companions.

Drain exterior water pipes and any pipes that run through unheated areas (such as a garage, crawl space or unheated porch). If draining these pipes isn't possible, wrap them with foam insulation or heat tape.

Drain and store garden hoses. Leave one hose and nozzle somewhere that's easily accessible; you'll need it for gutter cleaning and car washing.

How will the Per Capita affect your Benefits?

The Oneida Nation Per Capita has been distributed and will affect your SSI and Medicaid health care benefits (including QMB, SLMB and SLMB+). SSI and Medicaid eligibility are based on an individual or family's monthly income and assets. The Oneida per cap is considered income during the month you receive it and an asset anytime following and thus may affect your benefits.

- The Per Capita is considered income the month that it is received and will likely put most people over income for SSI and Medicaid. This means that you will not be eligible for SSI and Medicaid. The only way to become eligible again is to spend the money down until you are within the eligibility guidelines.
- After one month, any remaining Per Capita that you have not spent is now considered an asset, not income. Once you have spent down your Per Capita and are within the SSI and Medicaid assets limits, you will be eligible for SSI and Medicaid again. The maximum asset limit is $2,000 for an individual and $3,000 for a couple.
- You can always spend you Per Capita on home repairs, furniture, pay rent ahead of schedule, etc. to help meet the necessary asset limit.

If you have questions or need assistance determining if the Per Capita will affect you, or reapplying for SSI or Medicaid, contact:

Assembly approves mascot Bill

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Assembly Republicans passed a contentious bill Tuesday that would make it harder to strip public schools of American Indian mascots, sending the proposal on to the Senate despite Democrats' complaints that the measure is racist.

Democrats railed against the bill for 2 1/2 hours on the Assembly floor, taking turns blasting it as an ugly step backward in race relations.

"Indians are real people. They're not mascots," said Rep. Nick Milroy, D-South Range. "Stand up for human rights and human dignity."

The bill comes as the Mukwonago Area School District is fighting a state Department of Public Instruction order to drop its "Indians" nickname and logo depicting an American Indian man in a headdress. District officials say they've used the nickname for more than 80 years; their lawyers say it could cost around $100,000 to change it.

The bill's author, Rep. Stephen Nass, R-Whitewater, represents most of Mukwonago in the Assembly. He defended the bill on the floor, saying the current process for ordering schools to drop their nicknames is too slanted toward complainants and doesn't give districts a fair chance to defend their beloved monikers.

"What's on the books right now is basically an outright ban," Nass said. "Right now the school district is guilty."

Under current state law, DPI must hold a hearing on a school's race-based nickname if the agency receives a single complaint about it. The school must prove the nickname doesn't promote discrimination at a hearing. DPI then decides whether the name must go.

Wis. Senate passes property tax cut

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ The Wisconsin Senate passed Gov. Scott Walker's $100 million property tax cut proposal Tuesday with bipartisan support, even though Democrats complained it was more a political ploy than anything that would truly help people's pocketbooks.

The bill is speeding through the Legislature so it can take effect on property tax bills mailed this December. The Assembly planned to pass it Thursday, just a week after Walker introduced it. Walker hopes to sign it into law Friday.

On average, the tax cut will reduce taxes on the typical home $13 this year and $20 next year, although the exact effect will vary widely statewide based on where a person lives and how much their home is valued. Even under the cut, property taxes are still projected to increase by $11 - from $2,943 to $2,954 - in two years for the median-valued $148,000 home.

Democratic opponents said the $100 million cut sounded good but would actually amount to little for most families and would only hurt the state's budget.

"What we're doing is trying to help the governor get elected," said Sen. Tim Cullen, D-Janesville. "At the end of the day, that is what this bill is all about."

Cullen was one of five Democrats who voted against the bill. The others were Sens. Bob Jauch of Poplar, John Lehman of Racine, and Fred Risser and Mark Miller, both of Madison. All 18 Republicans and 10 Democrats voted for it.

Republicans defended the tax cut as a significant reduction that will be welcomed across the state.

Less money available in Wis. for heating help

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Wisconsin is expected to get less federal money this year to help pay for the heating bills of low income residents.

The Wisconsin Department of Administration says the average heating benefit this season is expected to be $227. That compares with $337 last season.

The heating assistance is available now through May 15. Eligibility is based on household income, household size and the home's heating cost. A family of four must earn less than $47,485 to qualify. An individual can earn no more than $24,692.

The state estimates that about 215,000 people will qualify.

Applications can be made through county social service offices, tribal governments, and private non-profit agencies.

Oneida lends support to Menominee project

Oneida Chairman, sitting left, and Menominee Chairman Craig Corn, sitting right, sign an agreement of support for the proposed casino Menominee wants to build in Kenosha.

The Oneida Tribe has officially thrown their support behind the Menominee Tribe's proposed gaming facility in Kenosha during an October 17 announcement.

"We value this relationship that we have with the Menominee. They are our closest neighbors, they welcomed us here almost 200 years ago. Many of our Oneidas and Menominee have created families. This is good for all of us," said Oneida Tribal Chairman Ed Delgado.

Governor Scott Walker was expected to make his decision on the Kenosha casino last week but due to the amount of information needing review he has extended his deadline. The Kenosha project is opposed by the Ho-Chunk Nation and Forest County Potawatomi.

He cites conflicting job and revenue information from the Menominee, Ho-Chunk Nation, Forest County Potawatomi, and Milwaukee County. In particular, the Ho-Chunk presented a decline in gaming revenues by $19.5 million while the Menominee showed the Ho-Chunk with no loss of revenue.

"During their meeting with me last week, the Menominee representatives suggested an objective review of the data. In particular, they suggested looking to a firm like the Innovation Group. As I noted to them, the Innovation Group is the firm, which conducted a review of the impact of a Kenosha casino to the Ho Chunk's operations, and this firm found it would lead to the aforementioned $19.5 million loss.

"This discussion illustrates the difficulty of getting objective information. With that in mind, I am taking additional time to conduct the due diligence necessary for a decision in the best interest of the entire state of Wisconsin."

The agreement between the Oneida Tribe and Menominee calls for the project to utilize banking services from Oneida's Bay Bank. Bay Bank will provide a variety of financial and banking related services for the Kenosha project.

"It's not a revenue sharing relationship, it's a business relationship. We would be doing some nation-to-nation relationships regarding future business associations. We have agreed to some marketing strategies that protects our markets," said Delgado.

Menominee Chairman Craig Corn was pleased with the Oneida Tribe's decision to support the Kenosha project.

"It's another historic day in Menominee's history. Like (Chairman Delgado) said, we go back 200 years. I always knew in my heart Oneida would support us," he said.

As for the Ho-Chunk and Potawatomi's opposition, Corn is hopeful the sides can get to a point of understanding.

"I won't give up on a possibility we can come to some agreement, I won't give up on that," he said.

Corn also feels after reviewing factual information the Governor will approve the project.

"After a thorough review of the facts I think that he will look at in a different light," said Corn. "There are 8,862 tribal members, he has their future in his hands. I hope that he would see the good things that happened today."

The $800 million gaming facility will feature 100,000 square feet of gaming floor, 400-room upscale hotel with convention space. It will take two years to build.

greet me come home like that," said King. "I never had any recognition from them wars. The Korean War is the forgotten war. Vietnam, if you came home in uniform they ran you out of town."

Much of the trip reminded King of his time in the service.

"I felt wonderful. All of these guys riding the bus were talking on the bus just like we talked in service. Some guys were joking and some were bickering. It brought back memories of being in the service," he said.

When King thought the trip was winding down another surprise was waiting for the group when their plane landed in Appleton.

"When we got off the plane they had a black curtain with us behind it. When they opened it up they had a band and 300-400 people. I was saluting everybody. That's the old military in me, it's never is going to leave me," King said.

Navajos seek new gambling compact

Santa Fe, N.M. (AP) – The Navajo Nation is pushing for a new gambling compact with New Mexico that would allow for three more casinos and potentially less revenue sharing.

Navajo President Ben Shelly told members of the Legislative Finance Committee on Friday that revamping the existing compact would be a win for both his tribe and the state.

Shelly said the tribe's gambling operation – which includes casinos in New Mexico and Arizona – employs 950 people and could be a source of more jobs in the future. A longer-term agreement with New Mexico would also make it easier to get outside financing for projects, he said.

"This has been a long, tough and challenging initiative for the Navajo Nation," Shelly said.

The Navajos have been working on compact revisions for years, but the effort was derailed in the final days of the last legislative session. The current compact will expire in 2015.

As part of the revisions sought by the Navajos, the tribe would be able to increase its number of casinos in New Mexico from two to five.

The proposal also calls for changing the revenue-sharing system. The revenue-sharing rate could potentially increase from the current 8 percent to 10.75 percent by 2037, but the amount shared will vary depending on proceeds from the tribe's casinos and over the duration of the agreement.

The tribe wants to share only an adjusted net win that would take into account payouts to customers who play for free with slot credits offered to draw casino patrons. In fiscal 2012, the Navajo Nation had a total of $64 million in net win money, a figure that would have been lower under the proposed adjustment.

The proposed compact would expire in 2037, and the tribe would not participate in online gambling ventures unless the state authorized Internet gambling.

The legislative committee raised concerns in a report issued earlier this year about the lack of access to tribal gambling data and the Legislature's inability to independently verify whether tribes are adhering to the compacts. The report also raises questions about whether the tribal casino market in New Mexico would become oversaturated if the Navajo Nation were to open more casinos.

Karis Begaye, an attorney with the tribe, said if a compact isn't reached by the expiration date, the tribe could cease any revenue sharing with New Mexico. Begaye added that the National Indian Gaming Commission, a federal agency that oversees and regulates Indian gambling, could shut down Navajo-owned casinos if they are not part of a compact with the state.

"If the compact expires, this would devastate the Navajo Nation financially, as the slot lease agreements and contracts would be placed in jeopardy," Shelly said.

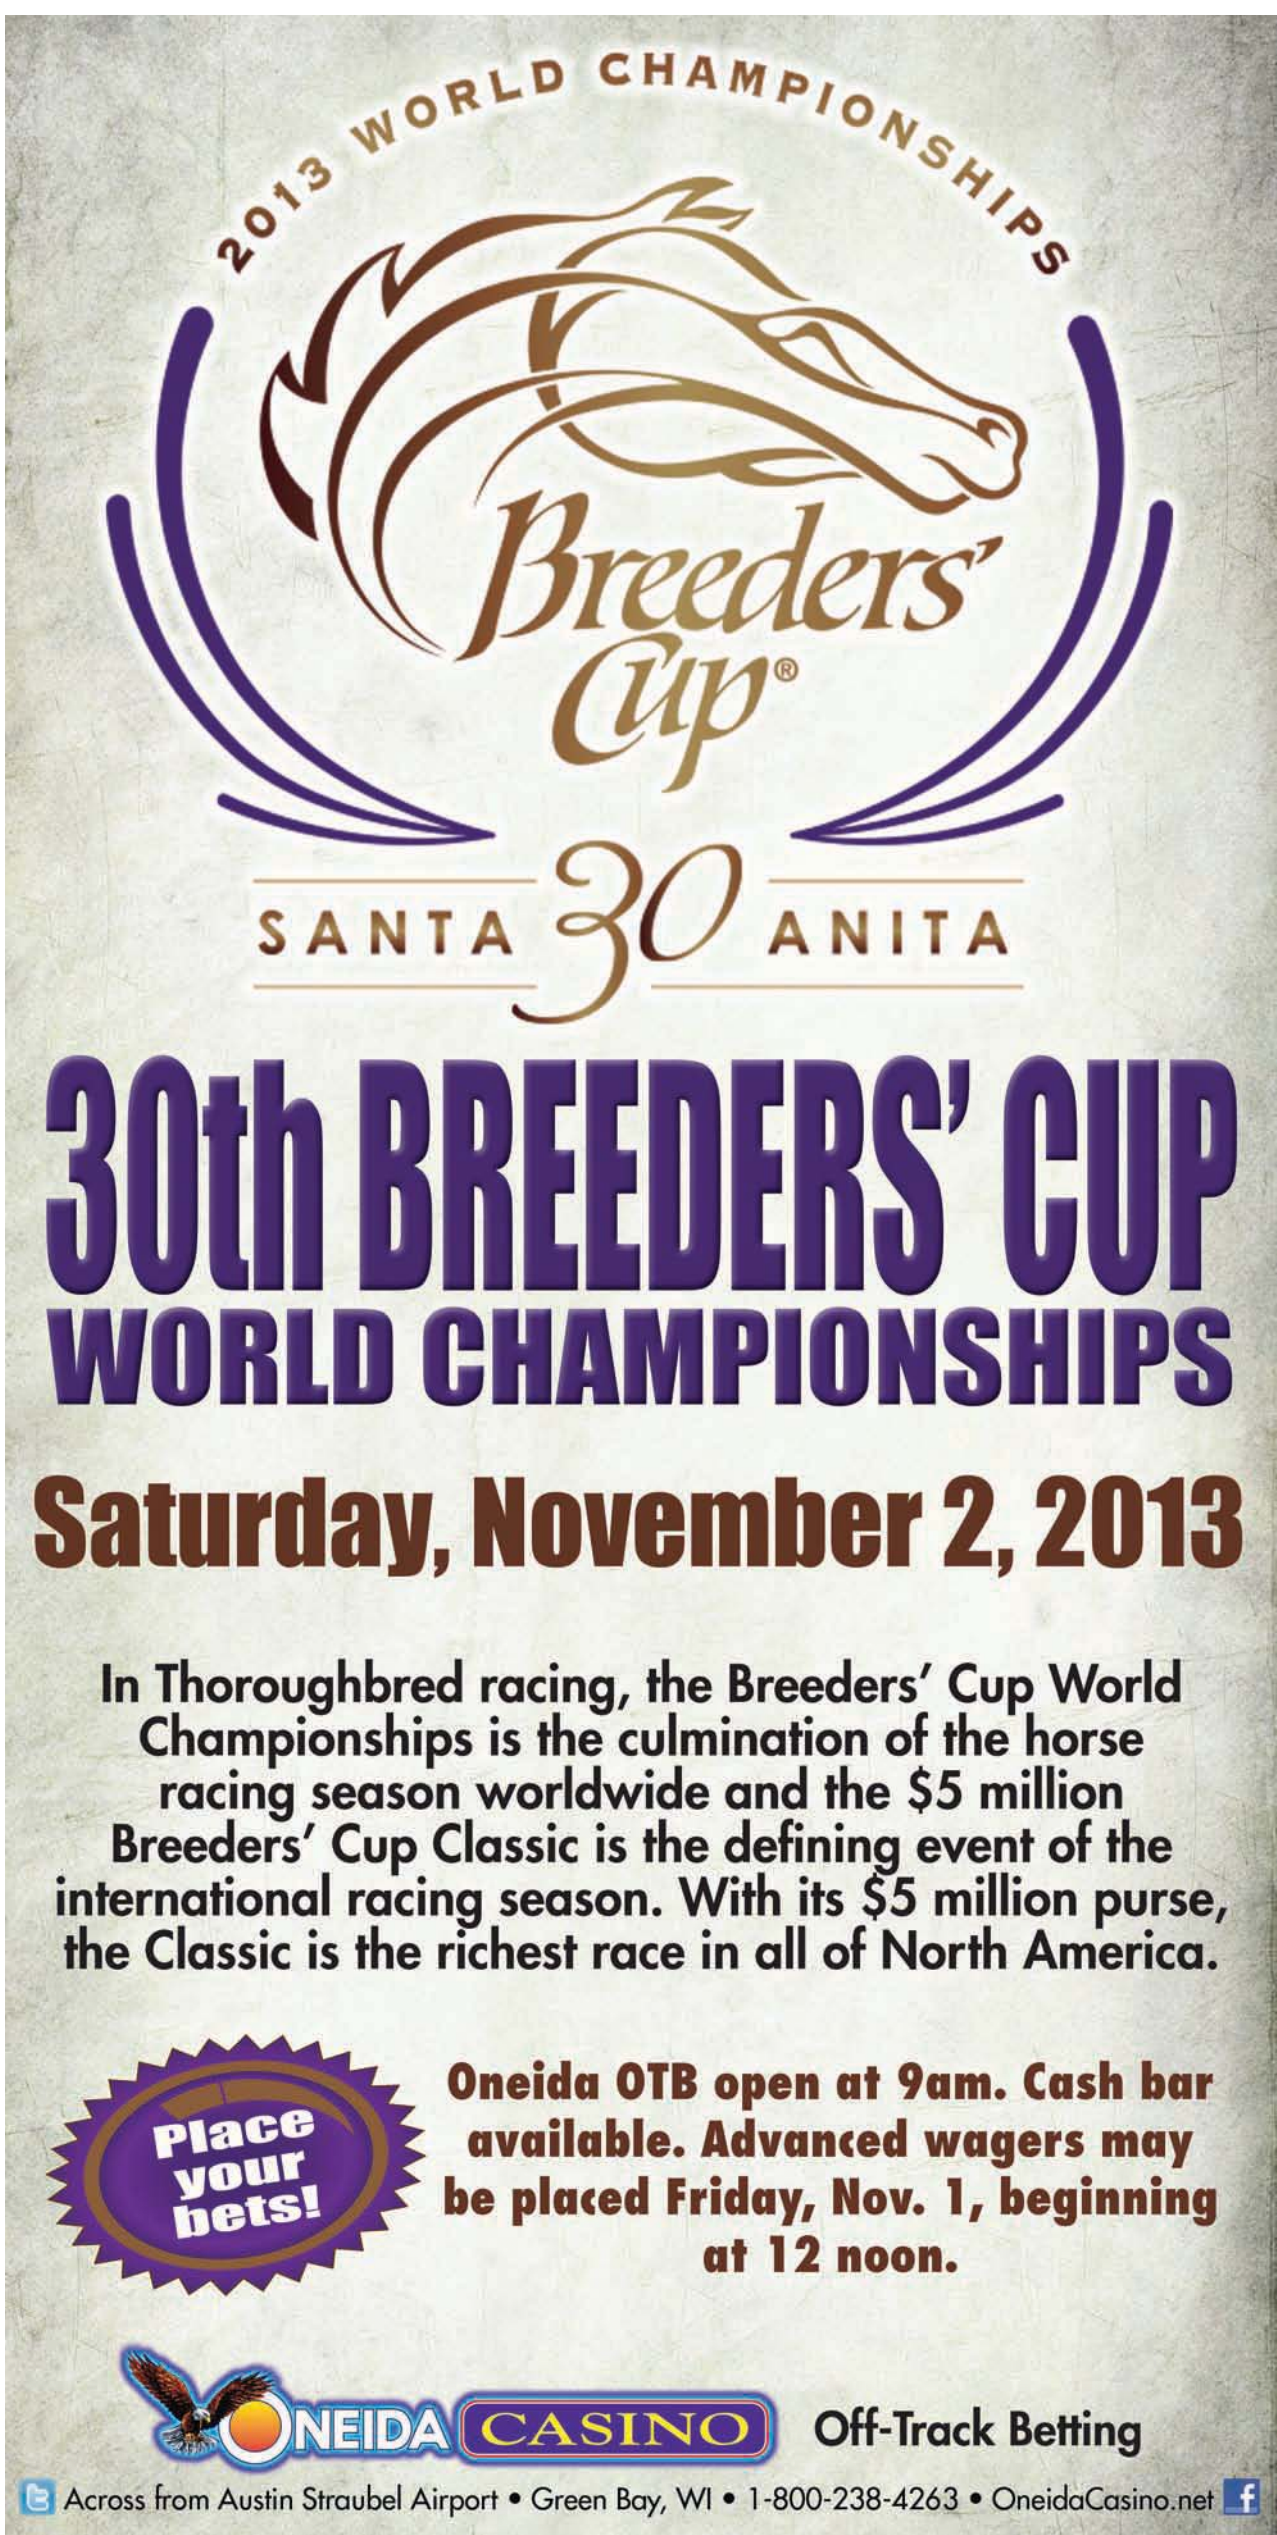
Benefit for Penokee Hills Winter Camp Opposes Mining

Submitted by Sherrole Benton
Special for the Kalihwisaks

There is still hope to stop any mining in the Penokee Hills near the Bad River Chippewa reservation up north. The Oneida Business Committee, (BC) passed a resolution, in February, to support the Lake Superior Chippewa treaty rights in northern Wisconsin, and their opposition to mining in the Penokee Hills.

The LCO Chippewa established the Harvest and Educational Learning Project (HELP) in the Penokee Hills to demonstrate that the value of clean water & air, and a sustainable economy is greater than open-pit mining. Some volunteers are going in for long haul and staying in the camp for the winter near Upson, WI and just downhill from the mining company drill site.



Citizens of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin are hosting a benefit concert and fundraiser to the HELP camp at the Thornberry Creek on Tuesday, Nov. 12, at 7pm featuring Wade Fernandez, and the rock trio Dewy, Rockem & Howe.

The HELP volunteers will stay in the winter in the camp to continue providing tours of the Penokee Hills, public education, and to prepare for a maple sugar camp. They need our help to fortify winter dwellings, support their volunteer work. They work hard to harvest edible foods, fish and game, and make birch bark baskets, and other products from the Penokee Hills natural resources. These natural products contribute to a sustainable local economy in the region.

In contrast, if a mining operation does start up, it would release sulfide, lead, arsenic, asbestos, and mercury into the water and air. These toxic elements would pollute the environment and cause harm to human health and wildlife.

Come early for dinner, stay for the music, good company, and great cause. Wade Fernandez, singer/songwriter will perform at 7pm. The rock trio, Dewey, Rockem, & Howe, will perform at 7:45pm at Thornberry Creek, 4470 Pine Tree Rd, Oneida, WI 54155. There will raffles and silent auctions. The Penokee Hills 2014 calendar will also be available for purchase.

For those unable to attend the fundraiser, an online donation site is available. Sponsorships and other donations can be made on Fundrazr at https://fundrazr.com/campaigns/ccjhe . Join the Facebook event, "Support The Penokee Hills Winter Camp," and invite friends.

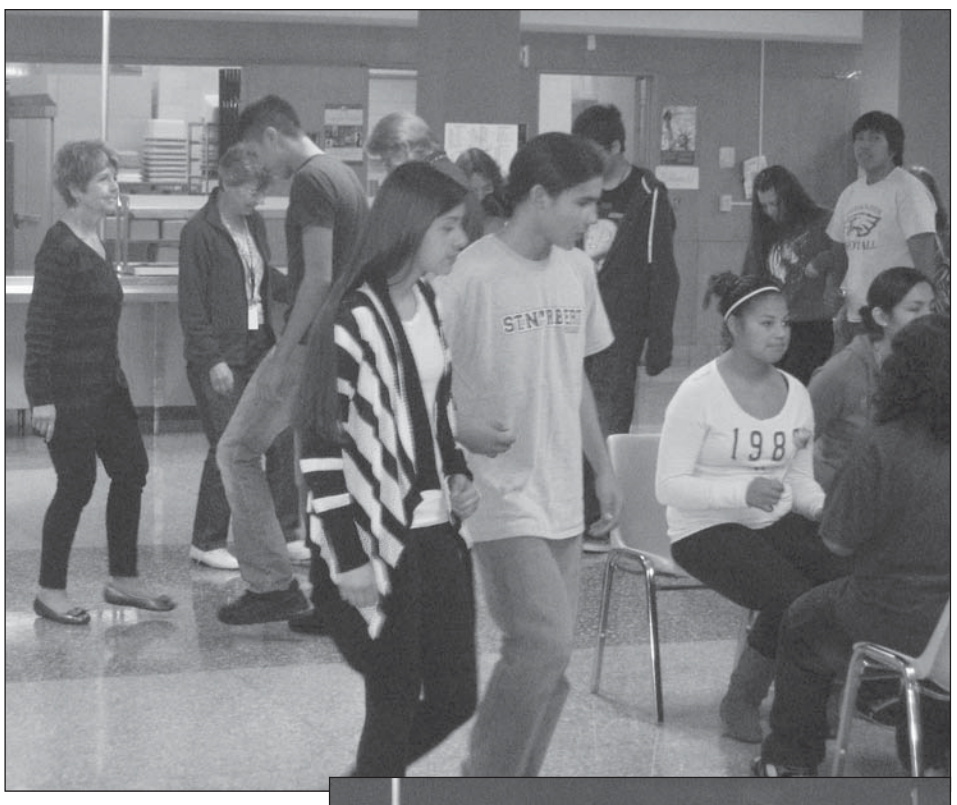
Students celebrate Bosses' Day



By Gerald B. Diamond
Thunderhawk Times

Wednesday, October 16th, 2013 was National Boss' Day. Bosses around the country were recognized and praised for all of their hard work. At Oneida Nation High School, we celebrated Boss' Day with our principal, Mr. Artley Skenandore.

We began the celebration by having the entire school, students and teachers, sneak down to the school cafeteria and wait silently until Ms. Lystra Charnon brought in Mr. Skenandore.

Once he walked in, we greeted him with applause and a jar of his favorite candies. We could tell it was truly a surprise for Mr. Skenandore – he was speechless (and that doesn't happen often!)

After the initial surprise, Mr. Larson proceeded to say a few words of encouragement to Mr. Skenandore on behalf of the staff and students. Next, the students presented Mr. Skenandore with notecards – one from every student at ONHS – which explained why we appreciated him as our principal and how he has helped us to become better students and better people.

When the presentations were finished, Kal^na, Brandon Blackowl, and Mitchell Cornelius collaborated to explain the Friendship Dance, illustrate how it applied to the day's celebration, and encourage all staff and students to join in the dance in honor of Mr. Skenandore. After the Freindship Dance, we were able to enjoy strawberry drink to end the day.

Meet the Reporter: Shy House

By Sheldon Skenandore

Shy House is a senior at Oneida Nation High School. She has attended our school for two years, but she has attended Oneida Nation schools for a long time. She went to Seymour High School for the first two years, but she came back to ONHS.

Shy's favorite sport is basketball. Don't ask her to try and pick one type of music that she has to listen to - she likes to listen to all kinds of music.

Shy's favorite food is chili, and her favorite color is teal. Shy's favorite television show is Pretty Little Liars.

Student Spotlight Tessa Diamond

By Tavia Moore
Thunderhawk Times

Tessa Diamond is a freshman at ONHS and it's her first year in our school system. She has attended West De Pere and Lac Courte Oreilles before Oneida. Her grades are mostly A's and B's. Math and history are her favorite subjects.

She lives in Green Bay with her family which consists of her mother, older brother, and two younger sisters. Her hobbies outside of school include playing baseball, volleyball, or any other sports. She is currently on the volleyball team.

Tessa's plan after she graduates high school is to go to Cosmetology College. According to Tessa, her motivation to go to school is focused on one thing. "I'm only doing it to get money."

The Green Bay Packers are Tessa's favorite sports team. She says, "The reason why I love the Packers is because it's my home town, bro!"

Her favorite movie is White Chicks with the Wayans Brothers. Tessa says, "I love that movie because they are hilarious! Duh!"

Tessa lives by the motto "YOLO" which means "You Only Live Once." When asked for her advice for other students, she said, "Do well in school."

Extreme Halloween: Pumpkin Carving & Real Ghosts

By Kaylynn Powless
Thunderhawk Times

Some people take carving pumpkins to the extreme. I have seen a pumpkin with a realistic snake carving inside, and another pumpkin with an awesome turtle carving that looks realistic and glows scary red. Sometimes the carvings are not carved too deep. I saw one of them in the form of hands, and the other one was a paper butterfly. Both looked totally extreme.

I'm not sure if ghosts are real or not; however, in the world of the dead, it seems like spirits come back from the grave on Halloween night. Ghosts come to play and have some fun scaring people. They even try to wake people up when sleeping. When they do, it is sooooo scary that the person might even wet the bed!

What if, on Halloween night, a ghost or a monster comes up and just wants to say hello? They try to say, "Hi" but all that comes out is, "RRRRRAAAAA and BBBBBOOOOGGGG!" which makes kids on Halloween run a way so fast that they drop their candy. Well, if that happens, at least the monster gets to eat all candy off the ground in the full moon of a fun, scary Halloween night.

The 2013 Volleyball Season

By Ruby John
Thunderhawk Times

The ONHS volleyball regular season started on August 19th and ended on October 18th. This year we actually had a junior varsity and a varsity team! Both teams played really well this year even though we only won 3 games. This year we had a big team, a total of 14 girls, compared to only 8 or 9 girls last year.

We also had many more games this year than last year.

During the beginning of the season, our Coach Kayla assigned us "sisters" during the season. A "sister" is a lower classmen teammate who was paired up with an upper classmen teammate. Throughout the season, the sisters would get each other nice gifts or food before a game. Having sisters was also another way of getting to know each other better and created unity and camaraderie within the team.

Online Student Grade Book

By Vincent Wayne Webster
Thunderhawk Times

The Oneida Nation High School has just made it possible for parents to check their children's grades in a brand-new way - online.

The Oneida Nation School System's Technology Coordinator, John Bestul, said, "A letter is going out in the mail to all parents inviting them to use the NASIS parent portal called Infinite Campus."

This is an online grade book in NASIS which lets parents see all the students' grades, assignments, tardies, absences, food service accounts, and bus information.

There is also an app for that; it is available for iPhone and for Android. A lot of people who are already using NASIS' Infinite Campus have said that the app is better than on the big, bulky computer. On the computer, it makes you click on every class to see the grade and that takes too much time. Through the phone app, all the student information can be seen in one page. Also, when using the phone apps parents can access NASIS whenever and wherever they want.

Chairman's Report

By Ed Delgado
Chairman

CURRENT ISSUES

1. General Tribal Council Meeting. On Sunday, October 27th, the governing body of the General Tribal Council held session and expressed Oneidas living in the Milwaukee area by supporting previous action by: (1) supporting the purchase of a building for the SouthEastern Oneida Tribal Services (SEOTS), an Oneida Tribal department which provides important services for our Oneida population living in the Milwaukee area, and (2) supporting the Milwaukee Polling Place which allows Oneidas living in southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois easier access to voting at the tri-annual elections. If the petition to close the polling place was successful, it would have created a hardship on many Oneidas, especially elders.

Other issues were regarding employees, one being a referendum that would mandate all employees to punch in, the other proposal mandating that management personnel be mandated to sign performance contracts. Both were defeated. Discussion was good. There are some salaried employees that abuse having not to sign in and in certain instances, having performance contracts attached to certain job descriptions could increase productivity. But the general consensus, and I agree, was that the vast majority of our employees, both salaried and those who have to punch in, and managers and Division Directors are good hard working employees who come to work to serve their people. It was also the consensus of the General Tribal Council that the Division Directors should address those employees who abuse the system by being paid but who do not report to work on a consistent basis. I believe that the Oneida Business Committee will direct the Division Directors to address that issue.

2. Tribal Cemetery. Flooding issues continue to be of great concern at the Oneida Tribal Cemetery. Addressing that issue is a priority of the Oneida Business Committee. The Oneida Trust Committee continues to work to address the problem. The Business Committee has at its most recent meeting, directed that all the necessary departments of the Oneida Tribe will provide the technical expertise necessary to address the problem. Vice-Chair Greg Matson has been assigned the task to address the problem on behalf of the Oneida Business Committee.

MESSAGE

The Tribal membership who attend General Tribal Council meeting expect to be able to hear and participate at meetings. And they expect that there will be no personal attacks, verbal or otherwise, on other Oneidas during those meetings. The Business Committee continues to receive complaints regarding meeting participants who are too loud in their conversations, or are talking on their cell phones during the meetings. In addition, at Sunday's meeting, we had an incident whereby a participant started making allegations which included a Tribal member who was not even at the meeting. General Tribal Council is the governing body of the Oneida Tribe. However, it is not an institution where Tribal members can make personal attacks against other Tribal members. When that kind of behavior takes place, the person acting in that improper way will have their microphone turned off and if the improper behavior continues, they will be removed from the meeting. That has been the policy in the past and that policy will continue. I am sorry to write about such a negative activity in this Message, but respectful behavior is a very important issue when there over a thousand people gathering together to make decisions regarding the future of their Tribe. In fact, I believe respectful behavior towards others is generally a good way to conduct one's life.

Treasurer's Report

By Cristina Danforth
Oneida Tribal Treasurer

On October 1, 2013 the Federal Government ordered a partial shutdown which basically meant all grant funds would be frozen until an agreement was reached. On October 18, 2013 a temporary agreement was reached. There has been no guarantee from the Federal Government that any expenditures during the frozen period are going to be reimbursed or that any programs that continued to operate will receive funding for the weeks the government was shut down. This has created a shortfall in our FY14 budget.

For starters, the Health Center budgeted to receive $2M in Tribal Contribution this year. Without any federal dollars or guarantees that expenses will be reimbursed the budgeted $2M will not last too long. In an effort to save cash, the Health Center changed all Contract Health referrals to Priority 1A which means the condition must be life threatening. If a situation is not life threatening, patients may go to the ER but will be responsible to pay for their visit out of their own pocket. Unfortunately this has caused some problems for some patients that had scheduled surgeries and other needed procedures.

I would like to believe this one change will make enough of an impact that the rest of the Health Center would not be affected but from a financial perspective, it is not enough. To further cut expenses, the Health Center has discontinued all travel unless deemed necessary and will stop dispensing over the counter medications in the pharmacy and cut 90 day prescriptions to a 30 day supply.

These steps alone are not enough to help us weather the government shutdown. Any of our grant programs who are on a fiscal year cycle of October 1 – September 30 have not received their federal monies. Without any dollars, two things could have been done. The first, like the government employees, our employees could have been placed on furlough which basically means laid off until their grant money is released by the government. The second, we could pay the wages of these employees through use of their budgeted funds from other health areas.

Through many discussions, the Business Committee determined that the executive contingency fund was to be used not only to pay grant employee wages but for the Health Center to use to continue to operate. Since management did not supply the Business Committee with a needed amount, I am concerned with how this decision will impact the entire organization. What happens if the executive contingency fund is not enough to cover incurred expenses?

Unfortunately many people in our community do not understand the financial impact the government shut down has had on our Tribe or will potentially happen again when the temporary agreement runs out in February. It is necessary for every area to tighten up and conserve as much cash as possible. This money is needed to make up for the department funds units whose federal fund allocation is still pending release and reimbursement.

These measures are a short term fix for a potentially long term problem. The Business Committee has asked all areas to develop contingency plans for their respective areas. While some areas of the tribe have been very diligent in making recommendations; there are others who prefer not to and want Finance and or the Business Committee to direct them.

I would like the organization and the community to be patient and understanding at this time. Finance and I will do our best to give direction and execute plans as deemed necessary.

OBC Forum

Vince DelaRosa
Councilman

In this report I wanted to talk about a few ongoing issues which are in front of us. We are at a sort of turning point; financially we have many challenges we need to respond to as we look across a spectrum of serious policy and economic issues.

SEOTS

Going back some 6 to 7 years ago, I was pushing to build a vibrant community that included a real economic movement, a housing movement, and a movement to usher in outside investors who were interested in investing in SEOTS and the SEOTS community. Outside investors could have provided financing options to help spark a new home building movement in Milwaukee. There was also the potential of creating a 501(c)3. Unfortunately, back then – as it is now, I could not receive the support needed to bring those plans to fruition.

I had been asked to originally support the 68th and Morgan site at the time because there would be an opportunity to do something bigger for the SEOTS community down the road. That time has come and all attempts to set up an avenue for building a suitable new building for SEOTS have been strongly resisted. Instead, support has been given to purchase an old existing building for SEOTS on 52nd Street. I have personally visited the 52nd Street twice and believe it is a very questionable choice. I cannot understand the support for this site over a brand new facility. A new facility would actually cost us less, so it is puzzling why and how a more costly, old existing building is being supported over a brand new building.

The difference in these two locations is startling and dramatic. If a blind survey of independent people were completed, the results would not even be close because everyone would clearly favor the idea of a new building. I have received numerous inquiries from tribal members asking about the status of the SEOTS building and questioning the decisions that have been made thus far. Not one person I have talked to supports the purchasing of an old existing building, with limited space, over a dynamic new building that offers more space at a cheaper price. A new facility would have included a much more conducive outside setting, where even powwow grounds or a lacrosse field were possible. Economically, the lack of support doesn't make any sense; a new building with anywhere from a $400,000 to $700,000 in a pay-as-you TIF was available and this has all been disregarded in favor of an old building.

The SEOTS community should have hope, but there needs to be affirmative actions to seek out that hope. Someday, somehow, things should change. An old building is not the answer for Milwaukee Oneidas. Vibrancy in that community will not be advanced by going into another old building.

Menominee – Kenosha Project

As many of you are likely aware, the Tribe has been meeting and discussing options for supporting the Menominee Tribe's pursuit of an off-reservation gaming project.

I felt it was important, from a negotiations perspective, to find a common avenue where job creation could be supported. I acknowledge the need and value of all tribes working together and supporting each other equally but this must be balanced with the reality of the economic impact to us here locally. The impact of this project could be substantial long-term, therefore as a fiduciary, we have to balance our interests delicately and prioritize an economic role.

I did ask that we look at pressing the issue of creating new economic sanctioned zones on all reservations and in nine other locations where substantial Indian populations reside. The idea was to make sure gaming payments to the state come back to all tribes. I have also asked over the last year that we advance a role in the management work, development work and financing.

Wake-Up Call- Weak Auditing and No Diversification can spell trouble!

I will say, this government, and all tribal governments need to turn our full attention to economic diversification efforts. This includes most tribes needing major upgrades to auditing, budgeting and business performance standards. For Oneida, we are really in a slow and emerging crisis, which started in earnest in 2007. I have been talking about these matters and trying to carve out financial independence for us since 1986. Even during financial struggles, too many are fighting any level of change regardless of what the issue is. There is so much to say here, I won't go into every detail but I do want to touch on a few highlights. We need to consider advancing an economic model with a new policy framework that is backed by a desire to change.

Government Shutdown and Furloughs

The impact of the recent political push-and-shove by Congress should be a wake-up call for all of us. It became quickly evident how much of our economic security relies on federal funding. With the resulting government shutdown, the BC had to quickly work with self-governance and the division directors to anticipate and closely monitor the impacts of the shutdown across Indian country.

The Departments of the Interior and Health and Human Services had contingency plans and provided summaries of the impact regarding the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Bureau of Indian Education, Office of the Special Trustee, and Department of Health and Human Services. Some areas, such as in the education area were not going to be dramatically impacted right away because the schools are forward funded for this school year. Other

The proposed Child Care Complaint Policy (Policy) creates a process for filing a complaint with the Oneida Child Care Department (Department), and the Department's responsibilities when handling a complaint. The new Policy will:

- Allow a parent, guardian, or anyone on the child's emergency contact list, or anyone who witnesses an act of child abuse or neglect to file a complaint.
- Have a separate process for investigating complaints that involve child abuse or neglect.
- Require Staff members accused of child abuse or neglect to be placed on investigative leave.
- Allow the person who filed a complaint to appeal to the Area Manager and the Judiciary if dissatisfied with the findings or corrective action plan.
- Require the Department staff to document and report any unethical or inappropriate behavior they witness.
- Form a parent/teacher organization.

Notice of Public Meeting

March 3, 2012
1:00 p.m.
OBC Conference Room
2nd Floor, Norbert Hill Center

Topic: Amendments to the Indian Preference Law

This Public Meeting is being held to consider a proposal that would: replace the current Indian Preference Law with a new, expanded and updated Law. The amendments expand the provisions for hiring certified Indian-owned business and Skills Bank workers to complete Tribal Projects. In addition, the amendments:

- Establish the Indian Preference Office in law and make that office responsible for the implementation, monitoring and enforcement of the Law.
- Clarify how a business qualifies as Indian-owned, by expanding on the criteria reviewed before certification is granted.
- Requires compliance agreements be negotiated by the Indian Preference Office to establish the number of Indian workers that must be hired for a project and their benefits and wages.
- Incorporate the provisions of Rider I for Construction Contracts into the Indian Preference Law.
- Remove the License Commission from the process, as that Commission is not being utilized.
- Establishes complaint and investigation processes in the Law.

areas though, such as in health services felt a more immediate impact due to the amount of funding received through Indian Health Services (IHS).

Due to the anticipated financial and immediate impact to the tribe, an emergency furlough policy was adopted by the BC on October 9, 2013. Although I supported the policy and the need for emergency legislative, I have raised some concerns in how it was adopted outside of the recently adopted Legislative Procedures Act (LPA). I did share these concerns in writing and there was support to move this in a correct direction. We all have agreed the LPA and tribal law outline a clear process for adopting legislation on an emergency basis and unfortunately these processes were not followed, due to the emergency nature of these advancing issues.

Here were the concerns I raised over this issue:

1. The Legislative Operating Committee (LOC) did not review the legislation prior to BC consideration.
2. A legislative analysis was not attached.
3. The policy was not adopted by resolution.
4. A Statement of Effect (SOE) was not included.

As soon as I realized these oversights, I sent my concerns to the BC in hopes that the policy would be lawfully adopted. The LOC has added this matter to the next LOC meeting.

Economic Initiatives

My staffer pulled together a list of recommendations that I have made during just this term; I have tried to pursue the creation of at least 400 jobs, with the building of 300 plus homes thus far. These efforts included a home building plant which could have advanced the quality of life for our Oneida people. So many people need home additions, remodeling on many levels, Do-Do home add-ons and the like. The home building plant could have easily built new homeless shelters, college dorms for many university clients, and obviously custom built new homes in six week time frames.

My goal for years has been to create tribal member enterprises and to help the tribe advance other business opportunities for the Oneida people, from a jobs standpoint. The Oneida Homes Building plant was such a measure.

As the author of Oneida Small Business 2000, I have pushed for small business growth throughout the state that is leveraged with the economic strength of the tribe. On the Oneida reservation, if we were to advance business options like this, the impact would be immediate.

Budget

On the tribal budget, we've been told we need to downsize payroll and tighten up our budgets. I recently tried to advance a whistleblower law so we could have a proper avenue and forum for some independent reporting. However, we encountered obstacles with our control environments, making it difficult to finalize a workable draft. The local control environments are not up to speed. This comes directly from the auditing area, saying we need vast improvements in the control environments prior to putting a whistleblower law in place; this is of grave concern.

Diversification

On the idea of diversification, there are so many serious issues coming towards us. The potential economic impact of IGaming here is extraordinary. Some project brick and mortar casinos could be impacted by 25%. Considering we're not even meeting our own projected numbers, this could pose a grave danger to us economically. We have been looking at this issue and recently we've learned, there is no real opportunity in IGaming. Without proper legislation through Congress we would be locked-out of the direction where this is going.

Oneida needs to consider its own stimulus bill in order to create an economy which can run parallel with the tribe, but be independent of the tribe. We are a major economic player, but we need diversification so we can leverage our economic strength to the advantage of our tribe and our people. This should involve the enhancement of local regional relationships because local partnerships are vitally important. Tying some of our economic movements with locals will, in the long-term, insulate our business interests. This can also help bring resources to bear on deals we may have or tribal member businesses may have. All of this may help spark desperately needed innovation and ultimately change.

The targeted expenditure of every single Oneida dollar should be the focus. Focus really has to be on the people, the processes, and the products. What and how we deliver to our customers and our clients, the making of money and the spending of money needs to be more closely measured. I have raised these issues, trying to balance cost with expenditures. I share this quote, because it means so much here: "Because the purpose of business is to create a customer, the business enterprise has two–and only two–basic functions: marketing and innovation. Marketing and innovation produce results; all the rest are costs." - Peter Drucker

Soon we'll need to closely look at having absolute economic metrics and measurements in place. Since we do not run operations off of any tax base, we need to merge-up auditing and budget checks along with appropriation oversights. I have tried to harness this type of movement but it has been difficult. I am happy to see attempts now to get a budget management act in place, this is the first step. There are many things that need to be dove-tailed with those budget efforts, auditing being one of them.

Also, the cost of goods sold need to be weighed. How much should it cost to run operations that make money? There is an industry staffing standard. On the spending side of the balance sheet, how much does the bureaucracy cost, what is that true cost? How much should it cost to deliver services? I look at the budget as money makers, money spenders, and service providers, we need to bore down on these issues.

The economic vitality of Oneida is at stake, someday, somehow, things should change.

Thanks for reading my article; I hope you have a great winter season.

The Oneida Tribe Legislative Operating Committee

LOC Update

Legislative Operating Committee Progress Report: Completed Items (To Date) for the 2011-14 Term

New Tribal Legislation

The following is a list of all of the new legislation that was processed by the LOC, adopted, and which went into effect this term:

Gaming Regulations: Vendor Licensing
Adopted on an emergency basis on May 25 and November 9, 2011. On May 23, 2012, the OBC adopted this regulation on a permanent basis. This new Regulation (Vendor Licensing and Permitting Regulations, OGC R#1) governs the issuance of vendor licenses by the Gaming Commission as provided for in the Oneida Nation Gaming Ordinance.

Concealed Weapons Law
Passed as a Resolution adopted by the OBC on October 26, 2011. The Tribe now prohibits weapons on Tribal public property, including Tribal Building, Gaming and Retail Establishments, Facilities, Construction Sites, Vehicles and at Tribally Sponsored Events.

Tribal Environmental Response Law
Adopted by the OBC on September 12, 2012. This Law establishes a Tribal Environmental Response Program to address situations where the discharge or potential discharge of a hazardous substance has occurred and may have contaminated the environment.

Judiciary Act
Adopted by the GTC on January 7, 2013. This Law was created to strengthen and redefine the authority of the Tribal Judicial System. It establishes the new Tribal Judiciary.

Legislative Procedures Act (LPA)
Adopted by the GTC on January 7, 2013. The LPA is a new law that streamlines the law-making process, replacing the law-making provisions from the Administrative Procedures Act.

Family Court
Adopted by the OBC on May 8, 2013. As directed by the GTC at the January 7, 2013 meeting, this Law creates a Family Court, which requires increased qualifications for the judges.

Oneida Tribal Judiciary Canons of Judicial Conduct
Adopted by the OBC on June 12, 2013. This is a comprehensive set of rules and guidance for the new Tribal Judiciary to ensure Judges maintain the highest ethical standards and behavior.

Amendments to Existing Tribal Legislation

The following is a list of all of the changes to existing Tribal laws that were processed by the LOC and adopted this term:

Severance Law
Resolution adopted by the OBC on October 26, 2011. The LOC processed a directive from the OBC to consider repealing this Law. However, the OBC ultimately adopted a new Resolution instead, reaffirming OBC Resolution 9-14-94-B—Prohibiting Severance Payments.

Hunting, Fishing and Trapping Law
Adopted by the OBC on December 14, 2011 and May 22, 2013. The LOC processed seasonal amendments to this Law twice this term.

Indian Preference Law: HUD Compliance
Adopted by the OBC on an emergency basis on March 28, 2012 and September 12, 2012. Amendments were made to ensure the order of preference was compliant with the federal requirements that enabled HUD to provide grant funding to the Tribe.

Personnel Policies and Procedures: Grievance Process
Adopted by the OBC on March 28, 2012. Amendments revise the grievance process to remove the role of the General Manager, since that position has been eliminated.

Per Capita Law: Fraudulent Diplomas, Tax Liens, Attachments
Adopted by the OBC on May 9, 2012. The amendments add a penalty for the use of fraudulent diplomas to obtain per capita trust funds, clarify the attachment process to make it more efficient, and allow per capita payments to be attached for federal tax liens after child support arrears and Tribal debt has been satisfied.

Personnel Policies and Procedures: Vacation and Personal Cap
Adopted by the GTC on July 2, 2012. Amendments place a 280 hour limit on the total combined amount of vacation and personal time a Tribal employee can accrue.

Per Capita Law—Payment Date
Adopted by the OBC on an emergency basis on September 12, 2012, and on a permanent basis on August 14, 2013. These amendments enable per capita payments to be made on or before September 30th, instead of only on September 30th. This addresses situations where September 30th falls on a non-business day.

Child Support Law
Adopted by the OBC on October 10, 2012. Amendments update various sections of the Law, including long-arm jurisdiction procedures and provisions addressing jurisdiction over a nonresident. Additional changes streamline the law and clarify the difference between payment of arrears and past due child support.

Paternity Law
Adopted by the OBC on October 10, 2012. General changes were made to update the law, including changing the name of the enforcement agency.

GTC Meeting Stipend Payment Policy
The OBC adopted these amendments on an emergency basis on October 24, 2012 and February 13, 2013. The changes prevented members under age 21 from attending GTC meetings until facilities that seat over 2,500 people were identified. Amendments also prevented members who leave the ballroom area and related bathroom facilities from receiving the GTC meeting stipend.

Administrative Procedures Act
Adopted by the GTC on January 7, 2013. The Tribe's legislative process was pulled out of this Law and incorporated into the new LPA.

Independent Contractor Policy
Adopted by the OBC on February 27, 2013. Amendments address the Tribe contracting with current Tribal employees or employee-owned businesses.

Indian Preference in Contracting
Adopted by the OBC on March 27, 2013. Comprehensive revisions were made to update and strengthen this Law. The amendments also clarify how a business qualifies as Indian-owned; require compliance agreements be negotiated by the Indian Preference Office; incorporate the provisions of the Rider I Policy; establish a complaint and investigation processes in the Law; and enable the Indian Preference Office to create a fine schedule.

Room Tax Law
Adopted by the OBC on an emergency basis on June 27, 2012 and December 12, 2012, and on a permanent basis on June 12, 2013. The Law was amended to remove the set tax rate, and to allow the OBC to set a room tax rate by resolution.

Marriage Law
Adopted by the OBC on June 12, 2013. Amendments address the fact that the State will only accept original copies when issuing certified copies of a marriage license.

Small Business Loans Law (Formerly Small Business Project 2000)
Adopted by the OBC on August 28, 2013. Amendments increased the required owner's contribution rate, decreased the loan cap amount for loans where no real estate was involved, and allow the loan interest rates to be set by the OBC. The OBC then adopted an interest rate for loans by BC Resolution 09-11-13-A.

Cemetery Law
Adopted on an emergency basis by the OBC on October 9, 2013. Amendments enable any person to purchase a cemetery plot for someone eligible to be buried in the Tribal Cemetery.

Active Files List Update: New Items

In the LOC Update published in the July 25, 2013 issue of the Kalihwisaks, we identified all of the legislative proposals that were being processed by the LOC. Since then, the following items have been added to the LOC's Active Files List. The LOC is now also processing these proposals for OBC and/or GTC consideration.

Alcohol Beverage Licensing Law Amendments
The Licensing Department has requested amendments to allow the Licensing Department to accept applications and grant Alcohol Beverage licenses under the Law. Under the current Law, the Tribal Secretary accepts the applications and the OBC grants the licenses.

Whistleblower Law
A new Whistleblower law has been requested to replace the Employee Protection Law and provide a more comprehensive avenue for complaints to be processed in a confidential manner.

Employment Law
The LOC is processing a request for the development of an employment law to replace the current Personnel Policies and Procedures.

Fitness for Duty Policy
The LOC is processing a request for a new policy to address employees who are not fit for duty, and who may present a health and/or safety hazard.

Bylaws
The LOC is processing proposed amendments to the Library Board Bylaws and SEOTS Board Bylaws.

Bealer crosses San Francisco Bay

Lemoore, CA resident Stephanie Bealer and support swimmer Darrin Connolly on their way from Alcatraz Island to San Francisco on October 14. Bealer (Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin), was among a group of American Indians from South Dakota, WIsconsin, Washington and California who participated in the 11th annual PATHSTAR Alcatraz Swim Week (October 6 to 14) in San Francisco and Bay Area locales. The swim week is a component of a year-round program to inspire healthy eating and a stay active lifestyle among American Indian and Alaska Natives. Visit: www.pathstar.org.

Oneida citizen Stephanie Bealer swam the San Francisco Bay to cap off a week of learning about healthy eating and active lifestyles on Monday, October 14.

"It was a life changing experience and I plan on doing it again next year," said Bealer.

The week long seminar was held by PATHSTAR which works with American Indian/Alaska Native (AIAN) communities to encourage healthy eating and active lifestyle practices to fight diabetes and related diseases. Bealer participated in the program in memory of her grandmother Catherine (Skenadore) Bealer who died from complications from Type II Diabetes.

"It pretty much took over her life and wound up … She wound up getting toes amputated all the way up to her leg, and it eventually took her life," she said.

According to the American Diabetes Association, of the approximately 33 million AIAN, over 16% have diabetes – the highest rate of any race or ethnicity in the U.S. Bealer plans to share what she's learned with her clients at the Owens Valley Career Development Center in Owens Valley, Calf.

"I want to share that with the Native community and my family, because being Native, you're already at a high risk for certain things," said Bealer. "If anything I want to shake up my family members."

Participants in the PATHSTAR training worked their way up to swimming the 1.5 mile distance from Alcatraz Island to Aquatic Park by taking a series of short swims without wetsuits and building up to longer swims.

"Basically, we were acclimating our bodies to the water, because what happens when your body gets into the water your body goes into shock and you can literally feel the all blood rushing to your heart," said Bealer. "(You) do the mind over body thing and control your breathing and know that you'll be ok and it takes a few minutes to pass and you start swimming."

Bealer was the first of her PATHSTAR group to complete the swim, but took time to enjoy the experience.

"I did take time to realize where I was at, glancing back and seeing Alcatraz behind me as I was making my forward motion and glancing over and seeing the Golden Gate on one side and then the Oakland Bay Bridge on the other side, it was pretty surreal," she said.

Bealer is looking forward to swimming in the ocean again, even if it's the chilly San Francisco Bay with an average water temperature of 55 degrees Fahrenheit.

"I'm a swimmer, I've been swimming my entire life, I've swam on competitive swim teams and I've swam in a pool but I've never swam in the open water. So this is my first experience in an open water swim, and it wasn't just open water, it was freaking cold. It was definitely different, and I already miss it, that's what's crazy is that I already miss swimming in the ocean," she said with a laugh.

About PATHSTAR: PATHSTAR (www.pathstar.org) works with American Indian/Alaska Native (AIAN) communities to encourage healthy eating and active lifestyle practices to fight diabetes and related diseases. Swim week participants make a yearlong commitment as ambassadors for healthy change, sharing their experience with their family and community. Participants have returned home to develop community and school gardens, coach high school and community sports, work on anti-obesity initiatives and fitness and diabetes prevention programs.

Got Guns!? Put Em' on the Table

Salt Lake City, Utah – "Get some!" "Take em' down!" These are not screams you would only hear at an Ultimate Fighting Championship but also at an arm wrestling competition. Utah is not only home to two legends in arm wrestling (Bob Brown and John Brzenk), but is now also the birthplace of U.S. Wheelchair Armwrestlers. Wakely Chee, President and founder, is a U.S. Army Veteran and Oneida/Navajo amputee who has long felt there to be a place for armwrestling (often referred to as "pulling") in the disabled sports arena. Especially with large competitions that already exist such as the Warrior Games, National Veterans Wheelchair Games, and the Paralympics. Comments Chee, "Please understand my intention is not to knock the athletes, but if you can have curling as an Olympic sport… why not arm wrestling as a Paralympic sport specifically for wheelchair competitors.

Wakely Chee

Chee also points out that arm wrestling is not just pure brute strength. "There is plenty of technique involved and serious training that requires dedication and commitment." Just ask any professional arm wrestler. Many will recall the movie "Over the Top" starring Slyvester Stallone with John Brzenk as a competitor extra. There is absolutely no reason that kind of adrenaline pumping excitement should be solely for able bodied arm wrestlers. "The time has come for the John Brzenk of wheelchair arm wrestlers to be identified.

"My dream," says Chee, is to eventually have the sport included as a venue in some of the larger disabled sports competitions such as the Warrior Games and would ultimately love to see it included in the Paralympics. Chee stated the U.S. Wheelchair Armwrestlers website, has currently had hits from six different countries as far away as Russia, Belgium, Australia, and Finland. From the U.S. alone, individuals from 28 different States have visited the website, "so the interest is definitely there." Chee is frustrated with the misconception that "whenever it comes to anything associated with the disabled, for whatever reason, most people believe that serving entities must be non-profit." U.S. Wheelchair Armwrestlers website is set up as fee for membership. However, for a limited time, those interested in competing can register for free. Any potentially interested competitors can register at www.uswheelchairarmwrestlers.com

Right now Chee is in the process of organizing the first "Roll'n & Pull'n" armwrestling tournament and seeking both competitors and sponsors. Those interested may contact him by calling (801) 867-8260.

Duck Creek Trail to be completed to Pamperin Park

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks
nwisnes@oneidanation.org
@NWisneski_Kali

After three years community members will get to complete their trip down the Duck Creek Trail to Pamperin Park.

Currently the trail connects to the Newton Blackmour State Trail in Seymour and stops at Jason Drive in Oneida. The crushed stone trail runs along Highway 54 and Riverdale Drive.

The trail completion to Pamperin Park in Green Bay stalled in 2008 as funding and land ownership issues came to light.

"When the tribe began construction of the trail on the Brown County side of the reservation in 2008, a landowner living next to the trail called Hobart police to claim the tribe was trespassing on his property. The police asked the tribal employees to leave and to bring in proof that the tribe owned the land. That same day, the tribe provided Hobart with documents demonstrating the tribe owns the property. However, the tribe decided to not continue with the construction of the trail because it did not want to get involved in another lawsuit. Recently, the Oneida Business Committee decided that the public benefits of completing the construction of a safe walking and biking trail outweighed the threat of litigation.," said Becky Webster, Senior Staff Attorney.

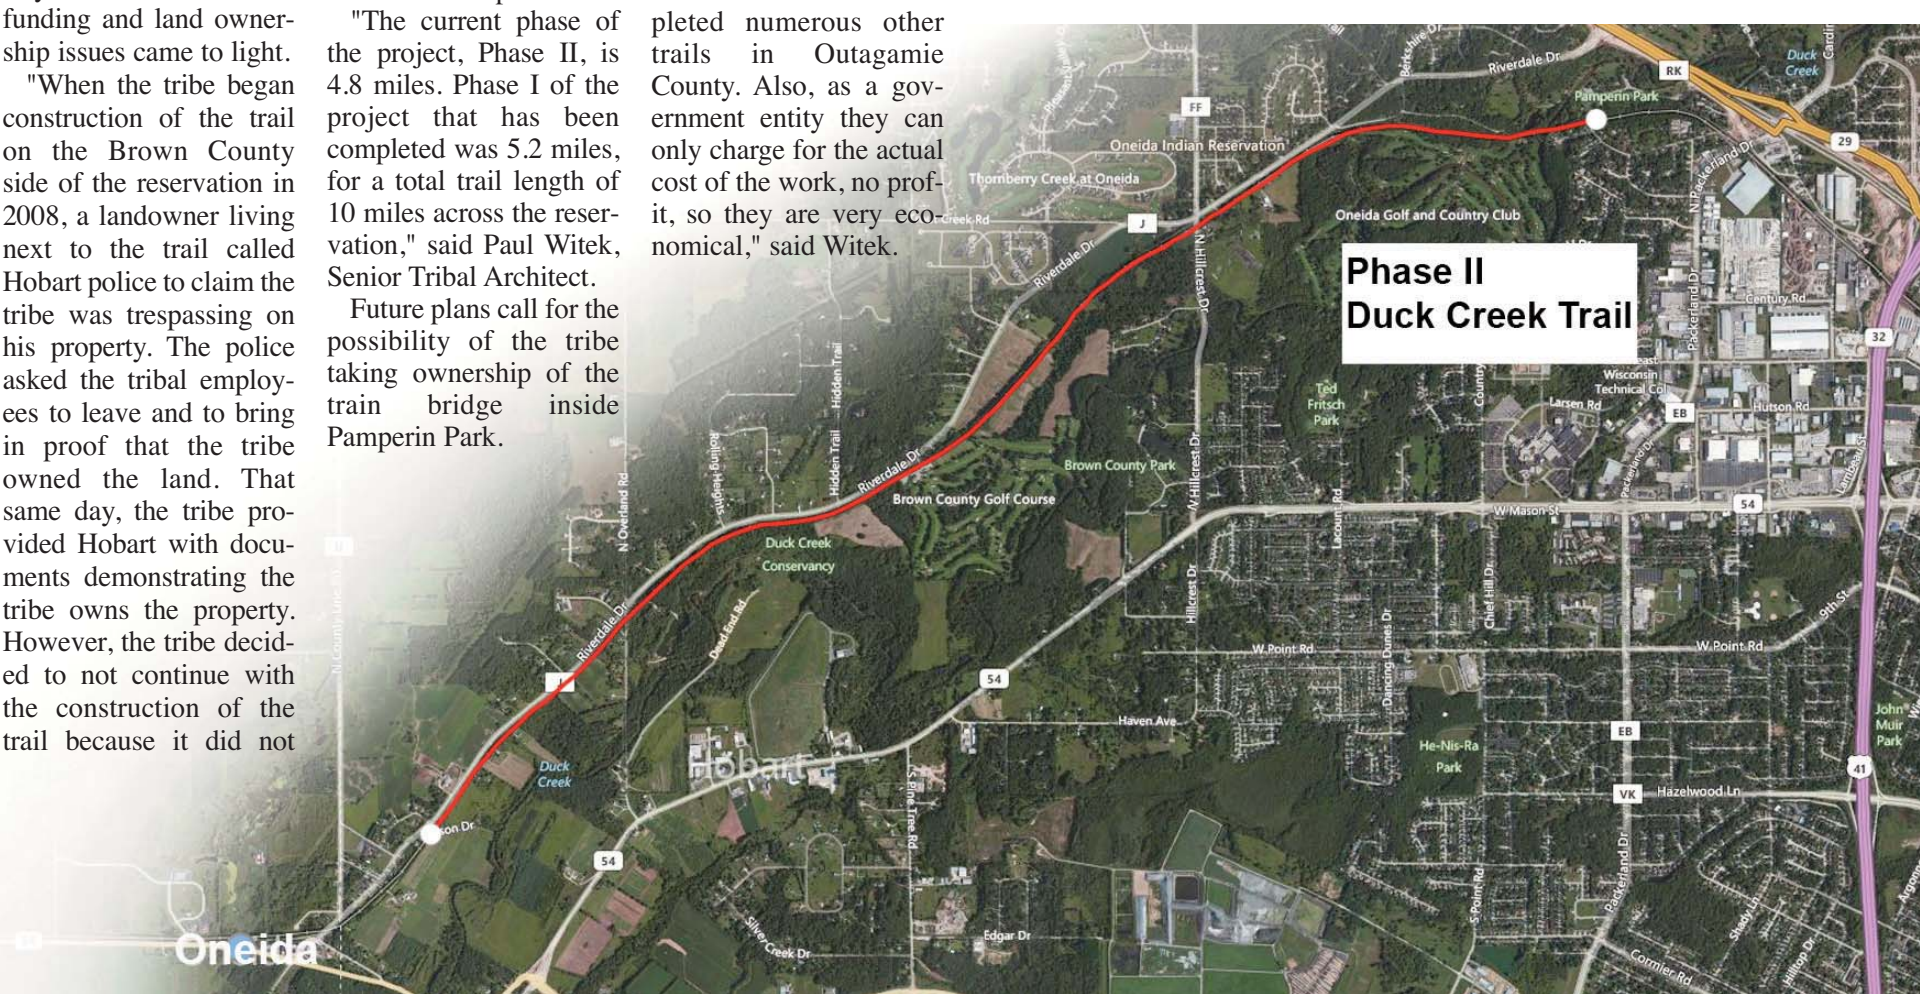
Work is set to begin Monday, November 18 and be completed during the week of December 2.

The completed trail will allow community members to get as far west as Black Creek to as far east as Pamperin Park.

"The current phase of the project, Phase II, is 4.8 miles. Phase I of the project that has been completed was 5.2 miles, for a total trail length of 10 miles across the reservation," said Paul Witek, Senior Tribal Architect.

Future plans call for the possibility of the tribe taking ownership of the train bridge inside Pamperin Park.

"The current plan is for the tribe to assume ownership of the bridge and maintain it, that has not been fully finalized yet. Once the bridge is turned over, the plan is to add decking and railings to make it safe for trail users to cross Duck Creek. The design would be similar to the bridge over a drainage way in Phase I," said Witek.



The project is being handled by the Outagamie County Highway Department.

"They did the construction work for Phase I of the trail and have completed numerous other trails in Outagamie County. Also, as a government entity they can only charge for the actual cost of the work, no profit, so they are very economical," said Witek.

The Duck Creek Trail currently stops at Jason Drive in Oneida after funds dried up and land ownership issues arose. After the project is complete the trail will span 10 miles across the reservation.

Reduction in SNAP benefits hits tribal members

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks
dwalschi@oneidanation.org
@DWalschi_Kali

People receiving help from the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) or FoodShare Wisconsin may have noticed a drop in the amount of their benefits starting this November 1. Economic Support Manager Barbra Metoxen states the reason for the drop is because of a law that expired on September 30.

"The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 was signed into law when economy was in downturn; it allowed extra benefits to families," said Barbara.

Chris Metoxen receives food assistance because he has physically disabilities and unable to work. He stated his monthly SNAP benefits went down by $15 a month.

"They shouldn't bother that law, they should just leave it and keep that amount and help my family out more," he said. Chris plans to stretch his food budget by visiting the Seymour Community Food Pantry.

Barbara urged individuals who are receiving SNAP benefits to read the notices they receive in the mail.

"One of the problems we see is that families don't pay attention to those (About Your Benefits notices) that get mailed to them," she said, stating that recipients should hang on to the notices to apply for other benefits such as free school lunches or assistance at area food pantries. Oneida Social Services has some food cards that SNAP beneficiaries can ask for three weeks after receiving SNAP benefits.

"Usually in this time of the year people are paying more on other bills, like their heating costs go up. We do refer everyone to go apply for energy assistance as well," said Barbara.

Cohen officially commits to Marquette

By Travis Cottrell

Surrounded by family and friends, Seymour High School standout Sandy Cohen, signed a letter of intent to play basketball for Marquette University on November 13th.

"Me signing this, isn't just about me signing this. It's about everyone who helped me through the years," Cohen said at a press conference held outside the Seymour High School fieldhouse.

"I have a great community, everyone here has helped me through the hard times. Now things are looking up so I'd like to thank everyone; my family, my friends, my coaches. This isn't just for me it's for everyone in the community," Cohen added.

The 6'6" senior will be headed to Marquette University in Milwaukee, WI this summer to play for Golden Eagles Head Coach Buzz Williams.

"We are thankful to add Sandy to our class," Williams said in a press release. "The longer I do this, the more important it becomes to me, that the guys we bring into our program are humbled by the opportunity and really excited for the chance and haven't become spoiled by the process. Sandy is the perfect example of that."

Elder lunches at new AJRCC a welcomed change

The Anna John Resident Centered Community (AJRCC) began hosting the Elder Services Congregate Meals on Monday, November 4, and according to Food Service Manager Keith Janssen the new location is a success.

"The facility is beautiful, it's a great place to work," said Janssen. "The congregate meal site is going wonderful. I think the elders are extremely happy, extremely satisfied."

The staff at the new kitchen enjoys working with new equipment, and a steam table allows customers to get through the food line quicker. Cook-Dietary Aide Terri Leisgang is a fan of the roomier cooking area.

"This is a beautiful facility. I really enjoy working here, the residents love it," she said.

The kitchen serves the elderly lunch and meals for the AJRCC residents in separate dining areas. The switch to the new dining area from the Riverdale Drive location experienced several delays.

"I'm glad that we're finally open. I know that it was a long time coming, we needed to do this in phases so that we didn't overwhelm the staff," said Janssen. "It was well worth the wait."

Oneida elder Ben Vieau found the new dining area a great improvement over the previous location.

"I like it so far, it's a little more wide open, a lot more windows, a lot more light," said Vieau. He stated he also liked the TVs, music and theater size projection screen.

"If you ain't here, you're missing out," said Vieau.

Lunches are served Monday - Friday from 12:00pm to 1:00pm at 2901 S. Overland Road off Airport Road. Call 920-869-1551 to reserve a meal or for more information.

Sunken vessels to be removed from Fox River

Green Bay, WI (AP) – Efforts to dredge toxic industrial chemicals from the Fox River will also mean the removal of five sunken vessels.

The tugboats and barges are all in a cluster behind Tetra Tech, according to Press-Gazette Media.

They either intentionally sunk or allowed to sink decades ago after they couldn't be used anymore, said Richard Feeney of Tetra Tech, which contracts with J.F. Brennan Co. Inc. to clean polychlorinated biphenyls from the river.

But dredging companies couldn't just haul the submerged ships out of the area. The site has been nominated to the National Registry of Historic Places, which means Brennan workers need federal permission to do anything there.

"We have a responsibility on the river to do archaeological searches for anything with possible historic value," Feeney said.

So Tetra Tech hired Dolan Research Inc., a maritime archaeological consulting company out of Pennsylvania. The company, through the use of high-tech seismic and magnetic measuring equipment, came up with data about the size, shape and exact locations of the five vessels, at least one of which had deteriorated to such a point that it could not definitely be identified as a vessel as opposed to part of a dock.

The company also researched local and regional maritime records, newspaper articles and other sources.

Behind the Naming of Structures in Our Community

Embracing the Life Achievements of those Honored

Irene Metoxen Moore

Gon-o-se-lait

(Gracious Generous Hostess)

The Irene Moore Activity Center is located at 2040 Airport Drive, and most times it is referred to as the IMAC or Bingo Hall. What we fail to recall on a daily basis is it is named to honor the first Oneida woman to serve as Chairwoman of the Oneida Nation.

Irene Moore was elected to serve as Chairwoman in 1963, she served a full term in an era just before the US Civil Rights Act had been passed. This was an era of change for Oneida. Housing, education, and Tribal government were never the same after Irene Moore was elected. During that era, she was addressed as Chairman, not chairwoman. Interestingly enough, they would elect a woman but address the same way they did the Chairman previously elected.

During an era in which the government encouraged Indians to leave the reservation and assimilate into the American mainstream, Irene remained committed to live on her reservation and worked to recover land, build homes and improve the quality of life in Oneida. She encouraged young graduates to go and get college degrees so they could come home to help their people.

Irene was a very strong woman who was married to a farmer, Simon Moore. Together they farmed their land for close to 50 years. Simon, known to most as "Sim" was a member of the Brotherton Tribe. They raised three daughters, Lois Powless, Margaret Danforth and Lillian King.

As described by her daughters, Irene was a leader who was patient and always willing to explain things to her people, just as she understood them. If you disagreed with her, she respected your opinion and did not hold it against you, she continued to love you just as she had before. She was a hard worker all her life and dedicated her efforts to make Oneida a better place to live for all people.

Irene was engaged in more activities than young women today could hold a candle to, as the old folks would say. She was an active member of the Methodist Church, she was a farmer's wife which was a 12 hour daily job, she was a devoted mother and somehow she found the time to get involved in her community. Irene was an activist before the term was coined. She got involved and attended meetings during an era when she still had to make sure there was a meal on table for her family every night and up at the crack of dawn every morning.

Irene was a staunch advocate for housing, education and tribal employment, she always believed young people should get a job out of high school if they weren't going to college.

She also found time to volunteer for the Oneida Language program. She was a fluent speaker of the Oneida language and was willing to help young people learn and spell the language. Irene advocated spelling the language the way it sounded. She would say, "Only you have to read it so make it so you can read your own writing."

Irene served on the Tribal Council for about a decade. During her tenure, the Oneida Reservation was mostly unpaved country roads with no industry and very scarce employment. The living conditions were more than substandard. Many homes were without plumbing and some without electricity. Irene was driven to take advantage of federal assistance to establish adequate housing on the Oneida Reservation. Chairwoman Irene Moore led the Oneida council to establish the Oneida Housing Authority which opened the doors to federal housing programs in this community.

Irene Moore was the epitome of leadership and although she was not considered to be a traditional Oneida, her values and her personal philosophy was in line with the traditions and culture of the Oneida Tribe. She put family first and foremost and she worked to create the kind of community she could be proud of. She loved her family, friends and community and it was an honor to know her and share her memory.

Seven Generation Visionaries

This is a series I am composing to profile our past leadership for their contributions to the Oneida Nation and their efforts that will impact our lives for the next seven generations and perhaps beyond. These are recollections that I have about the people I have known throughout my life, my earliest recollection is Oscar Archiquette who was my first teacher of the Oneida Language. Others include, Irene Moore, Lee McLester II, David "Sonny" King, Norbert Hill and others.

The first in my series is Anna John, an elder whom I respected and admired for many years. Her grandson Allen, entered a comment on facebook about the new Anna John Nursing Home and felt there was very little attributed to the namesake of that beautiful state of the art facility. That inspired me to begin to write short recollections about all the Oneida people who have places named in their honor. We need to keep their memory alive, but more importantly, Oneida people need to know the spirit that lived in each of these leaders which inspired them to create a better quality of life on our reservation.

I hope you enjoy my memories.

Teller named to annual 40 under 40 list

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks
dwalschi@oneidanation.org

John Teller (Menominee/Oneida) made the annual National Center for American Indian Enterprise Development's (NCAIED) "Native American 40 Under 40" list this year.

"It was a tremendous honor," said Teller who attended the ceremonies October 24th in Chandler, Arizona.

According to NCAIED "This prestigious award recognizes 40 emerging American Indian leaders from across Indian Country who have demonstrated leadership, initiative, and dedication and made significant contributions in business and/or in their community."

Teller was nominated by his Aunt Lisa Waukau, a former chairwoman of the Menominee Tribe.

"She's been very supportive of me throughout my career," said Teller.

Teller is currently the Information Technology (IT) Director for the Menominee School System. He stated he wants to see Native American students do great things.

"Through the implementation of technology in the district, we've seen graduation rates rise, performance and testing scores rise, attendance, all those things have gone up," he said. "I'm really honored that I've been able to be a part of that and been able to contribute to that."

Teller is also an entrepreneur. He does IT consulting and owns Bear Tracks Media, an award winning music production company started in 2006.

"We've released over 25 albums specializing in Native American traditional music, everything from powwow to flute to contemporary Native American music," said Teller. "The company was founded on the traditional principles, maintaining that cultural component in all of our recording and all of our media work."

Teller was also recognized for his volunteer work helping with area powwows and contributing his graphic art skills for community and veterans' events.

Teller is appreciative of the NCAIED's recognition of young Native Americans.

"I like it that our native people are being recognized for great things and we want to see them to continue to do great things," he said. "The 40 under 40 can serve as an example and hopefully we can be positive role models for other young native business minded people."

Teller enjoyed meeting the other nominees at the awards ceremony who varied from doctors to contractors and small business owners.

"It's really nice to be able to network with people when you go to those kinds of things. You use people from all over the country doing a variety of different things," he said.

Teller was thankful for the opportunity to represent tribes from the Great Lakes area at the 40 Under 40 ceremony.

"If you set your mind to anything, you can do great things," he said.

Tips to Keep Your Credit Score Healthy During the Holidays

BayBank Green Bay, Wisconsin

By Dianne Zubella
Bay Bank

Holiday sales represent between 15 and 20 percent of annual retail sales in the U.S., depending on the industry (electronics, toys, etc.). The holiday shopping season can impact your finances even if you create a budget and stick to it. Here are some tips to make sure your credit score doesn't take a hit during holiday shopping season:

Don't apply for credit you don't need

Many retail stores offer special discounts to consumers who apply for a store credit card. Don't apply for a new line of credit that you don't need just to get an extra 15 percent off your purchase that day. Each time you apply for a credit card it gets reported to the credit agencies. Too many credit inquiries in a short amount of time can lower your credit score.

Avoid "maxing out" credit cards

One important factor in determining your credit score is your percentage of debt to credit available. If your credit limit is $10,000 and you charge $9,000, you are using 90 percent of your available credit. This is called overutilization and makes creditors nervous because your debt-to-credit ratio is too high. If possible, try to limit your debts to about 30 percent of your total credit limit.

Think before you cancel cards

Another significant factor in your credit score is the length of your credit history. The longer you've had an open line of credit (such as a credit card) and made on-time payments, the better your score will be. Cancelling a credit card that you've had for a long time will shorten your credit history, which could negatively impact your overall credit score. To maximize your score, keep your oldest cards active, even if you don't use them very often. Cancelling a card also reduces your total credit limit, which will raise your debt-to-credit ratio.

Know when your interest payments kick in

Sometimes retailers that sell big-ticket items like computers and sports equipment will offer special payment plans for their customers. While these plans allow consumers to spread the payments out over 12-24 months, be careful to read the fine print. While you may have an interest free loan for a set amount of time, it's often an introductory offer. Do the math and make sure that you won't be charged high interest rates because you didn't pay off the item before the introductory free interest period expired.

The most important thing to remember is to use the credit available to you responsibly. Carefully consider your purchases, never spending more than you can afford. Finally, always pay your credit card bills on time, even if you can only pay the minimum amount due. While you should strive to pay off your complete balance each month, making at least the minimum payment on time will keep your credit score in a healthy range.

Wisconsin licenses will recognize military service

Green Bay, WI (AP) – Wisconsin veterans will soon be able to get driver's licenses and identification cards that recognize their military service.

The state veterans affairs and transportation departments announced Monday that beginning Dec. 2, veterans will be able to get licenses and IDs with the word "VETERAN" marked in red.

Veterans Affairs Secretary John Scocos says the cards are meant to help veterans get access to discounts and other services available to them by providing proof of service.

Veterans' service will be noted only at their request. They will need to verify their eligibility with the Department of Veterans Affairs before applying for a new driver's license or ID card.

Transportation Secretary Mark Gottlieb says the goal is to make veterans' lives a little bit easier.

WISH SOMEONE A HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

Ten Doable Ways You Can Enjoy Meals on Special Days

Before you go to a holiday meal, feast day, potlatch, graduation or birthday party, make a plan to stay on a healthy eating track:

- Choose the ways you can stay on track and check: YES! I can!
- After the event, check the ones you did: YES! I did it!

1. Earlier in the day, eat breakfast or healthy snacks. Try not to delay eating so you can eat more at the feast. If you skip meals, it may be harder to manage your blood sugar. It will make you hungry. You will be more likely to overeat at the special meal. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

2. At the special gathering, limit before-meal chips and crackers. Try putting a small portion on a small plate or napkin and eat only that. Avoid creamy dips and cheese. Choose salsa as a dip if it is served. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

3. Limit the number of starchy foods (potatoes, macaroni, bread) you choose. Have a serving of just your favorite one. Or eat ½ slice bread and a few tablespoonfuls of other starches. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

4. Choose vegetables that are raw, grilled or steamed. Avoid vegetables in cream sauce, gravy, butter or cheese sauce. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

5. Drink calorie-free drinks like water, unsweetened tea, seltzer or diet sodas. Avoid regular sodas and juice. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

6. Avoid drinks with alcohol or limit them. Women should drink no more than one alcoholic drink a day. Men should drink no more than two. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

7. If you choose to eat dessert, have a small piece. Ask for a half of a piece of cake or pie. Try not to eat the frosting on cake. Don't add whipped cream. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

8. After the meal, take a walk with family members. Walking will lower your blood sugar level. You will have more energy. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

9. If you eat too much, don't feel bad. You have not failed because of one meal. Think about the days you did not overeat. YES! I can! YES! I did it!

10. Plan to get back on track the next day. Make a plan for what you will eat for breakfast—maybe a boiled egg and a piece of whole wheat toast with non-fat milk (or soy milk). You are back on track! YES! I can! YES! I did it!

Wellness event honors Native American Heritage Month and National Diabetes Month

November is Native American Heritage Month and National Diabetes Month. To celebrate heritage and promote health the Gerald L Ignace Indian Health Center (GLIIHC), along with the Milwaukee First Nations Wellness Coalition (MKE-FNHC), will be hosting the first annual Native Community Wellness Event. The Event will be held at the Indian Community School in Franklin, WI from 10:00 a.m. – 2:00 p.m. on Saturday, November 16. It is free and open to the public with activities, education, and health screenings for people of all ages. The event will include presentations on wellness topics, such as diabetes, herbs as medicine, workplace wellness, brain health, volunteering, healthy eating and traditional foods. In addition to educational presentations, there will be activities such as yoga, Native American dance and games for children. Furthermore, GLIIHC will offer Affordable Care Act assistance, eye exams and bone density, blood sugar, and blood pressure screenings. Clinical breast exam screenings will be available along with incentivized breast cancer conversations. More than fifteen community based organizations will have booths at the event.

American Indians suffer from remarkably high rates of diabetes, hypertension, obesity and other chronic diseases, more than any other segment of the population. American Indian youth are 9 times more likely to be diagnosed with type 2 diabetes than youth of any other ethnic group. Studies show that increasing healthy food intake and increasing physical activity levels are effective ways to prevent type 2 diabetes, lower one's risk for cancer and improve overall health. This annual wellness event is designed to provide the tools necessary to live well in a culturally relevant manner.

Since 1999 the GLIIHC has been fulfilling its mission to improve the health, peace and welfare of Milwaukee's urban Indian community. As Milwaukee's only American Indian health center, the clinic serves the area's diverse tribal members as well as people of all nations, through medical, social, behavioral health, educational, and outreach services. The GLIIHC's comprehensive, holistic approach to wellness includes advocacy work with community partners to improve the environment where our community members live, work, learn and play. Key to GLIIHC's community advocacy work has been the MKE-FNHC. Comprised of organizations and individuals, coalition members are invested in improving the health of Milwaukee's American Indian community through health promotion and disease prevention strategies to make the places we live, work, learn, and play more supportive of health. The MKE FNHC is facilitated by GLIIHC and its members include organizations such as Spotted Eagle, Indian Summer Festival, American Cancer Society, Wisconsin Pink Shawl Initiative, American Indian Council on Alcoholism, as well as individual community members.

Take control of your spending

How to Beat Impulse Spending

Have you ever got to the end of the week and wondered where did all your money disappear to? Or maybe you got your bank statement and it said you withdrew more than you realized. It can happen very easily. People often plan in their heads all their big expenses for the month but don't take into account the little ones. Many people smoke about a pack a day of cigarettes, which costs about $8.00. Another item people like to buy regularly is coffee or other soft drinks at about $2.00 each. It can be pretty easy to reach into your pocket and spend a dollar here and a dollar there, especially if you have young kids.

Statistically, 90 percent of people will at least occasionally buy on impulse. This means that almost everyone will make unplanned purchases. Some of the biggest motivators of unplanned purchases are sales, kids and easy access to cash or credit. There is a reason stores put all the goodies next to the cash register. When you are standing there in line, occupying your attention are candy bars, sodas and the latest gossip on your favorite movie star. If you have a child with you, they will certainly be asking for a treat of some sort and it is right there at arm's length.

Let's put this into perspective. Remember the cup of coffee and cigarettes? Together they are going to cost $10 per day. If you multiply this by 30 days, at the end of the month your cigarettes and coffee have cost you $300, WOW! If you have a job paying $10 per hour, that is nearly a week of earnings. A good way to prevent yourself from this trap is to use the times 30 rule. Anytime you make an unplanned or unnecessary purchase multiply your cost by 30 to consider your monthly cost. If you still need or want the item and can afford it at least you will know what its potential cost to you will be.

You might think but it is just a pack of gum and it will last me a week. Well, it's gum today, a candy bar or soda the next day and something else the day after that. The point being that even if it's not the same product you are purchasing, it is the same amount of dollars you are spending. Here are some other tips to avoid impulse buying.

When you go grocery shopping make a list and stick to it. Don't be tempted by sales or something shiny and new. Get what you need and move on. If something catches your attention put it on your list next time. If it is that important you will remember. Also, don't buy stuff just because you have a coupon. Make sure it is something that you will use. Buying something that you will not use or that gets thrown out because it spoiled is no savings. Do not shop with kids or hungry people. This will only encourage you to spend money you didn't plan on. Try not to carry any excess cash. It will only burn a hole in your pocket. The biggest thing you can do when tempted to impulse buy is to walk away. If you really want something, it will be there tomorrow.

'Who Is Native Enough' is Topic of Lecture at CMN

Prof. Ryan Winn

Keshena – A free, public lecture on Tuesday, Nov. 19, addresses the question, "Who Is Native Enough to Write Native Literature."

Ryan Winn, a faculty member in the College of Menominee Nation's Humanities/Theater program, will give the talk at 12 noon in the Library mezzanine classroom on the Keshena campus, N172 State Highway 47/55. It can be seen live via Skype on CMN's Green Bay campus, 2733 S. Ridge Road (parking in the Allied Street cul de sac).

Winn has directed a dozen plays by Native authors or on Native themes during his years at the College. His teaching assignments include annual play writing courses. Winn is also a frequent contributor on American Indian literature for the national publication, Tribal College Journal, and currently is Acting Editor of the Oneida Nation Arts Program's literary journal, Yukhika-latuhse.

His lecture will provide an overview of the history of written Native literature in America and problematic questions that arise when attempting to classify books as uniquely "Native." Winn will discuss what it is that makes Native literature "Native." He addresses whether it is the content or the author's birth heritage that is the qualifying issue, and also discusses whether it matters if the author was raised on tribal land and/or speaks his or her Native language. Winn asks, "Can non-Natives write 'Native' literature if they do their research, and what if they have a lot of Native friends?"

The lecture is part of CMN's 20th anniversary celebration. Those attending will receive copies of the anniversary edition of Feather Chronicles, a retrospective book of writing and art by students, faculty and staff of the College.

Film Society to feature 'The Doe Boy' at ONCEC

The movie The Doe Boy is about a young Cherokee named Hunter, who is half white through his father. Hunter is a hemophiliac, so if he is injured he could bleed to death from a small cut or bruise. As a result of his protective mother a conflict develops as his father wants him to be more like him, an avid sportsman. This is also why he was named Hunter, but Hunter also wants to honor his native roots and hunt in the traditional ways, creating more conflict between him and his father.

The story begins when Hunter is a young boy and goes through his teen and early adult years when he is trying to find his identity. This is a particularly difficult time for any young person but can be even more challenging when so much divides a father and son. Another interesting aspect of this film is the issue of blood. In the film, blood is primarily addressed as an issue of health, but in most Native American cultures blood means much more.

Blood is used to divide us, give us one status or another and even determine whether or not you can even claim membership to a particular tribe. Hunter's affliction often separated him from participation in activities that other children enjoyed. It made him different and that made him a target for teasing and bullying. This coming of age film has an underlying discussion but does well in showing what it is like growing up Indian. Our young man even finds his first love.

The cast is different from past Oneida Film Society events. Director Randy Redroad has been active in telling Native American stories for many years including several documentaries, television programs and movies. The Doe Boy collected fourteen other festival awards and a nomination for the IFP/Gotham Open Palm Award for Outstanding Directorial Debut.

James Duvall, who plays Hunter, the title character, may be recognized from roles in SLC Punk, Independence Day, Gone in Sixty Seconds, and Donnie Darko. Hank and Maggie Kirk are Hunter's parents played by Kevin Anderson and Jeri Arredondo and the grandfather is played by Gordon Tootoosis and make up the primary roles in the film.

The film showing is free to attend and will be shown at the Oneida Nation Community Education at 2632 South Packerland Drive on Thursday, November 21. People can sign in beginning at 4:30 pm with the movie beginning shortly before 5:00 pm. For more information contact Shannon Stone at the Oneida Nation Community Education Center at SStone@OneidaNation.org. Admittance is free but people should register online at http://oneidafilmsociety.eventbrite.com.

For those who are unable to attend, The Doe Boy is available online for purchase and online streaming.

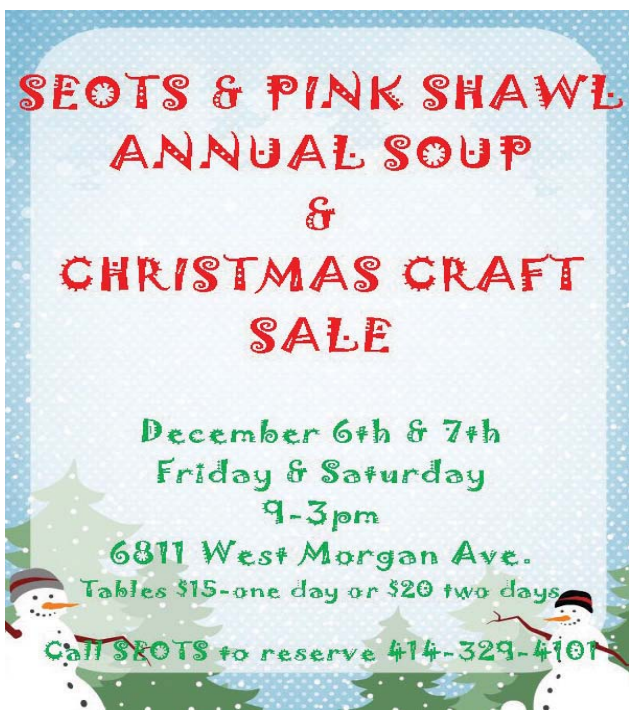
Pink Shawls hold Pamper Day for women

By Mark W. Powless

On October 5th, the Wisconsin Pink Shawls held a Ladies Pamper Day! Over 40 women came for a fun educational day at SEOTS. The day started quite early for the women that were coming for a Mammogram. The Columbia St. Mary's Mammogram Mobile pulled into SEOTS to set up and get ready for women that were to going to get their yearly mammograms.

Women began to arrive at SEOTS at 8:00am. The women over the age of 40 received their yearly mammograms and young women 18 – 39 years received clinical breast exams from Nurses from the UWM College of Milwaukee. Women were able to received bone density tests, blood pressure and glucose testing from trained medical techs and assistants from the Ignace Indian Health Center.



The day did not finish with health related testing, but the women were able to do a facial with Angela Kingswan, a community member that is knowledgeable in the use natural herbs and oils. Women then were able to prepare their own bath salt, with a combination of a selection of spices and herbs that are right in our own kitchen cabinets and herbs that grow in our gardens.

Noon came and healthy lunch was served with two choices of soup, including wild rice and cheesy broccoli with a side salad and a dinner roll.

The day was wrapped up with a chance to participate in a yoga class with a certified Yoga Instructor.

If there was one thing or many things that the women enjoyed that I noticed, was that there were many smiling faces, socializing and a lot of laughter. The overall comments included, "This was really fun! Can we do this again sometime?" Balancing and bending in the yoga class for anyone was a challenge but still was enjoyable! I guess you could say the Pink Shawls and SEOTS will be planning another event like this again!

THANKS TO ALL Columbia St. Mary's, Ignace Indian Health Center Staff, UWM Nurses, Pink Shawl Volunteers, SEOTS, and those that participated to help make the Ladies Pamper Day a SUCCESS!

Oneida Community Integrated Food Systems

A successful Summer for the Oneida Farmers Market

By William Ver Voort
OCIFS Coordinator

The Oneida Farmers Market ended its season on Thursday, October 10th. The weather was beautiful for the Farmers' Market this year and we averaged 40 vendors per market. We had numerous new vendors this year that brought a nice diversification of products. In addition to the new vendors we had a new balloon animal and face painting vendor at many of the Markets. We also introduced our new shopping carts for the customers to use for free.

Also new this year was our 'Vendor Spotlight'. Each week we spotlighted a different vendor that offered a special to the customers. If the customer purchased $10 worth of product they got a $5 Oneida Farmers' Market packet that they could use to purchase other things at the Market. The community and the vendors really seemed to enjoy this, so we hope to continue it again in 2014.

At the two Farmers' Market Bashes we had the Oneida Falling Leaves 4-H brat booth busy serving delicious Oneida Black Angus burgers and brats. There were games and prizes for adults and youth. In addition to those activities there was excellent live music, and horse drawn wagon rides took the customers down the trail to the Hwy 54 Oneida One Stop and back.

The Market is free of charge to any and all people who would like to sell their products. If you are interested in selling your garden products or other quality products (eg. leather products, wood products, paintings, etc.) please contact Bill at 496-7423 or email him at Wvervoor@oneidanation.org

The 2014 Farmers Market will start on Thursday, June 26th and running through Thursday, October 9th. We would like to thank everyone in the Oneida Community for making the 2013 Oneida Farmers Market such a great success. We would especially like to thank all the volunteers that assist in making the Market possible. We couldn't do it without you and you are very much appreciated. We hope you all have a wonderful winter and see you back at the Market next Summer.

A Message from the Oneida Royalty

Junior Miss Oneida
Tianna Hackett

Shekoli.

Hello my name is Tianna Hackett and I am the current Jr. Miss Oneida 2013-2014.

So far this reign, being Jr. Miss Oneida has been a great experience for me. The pageant was by itself worth the experience. I enjoyed spending time with all the other contestants. We got to learn a lot about each other and had fun while bonding with each other.

I have been to a lot of places and have experienced so many new things. I like that I get to do all of this with my Lil Miss, Riley Aguirre. I like the time we get to spend together! Riley and I have met so many new people. It's an honor to have this opportunity to be an ambassador for the Oneida Community.

I have volunteered and helped in many fundraisers since I have been crowned. I participated in the Oneida pow-wow and I had a great time with Riley as we have been recognized as Royalty for the Oneida Nation. Also, I loved being part of the relay for life benefit to help fight cancer. A lot of people donated money and had a great time. I also went to the DIVOT diabetic golf outing, it was a lot of fun! We raised over $500.00 dollars and I got to drive the golf cart. I helped children find school supplies and school clothes as the Celebrity Shopper event. Indian summer was a blast and got to learn so much more about my culture. I got to attend the diabetic dinner. I met a lot of people and learned many healthy ways to eat better. I helped out at Big Apple fest with Riley. We did the bean count and corn count. It was a blast! When I was there I watched a horse show, then went to the apple orchard and picked some apples. And everybody had a great time. I also went to the husking bee, where Riley and I went on the hay ride and saw cows mooing and we feed them corn. We picked corn which was a great new experience because I never picking corn before, and it was fun. I also went to Lambeau Field for a Packer game and I went with the Veterans and participated in the Star Spangled banner and I danced during the half time performance with my sister Aundria. It was cold but I still had an awesome time.

Being Jr. Miss Oneida has been a great experience for me so far. I am looking forward to a great year with Riley. I would like to thank everyone for inviting and letting me be a part of all their events. I would also like to thank everyone for allowing me to represent the Oneida Nation.

Yawáko,
Tianna Hackett

Shekoli.

I am having so much fun during my reign! It is exciting to try all these new experiences and participate in these events! Even more, I love getting to spend time with Jr. Miss Oneida Tianna Hackett!

I helped with some fund raisers these past few months. These were all great causes and I would like to thank the organizers for allowing me to help them! I helped raised money for diabetes, and I had a lot fun at their DIVOT for Diabetes Golf Outing. I even got to drive a golf cart! I also got to greet and meet new people at the Diabetic Dinner. I had the honor of participating in Relay for Life. Everyone worked hard to raise money for this great cause, and the organizers made sure everyone had a good time! I loved being a Celebrity Shopper! I got to help other little kids go shopping to pick out clothes, shoes and school supplies!

Being invited to other community events is such an honor. It is nice to share our culture and traditions with others. I attended Fox Family Fun Night, Packer Training Camp, and Heritage Hill! I also attended two days of Art Street and danced! I also got an opportunity to attend the Stockbridge Munsee Pow wow. Indian Summer was so much fun! We showcased Oneida social dances in the Oneida Village, dance at the pow wow, and handed out awards to the winners of the American Indian Music Awards! I also rode in a convertible in Green Lake Parade!

I love attending our community events. At the "Just Move It Oneida" event, I got to Zumba, play a poker game on my walk, and learn about some programs within the tribe. I also attend the Big Apple Fest. Tianna and I helped with the bean and corn count. I had fun on the horse and wagon rides. My favorite was picking the apples and then my mom and I made an apple pie. My Dad and brother gave us a blue ribbon for our pie!

I have been learning new social dances and songs and I love it when I get to share these new things when I go to places. I look forward to the upcoming events!

Riley Aguirre

Senate to vote on protecting employee passwords

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ As concerns mount over the privacy of personal information online, the Wisconsin state Senate is scheduled to vote on a bill making it illegal for employers to ask workers or job applicants to turn over their passwords to social media accounts.

The bill with broad bipartisan support is up for a vote Tuesday in the Senate.

The proposal would place the prohibition on any employer, educational institution or landlord.

Employers could still monitor what is done on a company computer, restrict which websites can be viewed and conduct an investigation into any unauthorized sharing of confidential information through social media sites.

The movement to pass such laws is gaining steam across the country as employers have asked for employees' user names and passwords to personal accounts.

OTIE Strategic Plan creates nationwide revenue streams for Oneida Tribe

In 2007, the Oneida Business Committee authorized the creation of Oneida Total Integrated Enterprises (OTIE) and the OTIE Board of Managers as part of its long-term vision and economic development strategy to diversify the Tribe's revenue streams, increase tribal assets and generate revenues nationwide in scope. Through the Board of Managers, OTIE formed as an engineering, science and construction management company to meet the Tribe's vision and mission to diversify revenues.

In order to meet the Tribe's mission of nationwide revenue streams, and to remain sustainable in a highly competitive industry, OTIE developed short-term and long-term strategies for company growth through the federal procurement process in the federal markets to reach the goal of developing a nationwide business. Planning and strategy is essential to growing and strengthening OTIE so the company remains competitive over time.

OTIE's first strategic action as short-term goal was to apply for certification as an 8(a) business. This was achieved in 2008, and the 8(a) status will expire in 2017. The 8(a) certification allows the company to compete in a smaller pool of competitors, which is a more efficient way to obtain work and generate more revenue for the company. However, OTIE's long-term goal is to sustain the business with the competitive edge that results from sufficient capability and capacity to compete.

The long term strategic action was and is to maximize involvement in the federal market. OTIE decided to acquire TN & Associates, a recognized and reputable federal contractor in the engineering industry. Through the acquisition, OTIE immediately gained 20 years of industry experience and obtained valuable tangible and intangible assets. The tangible assets included cash, office equipment, company vehicles and other physical property that had been owned by TN & Associates.

The intangible assets included the company name and logo, and the business goodwill that encompasses reputation, past performance, contracts and backlog, employees, client and vendor relationships, legal and industrial relationships, public and community relationships, and all forms of media and communications. The intangible asset of business goodwill is what makes OTIE a valuable asset to the Oneida Tribe, and more importantly, it is what makes OTIE stand out from industry competitors.

OTIE's goodwill creates value for clients, and the combined 25 years of experience that OTIE brings to a client is why OTIE is a strong competitor and recognized name in the industry. Building company goodwill is an ongoing business objective that is part of OTIE's long-term strategy to continuously build capacity and capability so that OTIE will maintain and grow its revenue base beyond the 8(a) status.

In OTIE's line of work, capacity is what shows how much work can be performed with staff and resources, and capability is the management and technical expertise and experience of company staff to carry out the work effectively. Clients look for capacity and capability when selecting contractors, so OTIE makes it a priority to meet existing client needs and strategically plan for new client needs.

One part of the long-term strategy is to grow organically. Organic growth means that OTIE recruits the most qualified, experienced and efficient industry leaders with supporting technical staff to fit the right positions for the work performed.

By finding these industry leaders, OTIE builds the capability needed to perform the work and meet client needs. These leaders help further build OTIE capability and capacity at the same time, while leading the company to the right clients with long-term funding sources.

The most qualified technical and administration staff will make sure the company can conduct and complete the work efficiently with the highest quality and lowest risk to the client. In this way, OTIE can meet and exceed the client's expectations to build a business relationship that can bring future potential work.

Another important part of the strategic planning includes recruiting and training the most qualified tribal members for the right positions, either as employee or intern. OTIE created different education outreach programs, such as the summer camp programs for the Oneida Nation School System, to reach all ages of Oneida children and youth.

In addition, OTIE also sponsored students to attend college engineering camp and provided engineering scholarships to support higher education goals. The whole purpose of this education outreach program is to bring the engineering and science world to Oneida tribal members at a younger age and hope they will choose engineering and science as their future career.

All of this would not have been possible without the support of the Oneida leaders who established OTIE with a purpose and a vision for a company that can diversify the Tribe's revenue streams. With continued Oneida leadership and community support, OTIE will continue its best efforts to fulfill the mission created for OTIE.

In 2014, OTIE will achieve 25 years of doing business in the engineering, science and construction management industries. This is a remarkable achievement for a small business in highly competitive industries. 25 years of doing business demonstrates the OTIE commitment to providing excellent customer service that emphasizes safety and high quality performance.

OTIE is proud of its performance record and highly-qualified technical capability, and will continue to make the best effort to be competitive and sustainable in our industry by carrying out the mission given to us by Oneida tribal leaders.

This is an ongoing series of articles to inform the Oneida community about Oneida Total Integrated Enterprises and the work the company does.

Oneida tribe offered money to back Kenosha casino

Milwaukee, WI (AP) – The Oneida tribe would collect at least $3 million a year in banking fees in exchange for its support of the proposed Menominee casino in Kenosha, according to a newly released agreement between the tribes.

The agreement also gives the Oneida tribe the first chance to help finance the first phase of the casino, which the Menominee tribe hopes to build with help from Hard Rock International, the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel reported.

The Menominee promised in return not to advertise the Kenosha casino in broadcast markets north of Milwaukee, or in daily papers or on billboards in the Green Bay-Appleton market. That's to avoid competing with the Oneida tribe's casino near Green Bay, which is in the middle of a $27.9 million expansion. The Kenosha casino is expected to draw most of its customers from Illinois.

Gov. Scott Walker has said he'll approve the $800 million Kenosha casino complex only if all Wisconsin tribes support it. Two tribes are currently opposed, the Forest County Potawatomi and the Ho-Chunk. Both fear it would cut into their own casino profits.

The agreement was posted on Oneidaeye.com, a website run by Leah Sue Dodge, a member of the Oneida tribe and critic of its leadership. Dodge said she obtained a copy from the tribal secretary's office. The tribe announced its endorsement of the project Oct. 17, the same day it signed its agreement with the Menominee. Details were kept confidential initially.

Under the agreement, the Oneida tribe, acting through a bank it owns, would provide ATM and cash advance services at the casino that would generate $3 million in fees annually. The Oneida would also get first crack at providing some or all of the $400 million in financing expected to be needed for the first phase of the project.

Dodge was critical of the tribal government even considering the loan, saying the tribe doesn't have the money for it.

Walker discourages campaign donations from tribes

Milwaukee, WI (AP) – Gov. Scott Walker says he's discouraging parties interested in a proposal to open a casino in Kenosha from contributing to his campaign.

However, the Republican governor is stopping short of saying he would refuse donations from those interested in the project.

Walker spoke Monday after visiting veterans at a Milwaukee hospital.

He has final approval over the Menominee tribe's proposal to open a casino in Kenosha. The Ho-Chunk and Forest County Potawatomi tribes oppose the plan, and Walker has asked his top aide to try to work out a deal between them.

Walker says the best thing the tribes could do with their money is help his staff get the information needed to make a decision. He says TV ads encouraging him to say yes or no are not helpful.

Secretary Jewell Kicks Off White House Tribal Nations Conference

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Secretary of the Interior Sally Jewell kicked off the 2013 White House Tribal Nations Conference Wednesday, November 13, welcoming leaders invited from all 566 federally recognized tribes. The fifth conference hosted during the Obama Administration, Wednesday's event at the Department of the Interior included remarks from President Obama and participation from thirteen Cabinet members and other senior government officials.

"I am proud to work for a President who has demonstrated a lasting and meaningful commitment to upholding a strong government-to-government relationship with tribal nations," said Secretary Jewell, who also serves as Chair of the recently-established White House Council on Native American Affairs. "This conference is an important part of the ongoing dialogues we need to have as we work together toward tribal self-determination and self-governance and promoting prosperous and resilient tribal nations."

In her opening remarks, Jewell noted significant progress in the federal government's efforts to expand and institutionalize consultation with tribal nations on a spectrum of initiatives, including education and energy development. She also discussed emerging challenges facing Indian Country, including mitigating the impacts of climate change and sustained economic development in the face of challenging fiscal times.

Jewell also announced that the Administration has set a goal of placing more than 500,000 acres of land into trust by the end of the President's term. Already, the Bureau of Indian Affairs has processed more than 1,400 individual land into trust applications since 2009, accepting more than 230,000 acres in trust on behalf of tribes. Placing land into trust secures homelands for tribes, which in turn facilitates economic development and promotes health and welfare of tribal communities.

"Restoring land to tribes is not only important to achieve self-determination, but it can also be a spark for economic development in Indian Country – generating investment, new jobs and revenues," said Jewell. "Placing more than 500,000 acres of land in trust over the next three years is unprecedented in modern times, and I'm committed to making it happen."

Jewell highlighted recent Interior decisions related to restoring tribal homelands, including a final rule issued yesterday by Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs Kevin Washburn that will provide greater certainty to tribes in their ability to develop recently acquired trust lands for purposes such as housing, schools and economic development. This rule provides for greater notice of land-into-trust decisions and clarifies the mechanisms for judicial review, depending on whether the land is taken into trust by the Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs, or by an official of the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

The Administration also continues to focus on congressional enactment of a clean fix to the Carcieri decision of 2009 to confirm the Secretary of the Interior's authority to take land into trust for all tribes.

President Obama addressed the nation-to-nation relationship between the United States and tribes during his address to tribes.

"We have a unique legal and political relationship. One that's been affirmed many times in treaties, statues, and in the constitution. that's the unique relationship we honor today, thats the relationship we're called upon to sustain for the progress of all our peoples," said President Obama.

Jewell also underscored the Administration's commitment to effective and efficient implementation of the land consolidation component of the Cobell Settlement. Last week, Interior announced that it will expand the initial phase of the Land Buy Back Program Implementation Strategy so that tribes with the most highly fractionated lands are eligible to participate at the beginning of the program. Cooperative agreements would make funds available to tribal governments to implement key aspects of the Buy-Back Program, such as outreach and education to landowners.

In addition to Jewell, the following Cabinet members are participating in today's White House Tribal Nations Conference: Attorney General Eric Holder, Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack, Labor Secretary Thomas Perez, Health and Human Services Secretary Kathleen Sebelius, Housing Secretary Shaun Donovan, Transportation Secretary Anthony Foxx, Energy Secretary Ernest Moniz, Education Secretary Arne Duncan, Veterans Affairs Secretary Eric Shinseki, EPA Administrator Gina McCarthy, Acting Homeland Security Secretary Rand Beers, and Acting Small Business Administrator Jeanne Hulit. Additionally, Council on Environmental Quality Chair Nancy Sutley and Director of the White House Domestic Policy Council Cecilia Muñoz will participate.

Members of the President's cabinet and other high-ranking Administration officials are participating in a number of separate listening sessions with tribal leaders throughout the week on a wide range of social and economic challenges facing Indian Country. The meeting topics include education, the Cobell Settlement Land Buy Back Program, development of transportation, water and energy resources, access to sacred sites, protection of natural resources, energy development, healthcare and implementing the Violence Against Women Act.

Cherokee girl's parents' lawyers seek $1M in fees

NOWATA, Okla. (AP) ~ Attorneys for the adoptive parents of a 4-year-old girl caught up in a custody dispute have filed paperwork in Oklahoma seeking $1 million in legal fees from the Cherokee Nation and the girl's biological father, who has dropped all legal claims to his daughter.

Attorneys representing Matt and Melanie Capobianco filed paperwork in Nowata County seeking the legal fees incurred while fighting the lengthy custody battle over 4-year-old Veronica.

In September, Dusten Brown handed Veronica over to the Capobiancos after the Oklahoma Supreme Court lifted an emergency stay keeping the girl in Oklahoma.

The Tulsa World reported Wednesday that attorneys for the Capobiancos are seeking $1 million to be split among four law firms. The newspaper reports none of the money would go to the Capobiancos.

Veronica has been the subject of court battles since she was born to a non-Cherokee mother, who put the girl up for adoption. The Capobiancos had been lined up to receive custody since 2009.

Brown, a member of the Cherokee Nation, pressed claims under the Indian Child Welfare Act and won custody when the girl was 27 months old. The Indian Child Welfare Act was passed in 1978 with the intent of reducing the high rates of Native American children being adopted by non-Native American families.

The Capobiancos' legal team worked pro bono, said Lori Alvino McGill, a Washington, D.C., attorney who traveled to Oklahoma to represent the couple.

"They could not possibly have afforded to pay," Alvino McGill said. "But even in pro bono representations, lawyers are permitted to recoup their fees and expenses ... here they are quite significant in certain circumstances when they prevail, as here."

Brown's attorney, Rob Nigh, declined to comment specifically on the latest court filing.

"What I can say is that at all times, Dusten Brown has been motivated by what he believed to be in Veronica's best interest," Nigh said.

"And any response we make will include a reference to what motivated Mr. Brown's exercise of legal rights on his daughter's behalf."

The Cherokee Nation also declined to comment.

Jennifer Stevens and the Green Bay Symphony Orchestra (GBSO) received a standing ovation for the Heritage Celebration Concert held Saturday, November 9 at the Weidner Center.

"(It was a) wonderful response from the audience … I'm rejoicing right now," said Stevens who performed three of her original songs with the full orchestra. The show was part of a series of concerts celebrating the GBSO's 100th anniversary by highlighting area cultures.

A classically trained soprano opera singer, Stevens worked with Alaric Coussons to arrange her Oneida language songs Kahsl-ta (Dream), Owi-la (Wind) and Ol-na (Prayer) for the orchestra.

"I didn't know what to expect because I'm introducing new music that's arranged for orchestra, so it's a huge ensemble, so if you're not sure how everything's going to work out, but everything pulled together," said Stevens.

Stevens began work on the Oneida Art Songs last June and hoped to surprise her grandmother Maria Hinton with the finished work.

"Unfortunately, she passed away during the project, but I kept focused, and I thought she was such a strong person, and I need to be that, too," said Stevens.

The Oneida Nation Museum and Stevens' family members gathered photos of Hinton to be shown behind Stevens during her third song.

"I didn't look at the screen because I didn't want to start crying," said Stevens.

Stevens was appreciative of the audience's response and of the opportunity to work with the GBSO.

"I am grateful for the opportunity to be a guest Soprano Soloist and guest Composer for a symphony. It is very uncommon... and a huge compliment. Performing my three Oneida songs arranged by Alaric Coussons and Aaron Zinsmeister, and con-

2013 Invasive Species Program Highlights

This past year has been a busy one for the revitalized Invasive Species Program. The Oneida Tribe was awarded a grant from the Wisconsin Tribal Conservation Advisory Council (W.T.C.A.C) to hire two seasonal workers, Hartman Skenandore and Desmann Escalante, to assist with invasive species control work within the Oneida Reservation. If you utilized any of the trails or natural areas in Oneida, you probably have seen us out there and wondered what we were doing? Our focus this spring and summer was to control the spread of invasive species on culturally sensitive and natural areas that the Oneida community uses for recreation, hunting, and wildlife observation. The invasive plant species targeted were Garlic Mustard, Phragmites, and Purple Loosestrife. These plants are the most problematic because they have the ability to crowd out native vegetation and restrict access to lakes and areas used for hiking, fishing, swimming and other outdoor activities.

Control Activities

Areas found to have invasive species were mapped with a Global Positioning System (G.P.S) unit. We then used brush cutters (mechanical) or hand-pulled (manual) to control them. This fall the sites will be chemically treated. This combined method of treatment is very effective at controlling invasive species. The most effective way to prevent their spread is to prevent their introduction.

2013 Accomplishments

- 11.1 acres of Phragmites mapped and treated
- 9.0 acres of Garlic Mustard mapped/ 4.0 acres treated
- 1.5 acres of Purple Loosestrife mapped and treated

Boot Scrubbers

During inclement weather we built boot scrubbers for the community to use as they enter and exit Oneida's natural areas. Invasive plant species seeds can attach to the tread or soles of shoes and boots. These boot scrubbers will help prevent the spread of invasive plant species on the Oneida Reservation.

2013-14 Gun Deer season Approaching

Submitted By Oneida Conservation

The Gun Deer Season begins Saturday, November 23, 2013 and ends Sunday, December 1, 2013.

The Oneida Conservation Dept. will not be authorizing the use of rifles during the established firearm season. Although the State law has changed to allow rifle's statewide, hunters should check with local authorities to determine whether ordinances are in place that would restrict the use of rifles in an area they plan to hunt.

During the Gun Deer Season, all deer harvested must be registered at the Oneida Conservation Office during the designated registration hours:

- Saturday–Sunday (11/23–24/13) 8:00AM–12:00PM
- Monday–Wednesday (11/25-27/13) 8:00AM–4:30PM (closed 12:00pm-1:00pm)
- Thursday–Sunday (11/28–12/1/13) 8:00AM–12:00PM

The Oneida Conservation Department's expectation is that each hunter follows the safe hunting practices taught in hunter education:

T = Treat every firearm as if it is loaded.
A = Always point the muzzle in a safe direction.
B = Be certain of your target and what's beyond it.
K = Keep your finger outside the trigger guard until ready to shoot.

Following these rules can also help ensure that everyone has a safe and enjoyable hunt when afield.

If you observe a possible violation or witness an unlawful act, please contact the Oneida Conservation Department at (920) 869-1450.

Deer Carcass Tag Reminder

Submitted By Oneida Conservation

OH NO, where's my back tag! This is what you need to be looking for, small, white, credit card size, Carcass Tags!

There are no more big, bulky, back tags! While hunting the Carcass Tag does not have to be displayed, but it must be in your possession. The Carcass tag must be validated and attached to the deer.

Below are the instructions on how to validate the Carcass Tags:

Instructions

Immediately Upon Killing a Deer:

1. Validate the carcass tag by carefully slitting the mark designating time AM/PM, date of kill, and type of deer.

Example: An adult doe was harvested on September 9th at 8AM.

The proper way to validate the Carcass Tag is:

Slit the month: Sept; Slit the date: 09; and slit the time: AM. On the reverse you would slit: Antlerless.

2. Attach the carcass tag to the ear or antler of the deer. Note: you must provide your own string or similar fastener.
3. Sportsman must sign the reverse side of the Carcass tag.

Failure to follow this procedure makes possession of the deer illegal and the tag invalid.

This concert for me is truly a milestone in my life. Student of the Month
Lindsey Danforth

By Tavia Moore
Thunderhawk Times

Lindsey Danforth is a senior at ONHS. She used to attend West De Pere High School before she came to Oneida. When I asked her about her grades, she replied, "In the past they haven't been great, but I have been working my butt off this year!"

She lives in Green Bay, Wis., with her dad, step-mom, and puppy. Lindsey's extra-curricular activities include volleyball, basketball, softball, and track. She says her hero is Brianna Bissonette. "She makes me laugh on a daily basis and she's flawless!"

When I asked her what she planned on doing after high school she said, "My dream is to go to UW-Oshkosh and play ball." Her career plan is to be a high school counselor. Her motto she lives by come from the film Finding Nemo: "Keep on swimming!"

Free iPad at Parent/Teacher Conferences

By Gerald B. Diamond
Thunderhawk Times

Attention parents of Oneida Nation High School and Turtle School students: today is the day when parent and teacher conferences will be held, and parents can win an iPad!

Students will have a half day of school on Thursday, November 14. Dismissal time is set for 12:32pm, and after school is dismissed, parents can pick up their children and meet their teachers for conferences.

Just like the parent/teacher conferences from last year, parents can win an iPad just for meeting with their children's teachers. For every teacher that parents meet with, the parents get their names put into a raffle. The more teachers that the parents meet with, the better their chances are at winning at the end of the conferences.

The grand prize for the raffle is an iPad from Apple, Inc. The second prize is an Encouragement Basket like the one given out at Family Feast. There will be a winner at the Turtle school as well as at ONHS. The winners of the prizes will be announced the following day.

Last year, 62% of the parents attended conferences. Our goal this year is to get 75% of the parents to be involved. Come on down and meet with the teachers for a chance to win!

Parents Can Check Our Grades

By Ruby John
Thunderhawk Times

The Infinite Campus Parent Portal is a way that parents and students keep watch of grades. Parents, as well as students, can see school grades and attendance on Parent Portal either through Internet access on a personal computer or through the Infinite Campus app.

In order to check grades or attendance on a personal computer, users must go the Oneida Nation School System's web page (http://oneida-nation.org/schools/) and then click on the NASIS Student and Parent Portal link. After clicking on that link, users will need to sign in using the student's username and password that he or she uses to log in at school. Once logged in, click on "Schedule" to check grades. Students and parents can simply click on the class title/gradebook icon they are interested in checking.

Besides using a personal computer, people wishing to check grades and attendance can download an app from Infinite Campus. The app is much easier to use. It can be downloaded onto Android cellphones, iPhones, iPods, or any iProducts. The app is called Infinite Campus Mobile Portal.

The app for a Google device can be found at https://play.google.com/store/apps/details?id=com.infinitecampus.mobilePortal&hl=en

The app for an apple device can be found at https://itunes.apple.com/us/app/infinite-campus-mobile-portal/id464352883?mt=8

After the app is downloaded, students and parents will have to enter a school district ID in addition to their username and password. Our district ID is JMZXSZ

Once the app is installed, users simply sign in with their regular school sign in and then boom! Checking grades, attendance, assignments, and much more is super simple!

Fantastic Fall

By Sheldon Skenandore
Thunderhawk Times

Fall season is the best season of the month because the leaves fall down.

The changing colors in nature are awesome. Some people like fall, some people don't like fall, but I think fall is cool. Also, Halloween happens in fall, which is a great holiday. Yes, it gets cold outside and windy, but people in Wisconsin get the hang of it. The fall season is one of the year's best seasons!

Boys Basketball Season Right Around the Corner

By Shy House
Thunderhawk Times

Just like every year, ONHS Boys' Basketball is right around the corner for the T-Hawks. Starting November 11th, our boys will have their first practice of the year. They'll get a better feel of who the coaches are, who their new teammates are, and they'll get to see how practices will be.

With hard work and dedication, it is very hopeful that this year our boys will pull through and have a great season. New and old potential talents have been seen, and the T-Hawks, just like every year, have a good group of guys that'll carry on the torch from last year.

When asked about the season, senior Isaiah Charles said, "I'm excited about this season, I feel like it's going to be a good one."

Let's go, T-Hawks! 2013-2014 boys basketball season: make it count!

Lady T-Hawks Volleyball Season's End

By Shy House
Thunderhawk Times

The 2013 Lady T-Hawks volleyball regular season has come to an end. The girls had a great season and did an amazing job with the new adjustments. Not only did they get a new assistant coach, but they also had many new girls join the team and add to the roster.

With the amount of players that they had this year, the girls were able to have both JV and varsity teams for the first time.

Strong community support was also brought on by the Lady T-Hawks as they took on their last games during the week of October 14-18. Senior night was held on October 17th during the last home game of the season. What an amazing effort and an excellent turnout throughout this year. Way to go Ladies and coaches - you had a great 2013 volleyball season!

Shekoli,

Veteran's Day

Although you are reading this column after the actual holiday, I would like to acknowledge our many Oneida veterans who have served this country through their sacrifices and the many years of having to be away from their homelands to make this country a better place.

My heartfelt thanks to all members of the US Armed Forces, whether it was the US Marines, the US Army, the US Air Force, the US Navy or the US Coast Guard for their dedicated service to this country. This country has seen many conflicts and wars throughout the years and still we are a proud nation everyone looks up to and wants the same freedoms we have achieved through the years. Again, many thanks to all who have served this country well.

On a different note, let me be the first to congratulate the Veteran's Service Office on relocating to their new office effective November 18th. Their new office is now located in the old Oneida Senior Center meal site located at 134 Riverdale Drive and their updated phone number will be 920-869-1133.

Cost Containment

The Tribe is still in a cost containment mode. Some aspects of our organization are still in a wait and see mode, while others are being scrutinized to help better our bottom line. Travel is one item that still needs Finance approval and some of those trips are being downsized or cancelled altogether.

Although each year the Tribe holds a Christmas party for the elders, this year the Business Committee was forced to cancel this event and return the funds normally allocated to this event to the line item it was projected from. With everyone having to tighten their belts and the possibility of having to furlough some of our employees due to decreased revenues, the Business Committee did not feel it was appropriate to hold this event at this time. Everyone needs to look at the bottom line and ask themselves, "Can we get along without it?"

Employees

At the present time there are approximately 2,867 employees and in the past four weeks that figure is down by only 11 individuals. Our targeted goal is to be at 2,500 employees so as to sustain a healthy and workable tribal entity. Some of this downsizing is to be through attrition, which means when an employee retires, quits, or is fired, this position is no longer filled. However, it seems some of our upper level management is not getting this message and they continue to ask for procedural exceptions to get a body in a vacant position.

We all need to tighten our belts and start working together as a team and look to doing more with less. The managers and others need to step up and take on more responsibility to help the organization achieve their goals by pitching in and getting by without adding more employees to our forces.

Health Center

After the President signed the continuing resolution to put the government back to work, the Oneida Community Health Center was informed that funds would be restored to the levels that were projected prior to the start of the fiscal year. In that light, the Health Center has started to restore services that were downsized or completely removed and in the near future you should be able to make appointments again in these areas. Please be patient as some of these operations cannot be completed overnight and it does take some time to restore the services.

Casino Expansion

Have you stopped by lately to our Main Casino and seen some of the work being done to make this facility a better and larger place to accommodate our guests.

The expansion project is on schedule and although there was a small mishap late last month, this did not deter the overall construction schedule and everything is moving forward.

Again I want to thank you, the general membership, for taking the time to read these articles and as always I am available to meet with you, should you so desire. I can be reached at 920-869-4482 or you can e-mail me at djordan1@oneidanation.org.

Oneida Tribal Judicial System

Quarterly Summaries for July - September 2013

Initial Review

Rule 9(D) - Criteria for Acceptance:

The Initial Review Body shall accept an appeal for appellate review if one or more of the following elements are sufficiently alleged to exist in the original hearing body decision by the Appellant in the Notice of Appeal:

(1) A violation of constitutional provisions;
(2) The decision is outside the scope of the authority or otherwise unlawful;
(3) The decision is clearly erroneous and is against the weight of the evidence presented at the hearing level;
(4) The decision is arbitrary and/or capricious;
(5) There is exhibited a procedural irregularity which would be considered a harmful error that may have contributed to the final decision, which if the error had not occurred, would have altered the final decision;
(6) There is a presentation or introduction of new evidence that was not available at the hearing level which, if available, may have altered the final decision.

To conserve time and space provided, the Oneida Tribal Judicial System will only put into print the Initial Review Decisions which have been denied. The cases that have been accepted at Initial Review will be published when the final adjudication has been entered.

Denied Initial Review Decisions

Bryan Jonet vs. Stephen West, Job Training.

Docket No. 13-AC-010, August 28, 2013. Judicial Officers Janice L. McLester, Winnifred L. Thomas and Stanley R. Webster presiding. Denied. Failure to follow Rules of Appellate Procedure, Rule 2 Starting an Appeal (B) Fee: A filing fee of $25.00 must accompany the Notice of Appeal… and Rule 9 (B) Purpose: The purpose of Initial Review is to answer threshold questions regarding the jurisdiction of the case and the procedural and material sufficiency of the Notice of Appeal. (1) The Initial Review will determine if the case is acceptable for appellate review under the criteria in D below. (2) If not acceptable for appellate review, the Initial Review body will determine what original hearing body has subject matter jurisdiction over the case.

In this case, there is no original hearing body decision as required by Rules of Appellate Procedure, Rule 2 Starting an Appeal (D) Additional Information: In addition to the Notice of Appeal form and filing fee, the following information shall be provided upon the filing of the Notice: (1) A copy of the written decision of the original hearing body. This case should have been filed at the Oneida Personal Commission for review under their original hearing body jurisdiction.

Edward Delgado vs Brian Doxtator.

Docket No. 13-AC-011, August 28, 2013. Judicial Officers Janice L. McLester, Winnifred L. Thomas and Stanley R. Webster presiding. In Accordance with Rules of Appellate Procedure, Rule 6(B)(1): Interlocutory Appeals, *Time: The time frames for interlocutory appeals shall be accelerated to minimize any delay in the proceedings before the original hearing body. Appellate Court Cases

Randall Denny vs Leonard Stevens.

Docket No. 13-AC-005, September 9, 2013. Judicial Officers Winnifred L. Thomas, Janice L. McLester, Lois Powless, Jennifer Webster and Stanley R. Webster presiding. This was an appeal of Oneida Personnel Commission decision upholding Mr. Denny's termination. Mr. Denny was an employee of the Food Distribution department for six years and served in the capacity of a substitute relief worker. He had worked regularly for six years. Mr. Denny had been injured on the job and was taken to the hospital. His manager Mr. Don Miller gave Mr. Denny the choice of hospital and Mr. Denny chose St. Mary's hospital. Mr. Denny received a bill from the hospital and complained to Contract Health. He was told to contact HRD. Mr. Denny told HRD that it was his manager Mr. Miller that had said he could have a choice of hospitals so he chose St. Mary's hospital, which happened to be the wrong hospital that the Tribe uses. Mr. Miller would not admit to the instruction. Mr. Denny went to see the department Director, Ms. Linda Torres and complained about the situation, and about his job title and lack of raises and benefits. During this time frame a complaint was filed in regard to Mr. Denny's work performance. On November 5, 2012 Mr. Denny was terminated for alleged issues related to work performance and personal actions and appearance. Mr. Denny appealed his termination. On December 3, 2012 Mr. Denny received a letter from Oneida Human Resources stating he was reinstated as a result of a voided termination. On December 4, 2012 at 4:30 pm, Mr. Denny received a call from his Supervisor to come to work on December 5, 2012 at 9:30 am. Upon his arrival his Supervisor, Mr. Leonard Stevens informed Mr. Denny that he had won his appeal and would be getting his back pay for the month of November. Mr. Stevens then handed Mr. Denny a memo thanking him for his work at the Oneida Food Distribution and letting him know that his services were no longer needed and his position as a Sub-Relief-Worker ended effective December 5, 2012. Mr. Denny appealed to the OTJS Appellate Court. The Appellate Court reversed the OPC's decision and ordered Mr. Denny to be reinstated to his position along with all Back-Pay and all other benefits due him. The Appellate Court found six years as a Sub-Relief-Worker was beyond the intended scope of his position. Mr. Denny had in fact been treated as a regular employee; therefore, he should have received the benefits of a regular employee which means he could not simply be "let go".

Oneida Bingo & Casino, Table Games/Poker Room, Shelly Stevens vs. Trudell Kohlwey.

Docket No. 13-AC-007, September 16, 2013. Judicial Officers Winnifred L. Thomas, Janice L. McLester, Lois Powless, Jennifer Webster and Stanley R. Webster presiding. This case was an appeal of the Oneida Personnel Commission decision dated April 5, 2012 which overturned a written warning. Ms. Kohlwey is a Poker room Shift Supervisor for the Table Games Department at the Oneida Bingo and Casino. On January 10, 2013 Ms. Kohlwey walked out of the West Mason Street Casino with a level two (2) key in her pocket and received a written warning. The OPC overturned the written warning. Oneida Bingo & Casino, Table Games/Poker Room, Shelly Stevens appealed that decision to the OTJS's Appellate Court. The Appellate Court found the Key Watcher SOP is sufficiently specific about Level Two keys. Under section 3.6.2(g) of the Key Watcher SOP it states unauthorized removal of key(s) from building can result in a written warning, suspension and eventual termination. Ms. Kohlwey was disciplined under the Oneida Personnel Policies and Procedures section V.D.2.IV.j. Failure to exercise proper judgment. The Key Watcher Standard Operating Procedures had been created in 2004 and should be updated periodically to keep up with the changes in gaming. However, the Key Watcher SOP is not the controlling document in this case. The violation within the Oneida Personnel Policies and Procedures are controlling. The Oneida Personnel Policies and Procedures are Tribal Law and it is the driving document utilized when issuing disciplinary actions and carries the greater weight against a Standard Operating Procedure. The Appellate Court reversed the Oneida Personnel Commission's decision dated April 5, 2013, and upheld the supervisor's decision in the issuance of the Written Warning.

Trial Court Cases

Suzette Diederich vs HRD/Benefits and Crawford & Company.

Docket No. 13-TC-026, July 23, 2013. Judicial Officers Mary Adams, Jean M. Webster and Leland Wigg-Ninham presiding. This case was a Worker's Compensation claim. Petitioner, Suzette Diederich, filed her appeal against Respondents, HRD-Benefits and Crawford & Company decision to deny her Workers Compensation claim. Petitioner claimed she suffered insect bites while on duty, which caused her lost wages of less than four-weeks. Respondents denied Petitioner's claim due to untimely filing and Petitioner provided no evidence to show alleged injury happened at work. On July 22, 2013 Petitioner submitted her motion for dismissal as she no longer interested in pursuing this claim. Petitioner's motion for dismissal without prejudice was granted.

Ron Kelly vs Oneida Conservation, Harvey Kosowski.

Docket No. 13-TC-036, July 29, 2013. Judicial Officers Mary Adams, Sandra L. Skenadore and Leland Wigg-Ninham presiding. This case began in November 2012, as Mr. Kelly was hunting within tribal lands within a no hunting no trespassing area. On the same day or shortly thereafter, Mr. Kelly was issued a citation from Warden Kosowski for violation of Chapter 45.16 and Mr. Kelly's weapon was seized. This violation is described as trespassing in a wildlife area, park or bow hunting area during the nine (9) day gun deer season, without giving notice. A hearing was scheduled at the Environmental Resources Board for January 2013, but was rescheduled for February 2013. At the ERB hearing, Warden Kosowski failed to appear and the ERB dismissed the citation and shortly after Mr. Kelly retrieved his weapon. Mr. Kelly then filed this action. The Court found Warden Kosowski exceeded his discretion by seizing Mr. Kelly's gun. Under Oneida law, seizure of weapons is a specific and limited power and Warden Kosowski crossed a bright line by seizing the weapon in a situation where it was clearly not authorized. This case is proceeding to address a possible remedy.

Michael B. King vs HRD-Benefits and Crawford & Co. Insurance.

Docket No. 13-TC-009, August 5, 2013. Judicial Officers Jean M. Webster, Kathy Hughes and Mary Adams presiding. This case involves an appeal of denial of workman's compensation. Petitioner claims the five percent permanent partial disability he received for the 2012 injury to his left knee should be combined with five percent permanent partial disability he received in 2011 for his right knee injury. The issue was can percent disability ratings be stacked or combined. Compensation for permanent disability the injury must be rated 7.5% or higher. In both cases these were work related injuries, however, occurred separately and there was no factual relation between the two injuries except both injuries occurred at work and were injuries to Mr. King's knees. The court affirmed the denial of workman's compensation.

Rita Thornton vs Oneida Housing Authority.

Docket No. 13-TC-120, August 8, 2013. Judicial Officers Jean M. Webster, Kathy Hughes and Mary Adams presiding. This case involved a housing eviction. Petitioner filed a Motion for Stay on the Enforcement of Oneida Housing Authority decision and a Motion for Peacemaking. Respondent alleged the Petitioner abandoned her home and the utilities to the home were disconnected. Petitioner claimed she did not abandon her home but was staying with friends due to the disconnection of her utilities. Based upon testimony and evidence to the court, the Court upheld the Respondent's decision for eviction and gave the Petitioner until July 15, 2013 to remove all personal belongings. The Motion for Peacemaking became moot as the decision of abandonment was upheld.

In re: Petition Removal of Chairman Delgado, Brian A. Doxtator vs Edward Delgado.

Docket No. 13-TC-124, August 24, 2013. Judicial Officers Jean M. Webster, Sandra Skenadore and James Van Stippen presiding. Petitioner filed a Removal Petition of Chairman Edward Delgado. Petitioner file the claim on August 2, 2013 with the Oneida Tribal Secretary's office and the Tribal Secretary's office filed the removal petition on August 7, 2013 at the Oneida Tribal Judicial System. Respondent filed a motion for recusal of Judicial Officers. August 21, 2013 a preliminary review was held. Each Judicial Officer addressed the Respondents request for recusal at which time each party was given another opportunity if they still objected to the Judicial Officers to remain on the case. There was no objection from either party. Respondents alleged the petition was not filed timely. Based upon testimony and evidence the court found the date of June 6, 2013 on the petition was dated in error; therefore the filing of the petition was within the timeframe outlined in the Removal Law. Petitioner further alleged the Respondent violated various sections of the Code of Ethics, GTC Resolution 2-25-82, GTC Resolution 1-17-98 and GTC approved job description. Based on upon testimony and evidence the Court found there were sufficient grounds for removal and the Removal Petition was forwarded to a hearing.

In re: Petition Removal of Chairman Delgado, Brian A. Doxtator vs Edward Delgado.

Docket No. 13-TC-124, September 10, 2013. Judicial Officers Jean M. Webster, Sandra Skenadore and James Van Stippen presiding. This matter arises out of the Petitioner's attempt to remove Chairman, Edward Delgado in accordance with Chapter 4 of the Removal Law. In accordance to the Removal Law the person seeking removal of an elected official has the burden of proving by clear and convincing evidence the grounds for removal exist. Petitioner alleged Chairman Delgado violated the Tribe's Code of Ethics in relation to: (1) the SEOTS Facility Proposal, (2) divulging sensitive information to Bonnilake, and (3) directing management to act over and above their approved program procedures. Petitioner also alleged Chairman Delgado violated the Oath of Office. After two days of testimony the court found the Petitioner failed to meet the burden of proof by clear and convincing evidence. Petitioner did not show there were sufficient grounds for removal; therefore, the court declined to forward the petition to the General Tribal Council and Petitioner's request for removal was dismissed.

Barbara J. Silva vs Oneida Trust Committee.

Docket No. 13-TC-125, September20, 2013. Judicial Officers Mary Adams, Kathy Hughes and Jean M. Webster presiding. This case involves a request for the early release of a Trust Fund account. Petitioner's son reached the age of eighteen and has not graduated from high school. A pretrial hearing was held in August 2013. Petitioner claimed she needed a letter from the Trust Committee denying the withdrawal from her son's Trust Funds so that the state could provide him with a public defender. In September 2013 Petitioner filed a motion to expedite this matter by holding an earlier pre-trial hearing because a preliminary hearing concerning charges against her son was scheduled for mid-September 2013. On September 10, 2013 the Court denied Petitioner's request (see Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 5(C)2) which states the opposing party is entitled to fifteen days to file their response. Petitioner explained that the Trust Funds are his, he is entitled to early release of the funds and that there are no restrictions, and that he can use the funds anyway he chooses. Furthermore, Petitioner claims the Trust Funds are for her son's safety and welfare; therefore, should meet the early release requirement. The Court found that even if a qualified tribal member graduates from high school or obtains a GED, the tribal member shall not receive his or her Trust Fund distribution unless they provide proof to the Enrollment Department that the terms are met. The Court denies early release of Petitioner's son's Trust Funds. After much discussion, Petitioner motioned the Court to dismiss her claim.

Letters & Opinions...

Respect for Elders

I am writing because of the concerns I have wit he OBC saying they respect the elders. Why are all the cuts aimed at the elders? Why are the elderly apartments on hold? Why hasn't the meal site been finished when it was supposed to be finished? Why are you now cutting out the Christmas party? You don't realize how much the Christmas party means to the elderly. It's the one thing they look forward to all year. I don't see any cuts made to the OBC for travel or anything else, but then of course there aren't any elderly serving on it. Making cuts to Mom's bingo at the Senior Center, what sense does that make?

Why don't you have absentee voting? Would it not save money and let the elderly that can't get out vote? Does anyone use common sense anymore?

I guess you don't know what respect really means. Respect your elders – I don't think so.

Wis. sheriff's department to get propane cars

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) ~ The Winnebago County Sheriff's Department is turning to propane-powered squad cars in an attempt to cut costs.

Oshkosh Northwestern Media reports provisions in the 2014 county budget allocate $52,000 to purchase and install propane conversion kits on eight squad cars and $10,000 to build a propane filling station on the highway department grounds.

The change allows the sheriff's department to budget $268,110 for fuel this year, down 6.3 percent from $286,235 in the 2013 budget.

Sheriff John Matz says the county will save $12,000 in fuel costs over the lifespan of each vehicle. The department is expected to save about $138,000 annually in fuel costs when the agency's 23 squad cars convert.

SD code talkers being honored by Congress

By Blake Nicholson
Associated Press

American Indians who sent coded messages to shield U.S. military communications from the enemy during World Wars I and II are being honored later this month at the nation's capital.

Several South Dakota and North Dakota tribes are among 33 tribes to be recognized as part of the Congressional Gold Medal ceremony in Washington, D.C., on Nov. 20, for the Native American code talkers, South Dakota's congressional delegation said in a statement.

Code talkers used their native language to send communications that enemies could not decode.

Toni Red Cloud, who lives on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation in South Dakota, said her late father, Melvin, and late uncle, William, were code talkers. She's still learning details of their service to the country because they never talked about it in front of her or her sisters.

"It's an honor," she said Friday of her father and uncle being honored posthumously. "The whole family was patriotic. He (her father) kept us respectful of the flag and the country that he served. That was just the way he raised us."

At least three other deceased Oglala Lakota code talkers from the reservation also will be recognized.

"It's a big honor, especially for the Lakota," Tribal President Bryan Brewer said. "The Navajo, they're real famous for their code talkers, but our story has always been kind of quiet. This is a once-in-a-lifetime deal for the families."

The Congressional Gold Medal is one of the highest honors bestowed by Congress.

"Drawing from their ancient heritage, the code talkers helped transform modern history through a system that was as effective as it was ingenious," U.S. Rep. Kristi Noem said. "It is long overdue that we recognize the power and relief these code talkers brought our county and Allied forces."

Other South Dakota tribes being recognized are the Rosebud Sioux, Cheyenne River Sioux, Crow Creek Sioux, Lower Brule Sioux and Yankton Sioux. The Standing Rock Sioux and Sisseton Wahpeton Oyate, in South Dakota and North Dakota, also are being honored.

We came from the Cheyenne, Lakota, Kiowa, Ute, Dine, Cherokee, Apache, and many others.
Over a hundred nations on this great land.
And now we are few.
We are warriors from the past, present and future.
Always we defend our land.
We were brought to the brink of extinction in our early American history.
Yet we defended this great land.

We signed treaties to become part of a young United States of America.
Though not many were kept,
yet we defended this great land.

World War I came and went and we were there.
When it was over the celebration of our peoples return was an honorable one.
Then on June 2, 1924, we became the youngest Americans.
We were now the oldest and youngest warriors,
we were proclaimed citizens of the United States
And yet we defended this great land.

World War II came and went and we were there.
With our peoples great warriors and beautiful languages that were almost destroyed.
We defended this great land.

When it was over, the celebration of our peoples return was an honorable one.
Then in 1948 the last state in this great land allowed us to vote.
We could now help choose our leaders.
And yet we defended this great land.

The Korean War came and went
And again our warriors were honored home.
Because we defended this great land.

Vietnam came and went.
When it was over we gave honor to our people who returned home.
Research was done and our people per capita served the armed forces more than any other and received more medals of valor.
Because we defended this great land.

Desert Storm came and went.
We honored our people home again with honor.
Because we defended this great land.

On April 19th, 1995 in Oklahoma City our nation cried
And again, within those walls our people were there.

On September 11, 2001 again our nation cried.
Within our nation all people cried and all the tears were clear.
No difference in color, race, or creed.

As with all people, we think and our hearts break the same.
We are past, present and future Native American Warriors.
We are past, present and future Native American Veterans.
We always as a people, honored our treaty agreements.
Through our faith we have survived.
And along with all people of this great nation
We will always defend this great land.
And our nation again through faith will survive and will always be a great land.

To our MIA and POWs,
in our hearts you will never be forgotten.
THANK YOU for defending this great land".

Hundreds rally in Minn. against Redskins' name

By Jeff Baenen
Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) ~ Hundreds of American Indians and their supporters rallied outside the Metrodome Thursday night to demand the Washington Redskins change the team's nickname, calling it racist and disrespectful.

Carrying flags, signs and staffs and led by American Indian Movement co-founder Clyde Bellecourt, the crowd marched to the downtown stadium to hear speakers before the Minnesota Vikings played Washington.

Opponents call the Redskins' nickname offensive to Native Americans. As drums beat, protesters chanted, "Hey hey, ho ho, Little Red Sambo's got to go." Some carried signs with messages including "We are not cartoons! Respect us!" and "Racism is unsportsmanlike conduct."

Mario McBrogan, 24, of Minneapolis, who is Cherokee, was there to watch the game and to support changing the Redskins' name. He said the name should be changed "out of respect to every Native American."

Other teams have dropped Indian mascots and nicknames, McBrogan said. "So I don't understand why they (the Redskins) shouldn't have to change their name. It's obviously offensive to a culture," he said.

Krystal Hedemann, 34, of St. Paul, a member of the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe, said it's time to get rid of what she called racist names in sports.

"I want my children to grow up in a world without racist names," Hedemann said.

Former Minnesota Gov. Jesse Ventura spoke to the crowd, saying he always tried to avoid saying "Redskins" when covering the team as a sports broadcaster.

"This name is wrong. It's just plain wrong," Ventura said. He asked what would happen if a sports team in Birmingham, Ala., was named "The Slaves" and had an African-American mascot.

"What kind of outrage would there be at that? Well, this is the same thing," Ventura said.

Redskins owner Dan Synder has called the name a "badge of honor" and said it won't be changed.

Asked about the Redskins' nickname at a Thursday morning news conference, current Minnesota Gov. Mark Dayton called it "racist" and suggested every member of Congress should boycott the team to put pressure on its owners.

Also Thursday, Minneapolis Mayor R.T. Rybak released a statement saying the name disrespects indigenous people. Six members of the Minneapolis City Council had recently sent a letter to the team's owner and NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell calling the nickname and team mascot racist.

Associated Press writers Patrick Condon and Brian Bakst contributed to this story from St. Paul.

Senate Democrats Call for Governor to Veto Racist Mascot Bill

MADISON – Today, Senate Democratic Leader Chris Larson and every member of the Senate Democratic Caucus released a letter sent to Governor Scott Walker calling for his veto of the race-based mascot bill. Following the governor's cancellation of his weekly meeting with Democratic legislative leaders, where Senator Larson planned to present the letter, it was delivered to the governor's office.

"My Senate colleagues and I are calling on Governor Walker to veto the race-based mascot legislation waiting on his desk," said Senate Democratic Leader Chris Larson. "Changing current state law that was created in good faith by Wisconsin Tribal Leaders, educators and legislators over a period of 20 years at the will of one party, without support from Tribal Leaders or educators is regressive and harmful to Wisconsin's children. It is our hope that the governor addresses this legislation with the same level of community input he's taking with other issues directly affecting Wisconsin's Tribal community."

Change of seasons got you down? Go for a walk

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (AP) ~ If the gloomy Wisconsin weather is getting you down, one Wisconsin doctor suggests you take a walk.

A Wisconsin Public Radio report says a healthy diet and exercise can help prevent the symptoms of Seasonal Affective Disorder. That's a mood disorder that tends to occur in fall and winter months as daylight becomes more scarce.

Dr. Mahmoud Ahmed is a psychiatrist at the Marshfield Clinic in Eau Claire. He says one way to beat the blues is to take a walk. He says people tend to stay inside when it snows, but extra light that reflects off snow can help improve one's mood.

Severe cases of Seasonal Affective Disorder can be treated with medication. But Ahmed says people shouldn't underestimate the therapeutic value of being out in natural light.

2013 ONEIDA SOCIAL SERVICES GIVING TREE

Greetings,

Children's names are now available for the 2013 Social Services Giving Tree.

The holiday season is coming quickly upon us and the Social Services Giving Tree is in the beginning stages for the 2013 year. In 2012 the Giving Tree successfully provided gifts to 269 Oneida Families with a total of 750 Oneida Children. We are hopeful we will be able to cover all children on the tree once again this year.

A majority of the children on the Giving Tree are clients of the Social Services Area (Indian Child Welfare, Domestic Violence, Juvenile Diversion, Center for Self Sufficiency etc., Headstart, Child Support etc.). Although the number is very minimal we do accept applications from those who are not clients but are Oneida Enrolled and are in financial need of assistance.

If you would like to sponsor a child from the Giving Tree this year you can stop at the Social Services Building (main entrance) to select a child to sponsor. I can also email or interoffice you a child's information.

Each child's ornament tag has information about the child (clothing sizes and gift suggestions). There is no set dollar amount for the gifts although the average amount has been between $20 - $30. We do ask the gifts be new and returned to Social Services by Dec. 13, 2013. Wrapping the gift is optional, if you choose to wrap the gift please securely attach the original ornament tag to the outside of the package to ensure the correct child receives your gift.

If you have any questions or would like more information on how to sponsor a child feel free to contact me.

I would like to thank everyone for the continuous generosity and support of the Oneida Social Services Giving Tree.

U.S. honors Oneida for Code Talker role

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks
nwisnes@oneidanation.org
@Nwisneski_Kali

Four Oneida families along with the Oneida Tribe were honored for their role as Code Talkers during World War II during a Congressional Medal Ceremony on Wednesday, November 20 in Washington D.C.

The families of United States Army Veterans Rupert Adams, Hudson Doxtator, Rimton Doxtator, and Lloyd Schuyler were presented with silver medals for what Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid (D-Nev.) said, "“In this nation’s hour of greatest need, Native American languages proved to have great value indeed. The United States government turned to a people and a language they had tried to eradicate.”

Public Law passed in 2008 called for the recognition of 33 Native American tribes that provided Code Talkers during World Wars I and II.

The Oneida Tribe along with Oneida veterans took ownership in the design of the medal presented. Oneida Tribal Historian Loretta Metoxen, Oneida VFW Historian Chris Cornelius, and Dan King, Co-Chairman for the Veterans Committee of the National Congress of American Indians spearheaded the design process.

"It was the three of us who were designated to try to get the ideas implemented that would appropriately recognize Oneida Code Talkers," said Metoxen.

According to Metoxen, it was not an easy task. "We went back and forth," she said.

The design process spanned three years with multiple review processes.

"We had a review committee made up of the Oneida Nations Veteran's Affairs Committee and the four Commanders of the veteran's organizations in Oneida," said Metoxen. "There were many more Oneida Veterans involved. We had an all veterans meeting and ultimately, every veteran that wanted to, could vote on the final design."

Each of the 33 Congressional Medals is unique to each tribe. "Ours has the tree of peace with white roots. It has the three clans wolf, bear, and turtle with the eagle, of course, on top of the pine tree watching over the welfare of the nation. Under the roots the weapons would be buried for peace. At the very bottom is the two row wampum," said Metoxen.

It also includes the Oneida word latiwʌnatényehse? which means they change the words. "I got that from Maria Hinton and talked to Leander Danforth about the word and they both agreed that was the best word," added Metoxen.

The reverse side features a Code Talker in the Army with his radio pack and rifle. The United States Mint was very adamant that the soldier has a certain look.

"We couldn't attach any indian symbols or items

Basket makers aim to spread holiday cheer

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks
tcottrel@oneidanation.org

The Oneida Basket Guild is a group that meets to socialize and practice the art of basket weaving. This year they will be using the art form to spread holiday cheer in the community.

“We are going to be making ten baskets and we will divide them between two areas. Five will go to Oneida Food Distribution and five will go to one of the food pantries in the community,” said Joyce Skenandore, who heads the Basket Guild.

The group refers to themselves as Twashe?nutslu·nihe?, which means “We Make Baskets” in Oneida. Although the artists do learn how to make traditional Oneida baskets, they also learn a variety of different techniques, often times from guest instructors.

“We started with Black Ash baskets, which are a traditional Oneida basket, and then we had an instructor come in and show others like sweet grass, birch bark, and pine needle baskets. We even did a kids basket making class,” said Skenandore.

Typically black ash baskets require a lot of to his uniform. They wanted it to be strictly military. So, we put the three feathers, two feathers up and one feather down, representing the Oneida Nation gustowe behind the soldier," Metoxen said.

With the medals now home work has begun to get the community involved in interacting with not only the medals but also the stories of the four men.

"You know, they lived here and never spoke about their part," said Metoxen.

Metoxen even thinks more Oneida Code Talkers may be discovered.

"We may have more. It's not in their military records but more may show up. We'll keep looking," she said.

The magnitude of the event and Metoxen's role was not lost on her.

"I'm pleased with it. I have done a lot of things in my life and this is a highlight. To be a part of something so historically notable is very important to me because I'm a historian. I was very happy to work on it and be at the presentation," said Metoxen.

hard work to make. Tree bark is scraped and logs are pounded in order to get the necessary materials to make a basket.

"It's some real serious basket weaving to make those. We learn how to do that but we also learn other styles to make it interesting and fun," Skenandore added.

The groups started on their holiday donation baskets in October and have seven of the ten complete.

The Basket Guild has been meeting at the Oneida Nation Arts Program (ONAP) cottage since 2009 and has seen attendance gradually grow.

"Our season is from September to May, that is when we hold meetings, typically around 5:30. The number of people is definitely growing; we even had a few men join," Skenandore said.

For those interested in joining the Oneida Basket Guild there is $20 fee, which is good for the year. The fee in addition to grant funds from the Dollars for Art program are used to purchase supplies. Menominee Ancestors come Home for Reburial

Special to Kalihwisaks

The Menominee Tribal Historic Preservation Office (MTHPO) on behalf of the Menominee Tribe recently repatriated its Menominee ancestor's human remains and funerary objects and brought them home for reburial. The MTHPO has been meeting in consultation under provisions established by the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act (NAGPRA) with the Wisconsin State Historical Society Museum for the return of our ancestor's remains. Included in the consultation meetings were the Ho Chunk Nation and the Forest County Potawatomi. The Historical Society Museum received a NAGPRA grant to work with tribes in Wisconsin to help facilitate the return to human remains. Remains also came from the Three Oaks Museum located in Three Oaks, Michigan.

According to background documentation, in 1963, human remains representing, at minimum, one individual were removed from a burial located just below the plow zone at the Riverbend 1 Site in Waupaca County, WI. The State Historical Society of Wisconsin and the Wisconsin Department of Transportation excavated the fragmentary human remains. The remains were determined to be those of an adult Native American female. The two funerary objects are a quartz shatter and a quartzite flake.

In 1943, background documentation indicates that human remains representing – at a minimum – one individual, was removed from a Shiocton Burial Ground at the Wolf River site in Outagamie County, WI, by (anthropologists) Robert Hall, Robert Link and Warren Witty. The human remains were determined to be those of an adult male age 25-40. The remains were donated to the State Historical Society.

Background documentation shows human remains also came from the Peterson Site in Waukesha County located on the Fox River at Big Bend. The site is a large site and contains Middle and Late Woodland village sites. Both conical and effigy mounds occur there and it is a well-known site. The remains of two individuals came from burials associated with a Late Woodland Cemetery dating from the 800-1200AD.

One human remain was also found at the Menominee River near Marinette, Wisconsin and Menominee, Michigan in 1940, according to background documentation. The remains were sent to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. and were analyzed and identified as an adult female and were sent to us from the Three Oaks Museum, in Three Oaks, Michigan under the provisions of NAGPRA.

Menominee Tribal Historic Preservation Officer, David Grignon said, "Once again it was an honor to bring our ancestor's remains and funerary objects home for reburial and was happy that several community members and volunteers attended the repatriation feasts and ceremonies." Grignon expressed his appreciation to the Menominee Community for the overwhelming support for this effort. "This is the sixth repatriation that we have conducted and we now have reburied 87 of our ancestor's remains and funerary objects on the reservation," he added.

Previous repatriations under the provision of NAGPRA were with the Neville Public Museum, Oshkosh Public Museum, Milwaukee Public Museum, National Museum of the American Indian Smithsonian, New London Public Museum and Jacobsen Museum on Washington Island.

A Ghost feast and ceremonies took place at the Menominee Logging Museum on November 8th and 9th. The Menominee ancestor's remains were reburied in Menominee repatriation burial ground on the Menominee Reservation.

If you have any question regarding the repatriation and reburial please call David Grignon at 715-799-5258.

Postal Service Asks to Please Clear Snow and Ice

Keep Letter Carriers safe as they deliver mail for the holidays

Oneida, WI — With the first major snowstorm expected to blanket the region soon, one seasonal tool is expected to make its return at homes and businesses – the shovel.

To help letter carriers deliver mail for the holidays, the Postal Service is asking customers to clear snow and ice from sidewalks, stairs and mailboxes.

"Snow and ice make delivery dangerous and slow," said Oneida Postmaster Cheryl Koenig. "Maintaining a clear path to the mail box – including steps, porches, walkways and street approach – will help letter carriers maintain consistent delivery service and help them get those cards and packages delivered in time for the holidays."

Customers receiving door delivery should make sure their sidewalks, steps and porches are clear. Customers receiving curbside delivery should remove snow piles left by snow plows to keep access to their mailboxes clear for letter carriers.

Delivery service may be delayed or curtailed whenever streets or walkways present hazardous conditions for letter carriers or when snow is plowed against mailboxes. "The Postal Service curtails delivery only after careful consideration, and only as a last resort," says Koenig. "Any curtailed mail is attempted the next delivery day."

The Postal Service receives no tax dollars for operating expenses and relies on the sale of postage, products and services to fund its operations.

Background on Business

Technical course benefits Oneida businesswomen

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks
dwalschi@oneidanation.org
@dwalschi_kali

After six months of hard work, three Oneida women are graduates of the US Small Business Administration (SBA) Emerging Leaders E200 Class. According to the SBA, since 2008 the initiative has trained more than 1,300 promising small business owners in underserved communities, and continues to expand its impact helping small businesses grow and create jobs.

Oneida Business Committee Treasurer Tina Danforth, her Executive Assistant Mary Graves, and small business owner Denise Ledesma-Freeman all participated in the SBA course that focused on creating, managing and building a small business.

"They teach you delegation, they teach you how to market, oh, my gosh, they taught us so much stuff," said Ledesma-Freeman who owns DAT Native Pride Trucking with her husband Tim Freeman.

Danforth said the course was pretty encompassing.

"It's actually geared towards Native Americans, it is for minorities," she said. "It also looked at opportunities to engage in federal contracting and foundations and private equity."

Graves states she gained "the perspective into what I need to look for when I do get my own business, financially, and how to market it right away and get the word out even before the doors open, get people involved."

The courses were taught out of Milwaukee via satellite feed to the Skenandoah Complex in Oneida. There were 12 students in Milwaukee, and one of the instructors would switch off teaching at either location each week. The course was free for Native Americans. The three were able to enroll in the course with the help of the Tribal Procurement Institute (TPI-PTAC) in Oneida which also lent technical assistance with the satellite class.

"This was the first class that was offered in Wisconsin that was on satellite," said Danforth. "You got to network with people in your class, because everyone's a business person."

The class participants did homework every week.

"They didn't grade us, they just gave us little tidbits on what we should do or should have done," said Ledesma- Freeman.

The course wrapped up with a final presentation.

"We had to go in front of a board of bankers and financial institutions and then we did our presentation and they critiqued us," she said.

The October 30 graduation attracted representatives from the offices of Milwaukee Mayor Tom Barrett, US Rep. Gwen Moore (D), and US Senator Tammy Baldwin (D).

"It was a big deal for us and for the class to have that kind of recognition at the graduation ceremony," said Danforth.

Ledesma-Freeman found the experience to be positive for herself and her business.

"I'm hoping to get more people involved because it really opens your mind and makes you think," she said.

Now called the Emerging Leaders executive-level training initiative, the course has been a catalyst for expanding opportunities for both urban small business owners and Native American communities.

Sixty-seven percent of surveyed participants reported an increase in revenue while 75 percent of those surveyed reported maintaining or creating new jobs in their communities. Surveyed participants also reported having secured more than $26 million in new financing for their businesses, and an increase in confidence when applying for government contracts. As a result, nearly half of the initiative graduates reported securing federal, state and local contracts, worth more than $330 million.

Online Shopping Security Tips for the Holiday Season

By Dianne Zubella
Bay Bank

More shoppers than ever are turning to mobile devices and computers to do their holiday shopping. However, internet shopping has unique risks for consumers, so shoppers need to take steps to protect themselves from fraud and scams. Here are a few tips for novice and veteran internet shoppers.

Avoid using public Wi-Fi

Any purchases made online require transmitting your credit card and/or bank account information over the internet. Using a public Wi-Fi connection to do so puts that sensitive information at risk. Hackers can tap into unsecured Wi-Fi connections at hotspots like coffee shops and airport terminals to capture that information. If you're using a wireless connection to shop, be sure that it requires a password or WEP key.

Don't respond to text solicitations

During the holiday shopping season, scammers will send out hundreds of fake deals or gift card offers via text message. If you respond, you'll likely be prompted to divulge sensitive financial information (such as a credit card number). Responding also puts you on the "sucker list" which means you'll receive even more unsolicited scam texts.

Monitor your accounts

Proactively monitoring your financial accounts (such as bank and credit card statements) can help you catch errors and spot potential fraud at the first sign. To simplify this process, use a single credit card for all your online purchases. That way you only have one statement to check instead of several.

Do not click links on social networking sites

To avoid infecting your computer or mobile device with malicious software, never click on a link to a deal or special savings on a social networking site or in an unsolicited email. Scammers will often disguise a social media post or email to make it seem as if it's coming from a known retailer, but the link will take you to a fake site and infect your device. If you see a link that supposedly leads to a sale you want to take advantage of, visit the retailer's website directly rather than clicking the link. From there you can verify if the sale is legit.

Finally, if you do notice suspicious charges on your credit card or transfers from your banking account, contact your credit card company and bank right away to notify them. They will put a freeze on the account, preventing further fraud. Remember, whenever you're online: think before you click.

Tom Maulson, Chairman of Lac du Flambeau Band of Lake Superior Chippewa Indians, and Fern Orie, Executive Director of Wigamig Owners Loan Fund, Inc., display the grant check.

Wigamig Owners Loan Fund, Inc. recently received a third $100,000 grant from the Lac du Flambeau Band of Lake Superior Chippewa Indians. This grant will enhance Wigamig's current loan products and provide more lending opportunities for consumer loans to the Lac du Flambeau community. There is an increased need for lending in Native communities, since many conventional banks are facing tighter constraints and regulations. Wigamig has more flexibility in this arena to provide lending services and financial products to this underserved market.

Wigamig is excited for this ongoing partnership with the Lac du Flambeau Tribe to continue making a significant impact for the people of the Lac du Flambeau community. By providing financial education along with affordable lending products, Wigamig is strengthening tribal members and their families. This continued investment from the Lac du Flambeau Tribe signifies the importance of access to affordable lending opportunities on Indian Reservations in Wisconsin. A unique opportunity exists for the Wisconsin Tribes to collaborate and partner with Wigamig to serve each of their communities.

Wigamig Owners Loan Fund, Inc. is a non-profit 501 (c)(3) certified CDFI (Community Development Financial Institution) with headquarters located in Lac du Flambeau. The mission of Wigamig is to increase the financial self-sufficiency of Wisconsin Native American communities.

Mayors in Ga., Wis., Pa., urge Medicaid expansion

MILWAUKEE (AP) ~ The mayors of Atlanta, Milwaukee and Philadelphia are pushing for their states to expand Medicaid so federally funded health insurance is available to hundreds of thousands of working poor who could lose coverage Jan. 1.

The mayors spoke with reporters Wednesday on a call arranged by the White House.

Milwaukee Mayor Tom Barrett says Wisconsin's Republican governor is waging an "ideological battle" against the new health care reform law. He says Gov. Scott Walker hesitates to accept federal money to expand the state's Medicaid program, but he gladly accepts federal highway funds.

Philadelphia Mayor Michael Nutter says failure to expand Medicaid in Pennsylvania will cause poor people to get sick and miss work, hurting the economy.

And Atlanta Mayor Kasim Reed says refusing the expansion funds could cost local public hospitals $100 million in subsidies.

Important Information about BadgerCare Plus Enrollment

You may have already received a letter from the State of Wisconsin informing you that there are NEW INCOME LIMITS for BadgerCare Plus.

Due to changes in State law, adult members with household income above 100% of the Federal Poverty Level (FPL) and children with household income above 300% of FPL will no longer be eligible for BadgerCare Plus. These changes take effect January 1, 2014.

If you have received the letter from the State of Wisconsin, you or someone in your household may be above those FPL limits. If anyone in your household is affected by the change in income limits, and you are still enrolled in BadgerCare Plus, you will get another letter from the State in December, letting you know exactly who is affected and how their eligibility will change.

PLEASE NOTE: These new limits do not affect pregnant women or people who are enrolled in Medicaid for the "Elderly, Blind or Disabled". If you had a recent loss in income, or if you or someone in your household becomes pregnant, report the change right away to your case worker, as it may affect your enrollment.

If you have questions about the letter sent to you from the State, or questions about your BadgerCare Plus enrollment, call the agency where your case is managed. Contact information is:

Trade jobs have a bright future

Demand for Construction Workers Will Create 255,900 Jobs By 2018.

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics predicts that the demand for construction workers will increase by 20 percent through 2018, resulting in the creation of 255,900 new jobs. Locally, construction firms have already begun to struggle to meet construction demand.

The past decade has made it difficult for contractors to hire and maintain construction crews, limiting the opportunity to bring young apprentices into the trades. When the 911 terrorist attacks occurred, it created a massive slowdown in the economy and construction. In 2008, the real estate bubble burst and the stock market crashed again killing economic opportunities and slowing down construction.

The economy has been slowly creeping back and construction, including the highway 41 project has already made a positive impact in the industry. However, the leading cause for opportunity in the future of construction is the exit of older workers from the workforce. With estimates as high as 8000 Baby Boomers nationally, leaving the workforce each day, this is going to create a lot of opportunities for younger generations.

The Oneida Nation Community Education Center is working with workforce development and building and trades to create a pre-apprenticeship program to take advantage of this opportunity. Construction jobs provide excellent pay and make a great alternative to college. Apprentices get the opportunity to earn while they learn, but apprenticeships tend to be competitive. The pre-apprenticeship program will give individuals an edge in the jobs arena. For more information contact Shannon Stone at the ONCEC at (920) 496-5258 or SStone@OneidaNation.org.

Christmas in the Clouds at ONCEC

A Romantic Comedy Shown at the ONCEC in December

The Oneida Film Society will finish the year with the film Christmas in the Clouds. A classic comedy of mistaken identity and romance set during the holiday season at a ski resort that is owned and operated by a Native American Nation. Shot on location at The Sundance Resort in Utah, this is the first contemporary romantic comedy to feature an almost entirely American Indian cast.

When Ray Clouds on Fire (Timothy Vahle) returns from college he is determined to make changes to the local ski lodge managed by an eccentric cast of family and friends. A laid-back place where employees' children play in the lobby, the handyman has a habit of flirting with the guests, and the chef (Graham Green) takes a certain pleasure in informing his diners of the names he has given the animals they're eating, doesn't make the lodge exactly four-star travel guide material. So when Ray learns that a travel guide representative is coming to make an inspection, he decides to make the lodge a professional place of business.

At the same time, the beautiful Tina Littlehawk (Mariana Tosca) decides to finally meet her pen pal Joe Clouds on Fire (Sam Vlahos), Ray's father, and a case of mistaken identities lead to a hilarious string of events. She thinks Joe is Ray and Ray thinks she is the travel guide representative and the representative is left in the cold.

The Oneida Film Society invites everyone to attend these wonderful films. The movie is free to attend and will be shown at the Oneida Nation Community Education at 2632 South Packerland Drive on Thursday, December 19. People can sign in beginning at 4:30 pm with the movie beginning shortly before 5:00 pm. For more information contact Shannon Stone at the Oneida Nation Community Education Center at SStone@OneidaNation.org. Admittance is free but people should register online at http://oneidafilmsociety.eventbrite.com.

Seasonal Beading Circle now underway at Green Earth

The Green Earth Branch Library has been holding a seasonal beading circle for three years. It is currently held on Thursdays at 10 AM. The beading circle has grown in size in the past month. There are anywhere from between 5-11 people that show up every week. There are many different levels of beaders, from absolute beginners, to people that have started projects, and proficient community-known beaders. Everyone helps each other out. No one should be intimidated to join in, and the materials are free. The Beading Circle uses, reuses, and repurposes items to accomplish keeping the program free, accepting donations of items like beading materials, file folders, binders, velvet material, other fabric, even clothing, bedding, curtains, and other things to repurpose them into projects. We are very creative when it comes to repurposing. Butter and ice cream container lids, baby pads, and other items are also used and will be accepted. We have compiled a binder of beading patterns and project ideas and welcome patterns and projects to share with us and so we can share with everyone in the community. Kim Cackowski states, "There is real encouragement, support, and celebration of the process and the completion of projects in the circle. It is a very enjoyable and social environment that people appreciate participating and attending."

Nadine Escamea leads the circle. Kim Cackowski, from the Green Earth Branch Library, and Eliza Skenandore, Historical Multi-media Specialist for the Oneida History Program, assist. During the circle, Eliza worked on beading a picture frame. It is now finished and will be hung in one of the reconstructed log homes on Salt Pork Avenue in the Cultural Heritage Complex. One of the log homes has a theme of traditional art and handiwork. The log home currently has some pieces of lacemaking, pottery, and corn husk items, but did not have any raised beadwork on display. Eliza's project fulfills that need.

Nadine now works at both libraries and assists with beading and other craftwork at Oneida Community Library on Mondays and Wednesdays from 1-3 pm for adults and from 3-5 pm for youth as well as her hours on Tuesdays and Thursdays at Green Earth Branch Library. The goal is to have both libraries having a regular beading schedule because of the three year seasonal success at the Green Earth Branch Library.

Library patrons at the Oneida Community Library come in and work on beadwork, sewing, and quilting projects, and may do some scrapbooking projects in the future. The libraries both appreciate Nadine sharing her talents with the community this way. She has been a regular patron of both libraries for many years, previously served on the Library Board, and now works part-time between the two libraries to better share her knowledge. We are grateful to be able to have her work with the community this way as part of the State of Wisconsin's WISE Program.

The Albany Plan

By Josh Gerzetich

In 1754, Benjamin Franklin came up with a plan to unite the thirteen colonies. This plan became known as the Albany Plan of Union. The Albany plan functioned similarly to the Lotinuhsyu·ní· (Iroquois) Confederacy Grand Council based on Kanyantla?kó (The Great Law).

In fact, when the delegates were first called to Albany, New York to discuss this plan, Lotinuhsyu·ní· terminology was used. The delegates were called to "Brighten the Chain of Union" and asked to "Sit under the Tree of Peace." When all the delegates arrived in Albany, the Mohawk Lotiyaníshu (chief) Tekalihó·kʌ (Two Minds), whom the English called Hendrick was invited to speak. He talked about Kanyantla?kó and how it worked. According to Franklin's journal, "the Albany Plan debates….went on hand and hand with the Indian business." This implies that the delegates in attendance had extensive knowledge of both.

The way the Albany Plan works is straightforward and simple. Each of the thirteen colonies was to have a king appointed viceroy who would be in charge of running the colony. There was also to be a title called the "President-General" who was the lead viceroy. The viceroys would be called together in "Grand Councils" and in order for the colonies to do anything ALL of the viceroys had to agree. It was government based on consensus not majority just like Kanyantla?kó.

The Treaty of Buffalo Creek largely had the intention of displacing all Iroquois (Hodenausaunee) Tribes from New York and those who previously moved to Wisconsin as well as their friends, the Brothertown and Stockbridge-Munsee Tribes. One point eight million acres were designated to be their new homes in Kansas Territory, called the Kansas Strip just north and adjoining Oklahoma, then known as the Indian Nations. Very few tribal members went there. Those who did found the climate unfavorable. White settlers drove them out of the homes they established. At the turn of the century, Congress took the land and made arrangement to those who claimed an interest.

Letters & Opinions...

BC office hours

I went to a BC meeting Saturday, what a disappointment. Can you believe a BC meeting and no BC members but one is there. It should have been called a Patti meeting. I guess that shows how interested they are with any problems people want to talk about.

I wish we could have a vote this week, because not one would get back in. I stopped at the BC office on Wednesday. None of them were in. I believe someone should be there during office hours. I guess they just collect PAY: For what?

I left a letter off and no response. Not a surprise, it probably ended up in the trashcan.

Frustration has set in, I wonder why.

Fran Brigham

Oneida Seven Generations Keeper

Why dissolve Oneida Seven Generations (7G) when it's bringing revenue into our tribe and community? Petitioner Frank Cornelius's statement in the GTC meeting packet is simply, 'because we can.' Are Frank Cornelius and his partners qualified to review a multi-million dollar corporation and their contracts, debts, partnerships, engineering and business projects?

Many tribal members wonder whether 7G costs the tribe money. First, 7G was created to be a corporation separate from the Business Committee (BC) so it could take on business risks that wouldn't affect the tribe. Four of the five current board members have been appointed by the current BC. The 7G Board of Directors is the lowest paying Corporate Board of the tribe.

Although the BC provided some start-up funds and a short-term loan, the value of 7G is now greater than the BC's original investment. As a separate entity, the 7G isn't included in the tribe's annual budget. The 7G received most of their investment capital from banks and private investors, and if it's dissolved the Tribe would become liable for all of 7G debts and contracts.

Oneida 7G is profitable now, and has been profitable for 15 of the last 16 years. This company hasn't needed constant cash infusion from the Oneida Tribe. The only amount it has received in the past four years is a two year loan. The Tribe put in $4.3 million over the course of the last 16 years, and the company is now worth over $50 million. That is over 11 times the investment that the Tribe put into 7G.

Statements by petitioners in a previous GTC meeting about the potential environmental impact of the proposed waste to energy plant aren't backed by science.

The scientific studies conducted by the US Dept. of Energy, Dept. of Natural Resources, engineers and other experts all indicate that the potential pollution created by the Waste to Energy Plant in Green Bay would be classified as a minor source of pollution.

The plastics to oil business, that were proposed to be built in Oneida, would have had less pollution than the proposed Waste to Energy plant in Green Bay. The plastic to oil business would have created over 40 jobs in Oneida and paid for itself within the first year.

Claims about "lethal dioxin" coming from a plastics to oil business and creating clouds of poisonous gas that would kill children at the school aren't true. These plants wouldn't create lethal dioxin. There are forms of non-lethal dioxins created everyday whenever something is burned and the gas from that hit the air: exhausts from your vehicle, cook stove, furnace, bbq grill, boilers, even cigarettes all produce dioxins.

According to the analysis in the GTC packet, dissolving 7G would make the Tribe liable for all of 7G's debts, contracts, and transfers of assets to partners, at an estimated cost to the tribe of $7.8 million to $35,647,700 dollars or more.

Seven Generations is a keeper in my book.

Sincerely,
Sherrole Benton

Using the General Tribal Council (GTC) petition process to fix a problem is sometimes like using a sledgehammer to cut a watermelon. Entertaining, kind of noisy, pretty messy, but you got what you wanted, right?

I am of course referring to the GTC meeting about that maligned, dreaded, twisted organization – the Boys and Girls Club of America (BGCA). On October 31, 2009 the GTC stood their ground and said no, yahtha, a thousand times yahtha, to the possibility of getting grants from the BGCA for youth programs. Never mind what the GTC said about generating more outside revenue, duplicating services, or running programs more efficiently, let's kill this plan before they take elder Wii bowling away forever. Not that was ever part of any proposed partnership, but it could have been, and they will get our Wii controller when they pry it from our cold, dead hands. Or the batteries run out.

Again, the GTC is getting out their wetting stone to prepare its finest tool for the Oneida Seven Generation Corporation (OSGC) on Sunday, December 15. Why are we sharpening a sledgehammer? Wouldn't a scalpel or a saws-all or regular hammer work better? No, by golly, we're throwing everything we've got – corruption charges, jealousy, the whole bucket of crabs – at this baby and it will go down in flames.

Are there problems at OSGC? Sure, there are. Should the GTC receive information and have input on their business doings? Absolutely! Should we tear the whole thing asunder and tar and feather the OSGC board members? I don't think that second part was part of the original petition, and no, we should not do either of those things.

Frank Cornelius' petition asks that the GTC direct the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) to dissolve OSGC. To do so would ignore the intricate economic web created by and around the corporation. OSGC maintains property, enters into contracts, and is part of plan to create non-gaming economic development and jobs on the reservation. Yes, the waste-to-energy plant was unpopular and ultimately got the sledgehammer treatment, but there are so many other parts to the whole.

GTC, when you arrive at the meeting, remember you can use other tools when dealing with the problem at hand: sandpaper, X-Acto knife, a Ryobi 14 Amp 10 in. Compound Miter with carbide-tipped blade. Actually, you may have trouble getting those last two past security. Most importantly, GTC, use an open mind when listening to the presentations and weighing the consequences of heaving that mighty sledgehammer of doom.

News Around Wisconsin

Federal health exchange numbers below expectation

Milwaukee, WI (AP) – Fewer than 900 Wisconsin residents managed to successfully sign up for a health insurance plan through the federal online exchanges last month, a lower than anticipated figure that signals just how problematic the troubled website has been.

About 700,000 Wisconsin residents were expected to shop for insurance coverage on the new marketplace when the HealthCare.gov website launched Oct. 1. But the site was plagued with technical problems that prevented most people from completing applications or even registering with the site.

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services released state-by-state numbers Wednesday of people who were able to enroll through the new exchanges between Oct. 1 and Nov 2.

According to an internal memo obtained by The Associated Press, the Obama administration had projected that 5,530 people from Wisconsin would sign up for plans through Oct. 31.

The report released Wednesday showed that 19,098 Wisconsin residents, shopping on behalf of 35,000 people including spouses and children, got far enough through the process to be able to submit applications. But of those, just 877 people successfully enrolled.

The report provided no detailed information about those buying plans or what types of plans they selected. For example, it did not say what percentage of those who have selected plans were in the younger and healthier demographic that is sought by insurance companies to balance out those who are sicker and more expensive to cover.

Wisconsin is relying on the federal website because Republican Gov. Scott Walker, who opposes President Barack Obama's signature health care program, chose not to create a state-run marketplace. Federal officials have said they hope to get the website working smoothly by the end of this month.

Admission set to open for UW flex degrees

MADISON, Wis. (AP) Prospective college students can start signing up for the University of Wisconsin System's new flexible degree program.

Admissions to the program open Monday. UW officials are planning an afternoon news conference to promote the launch.

The initiative allows students to earn college credit by demonstrating knowledge gleaned from the workplace, military experience or coursework on tests. The program is designed to help working adults earn degrees faster.

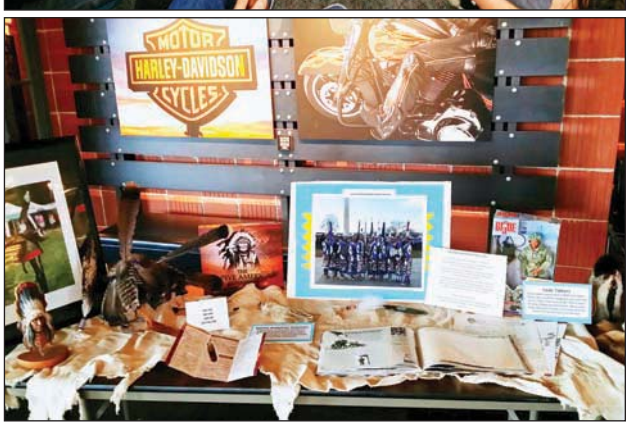
The program will begin at UW-Milwaukee and the UW System's 13 two-year schools in January. UW-Milwaukee is offering the option for its nursing program, biomedical diagnostic imaging program, and IT program. The two-year schools are offering it for a number of associate degree programs, including biology, chemistry, computer science and engineering.

Other campuses plan to offer flex options later next year.

Harley-Davidson celebrates Native American Heritage Awareness month

Harley-Davidson Motor Company celebrated Native American Heritage Awareness month at three of our facilities in the Milwaukee area.

Jeff Jimenez and Sheila Serrano, Oneida Nation represented our culture and presented a traveling museum to our co-workers.



We began our journey at the Powertrain Operations facility in Menomonee Falls, went to the Juneau Avenue facility in Milwaukee and ended at the Product Development Center in Wauwatosa. The exhibits and displays allowed employees to learn the Native American heritage from the past to the present.

The museum provided hands-on exhibits of a recreated Oneida Longhouse, traditional regalia, beadwork, rattles, drums and much more. We honored and saluted our Native American Veterans who served and continue to serve our nation with a special display of war clubs, gustoweh, eagle weathers and facts about our eagle staff.

At Powertrain Operations and Juneau Avenue facilities we were blessed to have the Eagle singers, Canary singers and dancers come join us from the Indian Community School. Mr. Van Zile, Ms. Pfaller and Ms. Dashner came with the students and put on a performance that had our employees speechless. They sang Intertribal songs, students introduced themselves in their native language and our dancers had employees stopping in their tracks to stop and watch.

Below: An information booth featuring photos and documents about Oneida culture.

As I looked around the room we saw everyone enjoying themselves, staring at the drum, watching the dancers' feet and smiling from ear to ear.

The students then joined us for lunch. They were so excited to share with us and help showcase their drumming, singing and dancing for everyone in attendance.

Jeff and I are so proud to once again have been able to share the experience with all of our co-workers at Harley-Davidson. Allowing a peek into our culture and tradition would not have been possible without the help of my friend and co-worker Jeffery Jimenez, Powertrain Operations employee, Deb Ushakow, Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services for allowing us to use some of the items that we displayed, the continued partnership with the Indian Community School and finally our youth; the ICS Eagle Singers!

For all guests that came to visit us; it was a unique cultural experience.

Pa. students ban 'Redskins,' get sent to principal

By Maryclaire Dale
Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA (AP) ~ When a high school newspaper at a suburban Philadelphia football powerhouse decided the word "Redskins" had no place in its pages, the paper's student editors found themselves called to the principal's office.

The dispute between Neshaminy High School's paper, the Playwickian, and school administrators is a strange twist on the fight over what students can and can't say: this time it's the students urging restraint.

The Playwickian editors started getting heat from school officials after an Oct. 27 editorial that barred the use of the word "Redskins" - the nickname of the teams at Neshaminy, a school named for the creek where the Lenape Indians once lived.

"Detractors will argue that the word is used with all due respect. But the offensiveness of a word cannot be judged by its intended meaning, but by how it is received," read the editorial backed by 14 of 21 staff members. (An equally well-written op-ed voiced the dissenting group's opinion.)

The ban comes as Native American activists and a few media outlets, along with President Barack Obama, challenge the moniker of Washington's NFL team, which visits Philadelphia on Sunday.

At Neshaminy - where the welcome sign sometimes reads: "Everybody do the Redskin Rumble" and the football team is 11-1 with a shot at its second state title- news editors had pledged to stop using the term "Redskins" as far back as 2001, but sometimes wavered. This year's staff decided to take it on full-force.

"You are not afraid to write about the hard and sensitive issues. You take risks on editorial pages - bravo!" judges wrote last month in a student journalism contest, when the Playwickian earned a top award.

Nonetheless, Principal Robert McGee ordered the editors to put the "Redskins" ban on hold, and summoned them to a meeting after school Tuesday, according to junior Gillian McGoldrick, the editor-in-chief.

"People are (saying), 'Just give in. It doesn't really matter.' But it's a huge deal, that we're being forced to say something that we don't want to," said McGoldrick, a 16-year-old junior.

McGee called the editors' motives "valiant," but said the dispute pits the rights of one group of students against another.

His approximately 2,600 students must each publish an article in the Playwickian for course credit. He doesn't think anyone should be barred from writing about the Neshaminy Redskins, especially, he said, when the harm alleged is open to debate.

"I don't think that's been decided at the national level, whether that word is or is not (offensive). It's our school mascot," said McGee, who said he's consulted with the school solicitor and others. "I see it as a First Amendment issue running into another First Amendment issue."

School officials had also ordered the Playwickian to run a full-page, $200 ad - submitted by a Class of `72 alumnus - celebrating the "Redskin" name, McGoldrick said.

In response, the non-profit Student Press Law Center and other groups bought a rival ad detailing the "Freedom of Expression" students enjoy under state and federal law. That ad is set to appear in the edition due out Wednesday, although the alumnus pulled the pro-Redskins ad late last week, McGoldrick said.

Both the student law center and the American Civil Liberties Union of Pennsylvania believe school districts are on shaky ground if they try to compel students to use a given word, especially one the students deem offensive.

"I understand that there's an inclination to want to protect a tradition at the school. But the First Amendment is a longer and a better-established tradition," said Frank LoMonte, executive director of the Student Press Law Center in Arlington, Va.

"It's exactly what we tell young people in the abstract we want them to do: use their voices in positive ways to bring about social change. And yet when they tried to do it in practice, the school slapped them down," he said. "That's a bad place for an educator to be."

Cherokee Nation blasts legal fee recovery effort

TULSA, Okla. (AP) ~ Court documents filed by the Cherokee Nation state it would be "inappropriate, unreasonable and unconscionable" for the adopted parents of a 4-year-old Cherokee girl to seek more than $1 million in legal fees.

The tribe claims federal and state law gives the tribe sovereign immunity. But that would not apply to Dusten Brown, the biological father who had custody of Veronica for two years and fought a legal battle to keep her in Oklahoma.

With custody of the girl awarded to Matt and Melanie Capobianco, the South Carolina couple has filed a motion to collect more than $1 million in attorneys' fees from Brown and his tribe. The Tulsa World reports that a judge in Nowata County, where the Brown family lives, will likely have a hearing on the issue, but no date has been set.

The Cherokee Nation's assistant attorney general, Chrissi Nimmo, filed the arguments for the tribe, while Brown has separate attorneys. But the tribe said Brown was only thinking of his daughter when he fought court orders from South Carolina to hand over the girl.

"Cherokee Nation and Dusten Brown repeatedly asked every court involved to consider the present day circumstances," the tribe said, "and determine what was best for Veronica."

The Capobiancos have accused Brown and the tribe of dragging out the litigation by refusing for several weeks to obey a court order from South Carolina.

Brown and the tribe, however, were only doing what the Capobiancos themselves did in 2011, when courts originally ordered them to surrender custody of Veronica, according to the tribe's argument.

The Capobiancos appealed the decision for several weeks before giving the girl, who was then 2 years old, to her biological father, according to court records.

One of the couple's lawyers claims the Cherokee Nation waived its immunity by intervening in the case.

"It is also disappointing that they would try to hide behind immunity," Lori Alvino McGill told the newspaper, "and leave Mr. Brown holding the bag."

The Capobiancos arranged a private adoption with Brown's ex-fiancee in 2009, but the tribe helped him win custody in 2011 by arguing that he never willingly gave up his parental rights.

The Capobiancos appealed all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, where they successfully argued that Brown didn't have standing under the federal Indian Child Welfare Act, which had been a factor in the lower courts' ruling in his favor.

With ICWA no long applying to the case, South Carolina's high court reversed itself, ruling this summer that Brown's consent wasn't necessary for the adoption.

The Capobiancos spent two months in Oklahoma trying to enforce that decision, landing in half a dozen different court rooms across five separate counties.

Brown finally handed Veronica over Sept. 23 after an unfavorable ruling from the Oklahoma Supreme Court.

Obama to visit Indian Country

WASHINGTON (AP) ~ President Barack Obama told Native American leaders Wednesday that he will make his first trip as president to Indian Country next year, expanding on his vow to enhance the bond between the federal and tribal governments.

Obama told the tribal leaders at the fifth annual White House Tribal Nations Conference that the federal government still has work to do to sustain a strong relationship with tribal governments.

Celebrating Native American Month with mocs

Kali photos/Dawn Walschinski

Students at the Oneida Nation School System (ONSS) celebrated Rock Your Mocs Day with a Stomp Dance through the Turtle School on Friday, November 15. The unofficial holiday was started by Laguna Pueblo citizen Jessica Atsye to celebrate Native American Month by giving people a chance to show their pride through moccasins.

Museum Display to change in 2014

The Oneida Nation Museum is looking forward to connecting with the community through a number of new exhibits. For 2014, the museum will unveil new exhibits throughout the year. However, we have to close exhibits to open new ones. Therefore, there is a limited time to see the current displays.

Our Wampum exhibit will be on display until February 2014. The exhibit highlights the 400th anniversary of the Two Row Wampum. Created to record an agreement with the Dutch in 1613, there are two rows of purple beads on a white background. The three white rows of beads symbolize peace, friendship, and honor. The two purple rows represent our separate but equal paths as sovereign nations.

Our Corn Husk Man was first exhibited this year after spending time in Minnesota with a conservation lab. The Corn Husk Man stands nearly six feet tall and was the creation of Irvin Chrisjohn. The display represents a strong dedication and the spiritual connection Mr. Chrisjohn had with corn husks. This display is scheduled to close in 2014.

These exhibits along with others will be on display for a few more months. We encourage you to visit the museum before they are replaced.

If you are shopping for the holidays, we received a new shipment of winter gifts at our Museum Gift Shop. Please contact Edmund Blackthunder at eblackth@oneidanation.org for more details. You can also get additional information about new museum exhibits, events, and gift shop items at www.facebook.com/oneidamuseum. Yaw^ko!

Team assembled to manage Oneida Cemetery improvements

In 1998 the former Rueben property was selected by the Oneida Cemetery Board for the purpose of providing a place for Oneida families to bury their loved ones. In 2009, the Cemetery management was turned over to the Oneida Enrollment Department due to the Cemetery Board being dissolved.

The Cemetery consists of approximately 12 acres. Surrounding the cemetery is woodland on the west side and a pond (Where the Bird's Nest) on the southwest corner. Often times one will see a deer feeding or hear sand hill cranes chattering in an adjacent field. All these natural elements contribute to the tranquility and peacefulness in the cemetery. Unfortunately, over time some natural elements have contributed to ground and surface water problems, which are more noticeable during the spring or during a wet season.

On October 21, 2013, concerns from the community prompted the Trust/Enrollment Committee to take action on October 22, 2013 to issue a moratorium on burials or sales of plots until more information could be researched on the possible solutions to the water problems.

On October 25, 2013 the Trust/Enrollment Committee and Enrollment Department met with Environmental, Development, & Land Management technicians to discuss future remedies. A project team was established and the following individuals were assigned to bring back recommendations and timelines to implement the improvements necessary to ensure the cemetery remains a peaceful and safe environment: Mr. Paul Witek - Project Team Leader and Steve Linskens - Co-Project Team Leader. During the discussion information was provided that identified the moratorium was not necessary so the Trust/Enrollment Committee was informed and a request was made to lift the moratorium.

The Trust/Enrollment Committee, Enrollment Department, and Department of Public Works will continue to work with the Project Team to ensure the Cemetery improvements are completed as quickly as possible and that the grounds continue to be maintained.

If you have any questions or concerns about the cemetery, please feel free to contact Julie Denny at (920) 869-6212 or 1-800-571-9902 in the Enrollment Department or email her at JDenny@oneidanation.org.

Sioux Addition speaks up on trust land issue

By Karin Eagle
Native Sun News Staff Writer

RAPID CITY - At the North Rapid Town Hall Meeting, Rapid City Mayor Sam Kooiker, U.S. Attorney Brendan Johnson, and South Dakota Secretary of Tribal Relations J. R. LaPlante were on hand to answer questions from the standing room only audience. The audience was a blend of Native and non-Native community members living in North Rapid City.

The meeting was held at the Oyate Community Center at Lakota Homes in an effort to draw in more of the Native community that lives in North Rapid.

One of the questions asked was if the Affordable Health Care Act (Obamacare) would have any effect on the Native population, a concern echoed across Indian County in recent months. Secretary LaPlante says he's been trying to find that out for two years, without any luck.

"Native Americans have a treaty-right to health care; we're the only people in the U.S. with a birth right to health care. It's not an entitlement, it's a birth right and yet we can't get a straight answer on how this is going to impact us," said LaPlante.

The members of the Sioux Addition Indian Community board of directors were in attendance, and raised several of the questions.

Sioux Addition was established in 1954 and incorporated in 1966. At that time the community was located more than three miles north of Rapid City.

Trees for Tomorrow announces Road Scholar programs

EAGLE RIVER, WI – Trees For Tomorrow will host 11 Road Scholar programs in 2014, including two especially designed for grandparents and their grandchildren.

All 11 programs focus on learning about the area's natural resources while hiking, bicycling, or canoeing, according to the schedule released this week by the private, nonprofit natural resources specialty school in Eagle River.

"Road Scholar programs are amazing educational adventures that allow participants to experience places and activities they might not normally get a chance to," said Troy Walters, coordinator of Trees For Tomorrow Road Scholar programs.

Road Scholar is the program name for Elderhostel, a nonprofit organization that offers lifelong learning opportunities for older adults.

The 2014 Road Scholar programs at Trees For Tomorrow are:

A Northwoods Skiing & Snowshoeing Adventure, Feb. 9-15: Classical skiing and snowshoeing on some of the finest trails in Northern Wisconsin led by Trees For Tomorrow naturalists. Includes ski instruction for all skill levels.

Northwoods Birding by Trail & Canoe, May 18-24: Renowned bird expert, author and public radio host Laura Erickson and other naturalists lead this birding adventure for beginning and intermediate birders. Improve your birding skills while exploring unique habitats in search of common and rare birds.

Canoeing Wisconsin's Northwoods, (three programs) June 8-14, July 20-26, and Aug. 10-16: Paddle pristine lakes and remote rivers, seeing bald eagles and loons along the way. Naturalists share knowledge of the area's wildlife species and unique natural history.

Exploring Woods & Waters of the Northwoods, (two programs) July 13-18, Aug. 3-8: This program is for adults accompanied by grandchildren or other young relatives, ages 10-12. Led by Trees For Tomorrow naturalists, they'll explore the forests and waterways of the Northwoods as they master a variety of outdoor skills.

Canoe & Hike in Wisconsin's Northwoods, July 27-Aug. 2: By land and by water, study the fascinating and varied biology of the plants and animals that inhabit the Northwoods.

Hike Northern Wisconsin & Michigan's Upper Peninsula Gems, (two programs) Aug. 17-23 and Sept. 21-27: Become familiar with the region on naturalist-led hikes. Encounter dramatic illustrations of geology at work, tread old-growth forests, and see live education raptors up close.

Backroads Biking Adventure, Sept. 7-13: Bicycle the quiet roads of northern Wisconsin, witnessing the first flashes of autumn color as you wind through deep forests and past hidden lakes.

Congratulations on all your hard work and effort this quarter. Keep it up, ladies and gentlemen. We hope to see the honor roll list continue to grow. Good work, honor roll students. Keep up the outstanding work!

Tsi Niyukwalihota - Our Ways Class

By Gerald B. Diamond
Thunderhawk Times

Tsi Niyukwalihota (Our Ways) is a class taken by a select group of students at Oneida Nation High School. Our projects and assignments have to do with the ways, history, and culture of the Oneidas.

The class is team-taught by Sonny Hill and Kal^na Brooks. Sonny also teaches Oneida One and Oneida Two. Kal^na Brooks also teaches Hotinoshoni Women's Studies and O h u n t s y a . k e k h a Kanunya?shula One and Two.

For the 1st semester, the class project is to follow the Oneida's timeline. We have had guest speakers come in to educate us on the history of our people, the Oneidas. One guest speaker, Bob Brown, told us the story of when the Europeans first came to America and the events that took place afterwards. We also had Loretta Metoxen come in to educate the students. She showed a Power Point presentation of pictures from the time eras she spoke about and gave an outstanding oral presentation that greatly informed us on our history.

We will show what we have learned in our semester project by creating and presenting either a timeline, a book, an oral presentation, a play, or a diorama. We will present our projects to our parents and enjoy corn soup afterwards.

We would like to say a special thank you to Loretta Metoxen and Bob Brown for taking the time to come in and be guest speakers to educate ONHS students.

Lady T-Hawks First Home Game Nov. 29

By Shy House
Thunderhawk Times

On Thursday, November 7th at 3:30pm, the Lady T-Hawks began their upcoming season by contributing in open gyms throughout the week. They had their first open gym at the Fitness Center with Eli Metoxen, where they worked on multiple techniques, drills, and running. They then participated in more open gyms that consisted of three-on-two/two-on-ones, five on fives, running, lay-ups, and working on other things that will get them ready for their upcoming season.

From practicing at the Fit, at Norbert Hill Center, and working on their own, The Lady T-Hawks are ready to start their season, Their first organized practice was on Monday, November 18th, at 3:30pm at the Norbert Hill Center. Their first game was on November 26 versus Sevastopol. Come on out and cheer on the Lady T-Hawks!

ONHS vs Bradley Tech

The Lady T-Hawks will have their first home game of the season against Bradley Tech High school on Friday, November 29, at 6:00 pm at the Turtle School.

Bradley Tech is a high school from Milwaukee that the Lady T-Hawks played against last year: one game at home, and one game in Milwaukee. Both times the Lady T-Hawks fell short, so the anticipation of redemption for this year is at an all-time high.

Since Bradley Tech handed the Lady T-Hawks their first loss last year after going 9-0, our ladies are ready to give them a run for their money this time around. Don't forget to stop down and support your Lady T-Hawks as they take on some challenging opponents at home.

Come Cheer, support, and watch as the Lady T-Hawks take on the Trojans. Good Luck Ladies!

CURRENT ISSUES

Rupert Adams, now gone, was a Code Talker during the WWII. On our way to Washington DC last week to honor Rupert Adams and other Indian Code Talkers, I was shown his picture. He looked very young to go on and be a hero for his people. My grandson, Oyanolu Adams, is the Great-Grandson Rupert Adams. He will be proud of that.

Hudson Denny, now gone, taught Oneidas, children and adults, their Oneida language. I remember him doing that, teaching the language. Hudson was a Code Talker during WWII, and also a hero.

Rimpton Doxtator, was also a Code Talker during WWII, and is an Oneida hero. Two weeks ago, I was taken to the home where he lived and where his widow still lives. She showed me his pictures, a soldier standing in uniform a very long way from home. She talked about him, his ways, and showed me around the home in which he lived. Delphene Doxtator is a gracious Oneida lady.

Lloyd Schuyler, he was my friend. We both liked motorcycles, except he was more brave often taking long trips in the summer. He taught Oneida language, I taught reading, writing and arithmetic. I didn't know he was a hero when he was here. On November 20th, I was so proud and honored to be part his honoring by the United States Congress as they paid tribute to him and hundreds of other American Indian Code takers. His widow, Pauline Schuyler, was there, and it felt good to stand by her as she received his silver medal for his service as an Indian Code Talker.

The Honoring: On November 20th, the United States Congress thanked thirty-three (33) Indian tribes and hundreds of American Indian Code Talkers for their service during World War II and the Korean War. Each tribe received a gold medal and each Code Talker, or their descendant, received a silver medal. Each medal was designed by a committee consisting of their own people. During the speeches tears flowed freely amongst so many. One man, from the Seminole Nation in Oklahoma, was 97 years old. He looked on and I think he remembered. They say that the Indian Code Talkers saved tens of thousands of lives by communicating messages that took seconds to translate instead of hours using other codes. They did so much to be proud of and then came home and lived out their lives, not saying much about what they did for their country and their people. As a Tribal Chairman, I was proud to be there, amongst such fine people.

Here at home, in spite of a lot of hard work by many, some of those who wanted to go, were not able to attend. Part of the problem was budget, and part of the problem was time and security restraints put upon us by Washington. If there are any Oneidas who were made upset by the process, please accept my apology. I believe we did our best and I accept full responsibility if we may have failed any of you.

MESSAGE

Violence! In October, I participated in a walk against violence. The following are the words that were being spoken and handed out. I think they're good words.

We are women
We are men
Together we fight
To take back the night

We have the power
We have the right
The streets are ours
Take back the night

Stand up to violence
It's up to us
No more silence
End the violence

No matter what you say
No matter what you do
You have the right
To not be abused

Treasurer's Report

By Cristina Danforth
Oneida Tribal Treasurer

The last fiscal year was hard on our finances. Gaming, retail, enterprise, health, and grants were a total of $38.2 million under budget. What this means is we had to "find" $38.2 million to break even. In this context, finding means vacant jobs were not filled, non-essential items were not replaced, travel was restricted, and we had to use some money from our savings.

Currently we are not in a position to respond to a crisis if one occurred such as the recent Government Shutdown. We simply do not have enough cash in reserves to maintain the organization if another incident occurs. When the economy crashed in 2009, the Finance Team did their best to raise awareness that spending needed to be cut. From our perspective these statements have fallen on deaf ears as each year budgets seem to grow as do the requests for unbudgeted items.

Saying no to these requests is not the Finance Departments responsibility it is the responsibility of the Oneida Business Committee. The Finance Department can make suggestions or recommendations to the requests but the ultimate decision lies with the Business Committee and many times approvals are given to unbudgeted requests and the Finance Department becomes the scape goat for anything that goes wrong and often times we are blamed. The perception that we are responsible for not processing is false. We process financial requests as timely as possible even if they are not submitted timely. We also adhere to standard operating procedures and policies. We expect the same from everyone else.

It is unfortunate we were in this position in FY 2013 and the Government Shutdown at the beginning of FY 2014 did not help anything. Restrictions were made at the Health Center and some employees were furloughed. While this was unfortunate and patient care was affected, it was necessary and could happen again in February when the temporary fix expires. I would like to believe Management is preparing for this but with all the new requests to hire additional staff and to increase wages, it does not appear so. This is unfortunate considering the $9 million shortfall we have right now and we are only six (6) weeks into the new fiscal year. With revenues down the need for additional staff or increased wages are things we just cannot afford. I'd like to thank those of you who cooperate with Finance and for doing your part to control cost/expense.

We were able to stress to Governor Walker the impact the Government Shutdown had on our tribe at the Governor's Quarterly meeting. We were able to share that we are not receiving reimbursements yet and because of the issue some of our tribal members were directly impacted. The other tribes in the state had similar instances and hopefully now the Governor is aware of our situation. Even with the reimbursements, we are not prepared for this to happen again and I cannot stress enough how much we need to control our costs. If the temporary fix is not resolved before the February deadline, we could discontinue services and begin furloughs.

Recently I was made aware that the Oneida Health Center has stopped working with the College of Menominee Nation and no longer allows nursing students the opportunity to learn and intern at our clinic. In the past this was allowed but this is no longer true. Instead a decision was made to allow the nursing students at Rasmussen College this opportunity but not the College of Menominee Nation. The basis for this change was never communicated to the Oneida Business Committee. This is disheartening because the Menominee people are not only our neighbors but we are part of their community. Without them, we would not have the reservation we have today yet we still will not allow their students and some of our own the chance to work with our people.

To me, this decision is unacceptable. What could be the possible rationale behind not allowing native students the opportunity to learn in our clinic? It is unfortunate that the students are the ones who suffer the most in a situation like this.

I wish I could write that I have a solution to all the issues surrounding the tribe right now but I do not. Day to day decisions are made by the Division Directors and we, the Business Committee, can question but have no say in the decisions that are made. If you have questions regarding a certain area I hope you will take the time to call, email or write that specific Division Director and ask.

With snow right around the corner I hope everyone is prepared for the cold and inclement weather. I also want to wish everyone a safe and Happy Thanksgiving. Even though we are facing some tough business issues it is important to take the time to remember all the people and things we are truly thankful for.

OBC Forum

Shekólih,

For this article, I want to focus on providing you with an update on the progress we are making in our transition to the new Judiciary System. In January of this year, the General Tribal Council (GTC) adopted a new law which provides for the development of an improved tribal judicial system. Included in GTC's approval were two key actions, the first, approval and transition to the Family Court and the second, authority to transition into a judicial system defined under the Judiciary Act law.

The Family Court started accepting cases October 1, 2013. Two open forums were held in October to give the community an opportunity to meet Judge Collins, learn about the Family Court and ask questions. There was a great turnout and the questions posed by community members were well thought out. It is encouraging to know there are so many tribal members in our community who have the best interest of our families in mind.

Melinda Danforth
Councilwoman

The Family Court has responsibilities under the following Oneida Laws: Marriage; Divorce, Annulment, and Legal Separation; Paternity; Child Support; and Child Custody, Placement, and Visitation. Additionally, the Family Court is utilizing the Peacemaking option available when possible to assist parties in working through agreements.

The other component of the GTC approved action is the transition of the current Judicial System to the meet the requirements of the new Judiciary Act. Items that have been worked on to complete this transition include: 1. ensuring the judges will be included in the 2014 general election; 2. preparing the proper space; 3. reviewing the training schedule; 4. ensuring the rules of procedure are completed and the process to update those rules is reviewed and consistent, and 5. communicating the progress of the judiciary transition to our constituents.

The team working on this transition has done a terrific job to date and I look forward to our continued work to bring the community the updated system. As always, questions about this project can be directed to my office by calling 920-869-4478 or via email at mdanforj@oneidanation.org.

Lastly, I extend my sincerest wishes to each of you for a healthy and happy holiday season!

Kalihwisaks Updated Policies & Procedures

CHAPTER 1 - KALIHWISAKS POLICIES

1.1 MISSION

It is the mission of the Kalihwisaks to inform the Oneida Tribal membership about issues of interest by providing timely, accurate, complete and balanced information about the Oneida Tribe that is relevant to the membership, employees, administrative units and government. The Kalihwisaks will continuously investigate, and report on, organizational and social development that affects the Oneida identity and expression; building our community through a shared sense of TwahwahtsilayÁ - All of us are family.

We are committed to preserving and honoring our Tribal heritage, culture and values. We will preserve and uphold the democratic ideals that have guided the Oneida Tribe throughout history; by providing thorough and objective information so that the Tribal membership can make informed decisions and hold our leadership accountable.

Good faith with the reader is the foundation of journalism. The Kalihwisaks seeks to maintain that good faith by publishing a newspaper that provides full and accurate coverage of Oneida life, and that exhibits sound judgment and reasoning in columns and editorials.

Our readers deserve a newspaper that leads, informs, instructs and entertains; a newspaper that is driven by the four essential qualities of accuracy, integrity, independence, and responsibility.

1.2 PRIORITIES

The Kalihwisaks will publish content that is as varied in perspective as our readership. We are committed to providing content representing a broad and diverse range of issues, subjects, facts and viewpoints. With that in mind, however, there are various categories of coverage which have been identified as priority. These include:

1. All aspects of our Tribal government; including the Tribal vision, mission, growth, programs, goals, planning and national priorities;
2. Tribal events and occurrences;
3. Tribal membership; including member benefits and accomplishments;
4. Tribal enterprise activity; capital projects and future plans;
5. Tribal history and culture.

The Kalihwisaks will develop informational themes that center on these priorities. These topics and issues will be the focus of a calendar developed to reflect the special needs of the membership. This planned calendar will be made available by publication in the Kalihwisaks, but it is subject to change, as determined by the Editor.

1.3 NEUTRALITY AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

The Kalihwisaks is a nonpartisan publication and maintains no political or organizational affiliations outside of our affiliation with, and accountability to, the Oneida Tribal entity and the Tribal membership. The Kalihwisaks, and each member of our staff, will remain free from all obligations except that of fidelity to the public interest, and we will not promote any private interest contrary to that of the general welfare.

Disputed issues will be treated impartially, and controversial subjects will be handled dispassionately. Our staff will avoid practices that would conflict with the ability to report and present news in a fair, accurate and unbiased manner, and we will each remain free of associations and activities that may compromise integrity or credibility.

We will not publish any material, except advertising, for which there is evidence or a reasonable perception that the author is attempting to profit or benefit personally from such publication. We will deny favored treatment to advertisers and special interests and resist all pressure to influence news coverage or provide special editorial consideration.

1.4 ACCURACY AND BALANCE

By every consideration of good faith, a newspaper is constrained to be truthful. Staff and submitters who write for the Kalihwisaks are responsible for the accuracy of their assignments and submissions. Every effort will be made to ensure the accuracy of information published in the Kalihwisaks; and to guard against inaccuracies, carelessness, bias or distortion by emphasis, emotion or omission, or technological manipulation.

1.5 ERRORS AND OMISSIONS

If we should publish content that contains an omission or factual error; we will remedy the mistake in the next available publication after we discover the omission or error; and we will take any other steps that we determine to be appropriate in order to remedy the matter.

Depending on the circumstances and the most appropriate response, we will take one or more of the following actions:

1. Publish a correction
2. Publish a clarification
3. Publish a retraction
4. Publish an apology

We encourage our readers to bring any errors to our attention, so that we may respond promptly. Questions or complaints concerning material published in the Kalihwisaks should be made in writing to the Managing Editor.

1.6 EDITOR'S NOTES

Occasionally, content may need to be accompanied by an Editor's note. We will use these to:

1. Correct or point out inaccuracies or faulty logic that may mislead readers;
2. Respond to questions or requests for information;
3. Provide additional facts or information, in order to ensure that content is balanced, complete and current;
4. Provide updates to information that is no longer timely;
5. Clarify or reiterate that content does not reflect the opinion of any party other than the contributor; and/or
6. For any other reason when it is determined to be necessary, in furtherance of the Kalihwisaks' mission statement and these policies.

CHAPTER 2 – GENERAL SUBMISSIONS POLICY

This policy defines the process used to determine if content is appropriate for publication and to edit submissions for consistency with Kalihwisaks styles. The Kalihwisaks reserves the right to make exceptions to this policy when appropriate.

The Kalihwisaks shall maintain vigorous standards of honesty and fair play in the selection, editing and publication of content; and we will use mature and considered judgement in the public interest in all that we do. All efforts will be made to give balance to the representation of differing perspectives in coverage of issues of controversy.

We will not plagiarize words or images, nor shall we publish words or images that are suspected of being plagiarized.

Our readers are invited to submit letters, photos, and other relevant content for publication. Submissions become the property of the Kalihwisaks, and may be published or distributed in our print, electronic or other formats.

Content submitted by e-mail may be included in the body of the e-mail, or attached as a Word Document. The Kalihwisaks is not responsible for content that has been submitted electronically. While e-mailed content is preferred, it is the responsibility of the sender to double check if items sent by e-mail have been received by the Kalihwisaks staff.

2.1 INFORMATION REQUIRED WITH SUBMISSIONS

All submissions must be signed and include the author's street address, telephone number, and preferably an e-mail address. Generally, news and editorial content will include a byline for the author of the content. Contact information, including addresses, will generally not be published, but is used for verification purposes.

1. Attribution. Unsigned and/or anonymous submissions will not be published. In extremely limited circumstances, the Kalihwisaks staff may allow a Letter to the Editor to be published without identifying the author, but the author's identity and contact information must still be provided to the Managing Editor, who may request verification and/or other additional information before the submission can be published.
2. Individual Signatures. All submissions, including letters to the editor and guest editorials, must be signed by individuals, not groups.
3. Conflicts of Interest. When submitting content, contributors must disclose any personal, financial or other interests the contributor may have to the subject of the content.
4. Additional Verification. In order to protect the integrity of the editorial process, additional verification of an author's identity may be required prior to the publication of any submitted content. We may require a submitter to provide evidence to substantiate any controversial or potentially incorrect information identified in a submission.

2.2 EDITORIAL DISCRETION AND AUTHORITY

Because publishing a newspaper is a highly technical process that must operate within certain inflexible deadlines, it is necessary to concentrate executive authority in the hands of one individual--the Managing Editor. The Managing Editor must frequently make immediate decisions in order to ensure that breaking news is covered, that deadlines are met, and that content is published while it is still current and relevant.

The Managing Editor is responsible and answerable for the news and editorial content of the Kalihwisaks, including but not limited to, making the day-to-day decisions regarding content selection, ensuring that all copy meets the standards set forth in this policy, and determining which content will be used to fill available space.

These responsibilities require an element of discretion. Therefore, the Managing Editor may generally exercise great latitude in determining how to apply the Kalihwisaks policies, and in deciding whether and when to allow an exception to these or any other policy. The Managing Editor may also consult with news staff, the Oneida Law Office, the Communications Department, and/or any other appropriate entity to obtain guidance and direction in any situation.

2.3 SUBMISSION APPROVAL PROCESS

While every effort is made to include all relevant material, there is not always enough space to include every submission. Decisions on what material to include will consider news value; timeliness; significance and relevancy to the community.

We reserve the right to withhold, edit and/or refuse all copy submitted for publication; at any time and without notice. If a submission does not meet the Kalihwisaks' requirements for publication or our standards for fairness and good taste, the Managing Editor may do any of the following, as deemed appropriate:

1. Decline to publish the submission. The Managing Editor may discard or destroy any submissions whenever s/he chooses and without any notice or liability to the submitter or any other party.
2. Return the submission to the submitter. When possible, the Managing Editor will try to provide an explanation of what must be changed in order to make the content publishable.
3. Edit the submission for publication, in accordance with section 2.4.

2.4 EDITING SUBMISSIONS

All content, including any content submitted by readers, is subject to editing before publication.

1. Editing is generally limited to grammar, syntax, length, accuracy and civility; in conjunction with space availability. Generally, any content requiring extensive editing will be refused or returned to the submitter.
2. Submissions sent with "do not edit" instructions will not be considered.
3. Every effort will be made to edit material in a way that the intended message remains intact.
4. Proofs of edited content will not be presented to the submitter prior to publication. We may make exceptions to this rule in limited, special circumstances, but only with prior authorization from the Managing Editor.
5. All submissions may be subject to additional editing as available space requires. For example, when a topic or occurrence generates numerous letters to the editor, some letters that repeat ideas made in other letters may be shortened to leave in only new, unrepeated ideas. Content that extensively quotes other written material may be edited to keep quoted material to a minimum.

2.5 SUBMISSIONS FROM WITHIN THE TRIBAL ORGANIZATION

In fulfilling our obligation to the keep the membership informed, the Kalihwisaks regularly publishes content that has been submitted by Tribal entities and officials; including Tribal departments, divisions, boards, committees and commissions. In addition to the general requirements for submissions, the following guidelines apply for content submitted from within the Tribal organization:

1. Submissions should be accompanied by the name, telephone number, and preferably an e-mail address, for the party and department responsible for submitting the content.
2. If the submitted content needs to be run in a specific issue or by a specific date, this information should also accompany the submission.
3. It is strongly recommended that a submitter provide Kalihwisaks staff with advance notice of the type and size of any content that will be submitted – preferably no less than one week before the deadline for that issue – so that the staff can anticipate that submission when planning the layout for that issue. Anything submitted without prior notification will only be run if there is any available space remaining.
4. Advance notification of cancellations or when expected content will not be ready by deadline is also encouraged.

2.6 DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION

As part of our obligation to the community, we reserve the right to report and/or disclose information related to a submission or other content, if we are required by law or valid court order to do so, or if we believe in good faith that such action is necessary for any of the following reasons:

1. To comply with a legal process – including, but not limited to, ethics investigations or proceedings instituted against Tribal officials.
2. To protect or defend our rights and property,
3. To protect against misuse or unauthorized use of our newspaper, logo, website, or any other proprietary property or information; or
4. To protect the personal safety or property of our readers, staff, and/or the general public.

2.7 HEADLINES

Headlines, which must meet certain space and style restrictions, are written by Kalihwisaks staff. Submitters can suggest headlines to accompany their content, but such suggestions will not necessarily be followed.

CHAPTER 3 – OPINION/EDITORIAL CONTENT

The Kalihwisaks strives to champion the rights of the Tribal membership to fair comment and criticism by publishing not only staff-generated content, but also by providing a forum for community members to discuss and share information, including their own views and opinions. Wherever possible, we will try to provide a chance for comment on all sides of a critical issue in the same edition.

Opinion/Editorial content must comply with all Kalihwisaks policies, including the provisions of this chapter.

3.1 KALIHWI·YÓ

One of the Good Mind Principles that have guided the Oneida People from the time of creation is Kalihwi·yó – the use of the good words about ourselves, our Nation and our Future. Our contributors are encouraged to consider the principle of Kalihwi·yó before submitting opinion material – will your words honor the seventh generation? Will they honor our ancestors? Have you chosen the most respectful words and tone?

When selecting opinion/editorial content for publication, the Good Mind Principle of Kalihwi·yó will guide our decisionmaking. Subject matter should be constructive. People and ideas should be referred to and addressed in a respectful manner. Dignity and decency are of paramount importance, as we strive to keep the tone of discourse as civilized as possible.

3.2 GUEST EDITORIALS

Unsolicited guest editorials will only be considered as space permits, and where the commentary demonstrates greater knowledge of the subject than can be portrayed through a Letter to the Editor. It is recommended that those interested in writing a guest editorial contact the Managing Editor in advance to see whether a proposed editorial might be acceptable for publication.

The maximum word length for guest editorials will be determined based on space available.

3.3 LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The following guidelines will be used in determining which letters to the editor are best suited for publication:

- Letters to the Editor are generally limited to 250 words (approximately 1/2 typed page, size 12 font).
- Individuals may not submit more than eight (8) letters per year, regardless of topics.
- Response Letters
  - o Letters written in response to other letter writers should address the issue at hand and, rather than mentioning the writer by name, should refer to the headline and date the letter was published.
  - o Letters referring to news stories should also mention the headline and date of publication.
  - o Letters responding to letters are acceptable; however letters responding to letters responding to letters generally won't be accepted.
- Submissions should be timely, relevant to readers, and of general public interest. A greater priority will be given to time-sensitive events and issues. Submissions that are of narrow interest to a small audience, (such as personal announcements) may be published as space permits.
- All submissions must be the original, unpublished work of the submitter, and exclusive to the Kalihwisaks. Form letters, letters to a third party or those written to more than one newspaper are generally not accepted.
- Ideally, each submission should focus on one single issue or idea.

From 11B/Policies and Procedures

- In general, letters submitted by Tribal members will have priority over letters submitted by non-Tribal members.
- Good writing is crucial – confusing language, unclear points, inaccuracies and/or improper use of logic detract from the message. Further: proper grammar, spelling and punctuation are always appreciated.

3.4 PROHIBITED CONTENT

Various types of content have been determined to be inappropriate for publication in the Kalihwisaks. The following types of content are therefore prohibited:

1. Defamatory or potentially defamatory statements,
2. Personal attacks,
3. Language that is threatening, harassing, abusive, derogatory, or degrading ,
4. Content that is crude, vulgar, or in poor taste by general community standards,
5. Copyrighted and/or plagiarized material,
6. Obscene and/or pornographic content,
7. Content that is overly invasive of personal privacy, including information that could be used to track, contact or impersonate another individual,
8. Incendiary language, and any other language that promotes, encourages or appears intended to instigate violence or illegal activity,
9. Disrespectful comments regarding individuals, religion, gender, age, mental or physical ability, ethnicity, race, culture, lifestyle choices or any other personal classification,
10. Information that is false, misleading or fraudulent,
11. Content that promotes or advertises activities contrary to individual personal rights and freedoms,
12. Advertising and promotional content; endorsements and complaints about consumer and commercial products and services (Exception – this does not apply to paid advertisements, submitted in accordance with our advertising policies),
13. Innuendoes and statements about unnamed persons or entities that appear to be intended to lead to speculation,
14. Commentary generated by political or special-interest campaigns,
15. Fundraising requests and letter-writing campaigns, and
16. Any other content that in any way fails to meet the Kalihwisaks' standards of fairness and good taste and decency, or that does not meet the intended purposes of this policy, or that is otherwise not in the best interest of the Oneida Tribe.

3.5 OPINION/EDITORIAL COMMENT ON ELECTIONS AND CANDIDATES

Prior to elections, the Kalihwisaks often publishes letters and guest editorials related to campaign issues and the performance and qualifications of candidates. However, commentary about a candidate's personal life will generally not be accepted, regardless of whether the commentary is positive or negative.

3.6 OPINION/EDITORIAL CONTENT – DISCLAIMER OF RESPONSIBILITY

The information provided in opinion/editorial content is written by third parties, and not by Kalihwisaks staff. We will never knowingly publish false, misleading or defamatory information; however opinion content is not subject to the same rigorous review and fact-checking process as news content generated by the Kalihwisaks staff. This is intentional – as is the policy with most newspapers, we feel that excessive review of opinion/editorial content could inhibit open discourse and free speech.

The Kalihwisaks is not responsible for information contained in any opinion/editorial content. By publishing opinion/editorial content, we do not claim that any information therein is factual or truthful; and we – as a newspaper and as individual staff members - do not necessarily agree with or support any opinion, viewpoint or other information therein. Opinion/editorial material only reflects the opinion of the author, and the Kalihwisaks assumes no responsibility for the content of such submissions.

3.7 OPINION/EDITORIAL CONTENT – SUBMITTER RESPONSIBILITIES

By submitting a letter to the editor or guest editorial, you understand and agree with the following:

1. All of the information in your opinion/editorial submission is factual and accurate to the best of your knowledge, and
2. You have taken reasonable steps to verify any information provided, and
3. The Kalihwisaks is not responsible for checking the accuracy of any information you have provided, and
4. If you submit content that contains defamatory, false and/or misleading information, you may be subject to both civil lawsuits and/or criminal penalties under applicable Tribal, local, state and/or federal laws, and
5. After submitting opinion/editorial content, if you discover new information that could or does result in the Kalihwisaks publishing false, misleading or defamatory information, you will notify the Kalihwisaks immediately so that we can take appropriate corrective action as quickly as possible.
6. If the Kalihwisaks determines that a person has intentionally submitted content for publication that is false, misleading or defamatory, then the following steps will be taken:
   a. First offense: the submitter will be sent a warning letter, identifying the violation and the potential consequences of future violations.
   b. Second offense: For a period of one year following a second violation, the Kalihwisaks will not publish, and will not consider for publication, any content written or submitted by that person.
   c. Third offense: For a period of three years following a third violation, the Kalihwisaks will not publish, and will not consider for publication, any content written or submitted by that person.

CHAPTER 4 – GENERAL ADVERTISING POLICY

4.1 GENERAL PROVISIONS

The content of advertisements, including the copy, artwork and design, must meet the same standards of good taste that are applied to all other Kalihwisaks submissions.

Except where Kalihwisaks staff is responsible for graphics and/or layout for an advertisement; a proof will generally not be provided to the author prior to publication. Where a proof is provided, customers shall have one (1) business day after receipt to request changes to the ad.

Errors in ads that are the fault of the Kalihwisaks shall be promptly corrected, and the ad will be re-run the following issue.

The Kalihwisaks reserves the right to accept or refuse any ads or terminate ad campaigns at any time, for any reason, with or without notice.

4.2 ADVERTISING RATES

Ads may be created for publication directly in the newspaper, or in a separate insert, or on the Kalihwisaks website. Inserts can be targeted by ZIP code, or by county.

Advertising rates shall be set in accordance with the Kalihwisaks budgeting process, and may be revised from time to time as deemed necessary.

Copy and payment for advertisements must be received prior to the deadline for submissions, or the advertisement may be held for a future issue.

Customers who pull an ad after submitting either a completed ad or a request for ad design by the Kalihwisaks will be charged a $25 fee. This fee is assessed in addition to any fees charged for work done by Kalihwisaks staff between the time the ad design was requested and the time the ad is pulled.

Any discounted rate or rates shall be established by the Managing Editor, may be revised from time to time as deemed necessary, and are subject to change without notice.
- Tribal members and programs may be given a discounted rate for advertising in the Kalihwisaks.
- Special discount rates may be arranged for long-running ads.
- Political advertisements shall not be eligible for special discounted rates.

4.3 ADVERTISING COPY CREATED BY KALIHWISAKS STAFF

All advertisements, including political advertisements, that are created by Kalihwisaks staff are intended solely for publication in the Kalihwisaks and are the intellectual property of the Kalihwisaks, regardless of whether or not the advertisement is published in this newspaper. No party may use any advertisement created by Kalihwisaks staff for any purpose other than publication in the Kalihwisaks without prior written consent from the Managing Editor.

CHAPTER 5 - POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENTS

Any advertisement involving a political figure, party or government issue, regardless of whether or not there is an election, is considered political. Political advertising must comply with all Kalihwisaks policies, including the General Advertising Policy, and must meet general standards of fairness and good taste.

Political announcements pertaining to Tribal elections may be published in a Special Election edition as well as in regular publications prior to the election date.

Political advertisements shall not be slated for publication until the Kalihwisaks has copy that has been approved for publication by both the Kalihwisaks and the submitter, full payment, and any required request forms, waivers and/or releases. It is the submitter's responsibility to ensure that all required items have been submitted and received.

5.1 CONTENT GUIDELINES

In general, we will permit political advertisements regardless of the political views they represent. However, political messages that conflict with the vision or well-being of the Oneida Tribe, or that appear to undermine the Tribe's sovereign status or independent rights, may be refused. In the rare cases where such political messages are accepted for publication, the Kalihwisaks reserves the right to provide equivalent space for rebutting commentary.

The Kalihwisaks does not accept advertisements that include accusations or attack an individual's personal life; and we also do not accept advertisements that include excessive flattery about an individual's personal life. However, stating disagreement with or campaigning against a candidate for public office, a political party, or public administration is generally permissible.

Submitters shall not submit political advertising that purports to emanate from a source other than its true source. Submitters shall not misrepresent their identity or, if acting or purporting to act as an agent, misrepresent the identity of the agent's principal.

The Kalihwisaks may require additional documentation to substantiate any claims or statements made in any political message advertisement. The Managing Editor will determine what constitutes acceptable documentation.

5.2 FAIR ACCESS

The Kalihwisaks shall make every effort to ensure that any political advertising which directly or indirectly mentions an opposing candidate or opinion or which addresses controversial issues, is published in time to give opposition an opportunity to reply. The Kalihwisaks retains discretion to provide an opportunity for opposing views to be published the same issue that any negative advertising is placed.

5.3 REQUIRED INFORMATION

All political advertisements must include all information required by Tribal, local, state or federal law, and must be clearly designated "Paid Political Advertisement" across the top of the advertisement, in a font no smaller than size 11, Times New Roman.

All political advertising is required to include the name and address of the individual or organization responsible for placement of the ad. Political advertising must also be accompanied by a statement of one individual person who is responsible for the ad - a committee is not acceptable.

5.4 EDITING AND REVIEW

Due to the sensitive nature of political advertising, the Kalihwisaks will not edit political advertisements prior to publication. If a submission is unacceptable, the Managing Editor shall make reasonable attempts to notify the submitter in a timely manner; and to identify the reasons that the submission is rejected.

Except where Kalihwisaks staff is responsible for graphics and/or layout for an advertisement; a proof will generally not be provided to the author prior to publication. Where a proof is provided, customers shall have one business day after receipt to request changes to the ad. Once a completed advertisement has been submitted and accepted, no copy changes will be permitted, except to correct typographical errors.

5.5 POLITICAL AD RATES AND FEES

Political advertisements will be charged at the same rate as current advertising rates, unless a different set of rates is established and approved by the Kalihwisaks for a particular election or campaign. Prior to an election, the Managing Editor may establish size limits or other requirements for political advertisements related to that election or particular campaigns.

CHAPTER SIX – AMENDING KALIHWISAKS POLICIES AND/OR PRICE LISTS

Any of the Kalihwisaks policies can be amended by the Managing Editor at any time. The Managing Editor shall publish notice of the changes in any issue of the Kalihwisaks, and the changes shall become effective on the day the following issue of the Kalihwisaks is published.

The rates charged for subscriptions, advertising, or any other services or products provided by the Kalihwisaks are subject to change without notice. Interested parties may contact the Managing Editor to request a copy of the most current rates.

CHAPTER SEVEN – CONTESTS

The Kalihwisaks shall establish separate policies and/or rules to govern any contests that we sponsor or host – for example, photo contests or essay contests.

We may publish information about other contests with which we are not affiliated. However, we require the official contest rules to be published along with any information relating to the contest.

We are not responsible for any aspect of any contest that is not sponsored or hosted by the Kalihwisaks, even if we publish information about the contest.

CHAPTER EIGHT - SUBSCRIPTIONS AND CONTACT INFORMATION

All enrolled Tribal members age 18 or older are eligible to receive the Kalihwisaks, free of charge. Contact the Enrollments Department for more information.

The Kalihwisaks may also be made available to persons that are not enrolled Tribal members. The Managing Editor shall establish a subscription rate for non-Tribal entities, and from time to time shall review and may revise this rate as determined necessary.

The Kalihwisaks does not make a mailing list available for purchase or otherwise.

Submissions may be sent via e-mail, fax and/or mail, however the Kalihwisaks reserves the right to require original, signed copies of any content submitted electronically.

T-Hawk boys compete with new, young roster

Typically the Oneida Nation High School (ONHS) boys' basketball program is light on the number of players on the roster. This season there are so many boys looking to play that there aren't enough practice jerseys to go around. Imagine that.

"We have a lot of players this year, with only five returning from last year. At one point we had 18 names signed up, we've never had 18 here but our numbers have been up there," said Scott Murray, Head Basketball Coach at ONHS.

The Thunderhawks will suit only one returning senior, along with a pair of senior transfers.

"We have a real young squad this year, new players to the school. So we have that team chemistry which seems to be an issue year after year but we always improve on it," added Coach Murray.

The players also recognize the issue of team chemistry.

"We're looking at team chemistry as our main challenge so far because we have so many young new guys; also a new starting five so, it's new," said Isaac Reed, a junior forward/center.

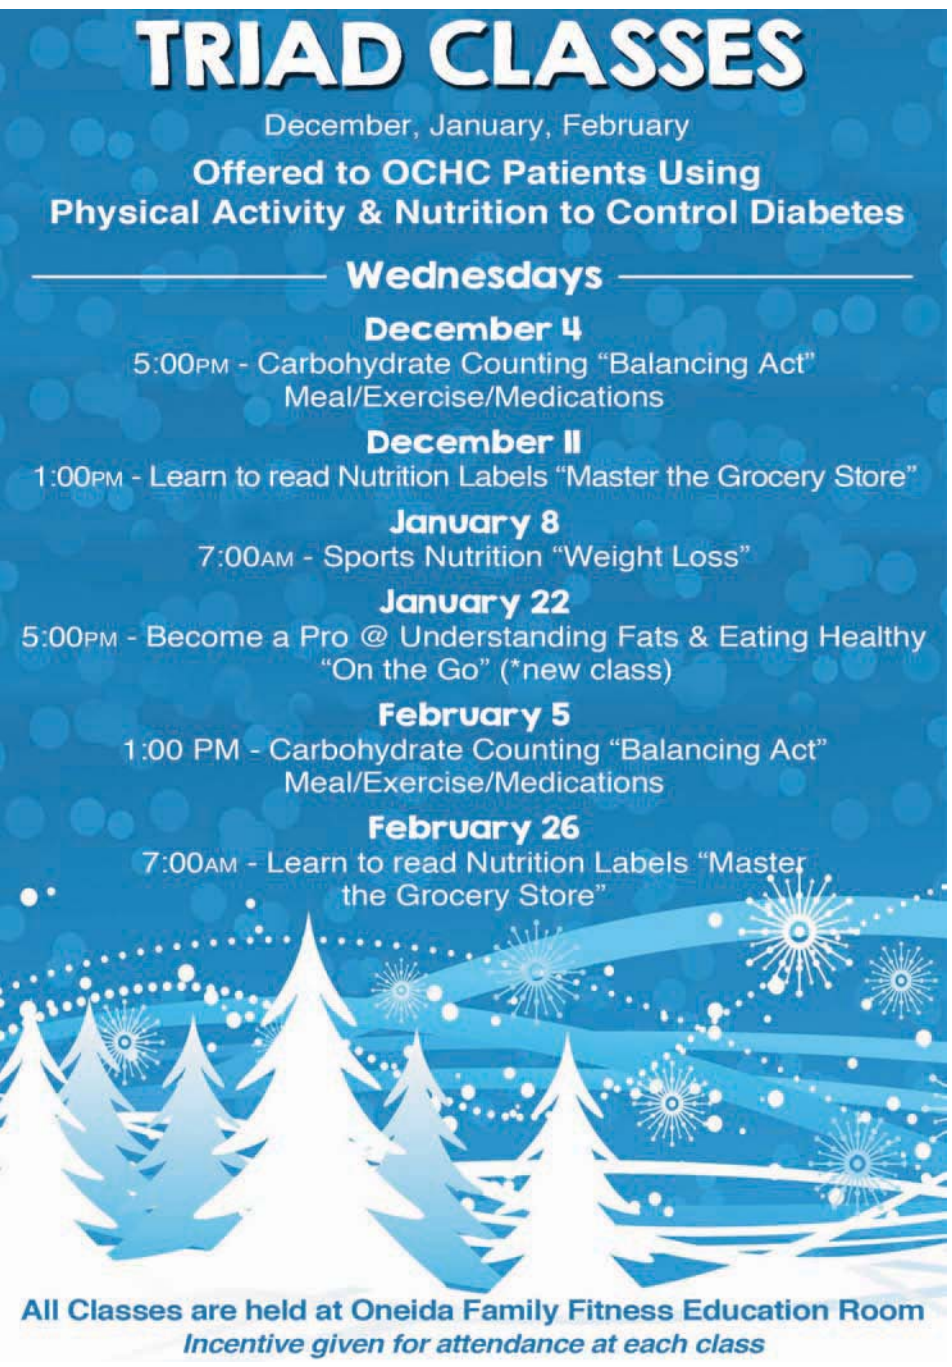
Returning junior guard Mitchell Cornelius sees the potential of a large roster, as long as they can find a way to make the pieces fit.

"Every new guy will have their strengths and weaknesses so we have to figure that out. Everyone has a place on the team," Cornelius said.

One of the players who transferred to ONHS is senior Isaiah Charles, who transferred from West De Pere High School.

"I know everybody here and we played together in the past growing up so I think we can get the chemistry going pretty quickly," Charles said.

Sophomore Chad Manthei, who was voted the team's most improved player, shared his teammates positive outlook on the team.



"I think the first couple games will be tough but once we get going we will be good. We played football season together too so we all know each other and like each other so I think we'll be good," Manthei said.

With the players' confidence in their roster and their ability to come together as a team on the fly, there is reason to believe this group can make an impact this season.

"I think once we get this thing going here, get a couple of games under our belt; figure out who we are, and who we have, we can be competitive," said Coach Murray.

The Oneida Thunderhawks tipped-off the new season at Sevastopol on Thursday, November 21st. The T-Hawks came up just short against Sevastopol, losing by a final score of 33-35.

New coach, same goals for Lady T-Hawks

The face leading the 2013 Oneida Lady Thunderhawks basketball team may be different but the goals remain the same.

Last season the Lady T-hawks made school history by advancing to the Sectional round of the WIAA tournament and now the senior leaders' expectations are set high. They are now lead by first year head coach Kuwaklit Ellis. Ellis served as an assistant coach last season under retired Jamie Betters.

"Sectionals is definitely a goal of ours. We have six seniors so we have the experience and what it takes to get there. We want to keep working together and taking game by game. We can't get to Sectional without a good regular season," said senior Lindsey Danforth.

The 16 player squad will still run up and down the court with high pressure defense but will put more offensive focus on team captain Yasmine Denny's six foot frame.

"Yasmine is much stronger this year and has sharpened her post moves. I expect a lot of rebounds and put-backs from her. As our only six-footer she will definitely be a force to reckoned with down low," said Ellis.

"We may integrate a few more set plays, but these girls have a strong sense of what Jamie taught them and they work greatly. So, I don't envision a whole lot of changes," added Ellis.

Along with Denny, Ellis is going to lean on seniors Tasha Stevens and Danforth.

"Team Captain Stevens is more confident and smarter with the ball and has increased her point percentage from the three-point line. It didn't seem possible because she was so quick last year, but I think she got even faster. Her strength was defense last year. This year she will still be our best defender, but will also be putting more points up," Ellis said.

"We want to advance past sectionals and get the younger girls some experience because they have talent," said Stevens. "There is more competition and it makes us work harder in practice because the young girls do have so much talent."

Danforth is going to be relied on to fill some of the scoring void left by 1,000-point scorer Jessica House.

"Lindsey is a natural team leader. Her already strong grasp of the game of basketball will serve her greatly on the court. She was already a solid player last year and will continue to lead the team in scoring this year," said Ellis.

Along with high player expectations the head coach expects little to no drop off from production.

"I expect nothing but the best from these girls. I believe we will go far with the experience that is on the court. We also have a few freshman and transfers that I am expecting to be able to help us out this year. Last year our bench wasn't strong. I think with 16 (players), six of those being seniors, we will go far," said Ellis.

With high expectations Ellis admits nerves have come in to play.

"Basketball is in my blood. This comes as second nature to me and yes, I am nervous. I am the type of baller that gets nervous for almost every single game I play. Playing and coaching are two different things. I am just glad I had the two years experience with Jamie. This year I will have Alana Dallas as my assistant. She is young and energetic and will be a great asset in keeping us all together. I am excited for the year ahead. The fun times I will have with these girls will trump and nerves I have," said Ellis.

Oneida Casino announces addition of five new eateries

Oneida Casino customers wanted more food options and starting next spring they will have five new restaurants to choose from.

Vince Lombardi's Legendary Sports Bar & Grill will be an anchor restaurant in the main casino located in the east side of the $28 million expansion. A new food court will be added with three additional eating options that will be new to the state of Wisconsin.

"Chicken Fry Fry, fried chicken sandwiches at their best, Boar's Head Deli, serving up superior sandwiches using the finest quality meats and cheeses and Dick Clark's American Bandstand Express serving up rocking cuisine including salads, burgers, and milkshakes," said Louise Cornelius, Gaming General Manager.

At the Mason Street location Countryville Bar & Grill, presented by the American Music Awards will be added.

Ovations Food Services will handle the restaurant management. This is there first exposure to the Wisconsin market.

"Ovations is very proud to partner with the Oneida Casino. These five new restaurants are very exciting for us. We are a nationally acclaimed food service operator. We have 120 arenas, sports event centers, and venues throughout the United States and Canada," said Brett Magnan of Ovations.

"Countryville will offer a unique dining experience while celebrating country music past, present, and future," Cornelius said.

"Countryville Bar & Grill is our second. It's going to be one of the most popular country music bars in the state of Wisconsin. I think the other restaurants will offer you some additional offerings in the casino that I think will excite all the gaming players," added Magnan.

Cornelius said the restaurant additions were developed after gathering customer input.

"Ovations is working with the Oneida Casino to offer our guests exciting new experiences," said Cornelius. "Our players have told us through surveys and focus groups what they like and enjoy, great food and entertainment is what they appreciate."

Vince Lombardi's daughter Susan Lombardi was on hand for the announcement and expressed her excitement over the restaurant sharing her father's name.

"(Our family is) thrilled to partner with the Oneida Casino to bring a unique and quality diner experience to a the great people of Green Bay. My father was synonymies with preparation, team work, and excellence and the Lombardi family is confident that these qualities we will be on full display to each customer of Vince Lombardi's Legendary Sports Bar & Grill and maybe even talk about the Green Bay Packers," said Lombardi.

Both Countryville and Lombardi's will offer street access allowing entrance without going through the casino.

According to Ovations, the restaurants will add between 120 to 140 new jobs.

Along with the new eateries the casino revealed an updated logo. The updated logo will feature a simpler design easier for reproduction.

"While still recognizable, our new logo represents the modernization and refreshed feel our gaming experience will offer," said Cornelius. "It was important to keep key similarities from our logo and express the evolution of our gaming facilities."

The new logo roll out will coincide with the expansion completion in the spring of 2014.

Community comes to honor Code Talker families

The Oneida Business Committee held a ceremony on Wednesday, December 11 honoring Oneida Veterans Rupert Adams, Hudson Doxtator, Rimton Doxtator, and Lloyd Schuyler for their roles as Code Talkers during World War II. The four men were awarded silver Medal of Honor medals from the United States government during a ceremony last month in Washington D.C.

Community members were treated with a color guard, social songs, and a chance to see the medals close up.

People interested in purchasing a brass replica of the medal can visit usmint.org. Under the shop category, select the Code Talker section. Three inch medals are $39.95. A smaller version will be available in June of 2014.

Tribes from across the country were honored for their roles in helping the United States in time of combat. Each tribe has their own custom medal which can be viewed at the United States Mint's website.

Citizens urged to seek out health insurance

By Dawn Walschinski

Staff at the Oneida's Community Health Department and Economic Support Services are teaming up to get Oneida citizens enrolled in health insurance ahead of the March 31, 2014 deadline.

Long Term Care Ancillary Director David Larson said the Oneida Community Health Center (OCHC) plans on having on-site screenings.

"We're going to screen uninsured people as they come in for their appointments," he said. They will also offer to screen people with insurance if those individuals are interested.

People who think they might qualify for medical assistance - called Badger Care in Wisconsin - can contact Economic Support Services to apply for health insurance if they live in Brown or Outagamie County. People living in other counties can contact their county agency.

Economic Support Manager Barbara Metoxen emphasized that Native Americans may be exempt from a tax penalty for not having health insurance, but are not exempt from getting health insurance.

"We still need people to have insurance. We have limited service here," said Metoxen.

Contract Health Supervisor Patricia Denny stated that the tax exemption isn't automatic.

"They've got to fill out an exemption form to get the exemption. The state isn't going to know if they're Native American or not. They're just going to know that they didn't apply and they're going to affix the penalty to their tax return for each family that isn't enrolled, it's per person," said Denny.

Health insurance can help pay for services not offered by Oneida, and frees individuals to go outside of Oneida for medical attention. Also, the federal shutdown demonstrated the need for outside funds for medical care.

Back in October, the federal government failed to pass a budget, which caused a delay in funding for the OCHC. At that time, spending for contract health services was limited to medical emergencies, or Priority 1A. According to Denny, the OCHC is now at Priority 1B which covers services essential for daily functioning.

"We still are denying people every day," said Denny.

Problems with the federal Insurance Marketplace website and changes in Wisconsin's Badger Care policies have caused delays in getting people enrolled in health insurance.

"There's a lot we still don't know, and getting a little bit more information, but we still haven't been told a lot of things," said Larson. "That is a point of frustration, we realize not just for the patients but for our staff as well."

BadgerCare changes will allow for single, childless adults to qualify for BadgerCare next spring, but will also cause some people to be bumped off because the state lowered the income qualification from 130 percent of the federal poverty guidelines to 100 percent. Metoxen stated there are 171 clients of her department that will be losing their BadgerCare after March 31.

"They could be out looking at the market place already, shopping around for different policies," said Metoxen.

Passing On...

Cornelius, Sadie M.
January 1, 1916 – November 29, 2013

Sadie M. Cornelius, 97, joined her family in Heaven on November 29, 2013. She passed away peacefully with her family at her side at a local nursing home. The daughter of the late William B. and Mary (Webster) Metoxen was born January 1, 1916 in Oneida. She lived most of her life in the Oneida, Green Bay area. Sadie enjoyed playing solitary, watching the cooking network as well as the Green Bay Packers and Milwaukee Brewers, all while cuddling her precious cat. Mom was a-stay-at-home mother all of her life. She never turned anyone away that needed a place to stay or a place to rest their head for a day or two. Sadie cherished the time she lived in Green Bay and all the neighborhood children called her "Doe Doe". Many stopped by her daily just to chat or say hello. In her younger years, she enjoyed traveling with her husband Sherman. Sadie is survived by her children: Betty (Dave) Stenslaff, Estes, FL, Carol (Nathan) Smith, De Pere, Robert J. Cornelius, Wendel (Margaret) Cornelius, Oneida, Arthur (Beth) Cornelius, Green Bay. How to take control of your personal finances

Understand Your Spending Habits

Sometimes managing personal finances can be scary and overwhelming. This is the time of year that credit cards and over spending can get the best of us in real trouble. If you also tend to spend now and worry later without a budget, it is almost a certainty that you will find yourself in a jam. One of the major causes of stress for people and in their relationships are financial worries. The first step in relieving or at least reducing some of this stress is to understand your spending habits and needs. This will allow you to create a plan, or budget, to help you get your spending under control.

The first step is to begin by listing all of your income sources such as wages, per capita, child support, and other sources of income. Knowing how much you have and when you will have it available to you for spending will help you plan. Remember, when listing your wages and other income in your plan, that we are only concerned with the after taxes portion that you take home because that is the money you can spend.

Next, you will need to gather and list all of your recurring and monthly bills. Many of your bills are probably the same each month, such as your cable bill, and are easy to plan for. Others, like the utility bill, may be quite different from one month to the next. This can be more difficult to plan for, but if you check with your provider, you may find they have budgeting plans that allow you to pay a fixed budget amount. It is a good practice to also list your bills on a calendar on the date due for each bill and check off the bills as you pay them. If you miss a bill or are unable to make a full payment be sure to list it on the first of the following month as a reminder.

You will also have to make a list of all of your spending. Gathering this information may take a full month so be patient. Get receipts for everything and write them down in a notebook. If you have a bank account and debit card there are online services that can help simplify this process. Honesty is very important here. Do not worry about what you think you should be spending while making your list. This is your list and there is no blame or shame in being honest. What is important is that you will see where you are spending money so that you can make the right choices for you in the future.

At the end of the month, your income for the month, minus this total of what you spent, and minus the bills you paid, should come out to the amount of money you actually have left! Look for our next personal finance article and we will show how to create a budget from all of this information. If you need help or resources please stop into the ONCEC and ask for our budget package.

The Oneida Nation Community Education Center supports spreading financial wisdom. As part of this support we encourage you to look for our future articles in this series on financial literacy to help you get the most out of your hard earned dollars.

A Great Gift is in the Cards – If You Shop Carefully

MADISON – There are a number of reasons why consumers opt to buy gift cards for friends and family members over the holidays: convenience, variety and ease of gifting. The National Retail Federation recently reported that 80% of shoppers will include gift cards on their holiday shopping lists this year. If you are one of the many shoppers looking to pick up gift cards as stocking or card stuffers, the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection suggests that you follow some simple tips to ensure that both you and the recipients receive the full value of your gift.

For starters, be on the lookout for gift card-related scams. If you run across a gift card offer this holiday season that seems "too good to be true," it probably is.

"Gift card scams have been big business for criminals over the past year, with consumers receiving unsolicited text messages, social media posts or phone calls telling them that they have won free gift cards or can receive free cards for only a small shipping fee," said Sandy Chalmers, Division Administrator for Trade and Consumer Protection. "These operations are a ploy for your money and personal or banking information. Delete the messages."

Consider these additional tips to ensure that the user gets the full value of the card:

? It is best to buy gift cards directly from the retailer or from an authorized merchant. If you are considering buying an unused gift card second-hand, make sure you are purchasing it from someone you know and trust. Used or unwanted gift cards show up for sale online, and while some cards may be legitimate, others may be counterfeit, may be drained of their value or may have been stolen from a store and never activated at a register.

? Inspect the packaging before you purchase a card to ensure that no protective stickers have been removed and that the pin number has not been exposed. Report any damaged cards to store management.

? Read the fine print on the card to ensure that you understand any

Background on Business

A Quest for excellence earns company recognition

By Dawn Walschinski

@dwalschi_kali

Owner and founder of Quest Company Tom Skenandore started his business with $600 in 1993, but what started out as embroidery and silk screening morphed into something very different over time.

"My background was in industrial sales selling products to businesses everything from bathroom supplies, plant maintenance, shipping and packaging, safety supplies, and so the company evolved into an industrial distributer for all of Wisconsin. Now we've evolved into a direct ship supplier of bulk chemicals and dry goods. So this year we're going to do about 1700 direct ship loads of product to our customers," he said.

Quest Co. has a warehouse in Waukesha, Wisc. The business employs 12 people including 5 Native Americans.

"It's challenging every day; you can't sit back and relax in terms of thinking you've got it made. Every day you're out there trying to develop more business," said Skenandore. "It also gives me the chance to be involved in employing people. I really find that enjoyable that we can be a part of the community and part of the state of Wisconsin in providing employment opportunities. Our goal is to increase our revenues which allows us to increase our employment."

Skenandore is actively looking to expand his business. He's in talks with a Fortune 500 company to open warehouse distribution centers in other states, and recently had a contract with Veolia Water expanded beyond the Milwaukee area to the United States and Canada.

"That was a sign that we're doing very well with Veolia Water which is our largest account," he said.

Skenandore hopes to eventually open a warehouse in Oneida.

"That is a goal that's on our platter. Within next 10 years you should see some development up into the Oneida Nation area," he said. "We're evolving into a very sustainable company, we are focused in the areas that we need to be, we're responsible back to the Native American community."

Quest Co. received the Small Business Award from the American Indian Chamber of Commerce of Wisconsin (AICCW) this fall for nearly doubling sales in a 12-month period and establishing a new scholarship to benefit Native American students. Now in its second year, the "Quest 2 Soar Scholarship" has awarded $2000 per student each year.

"Everything is focused on giving back to the community, increasing our scholarship fund year in and year out as we grow," he said.

Quest Co. has been named at first runner up for outstanding small business by the Wisconsin Governor's Conference on Minority Business Development for three years in a row, being beat out by Belonger Corporation this year.

"Apparently I have to work harder to get the top award," said Skenandore with a laugh. "In realizing that, Belonger Corp. and Quest are probably two of the biggest Native American owned businesses in the state of Wisconsin. We stand in some pretty good company."

Factors for OTIE Success in Different Economies and Markets

As one of the Oneida Tribe's corporations, OTIE considers itself to be a vital part of the Oneida Tribe's economic policy initiative that emphasizes the creation of diversified revenue streams and a diverse economic base. OTIE has worked diligently to bring in revenues from different geographic regions of the United States.

Diverse revenue streams means having more than one source of income at any given time so that a business can withstand regular changes in cash flow and remain financially stable if one revenue source suddenly drops. To diversify revenue streams also means exploiting opportunities in existing markets and creating new markets for business.

In the words of Chairman Delgado, "we want our corporations to participate in other economies and markets." For OTIE, this means doing business where there is heavy economic activity, where larger funding and financial resources are located, and where larger talent pools exist to provide skilled people. It also means going to larger cities with bigger market demands for services or goods, or locating operations near political or governmental centers that direct the allocation of funds. OTIE has been operating its business based upon the above mentioned factors.

In OTIE's line of business, the company assets have three important components: financial assets, human assets, and reputation. OTIE clients regularly evaluate and compare industry competitors based on these three critical components. As a result, it is OTIE's asset strength that sets OTIE apart from competitors and why OTIE can win the work from clients.

Financial assets include all the components which can create revenue and produce profit in order to increase the company's financial strength. Examples are contracts, backlog, bonding capacity, and other items that build the company's financial assets. Human assets include OTIE's technical capability and administrative management capability comprising the OTIE infrastructure system that supports company operations. Reputation is built based on OTIE's past, current and future performance in order to survive as a business in the industry.

When asked how a smaller business like OTIE can be competitive to win many of the major contracts, the first answer is that OTIE has the technical capability to win and complete the technical work to satisfy the client's demands. The next answer is that OTIE has the infrastructure and administrative support system which is structured and sophisticated enough to support all the major contracts from different agencies, with complicated multiple tasks.

OTIE infrastructure is the administrative support system in place to run daily operations. This infrastructure includes Contract Management, Financial Management, General Administration and Human Resource Management. Staff within these areas is responsible for all aspects of business operations that support OTIE's work as a federal and commercial contractor.

The majority of OTIE's work is from federal agencies. To comply with numerous regulations, OTIE requires staff to have the knowledge and experience to conduct the work and be in compliance with licenses, permits, and procedures. For instance, the Federal Acquisition Regulations (FAR), Defense Federal Acquisition Regulations (DFAR), Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), Defense Contract Management Agency (DCMA) and Defense Contract Audit Agency (DCAA) specifically regulate federal procurement and federal contracts.

Contract Management ensures that regulatory compliance is met during all phases of contract proposal, award and performance. These phases may include negotiating teaming and subcontracting agreements, undergoing audit reviews and engaging in complex contract negotiations that may take place for up to one year, especially when dealing with large, sophisticated construction and engineering businesses as subcontractors. Most of this staff have law or a related degree, and have extensive practice of dealing and negotiating with different regulatory agencies and contractors.

Financial Management addresses the overall daily financial operations that include invoicing, receivables, payables, project financial analysis and other related financial tasks. Depending on the project or program, a single invoicing can exceed 1,000 pages and requires attention to detail for accuracy. OTIE financial practices follow Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP) and Statement of Auditing Standards (SAS), which are routinely reviewed and audited by the Defense Contract Audit Agency (DCAA) and other third party financial firms to evaluate OTIE's financial stability and ability to perform government contracts, such as accurately billing the client for services performed.

General Administration staff handles the required business and professional licenses, permits, registrations and other required documents for the entire company. To do business, OTIE must comply with the requirements from various federal clients, local and state governments. For operations outside the United States, OTIE must follow foreign regulations.

General Administration also deals with OTIE contracts and project operations located at federal facilities or at military bases, which requires OTIE use of federal government facilities, equipment, and vehicles. When federal assets or personnel working at federal facilities are transferred between contractors or from the federal client to OTIE as part of the contract award, specific working knowledge of regulations and contracting procedures ensures a smooth transfer of project operations that is responsive to the client's needs.

Human Resource Management is the area responsible for all aspects of OTIE employees and employment-related matters. By maintaining employment records and conducting employment-related practices to the specification of federal laws and regulations, OTIE maintains regulatory compliance with the professional, technical and support staff that support OTIE operations. An example may be a labor or employment audit required to comply with different federal agency requirements, or for OTIE employee to have security clearance in order to perform contract work on a secured military base.

In addition, the combination of contracting, financial, human resource, and administrative management staff are collectively responsible for the coordination of risk management and legal issues. Because OTIE's technical expertise can be very specialized, having staff that fully understands the work that OTIE does is crucial to minimizing OTIE's overall risk exposure. As a result, OTIE needs staff with the experience and expertise to handle these issues.

Overall, OTIE is an employee-focused industry that heavily relies upon its human assets. To retain staff with extensive experience and knowledge of business operations is a challenge in itself because our company talent pool is in demand by our competitors and may be recruited at any time for their skills and expertise.

Having a staff that is well-trained, disciplined, and skilled to handle day-to-day operations makes OTIE qualified to participate in and compete within different markets, which is the key to being sustainable in a competitive industry. Being sustainable and competitive in different economies and markets allows OTIE to bring in diverse revenue streams from different geographic locations across the United States and help meet Oneida Tribe economic goals.

A few elders braved the cold weather to participate in the Walking Strong Program which kicked off Tuesday, December 10 at the Clifford Webster Recreation Center on County H.

Injury prevention coordinator Jennifer Jordan led the participants in laps around the gym as well as some strengthening exercises.

"Walking is a great exercise for everybody, because it's a very low impact exercise, it's easy for anyone to do, it's even easy for people who have walkers or canes, it's also a good strengthening exercise for people, too," she said.

Helen Van de Hei braved the icy conditions to take part in the program.

"The plow went both ways, so I thought I'd take a chance, and I hate to miss," she said. "It's just a privilege to get out and get socializing with the good people."

The Walking Strong Program is open to individuals age 55 and over. The group meets Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30am-10:30am at the Clifford Webster Building on County H. Call Jordan at 920-869-4520 for more information.

ONCEC opens new online GED program

The Oneida Nation Community Education Center would like to congratulate everyone that completed their GED program in 2013. For people that have been waiting for the new GED program to be released it is finally here. There are some great benefits to the new system that are already popular with new participants.

When people begin their program they will take an initial assessment that will help identify their strengths and weaknesses. This will allow the system to create a customized plan. What this means is that individuals will be able to focus their studies where it is needed, reducing time and effort to successfully complete the final GED examinations.

Since the program is online, participants may be able to work on some portions of their work at home. This gives more flexibility to the individual to work on their program when they have time or the ONCEC is not open. Participants will still have to come in for tutoring and additional instruction when needed.

ONCEC teachers will still provide the personal one-on-one training where needed. This means you will have someone to talk to, ask questions and get the help you need. Where appropriate, classes may be offered to small groups allowing peers to learn with each other in a more familiar classroom environment. The new GED training programs offered at the ONCEC are still self-paced and will give participants a more satisfying experience.

To register or for more information about the program and costs, contact Shana Parker at (920) 496-5234 at the ONCEC.

Corn soup cook off at ONCEC

THE MAKING OF CORN SOUP

ONCEC Hosts Community Cook-Off for February Open House

According to the Creation Story on the Oneida Tsyunhehkwa website, when Sky Woman fell from a hole near the Tree of Life, she grabbed at the sides of the ground near the tree and had took with her seeds of various plant life. These seeds included corn, beans and squash which are also known as the Three Sisters. This means that corn soup has a spiritual component to our heritage.

Traditionally, corn soup has three main ingredients, water, corn and wood ash, although it is common to add other ingredients for flavor and texture. Prior to contact with Europeans, pigs and cows were not native to America so venison and waterfowl were the most likely forms of meat added to the soup. When preparing corn soup in the traditional method it can take a long time. Beginning with dried corn, it is pounded by hand with a pounding stick in a hollowed out bowl to remove the shell. Next, the lye juice is made by burning either ash or hickory wood and then boiling the ashes in water. More ash will add flavor to the juice, but can also burn the throat so a balance must be found. Finally the ingredients are brought together and cooked as a soup.

Vickie Cornelius from the Tsyunhehkwa cannery offers a simpler recipe (at right).

Put water and baking soda (or ash) and white corn in a 4 to 5 quart kettle and bring to a mild boil for 2 hours. The corn should be covered with by at least 2 inches of water so add more water as needed. The corn will turn to orange, then back to a yellowish-white color. Wash corn in cool water in a strainer or corn washing basket. Rub corn between hands to remove hull if you do not have a corn washing basket. Then boil the covered corn for another hour and rinse again.

Add corn, meat, beans together with enough water to cover ingredients and simmer for an hour. Add salt and pepper to season to personal taste.

The Oneida Nation Community Education Center will be having an open house on February 18, 2014, To add fun on the ONCEC will be hosting a cultural cook-off including corn soup, fry bread and pies. If you have a favorite recipe and would like to enter this event, contact Kat Melchert at 920-496-5259 for details. Prizes will be awarded to the best in each category.

Hulling White Corn Recipe Ingredients

1 lb Raw White Corn (makes 2 – 2 ½ quarts cooked)
4 Heaping TBSP baking soda (or 1 Cup sifted hard-wood ashes)
3 Quarts of water
1 lb of your favorite meat
2 Cups of beans (pinto, red or black)

SEOTS completes Elder Survey

By Mark W. Powless

During September 2013, 435 surveys were sent out to the Oneida Elder population of southeastern Wisconsin. Due back in October, 229 surveys, or 52% of the Elders, completed and returned their survey. As a result of the high number of surveys returned, the results are able to give a good idea of the status of our Elder population.

The goal of the survey was to gather statistics regarding health and assess the health needs for the Oneida Elder population of southeastern Wisconsin. It is the first survey of this type conducted for the SEOTS community.

Significant areas for concern within the survey are the high rates of obesity, high blood pressure, diabetes, and arthritis. Not surprisingly, these same issues are areas for concern within the Oneida reservation Elder population.

Obesity was determined by using a formula that considers both the height and weight of respondents. Based on the calculation, 80% of the SEOTS Elder population is either overweight or obese. This is significantly higher than the statistics for the National population where 62% of Elders are overweight or obese.

Obesity is a factor in many health conditions, including diabetes, heart disease, arthritis, and more. For those that are overweight/obese, losing weight can result in a major improvement of well-being.

In addition to the health concerns, the levels of binge drinking (having 5 or more drinks on the same occasion) were high for the Milwaukee area, where 28% of Elders reported binge drinking during the past 30 days. That compares to 9% for the reservation population of Elders and 12% for the overall United States population.

Binge drinking is also a factor in many issues Native Americans are facing. It contributes to unintentional injuries (which is the third leading cause of death for Native people), high blood pressure, heart disease, neurological disease, and much more.

SEOTS is continuing to meet with various organizations and individuals to better understand the survey results and to prepare some strategies to address the issues identified in the survey.

For a copy of the results, feel free to contact the SEOTS office. For help addressing any individual health concerns, contact the SEOTS office for a list of possible resources or contact your health care provider.

Oneida Experiential and Adventure

What is EXPERIENTIAL EDUCATION?

Experiential programming provides challenging and novel activities coupled with unusual opportunities for shared reflection. In this way, the experiential approach creates learning environments within a supportive atmosphere, which in turn brings about learning outcomes beyond those of the typical lecture or simulation. Because this approach can be more realistic than simulations, and because it provides opportunity for practice through experience, rather than being told through lecture, it proves extremely useful in personal and group development where resistance to change is prevalent or where and attitude of rigid thinking exists.

What is ADVENTURE Programming?

Often, our facilitators utilize the "great outdoors" to create meaningful, educational, metaphorical and conceptual experiences and programming. We use the outdoors as our classroom to help challenge individuals to rely on each other and themselves, and organically bring about concepts and skills that emphasize personal growth.

How is our Programming Therapeutic?

We can provide more intensive services to groups. If gaining an awareness of deeper personal exploration, insight, and action planning is the objective, our facilitators can utilize our programming therapeutically. Much of our therapeutic programming is foundationally based in Symbolic Interactionism, Cognitive Behavioral, Rational Emotive Behavioral and Existential theories and is geared toward a Solution Focused approach. This program best serves already establish therapeutic support groups, who are already engaged with a counselor and/or counseling program.

Kalihwisaks Updated Policies & Procedures

CHAPTER 1 - KALIHWISAKS POLICIES

1.1 MISSION

It is the mission of the Kalihwisaks to inform the Oneida Tribal membership about issues of interest by providing timely, accurate, complete and balanced information about the Oneida Tribe that is relevant to the membership, employees, administrative units and government. The Kalihwisaks will continuously investigate, and report on, organizational and social development that affects the Oneida identity and expression; building our community through a shared sense of TwahwahtsilayÁ - All of us are family.

We are committed to preserving and honoring our Tribal heritage, culture and values. We will preserve and uphold the democratic ideals that have guided the Oneida Tribe throughout history; by providing thorough and objective information so that the Tribal membership can make informed decisions and hold our leadership accountable.

Good faith with the reader is the foundation of journalism. The Kalihwisaks seeks to maintain that good faith by publishing a newspaper that provides full and accurate coverage of Oneida life, and that exhibits sound judgment and reasoning in columns and editorials.

Our readers deserve a newspaper that leads, informs, instructs and entertains; a newspaper that is driven by the four essential qualities of accuracy, integrity, independence, and responsibility.

1.2 PRIORITIES

The Kalihwisaks will publish content that is as varied in perspective as our readership. We are committed to providing content representing a broad and diverse range of issues, subjects, facts and viewpoints. With that in mind, however, there are various categories of coverage which have been identified as priority. These include:

1. All aspects of our Tribal government; including the Tribal vision, mission, growth, programs, goals, planning and national priorities;
2. Tribal events and occurrences;
3. Tribal membership; including member benefits and accomplishments;
4. Tribal enterprise activity; capital projects and future plans;
5. Tribal history and culture.

The Kalihwisaks will develop informational themes that center on these priorities. These topics and issues will be the focus of a calendar developed to reflect the special needs of the membership. This planned calendar will be made available by publication in the Kalihwisaks, but it is subject to change, as determined by the Editor.

1.3 NEUTRALITY AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

The Kalihwisaks is a nonpartisan publication and maintains no political or organizational affiliations outside of our affiliation with, and accountability to, the Oneida Tribal entity and the Tribal membership. The Kalihwisaks, and each member of our staff, will remain free from all obligations except that of fidelity to the public interest, and we will not promote any private interest contrary to that of the general welfare.

Disputed issues will be treated impartially, and controversial subjects will be handled dispassionately. Our staff will avoid practices that would conflict with the ability to report and present news in a fair, accurate and unbiased manner, and we will each remain free of associations and activities that may compromise integrity or credibility.

We will not publish any material, except advertising, for which there is evidence or a reasonable perception that the author is attempting to profit or benefit personally from such publication. We will deny favored treatment to advertisers and special interests and resist all pressure to influence news coverage or provide special editorial consideration.

1.4 ACCURACY AND BALANCE

By every consideration of good faith, a newspaper is constrained to be truthful. Staff and submitters who write for the Kalihwisaks are responsible for the accuracy of their assignments and submissions. Every effort will be made to ensure the accuracy of information published in the Kalihwisaks; and to guard against inaccuracies, carelessness, bias or distortion by emphasis, emotion or omission, or technological manipulation.

1.5 ERRORS AND OMISSIONS

If we should publish content that contains an omission or factual error; we will remedy the mistake in the next available publication after we discover the omission or error; and we will take any other steps that we determine to be appropriate in order to remedy the matter.

Depending on the circumstances and the most appropriate response, we will take one or more of the following actions:

1. Publish a correction
2. Publish a clarification
3. Publish a retraction
4. Publish an apology

We encourage our readers to bring any errors to our attention, so that we may respond promptly. Questions or complaints concerning material published in the Kalihwisaks should be made in writing to the Managing Editor.

1.6 EDITOR'S NOTES

Occasionally, content may need to be accompanied by an Editor's note. We will use these to:

1. Correct or point out inaccuracies or faulty logic that may mislead readers;
2. Respond to questions or requests for information;
3. Provide additional facts or information, in order to ensure that content is balanced, complete and current;
4. Provide updates to information that is no longer timely;
5. Clarify or reiterate that content does not reflect the opinion of any party other than the contributor; and/or
6. For any other reason when it is determined to be necessary, in furtherance of the Kalihwisaks' mission statement and these policies.

CHAPTER 2 – GENERAL SUBMISSIONS POLICY

This policy defines the process used to determine if content is appropriate for publication and to edit submissions for consistency with Kalihwisaks styles. The Kalihwisaks reserves the right to make exceptions to this policy when appropriate.

The Kalihwisaks shall maintain vigorous standards of honesty and fair play in the selection, editing and publication of content; and we will use mature and considered judgement in the public interest in all that we do. All efforts will be made to give balance to the representation of differing perspectives in coverage of issues of controversy.

We will not plagiarize words or images, nor shall we publish words or images that are suspected of being plagiarized.

Our readers are invited to submit letters, photos, and other relevant content for publication. Submissions become the property of the Kalihwisaks, and may be published or distributed in our print, electronic or other formats.

Content submitted by e-mail may be included in the body of the e-mail, or attached as a Word Document. The Kalihwisaks is not responsible for content that has been submitted electronically. While e-mailed content is preferred, it is the responsibility of the sender to double check if items sent by e-mail have been received by the Kalihwisaks staff.

2.1 INFORMATION REQUIRED WITH SUBMISSIONS

All submissions must be signed and include the author's street address, telephone number, and preferably an e-mail address. Generally, news and editorial content will include a byline for the author of the content. Contact information, including addresses, will generally not be published, but is used for verification purposes.

1. Attribution. Unsigned and/or anonymous submissions will not be published. In extremely limited circumstances, the Kalihwisaks staff may allow a Letter to the Editor to be published without identifying the author, but the author's identity and contact information must still be provided to the Managing Editor, who may request verification and/or other additional information before the submission can be published.
2. Individual Signatures. All submissions, including letters to the editor and guest editorials, must be signed by individuals, not groups.
3. Conflicts of Interest. When submitting content, contributors must disclose any personal, financial or other interests the contributor may have to the subject of the content.
4. Additional Verification. In order to protect the integrity of the editorial process, additional verification of an author's identity may be required prior to the publication of any submitted content. We may require a submitter to provide evidence to substantiate any controversial or potentially incorrect information identified in a submission.

2.2 EDITORIAL DISCRETION AND AUTHORITY

Because publishing a newspaper is a highly technical process that must operate within certain inflexible deadlines, it is necessary to concentrate executive authority in the hands of one individual--the Managing Editor. The Managing Editor must frequently make immediate decisions in order to ensure that breaking news is covered, that deadlines are met, and that content is published while it is still current and relevant.

The Managing Editor is responsible and answerable for the news and editorial content of the Kalihwisaks, including but not limited to, making the day-to-day decisions regarding content selection, ensuring that all copy meets the standards set forth in this policy, and determining which content will be used to fill available space.

These responsibilities require an element of discretion. Therefore, the Managing Editor may generally exercise great latitude in determining how to apply the Kalihwisaks policies, and in deciding whether and when to allow an exception to these or any other policy. The Managing Editor may also consult with news staff, the Oneida Law Office, the Communications Department, and/or any other appropriate entity to obtain guidance and direction in any situation.

2.3 SUBMISSION APPROVAL PROCESS

While every effort is made to include all relevant material, there is not always enough space to include every submission. Decisions on what material to include will consider news value; timeliness; significance and relevancy to the community.

We reserve the right to withhold, edit and/or refuse all copy submitted for publication; at any time and without notice. If a submission does not meet the Kalihwisaks' requirements for publication or our standards for fairness and good taste, the Managing Editor may do any of the following, as deemed appropriate:

1. Decline to publish the submission. The Managing Editor may discard or destroy any submissions whenever s/he chooses and without any notice or liability to the submitter or any other party.
2. Return the submission to the submitter. When possible, the Managing Editor will try to provide an explanation of what must be changed in order to make the content publishable.
3. Edit the submission for publication, in accordance with section 2.4.

2.4 EDITING SUBMISSIONS

All content, including any content submitted by readers, is subject to editing before publication.

1. Editing is generally limited to grammar, syntax, length, accuracy and civility; in conjunction with space availability. Generally, any content requiring extensive editing will be refused or returned to the submitter.
2. Submissions sent with "do not edit" instructions will not be considered.
3. Every effort will be made to edit material in a way that the intended message remains intact.
4. Proofs of edited content will not be presented to the submitter prior to publication. We may make exceptions to this rule in limited, special circumstances, but only with prior authorization from the Managing Editor.
5. All submissions may be subject to additional editing as available space requires. For example, when a topic or occurrence generates numerous letters to the editor, some letters that repeat ideas made in other letters may be shortened to leave in only new, unrepeated ideas. Content that extensively quotes other written material may be edited to keep quoted material to a minimum.

2.5 SUBMISSIONS FROM WITHIN THE TRIBAL ORGANIZATION

In fulfilling our obligation to the keep the membership informed, the Kalihwisaks regularly publishes content that has been submitted by Tribal entities and officials; including Tribal departments, divisions, boards, committees and commissions. In addition to the general requirements for submissions, the following guidelines apply for content submitted from within the Tribal organization:

1. Submissions should be accompanied by the name, telephone number, and preferably an e-mail address, for the party and department responsible for submitting the content.
2. If the submitted content needs to be run in a specific issue or by a specific date, this information should also accompany the submission.
3. It is strongly recommended that a submitter provide Kalihwisaks staff with advance notice of the type and size of any content that will be submitted – preferably no less than one week before the deadline for that issue – so that the staff can anticipate that submission when planning the layout for that issue. Anything submitted without prior notification will only be run if there is any available space remaining.
4. Advance notification of cancellations or when expected content will not be ready by deadline is also encouraged.

2.6 DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION

As part of our obligation to the community, we reserve the right to report and/or disclose information related to a submission or other content, if we are required by law or valid court order to do so, or if we believe in good faith that such action is necessary for any of the following reasons:

1. To comply with a legal process – including, but not limited to, ethics investigations or proceedings instituted against Tribal officials.
2. To protect or defend our rights and property,
3. To protect against misuse or unauthorized use of our newspaper, logo, website, or any other proprietary property or information; or
4. To protect the personal safety or property of our readers, staff, and/or the general public.

2.7 HEADLINES

Headlines, which must meet certain space and style restrictions, are written by Kalihwisaks staff. Submitters can suggest headlines to accompany their content, but such suggestions will not necessarily be followed.

CHAPTER 3 – OPINION/EDITORIAL CONTENT

The Kalihwisaks strives to champion the rights of the Tribal membership to fair comment and criticism by publishing not only staff-generated content, but also by providing a forum for community members to discuss and share information, including their own views and opinions. Wherever possible, we will try to provide a chance for comment on all sides of a critical issue in the same edition.

Opinion/Editorial content must comply with all Kalihwisaks policies, including the provisions of this chapter.

3.1 KALIHWI·YÓ

One of the Good Mind Principles that have guided the Oneida People from the time of creation is Kalihwi·yó – the use of the good words about ourselves, our Nation and our Future. Our contributors are encouraged to consider the principle of Kalihwi·yó before submitting opinion material – will your words honor the seventh generation? Will they honor our ancestors? Have you chosen the most respectful words and tone?

When selecting opinion/editorial content for publication, the Good Mind Principle of Kalihwi·yó will guide our decisionmaking. Subject matter should be constructive. People and ideas should be referred to and addressed in a respectful manner. Dignity and decency are of paramount importance, as we strive to keep the tone of discourse as civilized as possible.

3.2 GUEST EDITORIALS

Unsolicited guest editorials will only be considered as space permits, and where the commentary demonstrates greater knowledge of the subject than can be portrayed through a Letter to the Editor. It is recommended that those interested in writing a guest editorial contact the Managing Editor in advance to see whether a proposed editorial might be acceptable for publication.

The maximum word length for guest editorials will be determined based on space available.

3.3 LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The following guidelines will be used in determining which letters to the editor are best suited for publication:

- Letters to the Editor are generally limited to 250 words (approximately 1/2 typed page, size 12 font).
- Individuals may not submit more than eight (8) letters per year, regardless of topics.
- Response Letters
  - o Letters written in response to other letter writers should address the issue at hand and, rather than mentioning the writer by name, should refer to the headline and date the letter was published.
  - o Letters referring to news stories should also mention the headline and date of publication.
  - o Letters responding to letters are acceptable; however letters responding to letters responding to letters generally won't be accepted.
- Submissions should be timely, relevant to readers, and of general public interest. A greater priority will be given to time-sensitive events and issues. Submissions that are of narrow interest to a small audience, (such as personal announcements) may be published as space permits.
- All submissions must be the original, unpublished work of the submitter, and exclusive to the Kalihwisaks. Form letters, letters to a third party or those written to more than one newspaper are generally not accepted.
- Ideally, each submission should focus on one single issue or idea.
- In general, letters submitted by Tribal members will have priority over letters submitted by non-Tribal members.
- Good writing is crucial – confusing language, unclear points, inaccuracies and/or improper use of logic detract from the message. Further: propergrammar, spelling and punctuation are always appreciated.

• See 12A, Policies and Procedures

3.4 PROHIBITED CONTENT

Various types of content have been determined to be inappropriate for publication in the Kalihwisaks. The following types of content are therefore prohibited:

1. Defamatory or potentially defamatory statements,
2. Personal attacks,
3. Language that is threatening, harassing, abusive, derogatory, or degrading ,
4. Content that is crude, vulgar, or in poor taste by general community standards,
5. Copyrighted and/or plagiarized material,
6. Obscene and/or pornographic content,
7. Content that is overly invasive of personal privacy, including information that could be used to track, contact or impersonate another individual,
8. Incendiary language, and any other language that promotes, encourages or appears intended to instigate violence or illegal activity,
9. Disrespectful comments regarding individuals, religion, gender, age, mental or physical ability, ethnicity, race, culture, lifestyle choices or any other personal classification,
10. Information that is false, misleading or fraudulent,

12. Advertising and promotional content; endorsements and complaints about consumer and commercial products and services (Exception – this does not apply to paid advertisements, submitted in accordance with our advertising policies),
13. Innuendoes and statements about unnamed persons or entities that appear to be intended to lead to speculation,
14. Commentary generated by political or special-interest campaigns,
15. Fundraising requests and letter-writing campaigns, and
16. Any other content that in any way fails to meet the Kalihwisaks' standards of fairness and good taste and decency, or that does not meet the intended purposes of this policy, or that is otherwise not in the best interest of the Oneida Tribe.

3.5 OPINION/EDITORIAL COMMENT ON ELECTIONS AND CANDIDATES

Prior to elections, the Kalihwisaks often publishes letters and guest editorials related to campaign issues and the performance and qualifications of candidates. However, commentary about a candidate's personal life will generally not be accepted, regardless of whether the commentary is positive or negative.

3.6 OPINION/EDITORIAL CONTENT – DISCLAIMER OF RESPONSIBILITY

The information provided in opinion/editorial content is written by third parties, and not by Kalihwisaks staff. We will never knowingly publish false, misleading or defamatory information; however opinion content is not subject to the same rigorous review and fact-checking process as news content generated by the Kalihwisaks staff. This is intentional – as is the policy with most newspapers, we feel that excessive review of opinion/editorial content could inhibit open discourse and free speech.

The Kalihwisaks is not responsible for information contained in any opinion/editorial content. By publishing opinion/editorial content, we do not claim that any information therein is factual or truthful; and we – as a newspaper and as individual staff members - do not necessarily agree with or support any opinion, viewpoint or other information therein. Opinion/editorial material only reflects the opinion of the author, and the Kalihwisaks assumes no responsibility for the content of such submissions.

3.7 OPINION/EDITORIAL CONTENT – SUBMITTER RESPONSIBILITIES

By submitting a letter to the editor or guest editorial, you understand and agree with the following:

1. All of the information in your opinion/editorial submission is factual and accurate to the best of your knowledge, and
2. You have taken reasonable steps to verify any information provided, and
3. The Kalihwisaks is not responsible for checking the accuracy of any information you have provided, and
4. If you submit content that contains defamatory, false and/or misleading information, you may be subject to both civil lawsuits and/or criminal penalties under applicable Tribal, local, state and/or federal laws, and
5. After submitting opinion/editorial content, if you discover new information that could or does result in the Kalihwisaks publishing false, misleading or defamatory information, you will notify the Kalihwisaks immediately so that we can take appropriate corrective action as quickly as possible.
6. If the Kalihwisaks determines that a person has intentionally submitted content for publication that is false, misleading or defamatory, then the following steps will be taken:
   a. First offense: the submitter will be sent a warning letter, identifying the violation and the potential consequences of future violations.
   b. Second offense: For a period of one year following a second violation, the Kalihwisaks will not publish, and will not consider for publication, any content written or submitted by that person.
   c. Third offense: For a period of three years following a third violation, the Kalihwisaks will not publish, and will not consider for publication, any content written or submitted by that person.

CHAPTER 4 – GENERAL ADVERTISING POLICY

4.1 GENERAL PROVISIONS

The content of advertisements, including the copy, artwork and design, must meet the same standards of good taste that are applied to all other Kalihwisaks submissions.

Except where Kalihwisaks staff is responsible for graphics and/or layout for an advertisement; a proof will generally not be provided to the author prior to publication. Where a proof is provided, customers shall have one (1) business day after receipt to request changes to the ad.

Errors in ads that are the fault of the Kalihwisaks shall be promptly corrected, and the ad will be re-run the following issue.

The Kalihwisaks reserves the right to accept or refuse any ads or terminate ad campaigns at any time, for any reason, with or without notice.

4.2 ADVERTISING RATES

Ads may be created for publication directly in the newspaper, or in a separate insert, or on the Kalihwisaks website. Inserts can be targeted by ZIP code, or by county.

Advertising rates shall be set in accordance with the Kalihwisaks budgeting process, and may be revised from time to time as deemed necessary.

Copy and payment for advertisements must be received prior to the deadline for submissions, or the advertisement may be held for a future issue.

Customers who pull an ad after submitting either a completed ad or a request for ad design by the Kalihwisaks will be charged a $25 fee. This fee is assessed in addition to any fees charged for work done by Kalihwisaks staff between the time the ad design was requested and the time the ad is pulled.

Any discounted rate or rates shall be established by the Managing Editor, may be revised from time to time as deemed necessary, and are subject to change without notice.

- Tribal members and programs may be given a discounted rate for advertising in the Kalihwisaks.
- Special discount rates may be arranged for long-running ads.
- Political advertisements shall not be eligible for special discounted rates.

4.3 ADVERTISING COPY CREATED BY KALIHWISAKS STAFF

All advertisements, including political advertisements, that are created by Kalihwisaks staff are intended solely for publication in the Kalihwisaks and are the intellectual property of the Kalihwisaks, regardless of whether or not the advertisement is published in this newspaper. No party may use any advertisement created by Kalihwisaks staff for any purpose other than publication in the Kalihwisaks without prior written consent from the Managing Editor.

CHAPTER 5 - POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENTS

Any advertisement involving a political figure, party or government issue, regardless of whether or not there is an election, is considered political. Political advertising must comply with all Kalihwisaks policies, including the General Advertising Policy, and must meet general standards of fairness and good taste.

Political announcements pertaining to Tribal elections may be published in a Special Election edition as well as in regular publications prior to the election date.

Political advertisements shall not be slated for publication until the Kalihwisaks has copy that has been approved for publication by both the Kalihwisaks and the submitter, full payment, and any required request forms, waivers and/or releases. It is the submitter's responsibility to ensure that all required items have been submitted and received.

5.1 CONTENT GUIDELINES

In general, we will permit political advertisements regardless of the political views they represent. However, political messages that conflict with the vision or well-being of the Oneida Tribe, or that appear to undermine the Tribe's sovereign status or independent rights, may be refused. In the rare cases where such political messages are accepted for publication, the Kalihwisaks reserves the right to provide equivalent space for rebutting commentary.

The Kalihwisaks does not accept advertisements that include accusations or attack an individual's personal life; and we also do not accept advertisements that include excessive flattery about an individual's personal life. However, stating disagreement with or campaigning against a candidate for public office, a political party, or public administration is generally permissible.

Submitters shall not submit political advertising that purports to emanate from a source other than its true source. Submitters shall not misrepresent their identity or, if acting or purporting to act as an agent, misrepresent the identity of the agent's principal.

The Kalihwisaks may require additional documentation to substantiate any claims or statements made in any political message advertisement. The Managing Editor will determine what constitutes acceptable documentation.

5.2 FAIR ACCESS

The Kalihwisaks shall make every effort to ensure that any political advertising which directly or indirectly mentions an opposing candidate or opinion or which addresses controversial issues, is published in time to give opposition an opportunity to reply. The Kalihwisaks retains discretion to provide an opportunity for opposing views to be published the same issue that any negative advertising is placed.

5.3 REQUIRED INFORMATION

All political advertisements must include all information required by Tribal, local, state or federal law, and must be clearly designated "Paid Political Advertisement" across the top of the advertisement, in a font no smaller than size 11, Times New Roman.

All political advertising is required to include the name and address of the individual or organization responsible for placement of the ad. Political advertising must also be accompanied by a statement of one individual person who is responsible for the ad - a committee is not acceptable.

5.4 EDITING AND REVIEW

Due to the sensitive nature of political advertising, the Kalihwisaks will not edit political advertisements prior to publication. If a submission is unacceptable, the Managing Editor shall make reasonable attempts to notify the submitter in a timely manner; and to identify the reasons that the submission is rejected.

Except where Kalihwisaks staff is responsible for graphics and/or layout for an advertisement; a proof will generally not be provided to the author prior to publication. Where a proof is provided, customers shall have one business day after receipt to request changes to the ad. Once a completed advertisement has been submitted and accepted, no copy changes will be permitted, except to correct typographical errors.

5.5 POLITICAL AD RATES AND FEES

Political advertisements will be charged at the same rate as current advertising rates, unless a different set of rates is established and approved by the Kalihwisaks for a particular election or campaign. Prior to an election, the Managing Editor may establish size limits or other requirements for political advertisements related to that election or particular campaigns.

CHAPTER SIX – AMENDING KALIHWISAKS POLICIES AND/OR PRICE LISTS

Any of the Kalihwisaks policies can be amended by the Managing Editor at any time. The Managing Editor shall publish notice of the changes in any issue of the Kalihwisaks, and the changes shall become effective on the day the following issue of the Kalihwisaks is published.

The rates charged for subscriptions, advertising, or any other services or products provided by the Kalihwisaks are subject to change without notice. Interested parties may contact the Managing Editor to request a copy of the most current rates.

CHAPTER SEVEN – CONTESTS

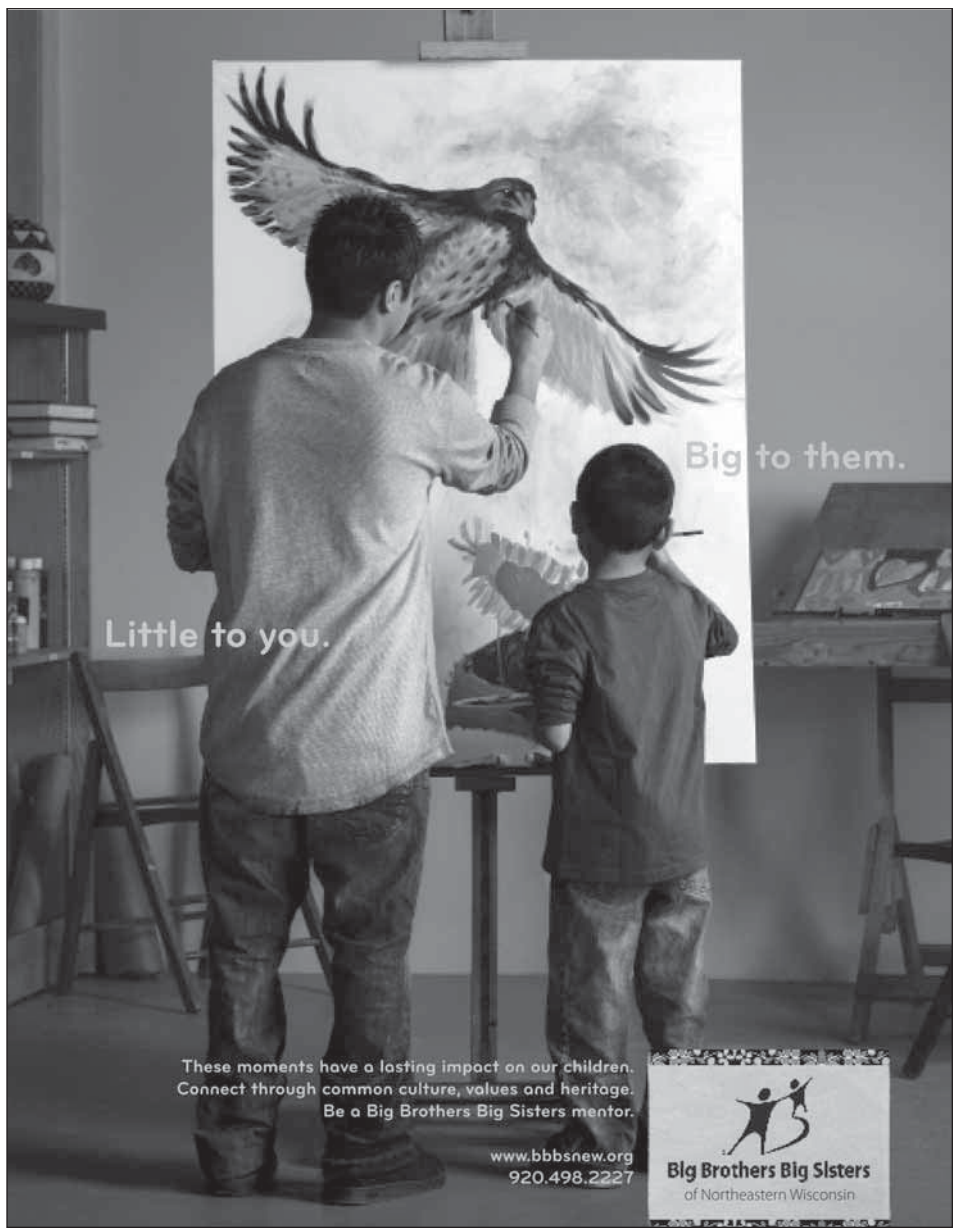
The Kalihwisaks shall establish separate policies and/or rules to govern any contests that we sponsor or host – for example, photo contests or essay contests.

We may publish information about other contests with which we are not affiliated. However, we require the official contest rules to be published along with any information relating to the contest.

We are not responsible for any aspect of any contest that is not sponsored or hosted by the Kalihwisaks, even if we publish information about the contest.

CHAPTER EIGHT - SUBSCRIPTIONS AND CONTACT INFORMATION

All enrolled Tribal members age 18 or older are eligible to receive the Kalihwisaks, free of charge. Contact the Enrollments Department for more information.



The Kalihwisaks may also be made available to persons that are not enrolled Tribal members. The Managing Editor shall establish a subscription rate for non-Tribal entities, and from time to time shall review and may revise this rate as determined necessary.

The Kalihwisaks does not make a mailing list available for purchase or otherwise.

Submissions may be sent via e-mail, fax and/or mail, however the Kalihwisaks reserves the right to require original, signed copies of any content submitted electronically.

rules on usage and any associated fees. Federal rules require any fees to be disclosed prior to purchase. Also, dormancy, inactivity and service fees are allowed only if the recipient has failed to use the card for more than one year. After that, fees are limited to one per month, but there is no limit on the amount of the fee.

? Always give a gift receipt with the card to verify its value and the date of purchase. Make sure the recipient of your gift card holds onto the receipt until they have spent the entire value of the card.

? If your loved ones or friends tend to shop online, consider giving them electronic gift cards by email rather than physical cards. Many stores offer this gifting option and the messages can often be customized with personal messages or images. These cards can be saved in an email account for future use without fear of losing or damaging a physical card.

? Keep your cards safe. Make a copy of the front and back of the card and keep it with the original receipt. Contact the issuer immediately if you lose a card or if it is stolen, but be aware that you may not be able to replace it. Some issuers may replace the card for a fee.

? If you receive a gift card, try to use it right away to ensure that you receive the card's full value.

About 7,200 Wisconsin residents selected health plans

By Scott Bauer
Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Around 7,200 people in Wisconsin have purchased health insurance through the federal website, eight times are many who had signed up through October, the deputy state insurance commissioner said Tuesday.

The numbers through Monday show that it has been easier for people to access the site, healthcare.gov, which was beset with problems when it first opened in October. That first month, fewer than 900 Wisconsin residents purchased insurance through the site.

President Barack Obama promised that most of the problems were fixed by the end of November, and the dramatic surge in enrollments in Wisconsin indicates that more people are finding it easier to sign up. Those working with enrolling people in Wisconsin also have been reporting that it's been easier to use the website this month.

"Obviously more folks are getting in," said Dan Schwartzer, deputy Wisconsin insurance commissioner, at a panel discussion about the health care law. "We're delighted to see more folks getting in. ... It looks like it's improving."

The federal government is expected to release its own updated enrollment figures for all 50 states sometime this month.

Kathleen Falk, a regional director for the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, said more than 400 bugs have been fixed and the site works 92 percent of the time.

"It's not perfect yet, improvements continue to be made, that is an ongoing process," Falk said.

Problems with the site led Republican Gov. Scott Walker, one of the most vocal critics of the federal health care overhaul law, to ask the Legislature to delay for three months kicking 72,000 people out of Medicaid and into the private market. The proposal doing that has passed the Assembly and is scheduled to be voted on in the Senate on Dec. 19.

Walker's budget, passed by the Republican-controlled Legislature this past summer, lowered Medicaid eligibility from those earning 200 percent of poverty to those making less than 100 percent, which is $11,490 for an individual or $23,550 for a family of four.

The move was part of Walker's plan that embraced parts of the federal overhaul law while also rejecting federal money to pay for Medicaid for those who make up to 138 percent of poverty.

Democrats and health care advocates said Walker was wrong to reject that money and continue to call on him to accept it. Democratic Rep. Melissa Sargent, D-Madison, introduced a bill Tuesday that would allow counties to take the federal money directly, sidestepping Walker and the Legislature. Eighteen counties have passed resolutions in support of the state accepting the federal money.

While Republicans who control the Legislature aren't likely to give the idea serious consideration, Sargent said it was important to press the issue and stress that Wisconsin can accept the federal money at any point.

Walker's argument for not taking the money last year, which his spokesman Tom Evenson repeated Tuesday in reaction to Sargent's bill, was that the federal government can't be counted on to follow through with its promises.

"Governor Walker did not want to expose Wisconsin taxpayers to the burden that will come due when the federal government decides to break its promise to help fund Medicaid," Evenson said.

Walker said his goal was to cut Wisconsin's uninsured rate in half, meaning about 225,000 people will have to purchase coverage.

"We are still focused on meeting the objective of cutting the uninsured rate in half," said Kevin Moore, deputy secretary of the Wisconsin Department of Health Services, at the panel sponsored by Wisconsin Health News.

The three-month delay proposed by Walker, giving those losing Medicaid coverage more time to sign up through the exchange, will give the state and others more time to work with that population to make sure they purchase private plans, Moore said.

"For us, the biggest concern is inaction," Moore said.

Heavy snow and arctic cold on the way

Keep your eyes on the weather this week, as a series of snowstorms will be moving across the northern half of the state bringing up to 17 inches of snow in far northwestern Wisconsin. Following the snow, arctic air will move in across most of the state dropping daytime high temperatures to the single digits in the north and teens in the south. The cold and heavy snow could cause treacherous driving conditions.

Now is the time to get ready for the storm. Get your vehicles and home ready and plan for slick roads if you are traveling. Here are a few simple things you can do:

Have an emergency winter weather survival kit in your vehicle. Your kit should include water, snack food such as energy bars or raisins, first aid kit and booster cables. If you have a cell phone make sure you have a power adapter you can plug into the lighter. You can find more tip kits at ReadyWisconsin http://readywisconsin.wi.gov

Check the roads and take your time. Call 511 or go to www.511wi.gov for the latest road conditions across Wisconsin. You can also go to our website for a regional travel map which covers North and South Dakota, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan, Missouri and Wisconsin. http://readywisconsin.wi.gov/511/default.asp. Make sure you plan extra time if you travel. Roads may become icy and snow packed. Also, keep at least a half tank of gas in your vehicle in case of an emergency and let friends and family know where you are traveling to and when you should arrive.

Get supplies for your home. Make sure your home emergency kit is stocked with food that can be stored and eaten without electricity, in case there is a power outage. Also, make sure you have extra water, flashlights with extra batteries and medications. For a complete list of kit items go to ReadyWisconsin http://readywisconsin.wi.gov/kit/GetKit.asp

Stay informed. ReadyWisconsin will keep you posted on any emergencies that occur during the storm. Follow us on Facebook (www.facebook.com/readywisconsin) or Twitter (www.twitter.com/readywisconsin) for updates.

Wisconsin DNR Highlights

Wisconsin DNR wants Great Lakes photo contest entries

MADISON, Wis. (AP) – The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources is looking for entries in its Great Lakes photo contest.

Photos of Lake Michigan and Lake Superior as well as their tributaries, wetlands and harbor towns in all seasons are eligible. Entries must be received by Feb. 2.

Winning entries will be featured in a four-color calendar available at the Wisconsin State Fair and for download.

The DNR received more than 500 photos of Lake Michigan and Lake Superior last year.

Submission instructions are available on the DNR's website.

Wis. DNR urges public to prune trees in winter

MADISON, Wis. (AP) – Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources officials are urging people to prune their trees during the winter to help reduce the spread of diseases.

DNR foresters say pruning branches when trees are dormant reduces stress on them. It also reduces the chances of insects attacking open wounds on trees and spreading oak wilt and other tree diseases that aren't active during the winter months. The lack of leaves also makes it easier to see and prune broken, cracked or hanging branches.

Oak wilt is common throughout the southern two-thirds of Wisconsin but it still relatively rare in the northern reaches of the state.

Skiing offered at Trees for Tomorrow

EAGLE RIVER, Wis. — If you're over 50 and your idea of a winter vacation involves playing in the snow, Trees For Tomorrow, a natural resources specialty school in Eagle River, Wis., has a weeklong learning adventure just for you.

Teacher/naturalists will lead participants through "A Northwoods Skiing and Snowshoeing Adventure" from Feb. 9-15 in the deep forests of northern Wisconsin and Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Staff will provide skiing and snowshoeing instruction for all skill levels before leading participants on excursions through a variety of habitats, providing insight into Northwoods winter ecology.

"You'll witness how wildlife adapts to survive the winter season as you ski or snowshoe a different trail each day," said Troy Walters, coordinator of the workshop. "And you'll have a special opportunity to snowshoe at night along a candlelit trail."

One of the many highlights of the week is skiing at Anvil National Recreation Trail where black-capped chickadees eat sunflower seeds right out of your hand, Walters said.

Other activities include snowshoeing in an old-growth forest, visiting Bond Falls in the Upper Peninsula, learning orienteering skills and practicing them while snowshoeing, and visiting the Kovac Planetarium, the world's largest rotating mechanical globe-style planetarium.

In addition, workshop participants will have the opportunity for an up-close look at Trees For Tomorrow's live birds of prey.

Cost for the seven-day program is $599 per person (for a double room) or $629 per person (for a single room). The fee includes lodging, meals, instruction, field-trip transportation, and rental equipment.

Guests stay on-site in rustic dormitories with comfortable bedrooms. Meals are served in Trees For Tomorrow's historic dining hall that overlooks the Eagle River chain of lakes.

The "Northwoods Skiing and Snowshoeing Adventure" is a Road Scholar program (#7310) and is designed for adults in their 50s and beyond. Trees For Tomorrow is offering 11 outdoor Road Scholar programs in 2014 for people interested in exploring Wisconsin's Northwoods.

For questions or to enroll, call Road Scholar toll free at (877) 426-8056, from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, or visit www.roadscholar.org.

Court seems wary in Indian casino case

WASHINGTON (AP) – The Supreme Court seemed wary of making any changes to tribal sovereignty laws as it considered whether Michigan can permanently block an American Indian casino.

Justices heard arguments Monday from state officials who want to shutter the Bay Mills Indian Community's casino about 90 miles south of its Upper Peninsula reservation. Michigan argues that the tribe opened the casino in 2010 without permission from the U.S. government and in violation of a state compact.

The lower courts say they don't have jurisdiction over parts of this argument, and that the tribe also has sovereign immunity.

Michigan Solicitor General John Bursch says that if Michigan could sue a foreign country for opening an illegal business on state land, they should be able to sue to stop the casino.

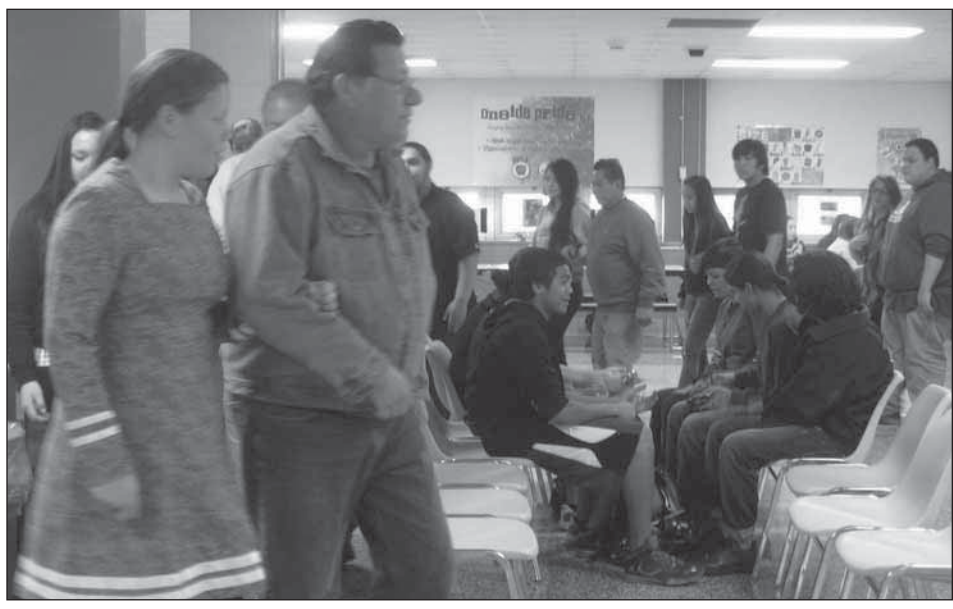
Susan Lemens

Ms. Susan Lemens is a new addition to the ONHS staff this year. She is a paraprofessional in the Special Education department at Oneida Nation High School. She was born in Green Bay at St. Vincent's Hospital. She has four sons, three daughters, and 12 grandchildren.

Ms. Lemens has a driver's license and a pet fish. She likes the Green Bay Packers; however, her favorite hobby is painting. Her favorite food is pizza, but she does not like anchovies on her pizza.



When asked about her views on life, Ms. Lemens said, "Some people say I have wisdom, but I believe that true wisdom comes with life experiences."

We hope that Ms. Lemens has some more great experiences while she is here at ONHS. Welcome, Ms. Lemens, to the ONHS family!

Veterans Day Program held at ONHS

By Rudy John
Thunderhawk Times

On November 12th, one day after Veteran's Day, Oneida Nation High School held a social dance and luncheon for the veterans that served their time in war. A total of nine veterans came to the school to take part in the event. Once all of the veterans arrived at the high school, there was an opening ceremony and then the veterans were named off. After that was completed, a friendship social dance followed.

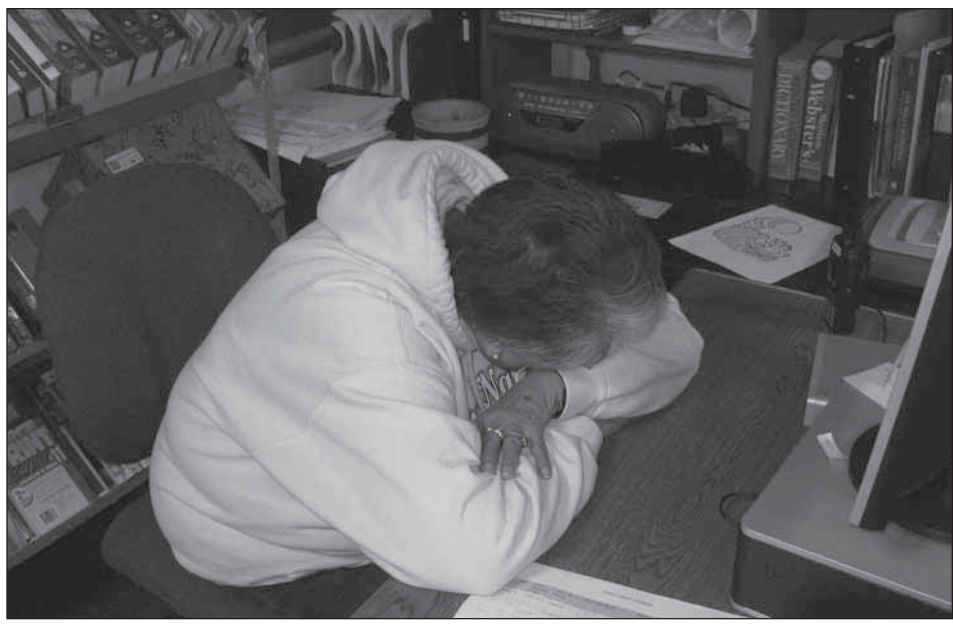
A social dance was held for veterans on November 12 at the ONHS cafeteria.

The veterans that attended were Austin Summers-U.S. Army, served 4 years; Kerry R. Metoxen-U.S. Air Force, served 20 years; Ed Wallenfang-U.S. Army, served 6 years; Andrew John-U.S. Army, served 8 years; Ted Christjohn –U.S. Army-Vietnam, served 6 years; Marshall Groleau-U.S. Army; Ken Hill-World War II and 2 tours of duty in the Korean War, served 12 years; Warren Skenandore-U.S. Army, served 5 years; Bobby Doxtator-U.S. Army-Vietnam, served 4 years.

Yaw^ko to the veterans who attended our recognition ceremony, and yaw^ko to veterans everywhere. Thank you very much for your sacrifice and your service. We truly appreciate it!

Student of the Month
Sheila Stevens

The Student of the Month for December is Sheila Stevens, a junior at Oneida Nation High School. She is also the junior class president. Her grades are mostly A's and B's. She has been a student in the Oneida School System her whole life.



Sheila lives with her mom, dad, sister Heather (alumni of ONHS), and her two cats, Simba and Tigger. Her boyfriend is Quenton Sundquist, also a student at ONHS.

When asked what creative things she has done, she replied, "I dye my hair bright red!" One of many hobbies Sheila enjoys to do is acting, and her favorite genre of music is rock. Her "twin" is Ruby John.

When asked who Sheila's favorite celebrity is, she responded, "Johnny Depp! He is so talented and is the best at what he does!" Her plan after high school is to go to New York Film Academy and her career plan is to be involved in acting. Stevens lives by the motto "Young Forever."

Get to know the several stages of sleeping

By Vincent Wayne Webster
Thunderhawk Times

Winter break for the students of ONHS is right around the corner, and many students have said that they will use the time off of school to catch up on their sleep. Not many people know it, but we don't simply fall asleep, dream, and then wake up in the morning. There are actually five different sleep stages that we go through during the time we are asleep.

Stage 1 is the beginning of the sleep cycle and is a relatively a light stage of sleep.

Stage 2 is the second stage of sleep and lasts approximately 20 minutes. The brain begins to produce rapid and rhythmic brain wave activity known as" sleep spindles."

In Stage 3, deep, slow brain waves known as "delta waves" begin to emerge.

Stage 4 is sometimes referred to as delta sleep because the delta waves occur fully at this time. Bed-wetting and sleep-walking are most likely to occur at the end of stage 4.

Most dreaming occurs during the fifth stage of sleep. This is observed through rapid eye movement and is called REM sleep.

Chronic sleep loss and sleep disorders increase the risk of serious health ailments. Lack of sleep can upset one's alertness, concentration, reasoning, and problem-solving abilities. Sleep also plays a key role in consolidating memories.

A few facts about Christmas time

By Ruby John
Thunderhawk Times

In the past, Christmas was normally celebrated only by Christians, but recently it has become more popular with non-Christians. Christmas is celebrated on December 25th by millions around the world. There are only 34 countries that don't have Christmas as a public holiday.

For Christians, the day celebrates as the birth of Jesus, but for non-Christians it's a day where people give and receive presents. Before Christmas was celebrated on December 25th, Eastern Christians celebrated it on January 6th.

Some of the ways people celebrate Christmas is by having house decorating competitions with lights. There are a few people that are really into the competition and make their houses look really cool. Another thing to do during the holidays is go caroling.

Trending Topic: Jessica House

By Shy House
Thunderhawk Times

This week's trending topic is the outstanding video of Jessica House and The Lady Thunder Hawks on www.theways.org. This is a story about a recent graduate of Oneida Nation High School, Jessica House, and the 2012-2013 Lady Thunder Hawks girls' varsity basketball team. It shows what it means to be a Lady Thunder Hawk and how our Oneida cultural studies extend beyond the classroom.

The video also shows what it's like to be a student at ONHS. The cameras follow Jessica during her every day routine and how Jessica is actively involved in her heritage and culture in school and outside of school.

It's an amazing three minute video that really captures the true essence of Jessica, the Lady T-Hawks, and what it means to be a student at Oneida Nation High School. Check out this excellent video at http://theways.org/story/lady-thunderhawks and experience our Oneida youth and our school from a whole new perspective.

OBC Forum...

Vince DelaRosa
Councilman

Recently the Legislative Operating Committee (LOC) reviewed the enforcement authority of the Audit Committee and it is clear major changes are needed.

The current Audit Committee has worked hard to ensure risks to the Tribe's assets and resources are controlled through sound management practices that are driven by a common commitment to the best interests of all Oneida members.

While the Audit Committee has made definite progress in many areas of the organization, resistance and even retaliation has been encountered in other areas. The Audit Committee has identified that even when an issue can be properly identified, vetted and referred within the organization, there are weaknesses with our enforcement capabilities that are prohibiting corrections and improvements. If our internal controls are not systematically updated and adapted we remain at risk for continuing to produce substandard results and inadequate checks and balances. Such weaknesses in any control or management practice could put us in jeopardy of waste and abuse of tribal assets and resources.

The Audit Committee has tried to encourage management action using existing processes, but believe it is now time to modify the Audit Law to create a solid framework for enforcement. I would suggest to tribal members that going forward this is one of the most important issues to your trust and peace of mind. Some of the things we are looking at, for example, are how management should be addressed if an audit is conducted and documentation is missing and should the management associated with missing documentations and records be disciplined; fined or sanctioned in these circumstances? Should these parties have to come before GTC and explain?

I would encourage Oneida members to listen to the LOC tape from November 20, 2013. The LOC had an interesting discussion, much of it attempting to maintain the status quo of no authority for anyone or anybody, to enforce positive change. It's difficult to understand why improving processes, data, reporting, quality of service and decision-making capability are met with obstructions and negativity by some leadership and management. Lack of, or missing documentation in some cases has restricted the ability to determine who is responsible for decisions, assets, equipment, inventory, etc. One national governance consultant, the Candela group, has reported that well run organizations lose up to 5% of revenue to theft and fraud. In an organization with our current controls and processes, up to 10% of the revenue could be walking away, meaning that for Oneida we could be looking at a number close to $36 million!

So along these lines I have asked that the Sarbanes-Oxley be looked at in terms of future audit committee reforms. I think some of that may be applicable within our tribal organization and applicable to our corporations. I also encourage the membership to provide feedback as the Audit Law goes through the legislative process so we can all play an active part in improving our operational, accounting and management controls.

Thanks for reading my article; I hope you have a great winter season.

Walker still undecided on mascots bill

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Gov. Scott Walker still isn't saying whether he will sign a Republican bill that would make it harder to strip schools of American Indian mascots.

Walker said Thursday that he isn't focused on the measure that passed in November. Walker can sign it into law or veto it at any time. If he doesn't take any action by Dec. 12.

Opponents of the bill are pressuring Walker to veto it, saying it is racist. But supporters say the current system for forcing removal of race-based mascots is flawed.

UWGB freshman Buck's drive inspires Native Americans

By Scott Venci
Press-Gazette Media
greenbaypressgazette.com

There are not a lot of players like University of Wisconsin-Green Bay freshman Tesha Buck playing basketball at the NCAA Division I level.

A little more than a decade ago, there were none.

Buck is a Native American who already has overcome long odds to reach this point in her career.

In the most recent NCAA race and ethnicity report from the 2011-12 season, there were 10,151 male and female basketball players in Division I. Just 25 of them — 21 women and four men — were Native American/Alaskan Native.

In 2000, there were no Native American/Alaskan Native female basketball players. In 2008, there was one.

Buck is part of the Prairie Island Indian Community, which is a Mdewakanton Sioux Indian reservation in Goodhue County, Minn. Her father, Rich, was raised on the reservation by his grandmother, Clara, but moved his family about 15 miles away to Red Wing when Tesha was 5 or 6.

The reservation doesn't have a high school, so the majority of the kids attend Red Wing High School.

"There are reservations out there that are not good to live on," Tesha said. "I know my parents wanted something better than what they had. Growing up, they taught me to work hard and do something that other people may not be able to do. Use your talents to get somewhere in life.

"Just seeing other Native Americans that may not ever have a chance ... the talented ones, too. They could probably play at a Division I school, but they are not getting looked at or they can't afford to play AAU basketball."

Tesha didn't have Native American role models in the sport since so few received opportunities. She didn't know of any playing in college, so she looked up to her father. He was the one who pushed her to be great, knowing the odds she had to beat.

Rich was a standout athlete while growing up on the reservation — he became a professional softball player — who likely could have played Division I athletics had his grades and life been better.

"This was before the casino times, that has obviously bettered our life now," Rich said. "But back then, we were on welfare and my grandma is raising me. She was trying to find every way to make it work for us."

Rich wasn't going to let that happen to his children. He didn't want them to fall into some of the bad habits he saw from others at times. Tesha considers everyone on the reservation to be her family, but she doesn't think some of them made wise choices.

"My dad worked so hard to put a good look on our name," said Tesha, who is averaging 10.0 points, 4.7 rebounds and 4.4 assists for UWGB while starting the first seven games. "Growing up, people have always said that, 'You have it so easy. You are really good at basketball.'

"But it's not like I was born good at basketball. We worked for what we have."

Tesha started playing at a young age. She talks about how Rich competed in Native American basketball tournaments "all over the world" and can't remember a time she wasn't in the gym with a basketball in her hands.

It didn't take long for people to see her talent.

It's not common for an eighth-grader to play varsity at Red Wing — Tesha's sister, Tayzha, is doing it this season — so it was even more odd when she registered a varsity point in seventh grade.

It didn't come without some hard feelings. She was good enough to earn varsity minutes as an eighth-grader, which meant she was taking some away from the older players.

"It was hard at first for Tesha, just because she was an eighth-grader new on the scene," said Red Wing coach Dave Muelken, who was an assistant on the team early in her career. "(She) felt she probably had to prove herself, but deserved to be there. Until the other kids accept that her talent level is there and she has earned it, I think there were some struggles at first."

The work ethic instilled in her by her father forced people to buy in, and by the time she was a freshman, there was no doubt she belonged.

The Division II schools that had been recruiting her dropped out early, and schools such as Illinois and Minnesota started coming around. She ended her career with a school-record 2,402 points and led her team to the state tournament three times while committing to UWGB during her junior season.

Tesha doesn't think many understand the struggles Native Americans endure at times, and she hoped her prep success could help some of them.

Like many of her peers, she points to the Louisville sister duo of senior Shoni Schimmel and junior Jude Schimmel as the brightest examples for Native Americans to follow and how significant their success has been for the younger generations.

"To see that there is so much more than the reservation you grow up on," Tesha said. "Just show them that if you put your mind to it, you have so much more to look forward to."

Tesha admires the impact the Schimmels have had, but she doesn't look at herself the same way despite being a Division I player.

Others see it differently. They saw the following Tesha had from Native Americans while at Red Wing, and they see an even bigger impact she can have at UWGB.

She can be an inspiration to others, like her father was to her.

"She can be that," Muelken said. "I think she may not recognize it or realize it, but I think she already is."

GLITC urges AB 297 veto

Michael Allen, Executive Director of the Great Lakes Inter-Tribal Council, an organization of 12 federally recognized Indian tribes located in Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, called on Governor Scott Walker to exercise his veto power on AB 297. The bill modifies the existing procedure for registering a complaint about race-based school mascots, logos and nicknames, requiring a minimum number of signatures equivalent to 10% of a school district's population, reversing the current burden of proof, and removing the Department of Public Instruction from the hearing process. Native American tribes across the state have objected to the use of Native American depictions and names as sports mascots and logos, and the Great Lakes Inter-Tribal Council has published its position in favor of prohibiting Native-themed school logos and mascots for being psychologically harmful to Native and non-Native children alike. If the Governor fails to act on the bill, it will become law.

"Governor Walker has already publicly criticized the proposed bill as being 'convoluted' and a 'weird hybrid', and has pointed out that it does nothing to advance the state's agenda for jobs and health care reform, which are his highest priorities. No other existing political, racial, or ethnic group would or should tolerate being trivialized or boxed in by ignorant, one-dimensional notions about their culture or personalities. As the Governor explores possibly becoming a candidate for national office, he should weigh the consequences of tacitly agreeing to this throwback proposal." Allen said.

Dr. Charles M. Roessel named Director of the BIE

WASHINGTON ~ Assistant Secretary Kevin K. Washburn today announced that he has named Dr. Charles M. "Monty" Roessel as Director of the Bureau of Indian Education (BIE). Roessel, an enrolled member of the Navajo Nation, had served as the acting director since February 2012.

"The BIE plays a major role in the education of thousands of American Indian students across Indian Country," Washburn said. "As acting director, Dr. Charles M. Roessel has proven to be an effective steward of our Indian education programs, bringing to the Bureau extensive experience in school leadership and administration, and an understanding of what's needed at the local school level. He is a strong and effective member of my senior management team."

Before joining the BIE's headquarters staff in Washington, D.C. in 2012, Roessel had served since October 2011 as the Bureau's Associate Deputy Director for Navajo Schools, where he was responsible for overseeing 66 BIE-funded schools on the Navajo Nation reservation in Arizona, New Mexico and Utah. He became the associate deputy director after having served since 2007 as superintendent of Rough Rock Community School, a BIE-funded, tribally operated K-12 boarding school near Chinle, Ariz., on the Navajo Nation reservation.

From 2010 to 2011, Roessel had served as chair of the Department of the Interior's No Child Left Behind Negotiated Rule Making Committee and on the Sovereignty in Navajo Education Reauthorization Task Force with the Navajo Education Department of Diné Education.

"I want to thank Assistant Secretary Washburn for his confidence in me for this important post," Roessel said. "I am looking forward to working with Assistant Secretary Washburn and his team to ensure that the Bureau of Indian Education continues to fulfill its two-fold mission of providing our students with a quality education while respecting tribal cultures, languages and traditions."

GTC votes to dissolve Oneida Seven Generations

Chair and petition call special meeting to review decision

By Nate Wisneski

@Nwisneski_Kali

After The General Tribal Council (GTC) voted to dissolve Oneida Seven Generations Corporation (OSGC) a push by two separate parties to reconsider the decision is underway.

On December 17, two days after the GTC decision to dissolve, Oneida Tribal Chairman Ed Delgado sent a memo to the Oneida Business Committee calling a special GTC meeting to reconsider the dissolution.

"The recent corporate dissolution action taken by General Tribal Council is not in the best interest of the tribe and will result in a detrimental impact on our finances, future bargaining position, and business reputation of the tribe," said the memo.

The embattled tribally owned corporation had faced recent tumultuous times as it focused on a proposed waste-to-energy facility. The plant temporarily found homes in Hobart, Ashwaubenon, Green Bay, and Oneida before ultimately being shelved after the GTC voted it out of reservation boundaries.

One day after Chairman Delgado's action a petition created by Loretta Metoxen was turned into the Tribal Secretary's office looking to revisit the actions of GTC.

"During that meeting it appeared the GTC did not have a full understanding of the motion, nor were they given ample time for a clear and uninterrupted discussion," she said.

"We would like to see all the facts laid out in front of us, with an honest and clear presentation of what it would mean to the Oneida Nation as a whole, if we were to dissolve (OSGC)," added Metoxen.

OSGC fully owned and operated seven limited liability companies (LLC) and had partial ownership of five others. Between those 12 LLCs there were 15 properties under OSGC management.

It is unclear on the exact timeline and resources needed to complete the dissolution but the auditing firm McGladrey & Pullen, who performed an audit on the company, advised dissolution would take about 10 to 12 months.

According to Chief Financial Officer Larry Barton a minimal impact of $7.8 million will be felt by the tribe immediately to pay down eight loan agreements. The agreements allow the lenders to immediately call for the debts to be paid. OSGC's five other loan agreements total $17.6 million.

Along with the loan agreements an unknown amount will be needed to dissolve OSGC. Barton projects consultation fees exceeding $100,000 along with a loss of over $10 million in fair market value of assets owned by the company. Litigation with joined LLCs, and an impact to the tribe's business and credit reputation may be felt.

Delgado's memo calls for a $25.6 million budget line to be added in the FY2014 budget to allow for the dissolution of OSGC.

The Oneida Business Committee has met on multiple occasions with dissolution petitioner Frank Cornelius. Cornelius is looking to have a streamlined and speedy dissolution process in which many of his questions related to the company are answered.

"I'm running deadlines for (the OBC)," said Cornelius. "(The GTC) assigned me to assist in dissolving. I need to know what (OSGC) stands for and I need to know this. (GTC) put me in charge to work with them and dissolve (OSGC)," said Cornelius.

The final vote count at the December 15 Special GTC meeting was 814 supporting the dissolution while 689 opposed. 69 abstained from voting.

Gov. Walker signs school mascots bill

By Todd Richmond
Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Wisconsin Gov. Scott Walker signed a bill Thursday that will make it harder to force public schools to drop tribal nicknames, pushing aside opponents' charges that the measure is racist.

The Republican measure requires a petition to trigger a state review of a nickname - a departure from current law, which states a single complaint is enough to prompt an evaluation. It also wipes out all previous state orders for schools to drop race-based mascots.

Walker, a Republican, signed the measure privately Thursday afternoon. He released a statement saying he's worried current law infringes on free speech. A person's right to speak doesn't end just because what they say is offensive, he said. The best approach is to educate people about how some phrases and symbols are offensive when used as nicknames and mascots, he added.

"If the state bans speech that is offensive to some, where does it stop?" Walker wrote. "I personally support moving away from nicknames or mascots that groups of our fellow citizens find seriously offensive, but I also believe it should be done with input and involvement at the local level."

Barbara Munson, an Oneida Indian who chairs the Wisconsin Indian Education Association's mascots and logos task force, said Walker's free speech arguments make no sense. Government entities such as schools don't have free speech rights, she said.

"(The bill) is an example of institutionalized racism in content and process," Munson said. "It's a poke in the eye with a sharp stick to all Wisconsin tribes, and it is an act of discrimination leveled directly at our children."

The bill cuts against the grain of a decades-long movement away from American Indian mascots, logos and nicknames that has seen Stanford University change from the Indians to the Cardinal and Seattle University drop Chieftains for Redhawks. Last year, Oregon's Board of Education decided to cut state funding to schools that don't retire Indian mascots. This year the Oneida Nation in upstate New York launched a national drive to pressure the NFL's Washington Redskins to change their nickname.

Walker's deadline to sign or veto the bill was Thursday. If he took no action, the bill would have become law automatically. The measure will go into effect Saturday.

The bill amends a 2010

Tying of the Greens

The cedar rope measures 100 ft. around the pillars in the basement of the Holy Apostles Episcopal Church Mission. Each year 400 ft. of cedar rope is made by volunteers to decorate the church and alter for the Christmas season. Above, Keith Metoxen is assisted by Anita Barber as he ties a cedar bundle onto the rope. Glenda Metoxen (right) is a new recruit for the long standing tradition.

Carrying on with tradition

The hanging of the garland at the Holy Apostles Episcopal Church Mission was set to be held after mass on Sunday, December 22, however, due to bad weather the long standing tradition was delayed.

It's a tradition that has been going on as far back as the mid 1800's in preparation for the unveiling before services are held on Christmas eve.

But before this long time tradtion can take place, there are those volunteer parishioners who gather with family members and make the commitment to put together the garland for the momentous occasion a few days leading up to the special occasion.

The cedar must be trimmed, gathered and tied onto a rope. When completed, there is 400 feet of fresh garland that adorns the head of the church and along the aisles.

Preparation began after mass on Sunday, December 15.

The Metoxen family volunteered their time on Monday evening and the McLester family worked on the project on Tuesday and Wednesday evening along with extended family members and parishioners.

It was good to see the younger generation becoming involved with the process as well, namely Elijah Metoxen and Olivia Webster, former Jr. Miss Oneida.

Each family provided a hot meal every night during the tying of the greens which made for spending quality time to enjoy each others company as well.

Once again members of the congregation will be able to enjoy the scents of cedar in the church, thanks to the hard work and dedication of parish members.

The cedar bundles were purchased from a Whispering Pines which is located in Oconto county. According to Jenny Webster, the business provided the bundles at a discount to the parish.

In Loving Memory

In Loving Memory of...
Sanford P. Cornelius
11/14/1920 – 12/24/1996
"Daddy"

17 years have passed since I was awaken, to learn your presence had been taken.
You didn't want to go, but you could not stay,
The angels came to guide your way.

Months have come and months have gone,
yet life without you still seems so wrong.
I wish you were still here with Me but the time had come for your spirit to be free.

I will not let your memory die,
for In My heart it will always lie.
I cannot promise my tears will end or the break in my heart Will ever mend.

But this I promise I will never do,
I will never, ever stop loving you.
Although your gone I'll keep you near,
Rest In peace my Daddy dear.

Eternal Love

In Loving Memory of...
Myron G. "Chubby" Skenandore Jr.
September 18, 1934 – March 15, 2013
"Chubby"

Our first Christmas without you
We know you're not hurting anymore,
And being with your family,
Dad, Mom,
Sisters & Brothers,
Makes us happy to know you're not alone.
We just wish you could be here with us.

Love and Miss you
Wife, Children, Grandkids & Friends

In Loving Memory of...
Deacon Edmund C. Powless
June 14, 1923 – December 30, 2010
Dad...

Recalling your 3rd Anniversary with our lord and reunion with Patty.

He never looked for praises
He was never one to boast
He just went on quietly working
For those he loved the most

His dreams were seldom spoken
His wants were very few
And most of the time his worries
Went unspoken too

He was there...a firm foundation
Through all our storms of life
A sturdy hand to hold onto
In times of stress and strife

A true friend we could turn to
When times were good or bad
One of our greatest Blessings,
The man that we call Dad.

Sadly missed by wife, Blanche; daughters Terry, Kathy, Dottie, Barb and families.

Trucking companies win WisDOT awards

From 1A/Mascot bill

state law that required Wisconsin's Department of Public Instruction to hold a hearing on a school's race-based nickname if the agency received a single complaint. The school district had the burden of proving the nickname wasn't discriminatory. DPI, which is controlled by an elected superintendent, then decided whether the name had to go. So far, DPI has ordered the Osseo-Fairchild School District in western Wisconsin to drop its Chieftains nickname, Berlin High School in northeastern Wisconsin to ditch its Indians moniker and the Mukwonago Area School District outside Milwaukee to drop its Indians nickname.

Mukwonago officials have refused to part with their nickname, however, saying they've used it for more than 80 years and it would cost around $100,000 to change it. Rep. Stephen Nass, R-Whitewater, who represents a portion of Mukwonago, introduced the bill in August to help the district.

The bill invalidates all previous DPI orders forcing schools to drop their nicknames. Going forward, people with a complaint would have to submit signatures equal to 10 percent of the school district's student population to trigger a DPI review. If the agency decides a hearing is warranted, the Department of Administration, which is under the governor's control, would preside over it and make the final call on the name. Districts that reach an agreement with a tribe to use an American Indian likeness can't be stripped of the nickname or mascot.

The measure was hotly debated in the Assembly and Senate. Minority Democrats argued complainants will struggle to collect enough signatures to force change and blasted the measure as a "return to darkness" that solidifies racism in public schools. Republicans countered the current system was slanted against schools. They used their majorities in both houses to push the bill through to Walker.

Nass issued a statement Thursday praising Walker for signing the measure into law, saying the governor "is providing moral direction to all sides" that will lead to more dialogue and a less confrontational tone.

Samuel Hall, an attorney for the Mukwonago Area School District, said the bill eliminates "the kangaroo court" schools faced under the old law.

"The new law on nicknames and mascots strikes the right balance in ensuring a fair process for review of long-standing nicknames and logos while also still maintaining Wisconsin's pupil non-discrimination laws," he said.

Munson, the leader of the Indian mascot task force, said 30 school districts still use Indian mascots and symbols. The task force won't stop until they're all eliminated and its attorneys are considering challenging the new process in court, she said.

"Education can take many forms," Munson said. "Sometimes it looks like legislation. ... sometimes it looks like litigation."

"Phantom Debt" Calls Nothing to Fear

MADISON ~ "You have four hours to contact us. You have been named as a respondent and may have to appear in court…"

The call comes out of the blue. There is no company name given in the recording, but you are told that you may be a respondent in a court case and the company may reach out to your employer to garnish your wages. To stop the company from contacting your employer, you can press a key to speak with a litigator or you can call them back. What do you do?

Hang up the call or delete the message – it is a nationwide scam. These threats are typically openers for a "phantom debt" collection pitch where victims are told they must make a payment on a fraudulent debt. In some cases, the scammers say they're calling on behalf of a state's taxation agency. These operations use threatening messages to play on the victims' fears of legal or financial actions.

The Wisconsin Departments of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (DATCP), Financial Institutions (DFI) and Revenue (DOR) have each received inquiries about these scams. What should you know about these fraudulent calls?

? False court order and debt collection scams are widespread. These types of scams have been seen in states as widespread as Minnesota, Idaho, New Hampshire, Louisiana and Washington.

? As with any other automated phone call scam, you should avoid hitting any keys during the call or taking any other action to be removed from the caller's phone list or to speak with a live representative. By hitting a key, you are verifying that your number is active to the scammer and you may receive even more calls.

? In some cases, the messages include a "case number" to intimidate the receiver, and some versions even tell victims to send money immediately to avoid a warrant being issued for their arrest.

? Many callers to DATCP have claimed that the scammers have either their full social security numbers or the last 4 digits and are using that information to convince the victim the call is legitimate. It is generally assumed that this information is stolen from online loan applications.

? Never provide personal or banking information on an unsolicited call.

Hoka Hey Motorcycle Challenge to promote awareness

Most people can't begin to comprehend the unacceptable state of affairs that exist on Indian Reservations in the US and while there are a number of very fortunate Indian Nations whose people earn a very good living; there are a staggering number of residents in the reservation system that live in dismal conditions which rival and even surpass that of many Third World countries.

The Pine Ridge Area Chamber of Commerce is a voluntary non-profit corporation whose purpose is to improve the quality of life on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation by creating, sustaining and enhancing Indian owned businesses. Applying the Lakota values of Honesty, Wisdom, Respect, Courage, Fortitude, Responsibility, and Generosity to the economic setting, the Chamber intends to empower people and create hope for a brighter future.

The Pine Ridge Area Chamber of Commerce is an association of business people who understand the importance of partnering with like-minded organizations to accomplish the goals and the mission they've set forth. Chamber Director, Ivan Sorbel, declared that "Teaming up with the Medicine Show LLC to promote awareness and seek solutions made a lot of sense to everyone involved."

The Hoka Hey Motorcylce Challenge is a cross country endurance ride designed to get participants out of their comfort zone and into places they might otherwise never go. "The ride will pit participants against the road and Mother Nature. Challenge participants are willing to do without a few luxuries for the short duration of the event in order to test their own mettle and to gain a better understanding of what the First Americans face in their daily lives." said Beth Durham, Director of Operations for the Medicine Show LLC. By taking riders to various reservations around the country, the Hoka Hey Motorcycle Challenge not only opens the participants' eyes to the deplorable conditions on remote Indian reservations but it brings out the riders' own true character as well. "The warrior spirit will always surface for any one that runs the Challenge with integrity, tenacity and heart" says Durham.

The 2014 Hoka Hey Motorcycle Challenge begins on July 20, 2014 and covers a little over 7,500 miles between Key West, FL and Homer, AK - using a new route to connect two favorite destinations.

Durham is careful to confirm that people don't have to participate in the Challenge in order to help the cause however. Any one that is interested in helping can go to the Chamber website at www.pineridgechamber.com to donate. This year's goal is to raise a minimum of $20,000 which will be used to establish a scholarship fund, create small business grants and institute a Skills Camp for high school students in order to help them become more employable.

"The Chamber isn't about making handouts. It is about empowering the people who live there to make the reservation a better place in which to live, work, and raise a family. It is a huge undertaking and we are glad for the help from Medicine Show LLC and the Hoka Hey Motorcycle Challenge participants." Said Sorbel.

Tlachac finds his niche

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks
nwisnes@oneidanation.org
@Nwisneski_Kali

The life of an exotic animal rescue professional isn't depicted on realty shows with full accuracy but for Dino Tlachac it's not that far off.

Tlachac operates Nature's Niche, an exotic animal rescue in central Wisconsin that offers forever homes for animals.

"We work with humane societies, game wardens for wildlife rescues. We're focusing on exotic animals, anything of the tropical variety," said Tlachac. "We get animals from private individuals who can longer take care of them, humane societies who have strict rules about the type of animals they have."

Tlachac, who has been operating Nature's Niche since 1999, has degrees in Environmental Law Enforcement, Biology, and Natural Resource Management with an education emphasis.

Like most that work with wild animals Tlachac has many stories about bizarre situations.

"This lady had 300 to 500 bats in her house. It was a perfect bat house with cedar siding with holes and we were on national news," he said. "Another woman had who almost 300 rats in her trailer home. They weren't wild, she decided to let them go in her house as pets. You walked in the door and you saw one or two running around. They were trained, she shook a bag and poured it on a platform on the floor and from every corner of the house rats poured out from everywhere."

One of Nature Niche's biggest functions is to go into schools to educate youth about responsible animal care.

"The motivation for me is I'm doing what I'm love. It important to get the information I've learned over time to the general public. There are a lot of myths about animals in general. Education is the key," said Tlachac.

Along with education, Tlachac's favorite part of his job is getting to see animals re-homed back into their habitats. A not to distant second is seeing an animal recover after injury and be released into the wild.

"Most rewarding part of that is seeing that wild animal go and get back to nature and fulfill their life cycle," he said.

For more information visit Naturesniche.org or Nature's Niche Facebook page.

Health plan sticker shock ahead for some buyers

CHICAGO (AP) _ As a key enrollment deadline hits Monday, many people without health insurance have been sizing up policies on the new government health care marketplace and making what seems like a logical choice: They're picking the cheapest one.

Increasingly, experts in health insurance are becoming concerned that many of these first-time buyers will be in for a shock when they get medical care next year and discover they're on the hook for most of the initial cost.

The prospect of sticker shock after Jan. 1, when those who sign up for policies now can begin getting coverage, is seen as a looming problem for a new national system that has been plagued by trouble since the new marketplaces went online in the states in October.

For those without insurance _ about 15 percent of the population_ ``the lesson is it's important to understand the total cost of ownership of a plan,'' said Matt Eyles, a vice president of Avalere Health, a market analysis firm. ``You just don't want to look only at the premium.''

Counselors who have been helping people choose policies say many are focused only on the upfront cost, not what the insurance companies agree to pay.

``I am so deeply clueless about all of this,'' acknowledged one new buyer, Adrienne Matzen, 29, an actor in Chicago who's mostly been without insurance since she turned 21. Though she needs regular care for asthma and a thyroid condition, she says she's looking for a low monthly premium because she makes less than $20,000 a year.

Hospitals are worried that those who rack up uncovered medical bills next year won't be able to pay them, perpetuating one of the problems the new health care system is supposed to solve.

The new federal and state health insurance exchanges offer policies ranked as bronze, silver, gold and platinum. The bronze options have the lowest monthly premiums but high deductibles _ the amount the policyholder must pay before the insurer picks up any of the cost of medical care.

On average, a bronze plan's deductible is more than $4,300, according to an analysis of marketplace plans in 19 states by Avalere Health. A consumer who upgrades to a silver plan could reduce the deductible to about $2,500. A top-of-the-line platinum plan has the lowest average deductible: $167.

Comprehensive data on premiums isn't available, but in one example, a 30-year-old in Chicago would pay an average of $222 per month for a bronze plan, $279 for a silver or $338 for a platinum.

The complexities of insurance are eye-glazing even for those who have it. Only 14 percent of American adults with insurance understand deductibles, according to one recent study.

The danger of a wrong snap judgment is great for those under financial pressure _ especially those with modest incomes who make too much to qualify for the government subsidies available under the new health care system. Subsidies aren't available for individuals making more than $45,960.

Most of the uninsured make less than that, but many still pick the cheapest plans.

``Price rules,'' said John Foley, a Legal Aid counselor in Palm Beach, Fla., who has been helping people enroll.

Some applicants see the catch.

``The real big surprise was how much out-of-pocket would be required for our family,'' said David Winebrenner, 46, a financial adviser in Lebanon, Ky., whose deductible topped $12,000 for a family of six for a silver plan he was considering. The monthly premium: $1,400.

While the health law makes many preventive services free _ such as vaccines, blood pressure screening and mammograms _ most medical care is paid out of pocket until the deductible level is reached. Some of the new plans offer limited coverage for certain services before a patient has met the annual deductible. These services can include primary care, some prescription drugs and routine care for common chronic conditions such as high blood pressure and diabetes.

It's unclear how many plans provide this feature, and it may not be easy for consumers to tell.

Lynn Quincy of Consumers Union, a public policy group, suggests that consumers narrow their options to five plans, then go to each insurer's website to read the benefits summary. It spells out who pays what for two common situations: having a baby and managing Type 2 diabetes.

To be sure, the new health law did away with the whopping deductibles in plans previously offered to people without employer-provided coverage. Out-of-pocket costs are now capped at $6,350 for individuals and $12,700 for a family.

But some people who have been paying their own medical bills, or leaving them unpaid at the hospital, seem surprised that health insurance doesn't cover more of the costs.

``They previously had no insurance coverage at all and so they might not be happy,'' said Cynthia Rahming, an enrollment counselor in Houston.

Fearing the sticker shock, Loyola University Health System in Chicago is offering payment plans to spread the out-of-pocket costs.

Some who had private insurance policies that were canceled may find that keeping the same deductibles may mean higher premiums.

In California, Diane Agnone complained in an online post on her state's health marketplace. ``How is this affordable? I am a healthy 62-year-old single woman and these new premiums will cost me over $200 more per month than my existing plan.''

The new insurance system requires policies to cover more services than some consumers had chosen to buy in the past.

``It's all a matter of having a budget and it only goes so far,'' said Agnone, an executive with a nonprofit charity based in Fairfield, which is about halfway between San Francisco and Sacramento. ``There is no winning in this.''

Butler retires from ONCEC

After 10 years of service to the Oneida community at the Oneida Nation Community Education Center, teacher, Jerry Butler says it's time to retire. Those who frequent the ONCEC are familiar with his bright smile and positive attitude. He often arrived a little early just in case someone needed some help.

When asked about his plans for retirement, Jerry said he intends on doing some overdue visiting of family in Arizona. He also plans to stay active by looking for some volunteer opportunities in his Two Rivers community. He said he looks forward to not making the long drives in the winter to get to work but he will miss his friends he is so used to seeing each day at the center.

A small retirement party was held for Jerry on December 10th where many expressed similar sentiments for him. His departure will leave an opening at the ONCEC as well in the hearts of his friends. We wish you well, friend.

Oneida Film Society Winter Movie Schedule

The Oneida Film Society will be celebrating some amazing people this winter. To begin the New Year, we will start at home with a tribute to our own Charlie Hill. Charlie is an Oneida actor, comedian and spokesman for Native Americans. He was the first Native American comedian to appear on The Tonight Show with Johnny Carson. He performed again on The Tonight Show with Jay Leno. He has made multiple appearances on Late Night with David Letterman. The January documentary, On & Off the Res' with Charlie Hill, is a walk through Charlie's life with samples of his comedic work and commentary from Charlie and several of his friends including Steve Allen, Vine Deloria Jr., Even Adams and Floyd Westerman.

In February, we will change up the pace with a documentary about Maria Tallchief. Maria is recognized as America's first prima ballerina. This documentary, produced by Sandy and Yasu Osawa is their fifth PBS television program. This program includes several interviews with Maria and many of the people that grew up with her. Osawa, who is a Makah tribal member stated "To be regarded as a people with a future, we must be seen not only as a people with a past but also a people with a present." This film does all three.

The film in March is a real departure for the film society with the showing of the 1971 movie Billy Jack. We decided to show this film as a look back on the view of the Indian people in this time. Recently departed, Tom Laughlin played in the starring role as Billy Jack. While he was not Native American many believed he was. Tom was an American actor, director, screenwriter, author, educator and political activist. He ran for President of the United States three times.

In addition to these films, the Oneida Film Society will present a short film at the Oneida Nation Community Education Center's open house On February 18, 2014. We invite everyone to join us in the coming months as we celebrate Native American culture and share our ideas and thoughts. Schedules and location of these film presentations will be announced in future Kalihwisaks articles and on our Facebook page www.facebook.com/OneidaFilmSociety.

Putting your personal budget to work

Part of the ONCEC Financial Literacy Program

In the last issue, our last article, How to Start Taking Control of Your Personal Finances, explained the importance of understanding your spending habits. If you are creating the three lists we suggested, income, spending and bills, you may be wondering what to do with all of this information. By the way, if you need help, you can pick up a free budgeting packet at the Oneida Nation Community Education Center.

The first step would be to examine what you are spending your money on and organize it into categories. Some common categories are rent, gas & electric, phone, groceries, gasoline, clothes, savings and entertainment. You may have other categories depending on your needs and obligations such as child care or medication. Looking back to the information gathered from past months, assign an amount of money that would allow you to pay your anticipated costs. Remember, the total cost cannot exceed your total income for the month. If you find that you do not have enough money for all of your expenses, you may have to decide to give some things up such as cable TV, coffee or some other non-essential expense. In some cases you may determine that you need help in this process. A resource we recommend is Goodwill's FISC program at (800) 366-8161. (www.fisc-cccs.org/)

This will be the basis of your budget. A good way to put your budget to work is by using the envelope system. To begin, write the name of each category above on the front and back of an envelope, one envelope per category. On the back side, write the amount of money that you have budgeted for that category and place that amount of money into the envelope at the beginning of the month. As money is spent from each category place the receipt and change back into the envelope. Then write on the back the amount that was spent and the remaining balance. This will keep you aware of how much you have remaining for the month after each time you spend from that envelope. At the end of the month, you should have receipts of all your expenditures and possibly some left over money. The total in each envelope should equal the money plus the total of the receipts.

Practicality and safety suggest that carrying large amounts of cash is not a good idea. It is okay to substitute pretend money in your envelopes, or even just keep track on the outside of the envelopes, without ever actually putting anything in the envelopes. Some people find this works just as well, but others feel that they need the automatic discipline that comes with only using the actual cash in the envelopes. You want to find a system that works for you, but be sure to safeguard your cash if you decide to go that route.

Another option we recommend is called Goodbudget. Goodbudget (www.goodbudget.com) is a free online service that creates virtual envelopes for your budget. You can access the service from your computer, iPhone or Android. This is another cash-free way to implement the envelope system.

It may take some time to get the right budget for you. Feel free to experiment with a variety of budgeting methods, and don't expect to find the perfect solution right away. Every time you work on your budget, you are increasing your financial awareness and your knowledge of your own finances, and that is worthwhile in its own right!

What should you do with your left over cash? There are several options including adding it to savings or talking to a financial professional for advice on early loan payments, goal setting or retirement planning. If you need help or resources please stop into the ONCEC and ask for our budget package.

The Oneida Nation Community Education Center supports spreading financial wisdom. As part of this support we encourage you to look for our future articles in this series on financial literacy to help you get the most out of your hard earned dollars.

Winter snow brings on Snowsnake competition

Author Unknown, Edited by Nicolas Reynolds

The following has been edited to correct grammar and flow. The original material is found in a manuscript titled "Te Twa' Enae" and is found in the Oneida Cultural Heritage Collection. The original author is unknown.

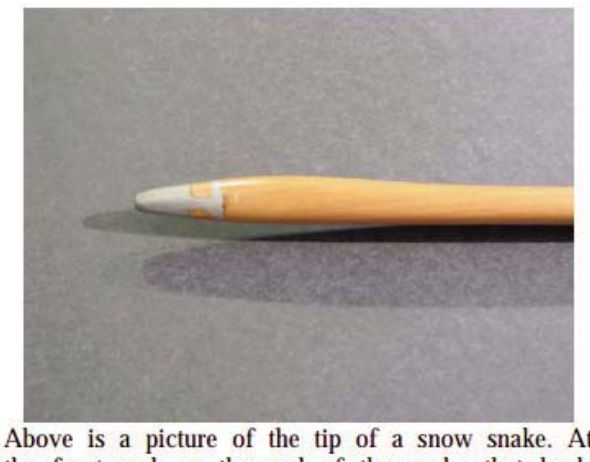
Snowsnake has been played by Iroquois people for many generations. It is a winter sport played by young and old. There are a lot of skills needed and one should practice a lot. There is a lot of team work needed between the one who throws and the one who shines. Also, a lot of time is needed to find out what shine will slide best in different kinds of snow. This is some information about snowsnake that I know.

HOW TO MAKE A SNOWSNAKE

Different kinds of trees are used to make a snowsnake. Some types are: hickory, wild cherry, walnut, oak, hard maple, iron wood, beech, and birch. During the winter, around January and February, a tree should be cut down. This is cut, it should be split and allowed to try for a year. After the year is up, we use a draw knife to shape the snowsnake into a long, round shaft. At the top of the snake we leave a hump. This will help balance the snake as it travels down the track. Now we soak the snake in heavy oil for two to three months. This will help keep the water from soaking into the wood. Now after it is soaked we sand the wood again until it is very smooth. Then we melt the lead to make a point which will be at the very end of the snake. The snowsnake is now cut to about seven feet, at the back end there is a notch where the thrower will place his finger.

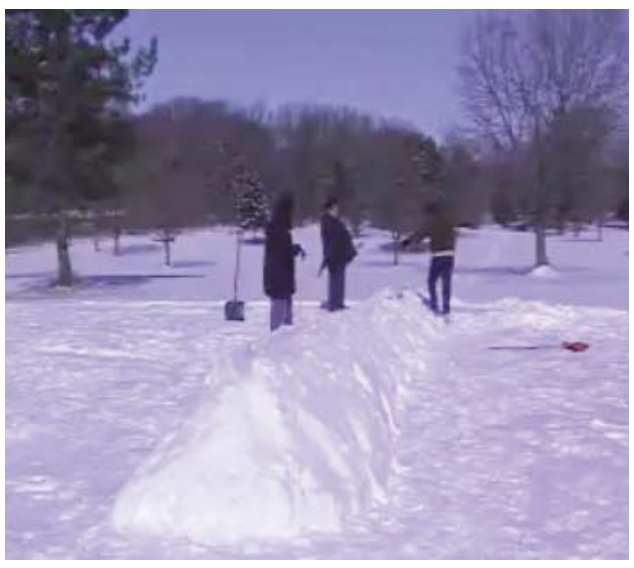
PREPARING THE SHINE

The shine is a mixture of shellac and rubbing alcohol. The alcohol helps dilute the shellac so it's so sticky but more like a wax. Each team has someone with their own mixture and these are usually secrets that are passed down to family members. You have to experiment a lot to find out what works best in fresh snow, ice, and wet snow.



PREPARING THE TRACK

The track is first made by pilling up snow to waist height. The pitch hole (where the snake enters the track) is sometimes three feet high by two or three feet wide. This pitch hold sometimes goes about 20 or 30 feet then gradually slopes to the ground. After the snow is piled a log is pulled through and a slot is left in the snow where the snakes will travel. The track can be made as long as you like. Some snakes have been known to travel over a half a mile.



THE GAME

Each team will have two throwers, sometimes there are seven to eight teams and sometimes more. There are also three classes. First class, they usually are the best at the game. Second class are ones who have played for a while but are still improving. The third class are usually beginners. Now after each team has thrown all four of their snakes, the one who has thrown the furthest is the winner. The mark is made at the end of the snake. Three points are needed to win the game.

Above is a picture of the tip of a snow snake. At the front end, or the end of the snake that leads down the track there is a lead tip placed at the front. In addition the front end of the stick is larger to give balance and stability to the Snowsnake.

News Around Wisconsin

Vos plans to end spring session by March

Madison, WI (AP) – Wisconsin Assembly Speaker Robin Vos says he wants lawmakers to complete the bulk of their work for the spring session in January and February.

The Legislature has reserved session days through April 3. But Vos said Thursday he wants to meet just three days in January, between three and five in February and at most one day in March.

Vos says he believes the Assembly can pass its priorities during that time, and he does not want to follow the typical practice of cramming a lot of bills in at the end of the session.

Vos says he expects the Assembly to pass bills targeting heroin addiction, tax cuts, the Common Core standards and school accountability.

Both the Senate and Assembly are scheduled to return to work on Jan. 14.

Most Wis. school unions survive elections

MADISON, Wis. (AP) _ New data from Wisconsin labor relations officials show the majority of 400 school worker unions survived recertification elections and can continue to negotiate members' wages.

Gov. Scott Walker's collective bargaining restrictions prohibit public employee unions from negotiating with managers over anything beyond base wage increases based on inflation. The restrictions also require the unions to hold annual certification elections to see whether members want the organizations to continue to represent them in those limited negotiations.

Elections for 400 school worker unions began Nov. 29 and wrapped up at noon on Thursday. The Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission released figures that show about members of roughly 81 percent of the unions voted to allow the organizations to continue wage negotiations.

Wis. man's conviction in wife's death overturned

Milwaukee, Wis. (AP) - A Wisconsin man convicted of poisoning his wife 15 years ago was improperly tried because he couldn't confront his dead wife and her ``letter from the grave'' implicating the husband as the primary suspect, a federal judge has ruled.

Wednesday's decision in the long-running case centered on a key piece of evidence: a letter that Julie Jensen _ suspicious that her husband, Mark, was trying to kill her _ had slipped to her Pleasant Prairie neighbor.

Julie Jensen died in 1998, and her husband was charged four years later. The case was slowed by a legal debate over whether the letter and her statements to others could be used in court, or whether that evidence would violate Jensen's Sixth Amendment right to confront his accuser.

A county judge ultimately decided the letter was admissible. A jury convicted Jensen in 2008 and he was sentenced to life in prison.

But a federal judge in Milwaukee concluded the case didn't meet the narrow specifications under which that constitutional right could be overlooked. The ruling by Chief U.S. District Judge William Griesbach means prosecutors now have 90 days to either appeal the decision or retry Mark Jensen. If they do neither, the 54-year-old will go free.

The state Department of Justice, which is handling the prosecution in conjunction with the Kenosha County district attorney's office, said it's still deciding whether to appeal to the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals. A message left with Kenosha County prosecutors was not immediately returned.

Bob Jambois, who served as a special prosecutor on the case but isn't involved in any decision to appeal, said he thinks the state would still have a strong case even without the letter. He cited certain computer evidence and other details but said he couldn't elaborate while the case is ongoing.

Wisconsin sees influx of snowy owls

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Wisconsin wildlife officials say bird watchers are logging another influx of snowy owls from Canada.

Department of Natural Resources officials say about 55 snowy owls have been reported in Wisconsin through Dec. 8. That compares with 30 to 35 owls by same date last year.

DNR researchers say the state is on the western edge of a massive irruption of snowy owls from the Great Lakes east to the Atlantic coast.

Experts aren't sure what's behind the irruption, but speculate a robust supply of lemmings - the owls' favorite prey - in Canada led to many young that are now dispersing south to find their own territory and food. Another possibility is lemming populations are so low birds are flying south to find food.

Walker may decide on casino after election

MADISON, WI (AP) – A top aide says Gov. Scott Walker may postpone deciding whether to approve the Menominee tribe's Kenosha casino project until after he runs for re-election next November.

Administration Secretary Mike Huebsch told the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel for a Saturday story that the state's attorneys and financial adviser may need more time to examine the tribe's off-reservation project.

He says as the administration's point person on the project, he will engage in "shuttle diplomacy" to negotiate between the Menominee and two tribes that strongly oppose the project.

The paper says Huebsch also opened the door to modifying or dropping the veto power Walker gave each of Wisconsin's 11 tribes.

Ho-Chunk tribe spokesman Collin Price says he's disappointed that the administration would even consider removing the tribes' project veto power.

Judge denies Wis. Chippewa's night deer hunt bid

By Todd Richmond
Associated Press

MADISON, WI (AP) – A federal judge on Friday refused to let Wisconsin's Chippewa tribes hunt deer at night, ruling the tribes failed to justify reworking a long-standing treaty rights decision to allow the practice.

The state Department of Natural Resources has long banned hunting deer at night out of safety concerns. The Chippewa attempted to persuade U.S. District Judge Barbara Crabb in 1989 to exempt tribal hunters from the prohibition during a court battle over treaty rights in the ceded territory, a huge swath of northern Wisconsin the Chippewa handed over to the federal government in the 19th century.

Crabb ultimately sided with the state in 1991, finding night deer hunting is dangerous and the prohibition therefore must apply to tribal members. The tribes agreed to abide by the decision. Last year, though, legislators tweaked the tribes when they approved a law creating a wolf hunt with provisions allowing night hunting. The Chippewa consider the wolf a spiritual brother.

The tribes asked Crabb to adjust the 1991 decision to allow tribal hunters to go after deer at night in the ceded territory, a huge swath of northern Wisconsin. They argued the state must believe the practice is safe because legislators approved night wolf hunting, the DNR instituted night deer hunting programs to curtail chronic wasting disease in 2002 and the agency authorized night hunts to protect crops and prevent car-deer collisions.

Crabb held a trial on the tribes' arguments this past July. She issued her decision in the case Friday, saying the tribes failed to prove circumstances had changed so drastically she should revisit the 1991 decision.

The state has allowed significant night deer hunting, Crabb wrote. But the government did almost all the hunting, and most of it was designed to slow chronic wasting disease, "not for sport or even subsistence." The government also used agents subject to job discipline if they broke the program's rules. Those hunts don't prove that night deer hunting is safe and the 1991 decision was wrong, she said.

She acknowledged the tribes' argument that night wolf hunting doesn't square with the night deer hunting ban was strong. But legislators rendered that moot when they eliminated night wolf hunting in the current state budget, she wrote.

"If the legislature had not eliminated that aspect of the wolf hunt for 2013, it might have difficult to deny plaintiffs' motion to reopen the judgment," Crabb wrote. "However, now that the legislature has changed course ... plaintiffs cannot rely on the wolf hunting regulations as a further ground for attacking the judgment,"

Sue Erickson, a spokeswoman for the Great Lakes Indian Fish and Wildlife Commission, which oversees the Chippewa's off-reservation rights, declined comment. Colette Routel, who represents the Lac Du Flambeau Band of Lake Superior Chippewa and serves as one of the lead attorneys for the tribes in the case, didn't immediately return telephone and email messages after hours Friday.

DNR Secretary Cathy Stepp issued a statement saying the agency was pleased.

"The department felt it necessary to defend state interests," she said, "and in doing so, public safety has been protected."

Ho-Chunk vets honored with Code Talker medals

By Thomas S. Tourtillott freelance writer

Before a certain bill was enacted by the United States House of Representatives, H.R. 4544 (110th) Code Talker Recognition Act of 2008, signed by President Obama recognizing the dedication and valor of Native American Indian code talkers during World Wars I and II, a memo was sent by National Commander Don Loudner of Indian Veterans, Inc., to the Ho-Chunk Nation to confirm the identities of seven Ho-Chunk veterans, who served in World War II, for the purposes of presenting them with Silver Medals. The memo is dated July 29, 2004. That list was confirmed earlier this year by the Ho-Chunk Nation's Veterans Affairs officer, Sandra Winneshiek. The resultant Congressional Gold Medal Ceremony that took place in the U.S. Capitol's Emancipation Hall last month led to the Code Talkers Silver Medal Presentation Ceremony held Friday, Dec. 13, 2013 at the Ho-Chunk Gaming Wisconsin Dells Convention Center in Baraboo, WI.

In an interview with Winneshiek, it was learned that these gold and silver medals were struck by the U.S. Treasury Mint years ago and sat on a shelf collecting dust until the final seven recipients could be confirmed. The medals were designed by Monty Green and Ho-Chunk Traditional Chief Clayton Winneshiek. Sandra Winneshiek stated that she retired from the National Veterans Affairs office after working there for 23 years. A year ago she applied for her current position with the Ho-Chunk Nation as Tribal Veterans Service Officer and after being recently hired she was going through some files when she happened upon the 2004 memo. She smiled, saying it took all of 20 minutes to confirm the names on the list. She promptly submitted said list and the ball started rolling across Indian Country.

The names of the seven U.S. Army radio operating Ho-Chunk veterans receiving Silver Medals posthumously are; Bill Whitebear, Bill Mike, Jesse Mike, Benjamin Winneshiek, Clifford Blackdeer, Emanuel Thundercloud and Howard Littlejohn.

The Code Talker Silver Medal Presentation Ceremony started out with a social hour. Once elbows were sufficiently hob-knobbed at this by-invitation-only event, the presentation of colors was conducted by American Legion Posts 129, 442 and 556. After posting the colors, a flag song was sung by a group of Ho-Chunk big drum lead singers. A bugler sounded off with the Taps. A prayer was offered. Then, all in attendance enjoyed dinner and cake. With this a 'thank you' song echoed through the hall. Next in the lineup were the speeches.

The opening welcome speech was given by the Honorable Jon Greendeer, President of the Ho-Chunk Nation. Remarks were heard from the Honorable Heather Cloud, Vice-President of the Ho-Chunk Nation. The guest speaker was Myrle Thompson, Veteran of the United States Air Force. The keynote speaker was the Honorable Jennifer Shilling, Senator of Wisconsin's 32nd Senate District. Then there was the Presentation of the Congressional Silver Medals.

At this point the Ho-Chunk Thundercloud Singers debuted the Code Talker Honor Song, composed for this occasion by Andy Thundercloud and his boys.

Closing remarks were spoken by the Honorable John A. Scocos, Secretary of the Wisconsin Department of Veteran's Affairs. This was followed with the retiring of the colors and, finally, a closing song.

Back the Pack takes on a whole new meaning ykaquato@oneidanation.org ?

It's that time of year when the spirit of giving is or can be bountiful in communities near and far.

One of those individuals who felt compelled to give back to the community was Green Bay Packer Davon House along with his wife, Leatricia.

As a member of the Oneida and Navajo tribes, Mrs. House seemed to have a strong influence in the decision to seek out deserving students in the Oneida community.

Eleven students at the Elementary School in Oneida, (also well known as the Turtle school) received a pleasant surprise and early gifts from the cornerback (#31), and his wife Leatricia last Tuesday, December 17th.

Each student received a backpack which included a winter jacket and snow pants. The Packer player also provided boots for each of the students.

Alot of the local planning was done by Christi DeChamps, K-12 school social worker, in coordination with Sharon Mousseau, Superintendent, of the Oneida Nation School System.

Mousseau provided a tour of the unique school to the couple before they left.

An additional 10 more backpacks (5-male and 5-female) were provided to give out at their discretion to deserving students as needed and contained a variety of school supplies.

Indian arts and crafts board to host juried youth art exhibitions

The Indian Arts and Crafts Board will host a juried art and craft competition for Indian youth at each of its three regional museums in the spring of 2014. The theme of the competitions will be "Where do we come from? Where are we going?"

The competitions will be open to enrolled members of federally recognized Tribes between the ages of 13 and 18. Official written documentation to verify the youth's enrollment in a federally recognized Tribe and written parental or guardian permission will be required.

The competitions will provide Indian youth with a realistic juried art show experience; encourage the development and expansion of their production and marketing skills; and enhance youth interest in culture, history, and the possibility of an artistic career. All submissions of work will be judged by an independent jury of artists, artisans, and art professionals. Awards will be distributed in the amount of $100 for each first place, $75 for each second place, and $50 for each third place.

The three museums operated by the IACB: the Sioux Indian Museum, Rapid City, SD; the Southern Plains Indian Museum, Anadarko, OK; and the Museum of the Plains Indian, Browning, MT; will serve as venues for the exhibition of a limited selection of submitted works.

In addition, the IACB will feature the selected works in promotional brochures to complement the exhibitions. Each work awarded first place will also be featured on an IACB museum poster, the IACB website, and in IACB promotional and educational materials.

All artwork must be submitted by March 1, 2014. Winners will be announced in April 2014. Exhibitions of selected works will be held at each of the IACB museums from April 15-May 31, 2014.

Better Business Bureau offers tips to avoid scams

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ The Wisconsin chapter of the Better Business Bureau has several tips to help holiday shoppers avoid four common scams.

One comes in an email, asking the recipient to open an attachment to track a package. The BBB says by opening the attachment it will expose a computer to malware and virus attacks.

Another scam involves websites that offer electronics or luxury goods at prices that are too good to be true. The BBB says cheap prices may be a trap.

The BBB also cautions against bogus charitable pleas and warns people to be wary of solicitations from charities they are not familiar with.

The fourth common scam is for hackers to send phishing emails pretending to be from well-known companies or major retailers with links to package tracking information.

Tips for Driving on Slippery Roads

By Ruby John
Thunderhawk Times

SLOW DOWN! This is a simple way that can reduce the risk of an accident occurring on slippery roads. Additionally, allowing extra distance between vehicles eliminates chances of rear-ending the vehicle ahead.

Before heading out, there are some things that are good to check. For example, checking the tire tread is a good thing to do. (The tire tread are the grooves in the tire.) The deeper the grooves the better traction the tire has. Tire pressure is another good thing to check. If there is too much air pressure, there won't be enough traction with the road. If there isn't enough air in the tire, it causes the tire to ride on its side wall causing less traction.

Lastly, keeping sand, salt, and/or kitty litter in the trunk can do one of two things. The extra weight adds in maintaining control of the vehicle. Secondly, if the auto tires spin but can't move, pouring the sand in the front and back of the tire can give in the extra grip it needs to regulate traction.

Safe travels to everyone!

Sledding: Fun or Dangerous?

By Kaylynn Powless
Thunderhawk Times

There is snow on the ground and the water is frozen. That means that it's time to go sledding and skate on the ice. But be careful – winter can be dangerous!

Is sledding a fun pastime or is it a time for danger? It is fun to go sledding in the winter, but snow sleds come racing down the hills and hit or crash into people. Sleds can be dangerous: the rider can't control where the sleds go.

The crashes can be really bad if the sled hits a patch of ice-covered snow and goes out of control. The rider could break an arm or a leg. That would be very bad, so be careful out there.

Have fun, but be safe!

Ray Yoshida: Featured Artist at the Kohler Art Center

By Vincent Wayne Webster
Thunderhawk Times

At the Kohler Art Center, there is an exhibit of Ray Yoshida's work. Ray Yoshida had an extraordinary collection of bottle caps and he made chairs and houses. He bought most of the bottle caps from Girl Scouts who were trying to recycle bottle caps.

Yoshida was a self-taught artist. He taught at the Art Institute of Chicago for nearly forty years. As a teacher, he expected the best from his students.

As a rule, Yoshida kept to himself. He had a private life, but there is little recorded about it. He was a very serious man; he was known for his paintings and his collages and was part of the art movement known as the Imagists. These artists specialized in fantasy-based art.

After he finished one of his works, he would explain that each piece reminded him of a place he'd been before. He would write a note on the work of art describing what he remembered. His writing became part of his exhibit.

One part of the exhibit looked like a tent from the outside, but inside it was a 3-D picture of the forest.

College Applications

By Shy House
Thunderhawk Times

Attention all High School seniors! Please apply to an in-state college or an out of state college soon. It is beneficial to apply early.

Accepted participants may receive scholarships, get into programs, talk to students, meet with councilors, and may find other useful benefits that will help out in the long run. It's simple: just go to the school of choice, click on their website, apply either online or print off the application, fill it out, and send it in.

Also, remember to send in ACT scores and high school transcripts. Three references will help as well. Accomplishments in high school, including sports, academic, awards, achievements, and other honors are all needed for the application.

Good luck to all seniors on your college journey. Don't forget: deadlines are important!

Choosing what kind of tree and how it is decorated is sometimes a hard decision. First, choosing between an artificial tree and a real tree is difficult. Real trees are green, but fake trees can be either green or can come in an array of colors. Real trees take a lot of work, while a fake tree can be put up and left alone.

Also, real trees have the smell of pine and wood, while fake trees usually don't have a smell unless it is sprayed on the tree.

One the kind of tree is chosen, there are different ways to decorate a Christmas tree. The decorations, the ornaments, and the glowing lights give a tree its special look. For a personal touch, ornaments like the M&M's characters, little gingerbread men, or even a pickle can be put on the tree.

There are so many ornaments to choose from. Some are gold, some are silver, and some come in all of the colors of the rainbow. But whatever the tree looks like, it should remind us all to be nice to each other and treat others the way that we want to be treated. Happy holidays!

FOR AMERICAN INDIAN AND ALASKA NATIVE YOUTH,

THE NEWS COULD BE BETTER.

- On average, Native teens first use alcohol at the age of 14.
- AI/AN teens use marijuana and prescription drugs at twice the rate of the national average.
- Many AI/AN youth believe that their parents do not strongly disapprove of them drinking alcohol or smoking pot.

BUT THERE'S A LOT TO CELEBRATE!

RECENT RESEARCH SUGGESTS THAT:

- Just talking with your teen about drug and alcohol use – early and often – can give them greater self-control and the confidence to say "no" when pressured.
- More than 75% of AI/AN youths surveyed had not used drugs or alcohol in the past month.
- AI/ANs 12 and older were the least likely group of any race/ethnicity to currently use alcohol.

SO WHAT'S THE MESSAGE?

- Talk to your child about alcohol and drugs. If possible, start the conversation before they're in school – but it's never too late.
- Make it clear that you strongly disapprove of underage smoking, drinking, or using any other drugs. Never let someone drive who has been drinking or using drugs.
- Set a good example. Live a drug and alcohol-free life.

Treasurer's Report...

During the General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting on December 15, I heard many different comments but the most prevailing was where was the Business Committee? The OBC does not have any authority to mandate or direct any of our corporations. Second, any attempt at mandating or directing would be considered as day-to-day business which the OBC is prohibited from doing. Taking that into consideration, it is the Oneida Seven Generations Corporation (OSGC) Board that is responsible for directing management. The separation from the tribe allows corporations to act without putting the tribe's assets at risk.

The other concern I heard was that the Finance Committee was responsible for approving the loans that OSGC carries. This is untrue. OSGS is a corporation of the Tribe and is responsible for securing their own loans, making their own purchases, and conducting business in a manner that is separate from the tribe. In the event there was a crisis or material need, then requests from the tribe's corporations would be presented to the entire OBC not the Finance Committee.

My responsibility has always been as OBC Treasurer first with the best interest of the tribe at heart regardless of any relationships. My sister, Tsyosha?aht Delgado, was an OSGC board member and while she was on the board, I did vote to accept the corporate reports provided to the OBC. Recently, she was named Chairwoman of the board and when that occurred, it was necessary for me to recuse myself from any discussion related to OSGC to avoid any conflicts of interest. I have expressed my position to the OBC and have submitted a memo explaining my recusal.

Since the GTC vote on December 15, the petitioner has met with the OBC to start the dissolution process. During our work, the petitioner has made it clear that he expects to be compensated for his time. One of the big issues raised by the petitioner in his presentation was the amount noted for salaries and now he expects to have all his expenses paid. The GTC did not vote on compensation, we voted on the dissolution of OSGC. If the petitioner expected to have his flights, hotel, and meals paid for in addition to a stipend, perhaps he should have noted that during his presentation to the GTC and the GTC would have determined if that were appropriate.

While I have been supportive of OSGC it is because I felt they brought diversification to our enterprises. They have made mistakes over the years and have done their best to move forward and not make the same mistakes. The same can be said for many of our departments. Regardless of what my thoughts are, the OBC has been given the task to dissolve OSGC. The OSGC Board must be intact to dissolve the corporation. The corporate charter prohibits the OBC from taking any action in this regard.

One important issue that was not addressed at the meeting is the loans held by OSGC. If the banks call in the loans, assets will need to be sold. With the majority of OSGC assets being commercial lease properties on the reservation, the tribe will be expected to purchase these properties for the full amount of the loans. If this occurs, the properties will be turned over to a department within the tribe for maintenance and leasing responsibilities. The loans amount to approximately $26.5M and that means, if the banks call in the loans, the tribe must reallocate $26.5M to purchase the properties. The big question is where will that money come from? The tribe's largest expense is labor which does not leave a lot of options on where to cut expenses. I sincerely hope it does not come to that and if it does, I hope no one is surprised. Unfortunately these are the types of things that happen when the GTC is misinformed or is guided by limited information. Had I been afforded time to speak during Q & A I could have stated these facts. There are serious financial, economic and government impacts to the GTC action on December 15. I hope the OBC addresses this issue with patience, diligence, quality communication to the GTC and with the best interest of the tribe.

As Treasurer it is my duty to report on our finances and I do the best job that I can. With so much chaos around me each and every day, I am looking forward to a peaceful holiday and spending Christmas with my family. When we are young we want nothing more than to branch out, learn new things, and spend all our time with our friends. As we get older we begin to realize just how important our families are and how just being with them can heal the soul. I wish everyone a safe and happy holiday season.

South Korea Offers Gift to Korean War Veterans

To commemorate the 60th Anniversary of the Korean War, the Wisconsin Departments of Military Affairs and Veterans Affairs are partnering to distribute a special book to those veterans who served in that conflict.

"Korea Reborn: A Grateful Nation Honors War Veterans for 60 Years of Growth" is available for free to Korean War Veterans or family members as a gift of gratitude from the Korean government. The hardbound, full-color, 175-page commemorative is provided to honor these great veterans and their families for their service and sacrifice.

The Korean War began in June 1950, when the pro-communist North Korean Army invaded South Korea. American troops entered the war as part of the United Nations forces defending South Korea. Nearly 1.8 million Americans served in Korea from 1950 to 1953, and over 36,000 were killed. More than 132,000 men and women from Wisconsin served in the war. Today, there are over 40,000 Korean War veterans living in Wisconsin.

The book was published in Salt Lake City and was paid for by the South Korean public and private sectors. The free book is available to be picked up at the following locations:

- County Veteran Service Offices
- WI Veterans Museum on the Capitol Square in Madison
- WI Department of Military Affairs, 2400 Wright Street, Madison
- Also various veteran service organizations and the Wisconsin Korean War Veteran Association will have copies available.

Request the book online (http://dma.wi.gov/dma/dma/bookRequest.asp) or call 608-242-3239. The book is available one per veteran or family.

Utility scam calls on the rise in Wisconsin

According to a number of utility companies in the state, Wisconsin businesses are being targeted by scammers calling with threats of service cancellations. The utilities note that these calls appear to be on the rise.

The scammers contact the businesses and fraudulently claim to represent the local utility company or to serve as an agent for the utility. They tell the businesses that they are facing a shutdown of services due to non-payment of bills or for required meter upgrades or repairs. To supposedly stop interruption of the services, the scammers demand a payment within a matter of hours by wire transfer or by Green Dot MoneyPak prepaid debit card.

The scam is not contained within one region, but in a recent crop of scam calls, a group of salons and restaurants in the Fitchburg area were targeted. When the scammers focus on one specific area, it appears as if they simply run down a list of local businesses, calling each with the same phony threat.

To avoid falling victim to this crime, consider the following tips:

Utility companies will never call and threaten you with immediate cancellation.

If you receive a similar threatening call, hang up and contact your local utility company directly to inquire about your account status.

Any request for a payment by wire transfer or prepaid debit card from someone you do not know is a huge scam red flag.

Never give out personal or banking information on an unsolicited call.

Never allow someone claiming to represent the utility company enter your business without a scheduled appointment or without your knowledge of an existing problem. Ask for identification.

If a scammer contacts your business, file a complaint with your local police department. You can also file a complaint with the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection online at datcp.wi.gov or by calling the Consumer Information Hotline at 800-422-7128.

Recently, concerns were brought forward to Enrollment Department and Trust Committee about the cemetery maintenance, cemetery rules signs, and water concerns. Thanks to the voices which came forward a Cemetery Working Group was established. This group has been meeting weekly since October. The Working Group is comprised of tribal representatives from the Enrollment & Trust Departments, Oneida Trust/Enrollment Committee, Department of Public Works, Planning Department, Wells & Septic, Environmental, Department of Land Management & the Business Committee. A number of individuals within the Working Group are considered the Technical Team. Here is what the Working Group has accomplished to date:

- prioritized the community concerns addressed.
- Identified the technical personnel needed to make corrective measures
- Completed an assessment on the water concerns
- Identified the work that needed to be done to start correcting the first priority matter (water concerns)
- Formulated a timeline consisting of, at least, two Phases (which will be adjusted accordingly due to unforeseen circumstances that might occur)
- Began lowering the water level of the wetland restoration habitat area (Where the Water Bird's Nest)
- Identified costs needed for Phase I of project (currently approved for $27,000)
- Began and completed installation of 1600 linear feet of French Drain Tile, which was installed along the wooded area of the cemetery.
- Preparing for installation of several monitoring wells.

The purpose of French drain tiling is to divert the movement of underground water. The water will be moved westward and away from the cemetery, where it will naturally route itself out to Silver Creek (formally known as Bread Creek).

The purpose of installing monitoring wells in various areas on the property will provide the tribe with the ability to obtain immediate data on water conditions affecting the cemetery. The Monitoring wells will be drilled down about 10-20 feet and the data will be read on a monthly basis by the Environmental Department. Over time, it will determine if the French Drain tiling is doing its job.

Please be assured the Working Group will make efforts in reaching out to the families and community for practices they feel need to be observed while the work continues in the cemetery. Since I am the contact person for the Working Group I would very much appreciate hearing from you. We appreciate hearing your good words and ideas expressed at the December 18th Community Meeting! Next Community Meeting is January 15, 2014 at NHC-BCCR beginning at 5pm.

In order to achieve our long/short range goals heavy equipment use will be necessary to complete tasks on the property.

We also have been assured the current area where burials have been occurring is suitable to continue burying our loved ones at. I will continue to provide information as progress is made.

OLIPP (Oneida Life Insurance Plan Plus) INCENTIVE

A big thank you to all the members who submitted their Oneida Beneficiary Designation Forms during our last incentive event. If you had your beneficiary form submitted prior to the incentive you were automatically included in the prize drawing held on November 12, 2013. Here are the lucky winners:

- Grand Prize: Kindles Fire to Kelly Braaten: 2nd Place: $100 Oneida Retail Card was Carol Baumgart.
- 3rd & 4th place winners of a $50 Oneida Retail card were Joshua Way and Ronald Schultz. Congratulations!

I still need 5421 members to submit their Oneida Beneficiary Designation forms.

WE HAVE A NEW ONEIDA BENEFICIARY DESIGNATION BENEFICIARY FORM

Your signature on this new form (created in June 2013) now allows Oneida Enrollment Department to disclose who your beneficiary is, whether it's your beneficiary or the funeral home. If you completed your form prior to June 2013, I'd advise you to re-submit if you want us to have that capability. Right now we get calls from family members asking who the beneficiary is—if it's an older form we can't disclose to anyone who the beneficiary is. It has always been the responsibility of the member to inform the person(s) they selected. In many situations I encounter it becomes a guessing game of who should sign the funeral home bill as that is the main role of a beneficiary is to sign the funeral home invoice.

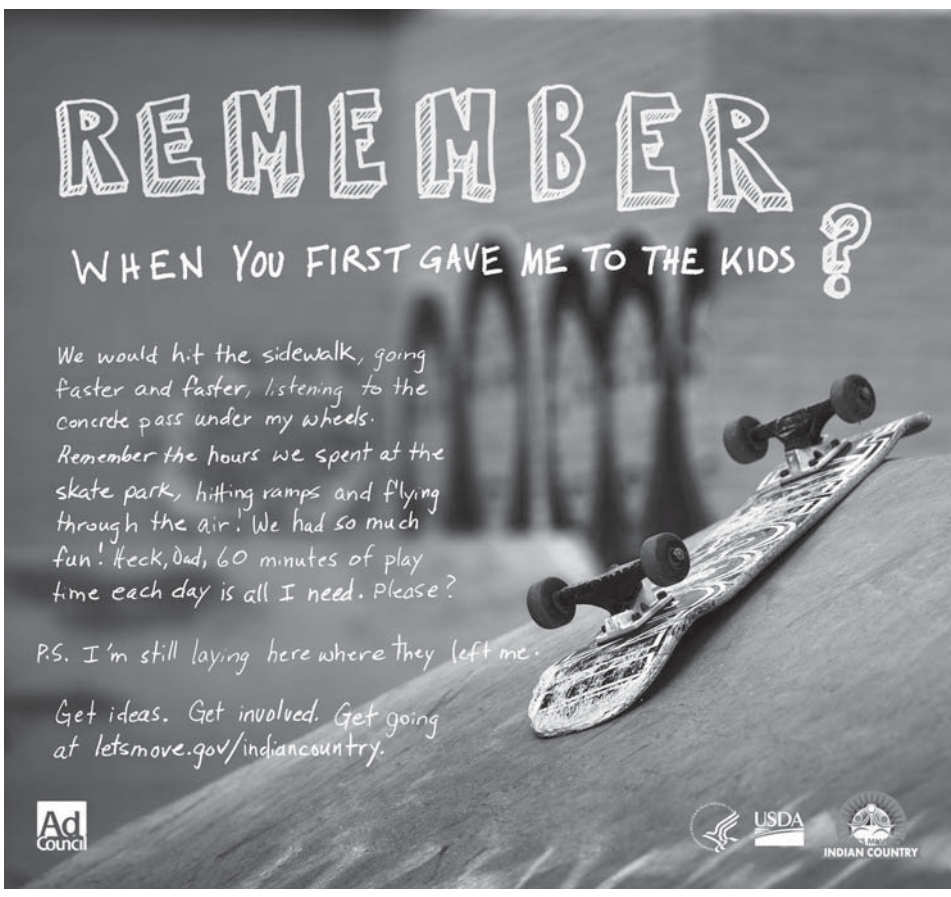
WHAT TO DO WHEN A LOVED ONE PASSES ON

Dealing with the loss of a loved one is very difficult and often times traumatic. That internal flame which we all have is suddenly diminished and we're now dealing with many powerful emotions. Often times were feeling overwhelmed with many questions that need to be answered. My recommendation for families after notification of a death is to take care of each other first. Then, when you're able, contact the Oneida Enrollment Department.

HOW IS OLIPP APPLIED AT TIME OF A MEMBER'S DEATH?

When I get a call, I will guide you through the OLIPP process. I will inform you of what you can expect when meeting with a funeral home director. I'll provide you with questions to ask the funeral director, based on your immediate needs. I'm also available to conference in on your scheduled meeting or I'm available to come directly to be your support person during this difficult time in funeral planning (if it's in our local area).

WHAT IS THE TURNAROUND TIME FOR RECEIVING OLIPP MONIES?



Our time clock starts when we receive two (2) original death certificates in our office. I will complete various forms and within 24 hours the Life Claim will be sent directly to EPIC Life Insurance. EPIC Life Insurance can take anywhere from 2-4 weeks to payout the beneficiary and/or funeral home. If there is no beneficiary form on file, the process will take longer as EPIC Life Insurance will have to research, determine and locate the surviving beneficiary(ies) based on the naming sequence.

HOW CAN I ENSURE THE FUNERAL HOME BILL GETS PAID?

Members need to check the box on the Oneida Beneficiary form designating the Oneida Enrollment Department as a primary beneficiary. THIS WILL ENSURE YOUR FUNERAL EXPENSES ARE PAID OUT FIRST. If you would like to make that change to your beneficiary form, you need to submit a new form. Forms can be obtained in our office, by requesting one be mailed to you or if you're able you may print one off on the following website: www.oneidanation/enrollment/olipp.

State park's new Fort Howard exhibit taking shape

By Paul Srubas
Press-Gazette Media

ALLOUEZ, Wis. (AP) ~ From certain vantage points, Heritage Hill State Historical Park is starting to look capable of defending itself.

That's because the park's new Fort Howard exhibit is taking shape, with the old guardhouse and new commander's offices standing shoulder-to-shoulder as a solid and secure entry point into a courtyard area or parade ground surrounded by six buildings.

Those twin buildings installed this summer are linked by a deck at the second floor, creating a sally port through which visitors will enter the fort area. Heavy wooden gates are yet to be installed on that cause-way, and stockade fencing will partially surround the complex, completing the fort-like feel of the exhibit.

The park, which features a variety of buildings and grounds that showcase different periods in the history of the Green Bay area, has an area dedicated to displaying the old Fort Howard, which once was home for a garrison of 19th-century soldiers on Green Bay's near west side.

Of the six buildings making up the park's version of the fort, four are 1830s structures that once stood on the actual grounds of the original fort, some 4 miles to the north. The others are reproductions made with careful attention to styles, details and construction methods of the original fort buildings.

The park has long featured the fort's original hospital and kitchen, a replica of the original officers' quarters, and a schoolhouse built in the style and manner of the historical structures. In 2009, the park acquired the guardhouse from the fort, a building that had been moved off the fort grounds to Bond Street more than 100 years ago, when it was converted to residential use.

Acquisition of that historical building launched a plan at the park to reproduce the mirror-image building that originally stood alongside that guardhouse and use the two, as they were used in the 1830s, as the formal entrance to the rest of the fort, Press-Gazette Media reported.

This summer, workers moved the old guardhouse from a shop area on the park grounds to the site of the fort exhibit. Now, the guardhouse and its newly constructed mate stand atop 10-foot-high foundations, and are linked with a wooden deck just as they stood more than 180 years ago but now on the south end of the park.

Nick Backhaus, restoration and maintenance manager for the park, said his crew has stripped off all of the later-edition add-on features of the guardhouse that helped the building serve as a home. They've removed modern siding and wallboard, revealing foot-thick, hand-hewn beams and other 19th-century features.

Doors and windows in the structure had been closed and new ones opened elsewhere to accommodate residents over the years, so Backhaus' crew, using old photographs and dusty records as a guide, have been restoring the original locations of those openings. The crew is using construction methods in the old building to faithfully reproduce them in the building's mate.

"The ceilings are being lathed and will be covered with real plaster," he said, pointing at the interior work done so far. "You can tell sheet rock from plaster, and we want the little subtleties to be accurate."

Crews have installed period-correct glass in the windows. That's glass made the old-fashioned way, from hot glass cylinders that are then split and opened flat, that, when looked through, show all the bubbles and visual distortions that the old original windows would have had.

The crew wanted to install period-correct lattices and frames for those windows that matched those of the originals, but it's not like you can just pick up those from a local hardware store; Backhaus' workers had to grind blades that fit the molding profiles.

Exterior work mostly has concluded for the season but eventually will require covering the concrete foundations with limestone and whitewashing them, installing the gates and building the jail cells under the guardhouse. The matching replica should have matching six jail cells, too, but probably will get classroom space in the area, instead, Backhaus said.

Workers this summer also did some landscaping to improve the whole fort grouping. They raised the hospital 61/2 feet and the schoolhouse 21/2 feet and leveled the court area in the center of the grouping. That was intended to take care of drainage issues but also provide a level field for historical military exercises, parades and other activities.

Construction of the two buildings and stockade fencing is expected to be completed in spring 2015, with a grand opening taking place that fall.

Letters & Opinions...

Thank you, Oneida

Thanks to all tribal members for your patriotism, commitment, and partnership to help dissolve 7 Gens.

You and I have forced this issue to the front pages of the Kalihwisaks and to various news programs such as Oneida Times, Oneida Eye, and Channel 26. Because of your commitment, we now have a significant group supporting the dissolution of 7 Gens.

We still have to work to do. All the foundations that you and I have laid with care has come to this, to help the tribe – you must force the BC to do its job.

Years from now those of you who stood up and forced the BC to dissolve 7 Gens will be remembered as heroes, and those who did not will be judged by the passing of time and as non-supporters of an honest government.

If we are to discover the truth about possible fraud, corruption and mismanagement, we have an historic opportunity to hold the 7 Gens Board entirely accountable for any proven instances of not complying with their Charter and withholding information requested by the GTC. Every proud tribal member must stand up in support of this effort right now or I believe we will have wasted this historic opportunity.

If you do not choose to help right now, your choice will have far - reaching consequences. If proud patriotic tribal members, stand up and support what you believe is right for you, your children and your grandchildren, our tribe will prevail.

- You may TRADE IN an "old" Tribal Picture ID for the Bar Coded Tribal ID.
  - Sorry, we do NOT accept trade-ins of non-picture certification cards, the green colored certification papers or old gas tax cards.
- Tribal members DO NOT need to pay for the Bar Coded Tribal ID as long as they trade in an acceptable Tribal Picture ID. (If no trade-in the applicable fee will apply)
- Tribal members will have until approximately September 30, 2014 to "Trade In" an old Tribal Picture ID for the Bar Coded Tribal ID.
- Tribal members who are under age 16 may trade-in their Tribal Picture ID for the Bar Coded Tribal ID; however, they are not eligible to receive the gas tax exemption until they turn 16.
- The type of gas tax exemption (on or off reservation) is based on the address you have on file at the Enrollment Department. It is important all members keep their address information up-to-date.
- Members are only allowed one "trade-in".
- Tribal members still need to complete a Gas Tax Application prior to their birthday each year to maintain their gas tax exemption. If they do not re-apply they will not receive the gas tax exemption.
- At the Oneida One Stop, Tribal members still need to:
  - Present their Bar Coded Tribal ID to the cashier to be scanned for gas tax exemption.
  - Sign their receipt.
- At GTC Meetings beginning January 2014, it is intended for tribal members to
  - Present their Bar Coded Tribal ID, so they can be scanned.

Danforth leading Thunder

Don't be fooled by Asia Danforth's quiet demeanor says Seymour High School girls basketball coach Nicholas Darnick.

"She plays bigger than her size," said Darnick. "She's a guard who plays like a forward because she's not afraid to dive into the line and go against some of the bigger girls and go for rebounds. She's a tenacious basketball player, she wants to succeed, she wants the team to succeed and she really puts herself out there to make one of those or both of those happen."

Danforth, a junior, plays for the Seymour Thunder and was elected co-captain for the team.

"I think the girls find it easier to come to me with problems that we have with the team or any suggestions so I tell the coach," said Asia who averages 10 points a game.

Asia's has enjoyed playing basketball since childhood.

"I think it's just being able to play with all my friends that I grew up with, and the love that I've had for it ever since I was little and can remember playing it," she said.

Asia has high hopes for her Division II team.

"I think we can do great things as long as we put our time and our effort in, and I'm really looking forward to the rest of the season," said.

Kristina Danforth says her daughter is a positive person who likes to keep busy with school, work and volunteer activities like reading to students at Rockledge Elementary School.

"She's easy to get along with. A lot of her friends look to her as being a peer or a role model," said Kristina.

Asia hopes to continue her basketball career on the collegiate level, possibly at UW-Milwaukee, while pursuing a degree in teaching.

"I love playing basketball, and I don't think the love for it will ever go away, and I hope to continue my basketball career throughout life and in college," said Asia.

Darnick sees a bright future for Asia.

"She's just a fantastic player and a good person," he said. "She has a lot of success coming - maybe something she doesn't realize yet because she's still just scratching the surface to who she is."
